MAN FOUND SLAIN ON LONELY ROAD IN JEFFERSON COUNTY

Nude Body of Unidentified Victim, Discovered by Laborer on Lane Near Highway 30.

THROAT CUT, SHOT IN HEAD AND STABBED

Apparently Killed Elsewhere and Hauled to That Spot — Was About 23 Years Old.

The body of a man, about 23 years old, with the jugular vein severed, shot through the head, and stabbed twice in the left chest, was found about 4:30 p. m. yesterday beside a lonely Jefferson County road, near Gravois road.

The body, nude except for a pair of socks, was found on Horseshoe Bottom road, about one-half mile south of Brock road, by William [illegible], a laborer, who lives in the neighborhood.

Examination by Deputy Sheriff [illegible] of Imperial, Jefferson County, indicated the man had been dead about 15 hours. It was believed, from the surroundings, that the man was killed elsewhere and the body taken to the place where it was found.

The bullet which apparently caused death entered the left side of the head. The stab wounds, the Deputy Sheriff said, were made with a small, pointed instrument such as an ice pick, and the throat had been cut with a sharp knife or razor.

The man was about 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighed about 150 pounds, had dark hair and skin, and had a scar, apparently from a burn, on the left hip.

GREAT WESTERN BUYS 20 PCT. OF KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN Direct Route From Northwest to the Gulf of Mexico Is Object of Deal.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Patrick H. Joyce, acting president of the Chicago Great Western Railway, said tonight the carrier had acquired a 20 per cent interest in the Kansas City Southern Railroad.

"The purchase was made last week," Joyce said, "and gave us part of the trackage we need for a direct route from the Northwest to the Gulf of Mexico. We will make a railroad out of it if we can get co-operation."

Joyce said no further negotiations were pending between the two roads, but that additional trackage would be obtained if possible from other sources. He explained the 20 per cent purchase was "not a consolidation of the two carriers." The statement was made shortly after his arrival from New York. His associates previously had refused to deny Joyce was in the East to arrange details of the plan.

TAXES PAID IN FARM PRODUCE

German Unemployed, in Turn, Will Get Food.

By the Associated Press.

LUNDEN, Germany.—This community has made up its mind to accept taxes in farm produce and in return hand to its unemployed flour, bread and potatoes as part of the dole.

This measure, it was explained, was necessitated by the scarcity of ready money among farmers plus an ever-increasing number of jobless. The community must support its unemployed after a period of [illegible] weeks when the State unemployment dole expires.

RUBBER FLOORING IN CONGRESS

Elimination of Carpets to Save House $10,000 in 12 Years.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.— Blue and buff will be the cheerful floor color note for sessions of the next House, but it is the result of an urge for economy rather than beauty. Rubber flooring will be laid in the House chamber instead of the carpets heretofore put down for each new Congress.

The rubber floor surfacing, estimated by William Tyler Page, House clerk, would save $10,000 in about 12 years by its durability as compared with carpets. Replacement of carpets each year has been necessary because of tobacco stains, grease and cigar burns.

Noisy Street Demonstration Acclaims Cardinal Victory Over Athletics in World Series

Pandemonium Let Loose, With Back-Firing Autos, Tooting Horns and Paper Showers From Windows.

By E. ROY ALEXANDER,

The rejoicing of the people of Israel when David knocked out the Philistine heavyweight, Goliath, in the first round of their finish fight, might have been more fervent than the celebration of St. Louis yesterday when the Cardinals won the world baseball championship from the Athletics—but it's dollars against last night's theater stubs it was not as noisy. It took seven games to decide the issue, yesterday's score being 4 to 2.

After all, the Israelites didn't have Fords to backfire, boop-boop horns to blow, auto rims and brake drums to drug clanging over the hard pavements, motorcycle engines without mufflers, or any of the other modern adornments to civilization with which St. Louis is wont to celebrate its increasingly frequent baseball victories.

They coudn't fill the air to suffocation with automobile exhaust gas and their paper showers, without ticker tape, tall buildings and canyon streets—and without paper, too—must have been pretty tame affairs. They had to be content with shouting a bit and clanging a shield or two.

Racket Begun Early.

Not so St. Louis. It unleashed its noise-making apparatus even before Pepper Martin, hero of a $1,000,000 series, caught Max Bishop's long fly in center field and gave the Cardinals the championship after a harrowing ninth inning.

When Bing Miller, the Athletics' rightfielder, smashed a grounder to Andy High, in the ninth inning and High started what looked like a double play, many fans though the game was over. Someone apparently waved that information to those on the sidewalks outside, for immediately there was a barrage of bombs and a bedlam of automobile horns.

It was premature, but a step in the right direction. Miller was ruled safe at first. Then Dykes walked, and Williams singled and the bases were loaded. A home run would tie the score.

A single by Cramer did send over two runs, and old Burleigh Grimes, a great figure on the pitching mound in that last game, was relieved by Bill Hallahan. Two Athletics were on base. "Wild Bill' gave the fans a few uneasy moments by pitching wide on his first two attempts to find the plate but finally he managed to get the ball over.

That Thrilling Ninth Inning.

The crowd was in an uproar of anxiety. On the Athletics' bench, Connie Mack's ordinarily urbane players were bellowing for Bishop to "sock it," and for Hallahan to groove one.

When Hallahan did just that thing and Bishop let two strikes go by, Al Simmons, the American League batting champion, jumped from the bench, kicked a half dozen bats out toward the first baseline and roared at Bishop "for the luvva Mike" to do something. It was important that Bishop "do something" because the difference between series profits of winning and losing players was more than $1400 each. But Bishop's best was that long fly that "Pepper" Martin snagged.

The crowd of 20,800 shouted itself hoarse, congratulated itself on its good judgment in going to the game, and sneered at less faithful fans who had missed a great show. The capacity of the park is more than 39,000.

Pandemonium Let Loose.

While the crowd in the park was still shouting—even those on their way to the exits—pandemonium had broken over the city. Horns were blown, auto rims were pulled down from garage shelves and dragged behind automobiles, and small cars were backfired deafeningly.

Paper showered from downtown buildings. Washington avenue, for an hour after the game, was a bedlam upon which guests in the hotels looked from upper-story windows with wondering eyes. Streetcar motormen clanged their bells, everybody blew his horn. The Fords backfired, "bang-bang," and the big motor busses backfired, "WHOOF."

Policemen, stationed on Washington avenue against just such a contingency, grinned at the celebration and did what they could to keep traffic moving a little bit.

Some Freak Bets Paid.

There were the inevitable payments of freak bets. Near Hotel Statler, for instance, a crowd gathered about an venerable light wagon, dating back almost as far as the original Eugenie hat, in which sat five youths playing harmonicas. The cart was drawn by four tow-headed young men. The players of the harmonicas sat behind a sign which read, "We won." The "horses" carried a similar sign

AKRON UP MORE THAN 12 HOURS; CLIMBING AND DIVING TESTED

Rises Above Heights Where Buoyancy No Longer Holds It Up; Shows No Inclination.

By the Associated Press.

AKRON, O., Oct. 10.—The Navy's new dirigible Akron spent 1 hour and 22 minutes in the air today performing feats new to the history of lighter-than-air aviation.

It rose above the heights where its buoyancy no longer held it up, Dr. Karl Arnstein, chief engineer of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, reported. This was about 6000 feet. With the elevators, tilted, and going at 60 knots, the ship showed no inclination. At that height it was 22,000 pounds heavy.

Dr. Arnstein said this was accomplished with the use of the swivel propellers, which also operated for lifting the ship on the take-off and bringing it down on mooring. The ship was made to rise so rapidly, on the takeoff this morning, he added, that the temperature dropped 8 degrees. This, he said, was unique in lighter than air craft.

The airship was moored to the mast at 7:32 p. m. This was the seventh flight, to test the Akron's climbing and diving ability and its dynamic lift.

Soviet Cuts U. S. Purchases in Half

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Purchases in the United States by the Amtorg Trading Corporation for the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics were only half as large during the first nine months of 1931 as in the same period last year, says a company report. Orders to Oct. 1 this year totaled $49,100,000, compared with $99,600,000 up to that date in 1930.

VON HINDENBURG CAUTIONS HITLER AGAINST DISORDER

German President Warns Fascist Chief Particularly in Connection With Party Meeting.

CONFERENCE LASTS MORE THAN AN HOUR

National Socialists Seek to Overthrow Bruening Cabinet —Reichstag Test Soon.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—President Paul von Hindenburg, commander of the German armies in the World War, and Adolf Hitler, who served during most of the war in the ranks, talked for more than an hour today about the foreign and domestic problems of Germany.

It was the first meeting between the 84-year-old President and the leader of the strongest opposition to the Government—the National Socialists, who want to repudiate the treaty of Versailles and establish a rule of brown shirts similar to the Fascist regime in Italy.

The details of their conversation were not made public, but it was understood that the President warned Hitler against any further disturbances by his followers, especially in connection with the National Socialist convention to be held tomorrow at Harzburg.

Between the political philosophies of the President and Hitler there is as great contrast as in their personal histories.

Followers Cheer Him.

The 42-year-old Hitler drew up in a limousine before the presidential palace in the Wilhelmstrasse to the accompaniment of "hochs" of his followers.

Police held his supporters on the opposite side of the street, and their leader paused on the steps of the palace, turned toward them and raised his arm in salute. A great cry of "hoch Hitler!" went up as he entered the palace.

For an hour and a quarter Hitler talked with Von Hindenburg, informing him just what the National Socialists hope to do.

A brief communique, issued at the end of the conference, said he had made an extensive report on the aims of the national Socialist movement. This was followed by an exchange of views on foreign and domestic politics.

Late in the day police issued orders closing a number of meeting places, used by the national Socialists and other extremists, between the hours of 6 p. m. and 6 a. m.

The meeting between the President and Hitler took on added significance because the Reichstag reconvenes Tuesday, and soon the new Cabinet formed by Chancellor Bruening must meet its parliamentary test.

New Cabinet Meets.

That Cabinet, the eighteenth since the German Republic, held its first meeting today. It worked in what was described as a spirit of optimism based on confidence that it could muster sufficient backing to weather a session of the Reichstag.

The Government, numbering its certain supporters at 270, hopes to find enough members from factions of the People's party, the Economic party and the Agrarians to get a majority of 289.

The Nazis, Hitler's National Socialists, are closely allied with Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalists. Both have sworn to unseat Bruening if they can when the Reichstag reconvenes next Tuesday.

Hitler's Career.

Hitler is an Austrian, but he was a soldier in the German Army, was wounded twice, received the Iron Cross, and at the end of the war was a commissioned officer. It was after the peace that he emerged from the Fascist ranks in Bavaria, organized his party along military lines and went to war with the Bavarian Government.

In 1923 he had thrown in his lot with Gen. Ludendorff, and it was these two who started the "beer cellar putsch," declared the Government at Berlin deposed and proclaimed themselves head of the "National Government."

This was in Munich, but the Government was not ready to submit, the putsch collapsed and Hitler was sentenced to five years in jail. After several months he was released when he promised to behave.

He is a bachelor, and the women's vote goes to his party despite his repeated campaign declaration that he will have no women candidates. "No women!" he has shouted from the platform more than once, "this is a man's job we have to do."

ADMITS KILLING POLICEMAN HERE IN 1929 HOLDUP

Earl Reed Freed From Idaho Prison in Order to Stand Trial for Murder of McCormack.

THREE PALS SERVING LIFE FOR CRIME

Slayer Says Pistol Was Accidentaly Discharged When He Struck His Victim With It.

Earl Reed, robber and ex-convict, admitted last night, Acting Chief of Detectives Egenreither said that he fired the shots which killed Patrolman William McCormack in an attempted holdup of a cigar store in June, 1929.

Reed, who says his real name is Clarence Reynolds, was returned to St. Louis from Boise, Idaho, where he had been serving a prison term for robbery.

He admitted the killing readily, Egenreither said, but insisted that it was an accident. He struck the policeman on the head twice with an automatic pistol, Reed said and each time the weapon was accidentally discharged.

When police had finished questioning him, newspaper reporters sought to have him repeat the statement he had given, but he said: "I'll stand on what I just told the police. I think the Chief will tell you what I said."

Story of the Killing.

His story, as related by Egenreither, was that he met William P. Maloney, Eugene F. Ware and Joseph Daher, who are serving life sentences for participation in the murder, through Ernie Wallace, a St. Louis ex-convict, with whom he had escaped from a prison at Greencastle, Ind., where Reed was serving a one-year sentence for larceny.

"Daher suggested that we hold up the Ideal Cigar Store at 3908 South Broadway," Reed is quoted as saying. "Before that we had pulled several stick-ups around town. Maloney drove us down there, and a block away we let Daher out because he was known in the neighborhood. Maloney stayed at the wheel and Ware and I went into the store.

"We asked for cigarettes, and when the man behind the counter turned to get them, we pulled out our guns and told him it was a holdup. I went behind the counter to get the money and then I saw the policeman, reading a newspaper in the back room. I went back there, slapped the newspaper out of his hands and told him to stick them up.

"He didn't move and I struck him on the side of the head with my automatic. He reached for his gun and I hit him again. The pistol went off both times."

Hid on McGauley Farm.

Reed and Ware then ran out, the confession went on to say, and drove away with Maloney. They went first to a rooming house, and then to the home of James McGauley near St. James, Mo., where they hid for eight days. McGauley is now serving a life sentence for the murder of Todd Phelps, cashier of Overland State Bank, in a holdup several years ago.

At the St. James refuge were Reed, his wife and child, Winfield Seeman and his wife, Maloney and Wallace. Seeman, a former convict, has since been killed in a quarrel with his associates. McGauley's wife, Reed is quoted as saying, arranged to telephone to their cabin each morning and was to say: "Breakfast is ready," when the coast was clear, and "Breakfast is not ready" in the event of danger.

On the morning of the eighth day Mrs. McGauley telephoned: "Breakfast is not ready." Reed looked out of a window and saw several automobiles and several men. They were Police Captain Carroll and his squad, although Reed did not know them.

The fugitives got into Seeman's automobile, and drove away rapidly without being noticed. The car broke down at Richmond, Ind., and the occupants separated.

Traced by Fingerprints.

Reed went to Idaho, where he robbed a bank, was caught and sentenced to 10 to 20 years in the State penitentiary. His fingerprints taken there were sent to the National Bureau of Identification at Washington, where they were found to be those of the man

LOUISIANA U. PROFESSOR FIRED FOR HIS NOVEL, 'CANE JUICE'

Dr. J. E. Uhler Ousted by Special Committee Despite Students' Petition of Protest.

By the Associated Press.

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 10.—The Executive Committee of Louisiana State University late today dismissed Dr. John Earle Uhler as professor of English, because of his authorship of the novel, "Cane Juice." He was already under suspension ordered by Dr. James M. Smith, president of the university, after condemnation by a Catholic priest of "Cane Juice" as an improper book, a reflection on girl students of Louisiana State University and a disparagement of the Louisiana Creole.

Petitions signed by hundreds of university students protested against the professor's removal

Dr. Uhler issued the following statement: "Since my novel intended no offense to anyone, and since many mothers and fathers of the students have praised the novel, and since the students themselves, about whom the story is written and whom it is intended to glorify, have seen no insult in it and have so expressed themselves, I am naturally surprised at the action of the board and I regret it."

$360,736 REFUND BY U. S. ON MRS. LILY BUSCH'S ESTATE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. — An over-assessment of $1,149,402, of which $360,736 is an actual refund, in the estate tax of Mrs. Lily Busch, widow of Adolphus Busch, St. Louis brewer, was announced today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Mrs. Busch left an estate appraised at $8,515,951 at her death in 1928. The estate paid taxes of $639,007 to the Federal Government and, ultimately, $1,113,083 to the State. The United States by Federal law, was entitled to only 20 per cent of the total tax, or $278,270. The refund, previously approved by the Treasury Department, amounts to the excess paid the Government, plus interest.

$100,000,000 SHIP MERGER

New York Newspaper Reports Approval by U. S. Board.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Herald Tribune says a proposed merger of four American shipping interests which operate 181 vessels, has been approved by the United States Shipping Board.

It says negotiations for the merger probably cannot be completed for several weeks and that discussions held the last three days in San Francisco may be continued in New York next week. The merger would bring under one operating head the Roosevelt-International Mercantile Marine, Dollar, Chapman and Dawson shipping interests. The Herald-Tribune estimates the value of the 181 vessels operated by them at between $100,000,000 and $110,000,000.

EDISON RECOGNIZES NO ONE BUT HIS WIFE

Only Change in Condition Is Increasing Difficulty in Taking Nourishment.

By the Associated Press.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 10. As Thomas A. Edison lay in a stupor today, on the verge of a coma, Dr. Hubert S. Howe said Mr. Edison for days has been able to recognize no one except his white-haired wife, who has been at his bedside almost constantly.

In the past, because of the particular quality of her voice, her words have been clear to Mr. Edison despite his deafness. To this circumstance is partially attributed his ability to recognize her now.

Other members of his family are maintaining a vigil near the sickroom but the last word of farewell between them and Mr. Edison apparently has been exchanged.

How much longer he will be able to recognize Mrs. Edison was beyond prediction. But she, his companion for 45 years, remains close at hand to keep alive his last contact with the world.

As Dr. Howe came from his routine examination of the patient he told reporters:

"About the only change in Mr. Edison's condition is that it is increasing difficult for him to take nourishment. He has had nothing in the last 24 hours. In the preceding 24 hours he had only six teaspoonfuls of cereal.

He is not taking liquids, which are very necessary if the uremic poisoning is to be kept from spreading through his system."

Dr. Howe described as "a lot of nonsense" a statement by Mr. Edison's barber that the inventor had recognized him yesterday.

The physician's formal morning bulletin read: "Mr. Edison had a restless night, but there is a little noticeable change and his clinical condition is about the same as yesterday."

He added to reporters: "Any change in Mr. Edison's condition now would be gradual, according to all outward indications, although I would not be greatly surprised at any sudden turn."

After his visit Dr. Howe returned to New York. It was announced that in the event of a sudden change in the inventor's condition a special police escort had been arranged to conduct the physician through Holland tunnel and over the highways to the Edison home.

"Mr. Edison rested quietly throughout the day," Charles Edison said in a bulletin at 4 p. m. "There is no noticeable change in his condition."

Theodore Edison, another son, issued a bulletin at 10 p. m., which read. "Mr. Edison has been sleeping quietly for the last few hours, and there is still no noticeable change in his condition."

GLASS FIGHTS 'BROADENING' OF FEDERAL RESERVE ACT

Author of Law Says Proposed Change Would Let Bankers Dump on U. S. Rubbish Left in Their Hands by Stock Gamblers

PURPOSE TO THAW OUT 'FROZEN' ASSETS

More Than $4,000,000,000 Tied Up; Credit Needs Liquidating — President's Conference With Congressmen.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Senator Carter Glass, author of the Federal Reserve Act, told the Post-Dispatch today that he is convinced "a concerted drive is in motion, with the object of stampeding Congress into changing the Federal Reserve System so as to permit huge quantities of questionable paper to be unloaded on the Federal Reserve Banks."

Speaking over long-distance telephone from his home in Lynchburg, Va., the veteran Democratic Senator expressed "the fervent hope that President Hoover will not lend himself to this propaganda, and that the press of the country will do its duty by exposing its character and purpose."

Senator Glass attended the White House conference Tuesday night, at which President Hoover, in outlining his plans to loosen the flow of credit, announced that he would recommend to Congress a broadening of the eligibility provisions of the Federal Reserve Act.

"Broadening" and "Wrecking."

"The President did not explain and I am unable to say what he had in mind," Glass said, "but it has become perfectly evident now that the sort of 'broadening' sought by New York bankers would enable the Federal Reserve Banks to make loans on railroad bonds, real estate mortgages, industrial stocks and bonds, and a lot of those miserable and immobile securities with which the members banks loaded up during the stock market boom, and which they now desire to unload.

"The result of such an action certainly would wreck the Federal Reserve System. Congress will never consent to it while I am alive, and my health is excellent."

Background of Conference.

Apropos this statement, it is now possible to review, in language which the average layman can understand, the conditions which led to the White House conference and the objects which are sought to be achieved.

In the opinion of President Hoover and a great many bankers, a vital factor in the present depression is the restriction of bank credit resulting from the huge volume of "frozen" assets; that is, the banks have so much money already tied up that they are unable to accommodate their customers with the loans which the customers normally require.

Refusal of a bank to make loans which it ordinarily would make without question often causes alarm among its depositors, and causes them to withdraw their deposits. Since a bank is required to keep a certain amount of its assets in cash, the effect of such withdrawals compels them still further to curtail their loans, or to dump their paper assets on the market at a sacrifice, in order to obtain cash.

At Least $4,000,000,000 "Frozen."

There is no way of estimating the total amount of bank assets which might be considered "frozen," but certain figures are available. For example, $1,500,000,000 in deposits is tied up in banks which have closed their doors. It is estimated that another $1,500,000,000 is due and in default on real estate bonds and mortgages. It is further estimated that approximately $1,000,000,000 in currency has been withdrawn by depositors, and is being hoarded. This makes a total to $4,000,000,000 tied up or "frozen," most of which would normally be available for credit purposes.

That sum by no means represents the total credit which is considered to be "frozen." The banks of the country hold huge sums in stocks, bonds and other securities which cannot be sold now except

JAPAN IN NOTE ACCUSES CHINA OF BREAKING TREATY

Manchurian Situation Is Solely Result of Anti-Japanese Sentiment, Message Declares.

LEAGUE REQUESTS EVACUATION REPORT

Action Taken After Nanking Government Complained First Communication Was Ignored.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Oct. 10.—The Japanese government, replying tonight to a Chinese note forwarded to members of the League of Nations today declared that the military operations in Manchuria were "solely the result of anti-Japanese sentiment in China."

"The present anti-Japanese movement in China," said Sawada, who signed the Japanese note, "contravenes not only the letter but the spirit of existing treaties and constitutes a hostile act."

The Chinese government, he continued, "will assume serious responsibility" if it fails to take "prompt and effective measures to suppress this agitation."

Earlier in the day Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General to the League of Nations Council, sent the following message to all members:

"At the request of the Chinese Government the Secretary-General communicates the following telegram, dated Oct. 9:

"'That Ching Tso Hsiang and Wang Shu Chang have been appointed to take over places to be evacuated by Japanese military forces and asked for telegraphic instructions to be sent to the Japanese military commanders instructing them to begin handing over.

"'No reply has been received to date. The Chinese Minister is instructed to deliver a second note as follows:

"'Fulfilment of the League Council resolution of Sept. 30 requires immediate transfer to the Chinese authorities of localities occupied by Japanese troops since Sept. 18. The Chinese Government, having pledged itself to assume responsibility for the safety of lives and property of Japanese Nationals during the withdrawal of Japanese troops and re-establishment of local Chinese authorities and police forces, notified the Japanese Government on Oct. 6 of appointments of its representatives and asked it to make immediate arrangements to enable Chinese troops effectively to take possession of the evacuated localities and thus to protect the lives and property of residents in conformity with its undertaking given at the council.

"'As no reply has been received and as the matter is extremely urgent, I am instructed to request first, that—

"'The Japanese Government indicate immediately the localities to be taken over this week; secondly,

"'That in the course of the day instructions be telegraphed to the military commanders so that reoccupation can begin tomorrow.'

"I have the honor to add," Sir Eric's message said, "that copies of this note are being communicated to the League Council and that reports of daily progress will be telegraphed to Geneva and to Washington."

U. S. Ready to Act on Sino-Japan Clash.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The State Department is fully prepared to invoke before world opinion the promises of peace and fair dealing made so often by Japan and China in a long succession of treaties. Secretary Stimson awaits only a final report on the latest turn of affairs, hopeful that an appeal already made by the League of Nations will end hostilities.

It was disclosed officially that once Washington is convinced that international pledges continue to be broken, action will follow.

Aside from her League commitments, Japan has promised under the Kellogg-Briand treaty not to use war "as an instrument of national policy," and stands pledged under the nine-Power pact of 1922 "to respect the sovereignty, the independence and the territorial and administrative integrity of China."

Japanes Troops Hold Mukden.

For nearly a month now, Japanese troops have been in control of Mukden, capital of the Chinese province of Manchuria. Almost every day brings news of fresh movements against new Manchurian territory. Actual, if not technical, war is taking place over a large section of the countryside.

China, on her side, is pledged to provide adequate protection for Japanese Nationals and property, lawfully within her borders. This, the Japanese protest, she has not done with respect to the Japanese-controlled South Manchurian Railway.

The American Government thinks the situation can be dealt with effectively by a massing of world opinion behind an appeal to the sanctity of treaty obligations. Most of the nations of the world are parties to the Kellogg-Briand pact against war. All of the great Powers, including the United States, signed the nine-Power treaty of 1922. Both Japan and China are members of the League of Nations, committed by the covenant against aggression.

American agents are in the disturbed zone, but for the most part they are inquiring into the origin of the trouble, rather than its present ramifications. About 100 Americans are in the troubled sector, and American investments there run into many millions, but none of these appears to have been harmed. These are not the immediate concern of the Washington Government. That concern is rather for the integrity of the whole fabric of international treaties to which these Oriental nations have subscribed, and which are the bases of American trade and good will in many parts of the world.

So meager are the reports which have come out of Manchuria that it is not yet clear just how the trouble started. It is known that on Sept. 19, Japanese troops guarding the South Manchurian Railway under an international agreement, occupied Mukden. Japan said a section of the road had been destroyed by Chinese soldiers. China denied it, and complained that the Japanese advance was an act of aggression.

Since then intermittent fighting appears to have resulted in a gradual but insistent Japanese advance, the extent of which is hidden behind a strict censorship.

The Governor is a brother of the Secretary of Communications.

The bandits suddeny appeared on the highway from the mountains near Rio Frio, famous old robbers' rendezvous, and stopped all the cars which came along, proceeding with systematic robbery of the passengers. ARKANSAS HOUSE UNANIMOUS FOR GOV. ROOSEVELT IN 1932

In Resolution State's Delegation Is Urged to Support New York Executive for President.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 10.—The Arkansas delegation to the next Democratic national convention was requested in the State House of Representatives today to support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for the presidential nomination. No votes were cast against the resolution embodying the request.

The only Republican member of the House was heckled during his discussion of it, and when one Democratic member asked him if he would support President Hoover for renomination, he replied: "You Democrats wanted him way back there and now you can have him."

Several speakers said Gov. Roosevelt offered the best hope for Democratic victory next year. Representative Thorn, Poinsett County, said in his opinion the resolution would not be embarrassing to Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, the vice presidential nominee in 1928 and listed among the presidential possibilities.

WALL STREET EXPECTS RAIL RATE DECISION THIS WEEK

Predicts Commission Ruling Will Grant Increases Averaging 8 Per Cent.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10. — Some quarters of Wall Street, usually well informed, were of the opinion that the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision on the rail rate case, might not appear before the resumption of business next Tuesday.

The delay, it was pointed out, is due to the inability of the printer to get the matter, now understood to be in his hands, out on schedule.

Wall Street still expects the ruling will grant increases ranging from 2 to 15 per cent on different commodities so arranged as will make for an average increase of about 8 per cent.

BANKS HERE HELP NEW CREDIT BODY WITH $10,000,000

Vote to Put 2 Per Cent of Net Deposits in Rediscount Corporation Proposed by Hoover.

Participation to the extent of about $10,000,000 in providing capital for the $500,000,000 national rediscount corporation, proposed by President Hoover, was decided upon by St. Louis banks at a conference yesterday.

The conference was called by R. S. Hawes, president of the St. Louis Clearing House Association, who afterward gave out this statement:

"At this meeting the proposed plan for the incorporation of the National Credit Corporation was considered and the banks present unanimously adopted a resolution approving the plan and agreed, subject to the approval of their respective boards of directors, to participate when the details of the plan have been satisfactorily worked out to the extent of 2 per cent of their net deposits, which would mean about $10,000,000.

"This amount will be augmented by the acceptance of the plan by the other banks in the vicinity of St. Louis who were not present or represented to whom an invitation will be extended."

The Clearing House banks present were: Franklin-American Trust Co., Boatmen's National Bank, First National Bank, South Side National Bank, United Bank & Trust Co., Tower Grove Bank & Trust Co., Mississippi Valley Trust Co., Merchants-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. and Lafayette South Side Bank & Trust Co.

In addition to these the following banks in the group known as Associate Bankers of St. Louis were represented: Bremen Bank & Trust Co., Cass Bank & Trust Co., Easton-Taylor Trust Co., Jefferson Bank, Jefferson-Gravois Bank, Manchester Bank, Northwestern Trust Co., Southern Commercial & Savings Bank and Southwest Bank.

Walter W. Smith, president of the First National Bank, has been chosen as director of the rediscount corporation for this, the Eighth Federal Reserve District.

The purpose of the rediscount corporation, as was explained fully in Friday's Post-Dispatch, is to create a bankers' pool from which temporary loans can be made to banks on certain types of paper and security not now eligible under the law for rediscount by the Federal Reserve Banks, that is securities fundamentally sound but now, due to the general business depression, listed as slow or frozen assets.

New York banks have agreed to subscribe $150,000,000 of the corporation's capital.

Head of Credit Corporation Explains How It Will Operate.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The billion dollar National Credit Corporation formed to bolster the banking structure might be operating within a week, Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the committee setting up the organization, said tonight.

Buckner described the response of the banks of the country as "magnificent." The complete list of directors, he explained, could not yet be announced, but would be ready well in advance of the organization meeting which is scheduled for next Tuesday, because Monday is a holiday.

Buckner said that sufficient progress had been made in laying out methods of procedure to permit an explanation of how the plan will work.

Glass to Fight Attempt to 'Broaden' Federal Reserve Act

at a loss due to the stock market debacle.

Thus it is evident that the existence of an abnormal amount of "frozen" assets produces two unfavorable results: It restricts the flow of credit; and it tends to precipitate runs on banks.

Liquid assets are assets which can readily be turned into cash, and the more of them a bank possesses, the better its position is. Every security that it owns may be perfectly sound, but unless a substantial percentage is capable of being turned into cash on short notice, it may find itself in an embarrassing situation.

From the standpoint of liquidity, the ideal bank assets are Government bonds and those forms of commercial or agricultural paper on which Federal Reserve Banks are authorized to make loans.

The Treasury Department states that "the worst feature" in the present condition of the banks, from the standpoint of liquidity of assets, consists of their bond accounts. As is known, most bonds are issued for long terms. Under normal conditions they are considered liquid assets, because their market price seldom is far away from the price which was paid for them, and they are readily sold. Under the depression, however, the price of many so-called "giltedge" bonds has declined so much that they cannot be sold except at substantial sacrifices.

Many large banks, and especially Eastern banks, are known to have invested heavily in European securities, both governmental and industrial. The value of these securities has been seriously affected by the necessity of paying debts which the European governments owe to each other and to the United States.

Gist of the Situation.

Here, then, was the situation existing prior to the conference at the White House Tuesday night:

President Hoover, desiring to facilitate the flow of credit as a means of relieving the depression, and fearing also for the safety of many small banks with a high percentage of "frozen" assets, asked the stronger banks to come to the rescue by advancing money on these "frozen" assets.

The larger banks, desiring to safeguard their foreign loans, wished an extension of the one-year moratorium on intergovernmental debts.

Moreover, in order to liquefy some of their own "frozen" assets, they wished certain changes in the Federal Reserve Act that would permit them to borrow from the Federal Reserve Banks on collateral which is not now eligible.

Unfortunately for the bankers, President Hoover was not in a position to promise what they wanted. Only Congress has power to extend the moratorium, and only Congress has power to amend the Federal Reserve Act. All the President could do was to recommend that Congress take the desired steps.

Undoubtedly Quite a Struggle.

Undoubtedly there was quite a struggle between the administration on one side and the big bankers on the other. It culminated in a meeting Sunday night at the home of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, at which the President, the Secretary, Governor Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board and a number of New York bankers were present. What occurred can only be inferred from subsequent events.

The President summoned about 40 members of Congress, including the leaders of both parties, to meet Tuesday night at the White House, and outlined to them a program. First he proposed that the banks of the nation form a credit pool of not less than $500,000,000 out of which loans would be made to banks suffering from "frozen" assets. He disclosed that the members of the New York Clearing House Association already had pledged $150,000,000 for that purpose.

He announced that he had requested the governors of the Federal Reserve Banks to "endeavor to secure the co-operation of the bankers in their territories to make some advances on the assets of closed banks," in order that some dividends might be paid stockholders pending final liquidation.

It will be noted that both the foregoing proposals depended on the voluntary action of banks and bankers, and did not require the sanction of Congress.

Recommendation to Congress.

Next, however, the President announced that he would recommend to Congress a broadening of those provisions of the Federal Reserve Act which define the classes of securities on which the Federal Reserve Banks may extend loans.

Moreover, he declared that if "necessity requires," he would recommend to Congress the creation of a government credit corporation similar to the War Finance Corporation, which had wide latitude in making loans on security which it considered sufficient. In addition, he said he would recommend to Congress the subscription of further capital stock by the Government to the Federal Land Banks, whose principal function is to lend money on farm mortgages.

Finally, he took up the question of proposing an extension of the moratorium on inter-governmental debts. Precisely what he said has not been ascertained, but it provoked serious objections, some members of Congress declaring they were opposed to any extension of the moratorium unless European governments agreed to substantial reductions in armaments, and others asserting they were opposed to anything which might lead to cancellation of the debts owing to this Government.

Partial Indorsement "in Principle."

Concerning the proposal to "broaden" the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act, a majority of the conferees finally agreed to indorse it "in principle," there was a similar agreement as to expanding the capital stock of the Federal Land Banks.

They were even warier concerning a possible extension of the moratorium. Eventually it was agreed that during the forthcoming visit of Premier Laval of France, President Hoover, on his own responsibility, would "discuss such further arrangements as are imperative during the period of depression."

To sum up, it would appear that the bankers, acting under presidential pressure and their own fear of a general bank panic, consented to take care of the smaller banks suffering from an abnormal percentage of "frozen" assets; but that President Hoover failed to obtain in their behalf any definite assurance that Congress will either broaden the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act or ratify an extension of the moratorium.

It is now expected that he will endeavor, during the forthcoming visit of Premier Laval, to convince the latter that Germany is unable to pay, that failure to extend the moratorium would result in a repudiation of German debts, and that the best way to impress Congress with the necessity of ratifying an extension is for France to take the initiative in proposing it. Whether the hard-headed little French statesman can be persuaded to shoulder this responsibility, is a question which time will resolve.

Treasury Hunting Some Plan.

Meantime, the Treasury is seeking to formulate a plan for liquefying the assets of closed banks. Indications are it will propose the creation of a revolving fund, to be created partly by congressional appropriation and partly by private bank subscription, out of which advances may be made to the receivers of the banks, thus enabling them to make partial payments to depositors.

Discussion of proposed methods for thawing out the "frozen" assets represented by real estate bonds and mortgages continues, but with no definite result.

How to induce hoarders to return their money to the banks, thus restoring it to circulation, is a problem in psychology. If the Banker's Credit Corporation succeeds substantially in loosening the flow of credit, the hoarded money probably will dribble back to the windows of the receiving tellers.

In any attempt to modify the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act, Senator Glass is certain to exercise a potent voice among Republicans as well as Democrats. His knowledge of the history of the act, plus the high regard in which his motives are held by the opposition party, probably will give him the determining voice in Congress.

Glass Has to Be Convinced.

Talking to the Post-Dispatc from Lynchburg, he said: "Befor broadening the act, Congress wi have to be convinced of the necessity. I am far from being convinced now. The report of th Federal Reserve Board shows th on June 30 the member banks possessed paper eligible for rediscou amounting to a total of $3,198,000,000 exclusive of $4,000,000,000 i Government securities, and tha they had borrowed from the Federal Reserve Banks a total of only $147,000,000.

"This does not seem to indicat any great restriction of credit. O the contrary, it shows that th member banks had a margin o borrowing power totaling more tha $3,000,000,000 which they did no see fit to exercise.

"The truth is, that a lot of the want to borrow on paper which n prudent bank should accept as collateral. They have a bunch o rubbish in their portfolios whic they acquired during the period o inflation, and now they want to unload it on the Federal Reserve Banks. I am opposed to it, and I don't believe Congress will ever consent to it.

"Let them learn not to accept paper at exaggerated value, as they did during the orgy of stock gambling."

What Can Be Rediscounted By Federal Reserve Banks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.

THE terms "discount" and "rediscount" are often used incorrectly, and nearly always in a way to confuse the average layman. For the information of those unfamiliar with banking jargon, it should be explained that when a bank "discounts" paper, it simply lends money, taking the paper as collateral. The lender may then become a borrower. That is to say, the lending bank takes the collateral to a Federal Reserve Bank and borrows on it. The Federal Reserve Bank is then said to "rediscount" the paper.

Since the Federal Reserve System is a Government institution, the Federal Reserve Act specifies the classes of paper which Federal Reserve Banks may "rediscount." Such paper is termed "eligible" paper.

The bulk of "eligible" paper consists of United States Government securities, trade acceptances, bankers' acceptances and other obligations the proceeds of which are employed in the production, transportation and marketing of commodities, maturing within 90 days. It also includes notes, drafts and bills of exchange, issued or drawn for agricultural purposes, or based on livestock, maturing within nine months.

Naturally, in addition to being "eligible" under the foregoing definitions, the paper must be pronounced sound. In other words, the collateral on which Federal Reserve banks make loans must be both "eligible" and acceptable. Such collateral is intended to represent not only self-liquidating transactions, but transactions which will liquidate with a marked degree of promptness. It is important that this be so, because such collateral, together with the gold reserve, is the basis of the national currency—and the paper represents a higher percentage than the gold.

Paper "ineligible" at Federal Reserve banks includes all paper not defined as "eligible," important examples being industrial bonds and real estate mortgages. The act expressly excludes stocks and bonds, other than Government securities.

BASEL, Switzerland, Oct. 10.—Randolph Burgess, representative of the Federal Reserve Bank New York, began here today a series of informal conferences with international leaders of finance on all phases of the world situation.

The conferences began on the eve of the monthly meeting of directors of the world bank for international settlements. It is understood that Burgess' mission is to obtain all possible information about European monetary conditions and to furnish to his European colleagues accurate information on the situation in the United States.

Leaders believe lack of accura information on monetary problems both in the United States and Europe, is responsible, to a considerable degree, for what is termed here the "prevailing confusion."

Among those with whom Burgess conferred today was Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England.

Vladimir Golschmann, conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, arrived in St. Louis yesterday and will begin rehearsals tomorrow morning at 9:30 at the Odeon. He was accompanied by Mrs. Golschmann, who is making her first visit to America. They are Parisians.

The new conductor will start his regime here under circumstances which he considers especially favorable. The orchestra has undergone a rejuvenation, 13 changes having been made in the personnel, including the acquisition of a new concertmaster, a new first oboe player, two new horns and the return of Mme. Graziella Pampari, well-known harpist. Moreover, the sale of subscription seats has already exceeded that of last season, and the list of soloists is the most distinguished for several years past.

Golschmann has already prepared his programs through the Christmas week concerts, and while they rely, in the main, on works of established merit, they will be garnished with a liberal sprinkling of novelties. Among these are a composition by the Polish composer, Alexander Tansman, called "Triptych," which will be played here for the first time. Another world premiere will be offered in the "Prelude and Fugue" by Houdret, Belgian modernist.

Five American Works.

The conductor has already listed five American works for performance and intends to give a number of others, if works of sufficient merit can be found.

"I am doing this, not only because I consider it just that American orchestras should give a liberal hearing to American works," said Golschmann, "but because there happen to be a great many interesting American works available. I intend to look at as many American scores as I can find and make a further selection from them."

In arranging his programs, Golschmann will not adhere too closely to the practice of beginning his concerts with a short curtain raiser. And even when he does, he wants the audience to feel that the opening number is as important as any other.

"I do not like to encourage the audience in the habit of regarding the opening number as unimportant," he said. "We will rehearse that as hard as any other and I hope that it will be listened to in the same spirit, whether it be the 'Freischuetz' overture or a Bach concerto."

Golschmann spent most of the summer at his home in Paris and in Southern France. For one month, however, he conducted a series of concerts at Bilbao, Spain, and concluded his season with a performance of Beethoven's Choral Symphony. The only effect of the revolution on the Spanish people, he said, was to make them more casual and more charming than ever.

"Sometimes they are very trying," he explained. "For instance—a week before my season was to begin I did not know whether I was hired or not. And during the middle of the program when the Choral Symphony was being played as the concluding number I was informed that the baritone couldn't sing and that a substitute would have to be used. They are charming people, though."

Mr. and Mrs. Golschmann landed Thursday and spent one day in New York. While facing the usual examination by the immigration authorities in New York, the conductor experienced a bad moment when the inspector told him that another foreigner professing to be the conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra had already landed and been admitted to the country on that basis. The matter was smoothed over when the necessary papers were produced, but Golschmann never learned who the other "conductor" was.

The first concert of the season will be Friday afternoon, Oct. 23. The program follows:

Overture—"Der Freischuetz" ......Weber
"Death and Transfiguration" ....Strauss
(In memory of Frederick Fischer)
"Russian Easter" Overture.
Rimsky-Korsakoff
Symphony in D Major ....Brahms

SUBURBS GROWING FASTER THAN CITIES, CENSUS SHOWS

More Than 30 Per Cent of Population in Metropolitan Areas Are Outside Big Cities.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Thirty and six-tenths per cent of the population of large metropolitan centers live outside the city limits.

This was calculated by the Census Bureau today, after a study of 1930 statistics of the 95 cities whose population, plus that of adjacent urban territory, amounts to 100,000 or more each.

The aggregate population of the 95 districts is 54,589,972, which is 44.5 per cent of the total population of continental United States.

The Census Bureau found that the outside area constituted almost nine-tenths of the total area and that the population of suburbs was growing more rapidly than that of the central cities.

In addition to the central cities, all adjacent territory having a density of not less than 150 inhabitants per square mile was included in the figures.

ADMITS KILLING POLICEMAN HERE IN 1929 HOLDUP

sought for the murder of Patrolman McCormack.

A revolver, taken from the slain policeman at the time fo his murder, was found in Reed's possession after his arrest in Idaho. Chief of Police Gerk went to Idaho last summer and arranged to have Reed paroled so that he might be tried for murder in St. Louis.

Reed did not indicate in his talk with Egenreither whether he would guilty or attempt to establish a defense on his theory that the killing was an accident.

Detective Sergeant Joseph Wren and Detective Leo McKenna started back from Idaho by automobile with Reed Wednesday. Because of his bad reputation, an "Oregon boot," 20 pounds of iron, was fastened to one of his legs, and he was handcuffed throughout the trip. They traveled slowly, and only by day.

Reed said he was 35 years old and that his home was in Chicago.

Found Dead, Aparently From Gas.

John Schulde, 44 years old, a metal worker, was found dead yesterday in a bedroom of his home at 3553 Vista avenue. The end of a hose attached to an open gas jet was in his mouth. His wife said he had been drinking heavily.

CAPONE'S FRIEND CAUGHT IN COURT CARRYING PISTOL

Philip d'Andrea Arrested Though 'Scarface' Protests, "This Will Make Me Look Bad."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Philip D'Andrea, personal friend and constant companion of Al "Scarface" Capone at the gangster's trial for evading his income tax, was ordered by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today to stand trial for carrying a pistol in the courtroom.

D'Andrea who has sat next to Capone in the courtroom for five days was arrested and a pistol was found tucked under his belt. He was placed in jail without bail until Monday when he will answer a charge of contempt of court.

"Why, Phil is just a friend, that's all," protested Capone, looking more perturbed than he did during the court session. "I didn't even know he owned a gun, and I'm sure he brought it to court unthinkingly. This will make me look bad, you know."

Judge Explains Action.

"I had been informed that men with pistols were coming into the courtroom during the trial," Judge Wilkerson announced, "and it was I who ordered D'Andrea arrested." The judge then ordered Government officials and court officers to bring before him any person carrying a weapon into court for sentence for contempt.

D'Andrea first told Federal officials he was a deputy bailiff of the Municipal court and declared he had a permit to carry a pistol. Investigators said, however, they had found that his appointment as bailiff had expired some time ago and that the permit to carry a pistol had been revoked.

Witnesses Tell of Big Bills.

The arrest of D'Andrea occurred after a court session in which 11 witnesses from Florida testified that Capone spent freely during his winter sojourns in Florida, and never quibbled about the bills.

They smiled as the 260-pound gang leader told of his $200 a week meat bills, $4 a day bakery shop purchases, and his $40,000 winter home. Capone smiled back and scowled only once, when one of the witnesses told of "a little item about which Mr. Al probably forgot."

The Government's case against Capone began to take definite shape today. Indications were that the Government intended to prove that Capone must have had a large income because he spent money freely.

Witnesses testified that Capone spent $25,000 for incidental expenses such as telephone bills, kitchen utensils, meats, bakery goods, and improvements to his home during three winters in Florida.

All said they regarded the defendant as "good pay and a fine customer." One said he saw "a roll of bills that would choke an ox and a couple of handfuls of money wrappers marked $1000" at the Capone home on Palm Island, Fla.

$80,000 by Telegraph.

The defense objected to each statement made by each witness, and Judge Wilkerson overruled them. A final and sweeping objection also was made by defense attorneys to evidence that about $80,000 was sent by telegraph to Capone in Florida by persons in Chicago.

H. F. Ryder, builder of a boat house and dock on the Capone property, was the witness who told of Capone's $125 "oversight" and of the roll of currency in the home. The gangster directed his attorneys in questioning Ryder, and brought out that Ryder never had asked for payment of the overdue bill, "because I was busy every day and afraid to go to Capone's place at night."

W. C. Harris, manager of a Miami Telephone Company office, identified bills for service to the gangster's home. Previous evidence had been given that Capone often telephoned Chicago friends. His bills for $955 in 1928 and $3141 in 1928 bore out that testimony Capone paid most of his bills in cash, the witnesses said, but a few times the bills were paid with checks bearing the names of Jack Guzik. Capone also was said to have cashed telegraphic money orders with tradsmen.

PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE FOR PARLEY ON SILVER

Only U. S. and Brazil Fail to Indorse Proposal at Washington Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—An International conference to see what must be done to rehabilitate silver was recommended tonight by the fourth Pan American Commercial Conference.

Of the 21 nations of the two Americas represented, only the United States and Brazil did not vote.

Assistant Secretary White of the State Department, United States delegate, said this country's representatives had hoped to be able to support the proposal but the terms of the resolution had been found too uncertain.

The conference combined with the silver resolution another recommending that "the American countries adopt a monetary standard which will assure to the circulating medium the stability necessary to guarantee the normalcy of commercial operations."

The conference also adopted a resolution suggesting that the American republics grant "the greatest tariff privileges" possible to one another. This resolution was substituted for one that had been introduced by the Cuban delegation asking for a two-year tariff truce.

5 SAY THEY SAW HUGH THOMASSON KIDNAPED BY WIFE

Negro Witness Testifies Woman Seized Elderly Capitalist by Shoulders, Pushed Him in Car.

Five witnesses testified in Circuit Judge McElhinney's court at Clayton yesterday that they saw Hugh W. Thomasson, elderly capitalist, kidnaped by his young wife at Euclid avenue and Lenox place last Jan. 22.

The principal witness was Obrey J. Price, a Negro janitor employed in the neighborhood, who said he was standing on the street a few feet from Thomasson when the abduction occurred.

Thomasson was walking north on the west side of Euclid, Price testified, when an automobile being driven north in Euclid by Mrs. Thomasson drew up at the curb on the wrong side of the street. Mrs. Thomasson got out, he said, seized the elderly man by the shoulders and started to push him toward the car.

Thomasson resisted, he testified, and shouted, "Let me alone; I don't want to go."

Says Passerby Aided Her.

"You are going anyway," he said Mrs. Thomasson replied. Whereupon she asked a passerby, a young man, to "please help me put this old man in the car." This the passerby did, according to the witness, and Mrs. Thomasson drove away.

The four other witnesses corroborated Price's testimony in most particulars, but said they did not see anybody come to the woman's assistance. Two of the witnesses, Miss Josephine Foran, 4031 St. Louis avenue, and Denby Sands, said they were passing on a street car at the time. Miss Mary Kidd, of the Monterey Hotel, said she was walking along Euclid avenue, and Henry Stussie said he witnessed the affair as he passed by in an automobile.

The testimony was given in the course of a hearing on an application, brought by Thomasson's relatives, for leave to intervene in the receivership suit now pending against Thomasson. The relatives, who asked that about $200,000 of mortgages executed by Thomasson in favor of his wife be set aside, are Charlotte Louise Welborn of Lincoln County, Mo.; Elmira Townsend, George Smith and William Smith, all of St. Louis. The application was taken under advisement.

Lawyer Put on Stand.

In the course of the hearing, Taylor R. Young and Patrick Cullen, attorneys representing the interveners, put Stephen C. Rogers on the stand to testify as to whether he considered Thomasson competent to manage his own business affairs. Rogers formerly was counsel for Thomasson.

Rogers testified he did not consider Thomasson competent, and produced several "essays" which he said Thomasson had dictated in his office five years ago.

Dr. John H. Simon, 1201 McCausland avenue, was questioned about the essays, and expressed the opinion that they had been written by a man of unsound mind.

36 PERSONS HURT IN COLLISION OF STREET CAR AND SNOWPLOW

Buffalo Trolley Takes Fire After Crash; Passengers Cut by Glass and Burned.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Thirty-six persons were injured today when a crowded street car crashed into a snowplow and caught fire. The snowplow, recently reconditioned for use this winter, was being taken to a barn when the collision occurred.

Passengers in the trolley car—men, women and children—were showered with flying glass and the clothing of several was ignited by sparks from the fire which broke out when the trolley control box was short-circuited.

Among the more seriously injured was John J. Kane, Assistant District Attorney of Erie County. He was cut by glass and severely burned.

300,000 PHONE SLUGS SEIZED IN RAID ON STORE DOWNTOWN

Proprietor of Novelty Shop at 15 North Broadway Arrested After Police Search.

City Detectives who searched a novelty shop at 15 North Broadway yesterday seized 300,000 slugs of the 25-cent size, two dies and six sheets of metal which they say were to be used for making slugs.

They arrested the proprietor, Fred Burrell, who was released on bond on a charge of possession and manufacture of slugs for use in telephones, in violation of a State law passed by the last Legislature.

The detectives also seized books which they say are indecent. The store was searched after an informer had failed to make a purchase of the slugs.

DR. L. E. FUERBRINGER CONCORDIA PRESIDENT

Professor Accepts Post to Which He Was Elected Sept. 30 by Lutheran Synod.

The Rev. Dr. Ludwig E. Fuerbringer, who has been professor of Bible introduction and interpretation at Concordia Seminary for 38 years, yesterday announced his acceptance of the presidency of the institution.

With the assistance of the Rev. Dr. John H. C. Fritz, dean of the seminary, he has been carrying on administrative duties since the death of the former president, the Rev. Dr. Francis Pieper, in June. The electoral college of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri chose Dr. Fuerbringer for president at a meeting Sept. 30, but he deferred his decision in order to consult leaders of the church.

Dr. Fuerbringer, who was born in Frankenmuth, Mich., in 1864, was educated at Concordia College, Fort Wayne, Ind., and at the seminary here. During his student day the seminary was situated at Jefferson avenue and Winnebago street, a site it vacated five years ago.

For eight years following his graduation from the seminary in 1885, Dr. Fuerbringer was pastor at Frankenmuth, a community to which his parents had immigrated from Germany. When several vacancies occurred in the faculty of the seminary, in 1893, he was summoned to a professorship. He has been a member of the faculty 20 years longer than any other professor there now.

As president he will continue to teach his classes daily.

Dr. Fuerbringer and his wife live in one of the faculty residences on the campus, at 801 De Mun avenue, Clayton. The new president is noted as a student of Lutheran history in the United States. He is a member of the Missouri Historical Society.

As head of Concordia Seminary, he will have charge of a student body of 530 in regular courses. It is the largest Lutheran seminary in the country. The school was founded in 1839 in a community of Saxon immigrants in Perry County, Mo., and for 10 years before moving to St. Louis occupied a log cabin there. Buildings on the 70-acre site it occupied now are valued at $2,500,000.

Gets 1 to 20 Years for Holdup.

Connie Osborne, 17 years old, of East St. Louis, was sentenced to from one to 20 years in the Reformatory at Pontiac, Ill., when he pleaded guilty of robbery before Circuit Judge Bernreuter at Belleville yesterday. He held up John Walker, attendant in a Belleville filling station, last May, taking $20.

CAVALRY TEAM AMONG FEATURES OF HORSE SHOW

Two of Olympic Riders to Take Part in Exhibition Opening at The Arena Tomorrow.

Crack jumping horses from Fort Riley, Kan., where the army has been training a cavalry team for competition in the Olympic Games at Los Angeles next summer, will be seen in action at The Arena, 5700 Oakland avenue, during St. Louis National Horse Show, which opens tomorrow night for a week.

Riders assigned here include Maj. H. D. Chamberlain, captain of the Army Olympic team and a veteran of three Olympic competitions. Capt. W. B. Bradford, another of the army riders, was on the last Olympic team, and has been a member of the army horse show team for 10 years.

Among the 16 horses from Fort Riley who will perform are several with interesting histories. Suzanne, bought for $50, became an outlaw when she killed an enlisted man and was ordered destroyed. Lieut. J. W. Wofford, who will ride her here, intervened in her behalf and developed her into a great jumper.

Buckaroo, ridden by Capt. Bradford in the 1929 New York show, cleared 130 obstacles with only one error, and in Cologne, Germany, in the same year, scored another triumph.

Dick Waring, another Fort Riley horse, won the International jumping championship in Ireland in 1929, competing against some of the best jumpers in the world.

A close contest is anticipated in the hackney pony class for pairs between 12.2 and 13.2 hands. Mrs. Loula Long Coombs of Kansas City has nominated two pairs, Fascination and Fashion and Carnation and Intonation for this event. In the same class is the George A. Heyl entry, Dinarch Sunbeam and Buckley Amity. This pair was imported from England by Heyl and shown in this country for the first time at the Illinois State Fair, winning every event in which it was entered.

Among the riders who will appear in the local and children's classes are: Margaret Rumsey, Margaret Holekamp, Norma Engle, Saran Davis, Mary Elizabeth Musick, Mrs. Claude H. Drew, Peggy Pirrung, Ruth Gander and Georgene and Louise Olin.

Stake events include one of $2000 for three-gaited saddle horses; $1000 junior stake for five-gaited horses; $2500 for the five-gaited championship, stallions and geldings; $2500 for five-gaited mares; $2000 for heavy harness pairs; $200 for hackney ponies; $2000 for hunters and $500 for jumpers.

Boycott on California Goods Urged.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—A boycott of California goods was advocated today at a mass meeting sponsored by the molders' defense committee in behalf of Tom Mooney, imprisoned in that State. A. J. Muste, chairman of the conference for progressive labor action, urged the boycott, suggesting it apply also to the Olympic games in California.

Dairy Show Opens at The Arena; Second in St. Louis in Two Years

1300 Head of Cattle on Exhibit—Women's Exposition Also in Progress—Poultry on Display, Too.

The National Dairy Show, the world's finest exhibition of pure bred dairy cattle, opened yesterday at The Arena, with blue ribbon cattle from the country's leading herds prepared to compete for championship honors. The show will close next Sunday night.

Veterans of many show rings pedigreed kine, chewed their cuds placidly yesterday afternoon, as their handlers gathered around radio sets and listened to the final games of the world series. After the hectic ninth was over and the Cardinals had been crowned champions of baseball, a mighty shout went up. The cows shifted a bit nervously in their stalls.

Despite the excitement of the final game and the resultant celebration, 7217 persons attended the opening of the show.

Besides the display of about 1300 head of cattle, the exposition includes the National Poultry Show and the Women's Home Exposition, while the St. Louis Horse Show will open at The Arena tomorrow night, continuing through next Sunday, with matinees Saturday and Sunday.

Rabbits and Pigeons Shown.

No chickens will be shown until Wednesday at the poultry show, which will be given over until that time to 1800 rabbits and about 1000 pigeons. Two hundred rabbit fanciers from 18 states are represented, while there are 50 exhibitors of pigeons. One of the rabbits gave birth to 13 bunnies en route to the show.

The poultry exhibits will include about 2500 chickens of almost every known variety from farms all over the country.

The Women's Home Exposition, on the mezzanine floor, contains many booths, some of them arranged by civic and professional organizations. A pet parade will be held there today, and a baby show later in the week. Activities of Welcome Inn, welfare project which maintains a relief station under the Free Bridge, are demonstrated, and educational displays are designed to assist rural housewives. The Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor and the Missouri College of Agriculture have displays.

Judging Starts Tuesday.

Cattle judging, representing the climax of the year to many dairy farmers, will begin Tuesday, when 267 Holstein cows will enter the show ring. Jerseys and Ayrshires will pass before the judges Wednesday, and Guernsey and Brown Swiss will be judged Thursday. The cattle, housed in the exhibition buildings flanking The Arena, are groomed and otherwise prepared with meticulous care for their hour in the judging ring.

Many of the commercial and Governmental exhibition booths contain charts showing the growth of the dairy industry and pointing to it as a practical medium of farm relief. The economic aspect of the show will be discussed at meetings of the various cattle breeders' associations which will be held during the week.

Several dairy product awards were announced yesterday. In the American Cheddar Cheese class, Stephen Sudzen of Denmark, Fla., won the gold medal. State awards, consisting of silver medals, went to Melvin Christopherson, New Franken, Wis.; K. Zeller, West Concord, Minn.; N. S. Hemmert, Gallatin, Tenn.; and R. R. Rushing, Denham Spring, La.

The Stella Cheese Co., of Campbellsport, Wis., won the Italian Cheese competition, with F. Howetrowser, of Lake Nebagamon, Wis, winning the State award.

Circus acts and physical training demonstrations by Beaumont High School students comprised most of the opening day program yesterday, which concluded last night with a program participated in by foreign societies, dancing classes and Turner organizations.

More than 100 Negro jubilee singers will give a concert this afternoon, in addition to the circus acts and other attractions, while Max Steindel, 'cello soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, will conduct a band concert tonight, participated in by 150 members of the musicians' union. No admission will be charged to the concert, and admissions received at the dairy show gate after 6 p. m. will be given to the unemployment fund of the Musicians' Mutual Benefit Association, the management of the show announced.

Program for Concert.

The program will include selections from "The Vagabond King," "Carmen," Herbert's "American Fantasie," and a cornet quartet number, "This Is the Day of the Lord."

"THE STORE THAT REALLY FITS YOU"

NOISY CELEBRATION FOLLOWS WINNING OF SERIES BY CARDS

which said—you've guessed it—"We lost."

After an hour and a half the celebration had died down, and almost everybody went home to dinner, but every few minutes the roar of a backfire or the clatter of a bundle of dishpans awoke the echoes as some of the more tireless revelers kept at it.

Carnival Spirit Abroad.

After dinner time the celebration was renewed with increased vigor. After 7:30 o'clock the downtown district echoed and re-echoed with the roar of backfiring, the cheers of revelers, the discordant blare of tin horns, the hubbub of rattlers and other noise makers.

Washington avenue, center of the celebration, was thronged with motor and foot traffic. The latter overflowed the sidewalk and went out into the street. Everywhere there was a carnival air. Even sedate women of middle age wore bright paper hats or brilliant red shoulder ribbons, and twirled ceaselessly on watchman's rattles.

The air was choking with exhaust smoke. Guests of Washington avenue hotels, lined up on the inner edge of the sidewalks, watched the performance with a mixture of admiration and alarm plainly evident on their faces.

Decorated Autos.

Many of the automobiles in the impromptu parades that were to be seen in outlying districts as well as downtown, were decorated with bright ribbons and streamers and a few carried dummies representing Pepper Martin and other heroes of the series.

These were the flagbearers for the motorists who contributed the backfiring to the tumult. Each decorated car was followed by a half dozen or more whose drivers made up for the lack of adornment by continuous ear-splitting blasts of backfire. Such virtuosity had some Ford drivers acquired that they could backfire at ten-second intervals for three or four minutes, never missing a shot, or making one deficient in noise content.

It was a thrilling ending for a day that had begun so inauspiciously. Even the bleachers were dull and glum up to the time play began at Sportsman's Park, the fear of impending defeat at the hands of the great George Earnshaw being almost a tangible thing.

Breadon Expected Small Crowd.

As for the failure of the fans to turn out in capacity for the final game, President Breadon told reporters the attandance was about what he expected. In 1926, he recalled, the attendance at the seventh game of the memorable series between the Cards and the Yankees, which St. Louis won, was 10,000 below that of the preceding game.

"Seventh-game attendance is always poor," he said. "It's just a case of history's repeating itself. Why is it poor? I don't know. One guess is as good as another."

While the gaping expanses of seats in the grandstand meant bad news for Breadon and the other participants in the world series receipts, they marked financial calamity for the ticket scalpers. After the Friday game, when Saturday's seats were put on sale, the scalpers were at the box offices early, buying up large blocks of choice seats for sale yesterday at a premium.

It was a losing proposition. By game time they were trying without much success to sell $5.50 tickets for $4 each, and after the game began they sold as low as 50 cents each. There were plenty of tickets still left in the Cardinal box offices, too, when the last fan had been admitted to the reserved seast.

The Athletics were odds-on favorites when they took the field yesterday. Local betting commissioners were wagering $1 against $2 that they would lose, and $7 against $5 that the Cardinals would drop the game.

But dauntless Burleigh Grimes and the rest of the Cardinals, didn't give a fielder's whoop for odds. They were out to win that game. Hence the victory—and the celebration.

THREE KILLED IN HOTEL FIRE

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.— A fire that swept the Chatham Hotel here today took three lives and injured nine persons. The dead were Charles Demanges, 82 year old formerly of New Orleans; Fred A. Kordt, 68, and a man tentatively identified as Wilhelm Blocklinger, 71, a resident of the Yountville Veteran's Home.

The injured includes Fire Chief Charles Brennan, cuts and bruises; Fire Lieutenant John Cafferty; Frank Collins, fireman; Edward O'Neill, fireman and Arthur Schwerdt, policeman besides three guests. The guests were injured when they jumped. Fire Marshall Frank Kelly expressed the belief the fire started from a lighted cigarette stub. The Chatham is a small hotel at Bush street and Grant avenue on the edge of Chinatown.

BORAH WILL BE WITNESS IN STOCK SELLING FRAUD TRIAL

Senator to Deny Having Interest in Franklin Plan Corporations in Two States.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Senator William E. Borah today notified Assistant United States Attorney Jacob Rosenblum that he would appear Wednesday to testify in the trial of Louis Pierelli, the Franklin Plan Corporations of New York and New Jersey and others indicted for fraudulent use of the mails in selling stock of the corporations.

Senator Borah will be questioned concerning representations to investors that he had obtained a national bank charter for the corporations and that he had been interested in their plan. Rosenblum said today that Senator Borah would "flatly deny" having any interest in the corporations, that he had ever sought a charter in their behalf and that he even knew the defendants.

There is no connection between the companies involved and the Franklin Plan Corporation incorporated in Delaware and Headed by George S. Groves.

Body of Man Taken From River.

The body of a man, which apparently had been in the water two days, was taken from the Mississippi River at Meramec street yesterday by John Uhl, 4216 Virginia avenue. A waiter's labor union dues book was found in the man's pocket, bearing the name, Charles A. Butler, 17 North Ninth street. The man was about 45 years old, 5 feet tall, weighed 140 pounds, and had reddish gray hair. The body was clad in brown trousers and a work shirt.

BISHOP DENIES NEW TRIAL TO UNFROCKED M. E. PASTOR

Counsel for J. A. L. Warren, Durand, Ill., Takes Appeal to General Conference.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes announced at an executive meeting of the Rock River Methodist Episcopal Conference today that under conference rules a new trial could not be granted John A. Logan Warren, former pastor of Durand, Ill., unfrocked after a trial in 1927 on charges of misconduct with a maid.

The Rev. W. S. Fleming of Chicago, chief counsel for Warren, said he had appealed to the General Conference of the Methodist Church and the case would be considered at a meeting in Atlantic City next May. "Three civil courts by awarding Warren damages against his accusers," the Rev. Mr. Fleming said, "have vindicated him of the charges on which he was unfrocked and am confident we have new evidence that would clear him before the conference."

S. S. Monterey Launched.

QUINCY, Mass., Oct. 10.—The S. S. Monterey, second of three vessels being built at a cost of $8,000,000 each for the Matson Navigation Co. at the yards of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, was launched today. Mrs. E. Faxon Bishop of Honolulu, wife of a director of the steamship company, christened the 630-foot ship as it slid down the ways. Her sister ship, the Mariposa, which was launched last July, will go into commission in January. The Monterey will not be ready for service until the spring.

ONE CONVICTED AMONG FOUR TRIED LAST WEEK

Service Car Driver, Who Could Have Gone Free, Sentenced for Six Months.

Four trials in the criminal division of Circuit Court last week resulted in a conviction and three acquittals. Marvin Wooddell, 40 years old, a service car driver on the Delmar-Washington route, was convicted. He was offered 50 days in jail if he would plead guilty of carrying a concealed weapon, and as he had not made bond since arrest, an admission of guilt would have walked him out of court a free man. He had already served 50 days.

Wooddell asserted he was not guilty, however, and his trial resulted in a six-months' workhouse term. He filed a motion for a new trial. A revolver was found in a side pocket of an automobile Woddell was driving as he entered the filling station of Gus Busalaki at Twentieth street and Washington avenue on the night of Aug. 17. Wooddell testified the revolver was the property of the company he worked for and that he did not know it was there.

Those freed by juries were George L. Vaughn, Negro attorney, charged with subornation of perjury growing out of testimony given in a divorce suit; John Betz, a youth charged with the larceny of an automobile, and James Murphy, ex-convict, tried as an habitual criminal and robber. Murphy established an alibi through friends with whom he lived. They testified he was home in bed at the time he was charged with being one of two men who robbed Hugh Milan, a Public Service Co. street car conductor, who was held up in a shed at the end of the Natural Bridge line on the night of Aug. 17. He lost $70.95 in cash and commutation tickets.

Five men charged with robbery received penitentiary or reform school punishment on their pleas of guilty. Otto Ruppel and Frank Hohlfeld Jr. received five-year penitentiary terms for two robberies committed in public parks in which the loot was only $7 and a wrist watch. Otis G. Caldwell, Will Wiley and Frank Watson, Negroes, got long terms for participating in four gasoline station holdups. Caldwell and Wiley got 10 and seven years, respectively, in the penitentiary, and Watson was given 10 years in the Boonville reformatory. A fourth defendant, Lewis Stewart, was given a 10-year penitentiary term last week for his part in the same crimes, none of which netted more than $25.

Others to plead guilty and their punishments were: George Peterson, a statutory offense, two years; Vincent Waskawitz, grand larceny, two years; Dudley Whitaker, rape, five years; William Wixted and Edward O'Malley, burglary, two years; Charles Bennett, larceny of a motor vehicle, three years; James E. Edwards and John Evans, assault to rob, two years and paroled to report two years; Essie Robinson, embezzlement of less than $30, nine months; Ossie Robinson, petit larceny, six months; Henry Wright and Nellie Waskawitz, three months; Louis Teresa, larceny of motor vehicle, six months; Jessie Lewis, malicious trespass, six months; John Williams, larceny of motor vehicle, two years and paroled to report two years; Meredith Sellards, forgery and jail breaking, 18 months; Clyde Bratcher, carrying a concealed weapon, 50 days; John S. Hauser, petit larceny, year; Henry Johnson, Frank Long, John Phillips and Otis Wallace, petit larceny, six months; Varion Heida and Thomas Williams, larceny of motor vehicles, year and paroled to report two years; Joseph Suppen, carrying a concealed weapon, 50 days and paroled to report six months; Joseph Bauer, forgery, year; Arthur F. Rode, forgery, year, and Clarence Bennett, drawing check on bank in which he had no account, year and paroled to report two years.

Head of India National Congress of America to Send Daughters to England.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—When two little daughters of India—Marim and Lilabati Ghose—sail alone for London next week to invite Mahatma Gandhi to America they will bear tokens of American esteem for India's leader. Sailendra nath Ghose, president of the India National Congress of America and father of the two girls, aged 7 and 4, announced today he has requested American newspapers and prominent individuals to send good will greetings for presentation by his daughters to the Mahatma.

Ghose said that he is unable to accompany his daughters because the British Government has repeatedly denied him a passport.

Charles R. Stephens of Evansville, Ind., Succumbs at Hospital in Belleville.

Charles R. Stephens, 63 years old, of Evansville, Ind., died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Belleville yesterday of pneumonia. He suffered a broken leg and other injuries last Sunday, when an automobile in which he was riding collided head-on with another on State Highway No. 15, four miles east of Belleville.

PEVELY DAIRY CO. GETS ANOTHER INJUNCTION

Writ Issued by Federal Judge at Springfield, Ill., Names 38 Milk Producers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 10.—A temporary injunction to protect the Pevely Dairy Co. and its employes and producers from violence, was issued here today by Federal Judge FitzHenry, naming 38 Illinois members of the Sanitary Milk Producers.

A similar injunction was issued by Federal Judge Davis at St. Louis last month, and another has been applied for in East St. Louis, where Federal Judge Wham issued a temporary restraining order.

Dairy attorneys told Judge FitzHenry today that there had been "practically no disturbances since the restraining order of Oct. 1, but before that we were apprehensive of bloodshed or loss of life."

They asserted that acts of violence had been incited by paid speakers imported by the producers' Co-operative Association. Once, they declared, a speaker described an injunction as "a mere scrap of paper unless you can be caught."

Remarking that "gangsters were musceling in," Judge FitzHenry recognized a contention of the association's counsel that acts of violence were committed by non-members of the organization.

"There are always irresponsible people, outsiders, who bob up to get into a fight, to 'sock' somebody," he said. "But this is a time the good citizen should refrain from acts of violence."

THREE VICTIMS OF FUMIGATING GAS TO BE BURIED TOMORROW

Single Funeral Service for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schweppe and Their 4-Year-Old Daughter.

A single funeral service will be held tomorrow afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schweppe and their 4-year-old daughter, Ruth, who were asphyxiated by fumigating gas Thursday in their home, 4808A Maffitt avenue.

The Rev. Alfred Doerffler, pastor of Pilgrim Evangelical Lutheran Church, will conduct the services at 3 o'clock at Hermann's undertaking establishment, Fair and West Florissant avenues.

Walter Mullen, operator of an criminally careless by a Coroner's criminally carless by a Coroner's jury. He was employed by the owner of the four-family flat in which the Schweppe's lived to fumigate the flat beneath theirs. The owner, Patrick J. Rice, said Mullen had assured him the gas would not leak from the fumigated flat into the others.

HELD AS HEAD OF RING OF 'DOPERS' OF RACE HORSES

Jimmy Meehan Alleged by Two Negroes to Have Paid Them $5000 to Prevent Nags from Winning.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Jimmy Meehan, who boasted of the fortunes he had made as a gambler and in whose apartment Arnold Rothstein lost a large sum of money several days before he was murdered, was arrested today, charged with being the head of a nation-wide ring of race horse "dopers."

He was confronted by two Negroes who had confessed, Police say, that they received $5000 from Meehan during the last two years for "sponging" and poisoning race horses.

The gambler denied the accusation. An indictment against him will be sought from the Nassau County grand jury Tuesday.

Assistant District Attorney Martin J. Littleton said that Meehan, while bragging of how he had made $1,000,000 in five years acting a Rothstein's aid, admitted he had never paid an income tax. Federal agents were informed.

Authorities estimated race horse owners had lost $500,000 in purses, and bettors millions of dollars as a result of the "doping" activities.

Some of the favorites the Negroes admitted having put out of the running were Joseph E. Widener's Curate, Try Again, and Mr. Sponge; Citor Emanuel's Princess Tony, the Beasel and Morstone; Isadore Bieber's Sun Mission, and two horses from the Clancy stables, the Milkman and Squeaky.

The arrests were made after an attempt had been discovered Monday to break into the Belmont stable of Emanuel, young millionaire sportsman.

Betrayed by Practical Joker.

Meehan and the two Negroes fell into the hands of the authorities by accident. Tuesday Drummond Jackson, one of the Negroes, walked up to a policeman. "I hear you're looking for me, boss," he said.

A friend had told him, as a practical joke, that he was sought by the police, and he had decided to give himself up and deny all charges. The police had no idea what he was wanted for, but finally he confessed he and James Hartwell, who was arrested later, made a business of "doping" race horses.

At Jackson's home officers found three sponges of high grade wool. They said one of the methods of the "dopers" was to insert the sponges in the nostrils of horses.

Jackson and Hartwell have been sentenced to serve six months on disorderly conduct charges.

Meehan Pleads Not Guilty.

Meehan was arraigned on a conspiracy charge, pleaded not guilty and went back to jail.

Meehan said he was first associated with Rothstein in 1921 as "pay-off man" and later ran a gambling house in Westchester County for him, receiving one-fourth of the profits, which amounted to about $500,000.

After Rothstein's murder Meehan went to Havana but returned and was held in $100,000 bail as a material witness. He was discharged later after the District Attorney's office said he had answered all questions asked him.

Police here said he was forbidden entrance to any race track in New York state. He himself told officials of the District Attorney's office that he made his living at present by gambling and "cheating the bookies."

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST URGE PUBLIC WORKS TO AID JOBLESS

Favor Ratification of World Court Protocol and Reopening of Macintosh Citizenship Case.

By the Associated Press.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 10.—Congress was petitioned today by the international convention of the Disciples of Christ to authorize "a program of public works, flood prevention, reforestation and other vital enterprises, to provide employment for our millions of unemployed."

Another resolution called upon the United States Senate to ratify the World Court protocol.

The convention also reaffirmed its 'profound connection that national prohibition is the best method yet devised or proposed for the control of the beverage alcohol traffic."

The Supreme Court of the United States was requested to reopen the case of Douglas C. Macintosh, professor of divinity at Yale University, to whom citizenship was denied because he refused to subscribe to that part of the oath pertaining to the bearing of arms in time of war.

Acceptance of the German Evangelistic Society as an affiliated organization of the Disciples of Christ was voted unanimously.

ASSERTS CARMEN WERE BETTER OFF UNDER RECEIVER

H. M. Nelson, Union Head, Declares 10 Pct. Cut Arbiters Ordered Will Retard Return to Normal.

MAJORITY DECISION 'SHOCKING' TO KIEL

In Minority Opinion He Assails Reducing Workers to "Bare Sustenance" to "Prevent Receivership."

The street railway employes fared better under the recent receivership than under the present management, Harry M. Nelson, president of the local street car men's union, said in commenting upon the Arbitration Board's finding in favor of the Public Service Co.'s announced 10 per cent reduction in rate of wages, from which former Mayor Henry W. Kiel, minority member of the board, dissented.

Kiel assailed as "shocking" the view of the majority adopting in effect a "bare sustenance" standard of living in justification of the wage cut.

"It is one of the most spineless decisions ever handed down, in the face of the evidence submitted by the union," Nelson said. "The majority members of the board apparently were so inoculated by company interest as to be immune to the union's evidence. Their gesture in basing their decision to cut wages partly on the ground of public interest may rightly be classified as a joke.

"The decision is just another hindrance to the restoration of normal conditions in St. Louis. It no doubt will increase the unrest now apparent among the employes of the street car company, and certainly will not benefit the morale of the employes.

"Blowing Hot and Cold."

"I might also point out that the board was not called to arbitrate the question of receivership, paving and taxes mentioned in the decision. The majority members say they favor maintaining high living standards, but by their action they lower the standards of approximately 20,000 citizens of St. Louis. The majority members apparently are trying to be both hot and cold at the same time."

Nelson said the union employes are "honor bound to accept the decision, and will do so, of course."

"In conclusion I wish to reiterate," he said, "that, contrary to the opinion of the majority members of the board, the street car men and the public were far better off during the six or seven years under a receiver than they have been under the present management of the Public Service Co."

Would Prevent Receivership.

As has been told the majority of the board brushed aside the "minimum health and decency living standard" set up by the union, and then upon the showing of financial distress of the company justified the wage cut as the only means of "preventing receivership" and keeping the street railway system in the hands of its present owners.

Kiel said, in his opinion: "Giving due consideration to what is required of the men here involved, and making allowance for the drop in cost of living, the evidence would conclusively convince any fair-minded person that their wages are now barely sufficient to meet reasonable living requirements.

"The majority of the Board of Arbitrators state in their opinion that 'if a minimum wage means the sum necessary to keep a wage earner and his family from want, from becoming through inadequate housing and sustenance, charges on society, the majority of this board heartily agree with that principle.' (That is, that a minimum living wage should be paid, regardless of the company's financial condition).

Cites Court Decision.

"In the humble opinion of the minority, the meager standard of existence implied by that statement is shocking. Contrast this standard adopted by the majority with the following view of the Industrial Commission of Colorado: 'By a living wage we mean a wage sufficient to supply a decent living for himself and family; enough to educate his children in the manner in which every American child should be educated; enough to secure a little pleasure in living, and something left to set aside when old - age comes and he can toil no longer.'

"The wages that the men receive in this case are still below that standard of living.

"That a fair and reasonable wage must be considered as a first lien upon the revenue of a business regardless of its financial condition seems to be generally conceded by Federal Courts in receivership cases, by arbitration boards and the company itself when it states in its brief: 'We would not ask that wages be reduced below the living wage level no matter what the company's necessities might be.' That being true, it follows that the company has not proved its case.

Considers Employes' Solvency.

"In connection with the foregoing I must commend my brother arbitrators for their frankness when they state on page seven of their opinion that: 'Their consideration of the evidence has been confined solely to the solution of the problem of maintaining the local transportation agency in a solvent condition.'

"Whether the men will remain solvent and what their living conditions are and will be with a 10 per cent cut are additional items considered by myself. I have been an employer of labor for 40 years and have tried to be fair and impartial in reaching the conclusions herein set out."

Kiel reviewed the evidence as to the company's financial condition, admitted it has suffered severe losses of revenue, and pointed out counter-balancing facts which he thought nullified the poverty plea.

Says Overhead Is Inflated.

He said the company had not reduced its "inflated administrative overhead costs" which for several years have been about $400,000 a year higher than in 1923. In the same period the wages paid the trainmen decreased $1,300,000 in total volume.

"What equity can be seen in this by a company professing to be engaged in fair dealing with its labor?" Kiel asked. "While the evidence is meager as to executives salaries, yet one item of publicity expert's expenses was so staggering as to shock my appreciation of economy. A very real reduction of administrative costs would be in order before the executive officers of this company can with any grace ask for a wage cut.

"If there is to be a reduction it should begin at the top where the bracket contains the enormous expenditures for administrative expense of $1,280,850, one that has steadily increased to in excess of $400,000 per annum more than in 1923 (the company's peak year in income) with no satisfactory reason therefor shown, so far as I understand the proof."

Kiel differed with the majority report as to the prospective operating deficit of the company, estimated at $350,000 for the year ending next May 20, even after the wage cut has been made effective. The majority approved the company's method of depreciation accounting whereby it sets aside annually for depreciation about $1,500,000 as opposed to the sum of $800,000 allowed by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

Criticises Depression Charge.

Kiel argued that if the company followed the commission order its reported profits would be increased by the difference which in 1930 amounted to $660,000. Adopting this view, he said, there would be no deficit and no occasion for the great concern of the majority over the solvency of the company.

Recalling the company's admitted surplus and undivided profits of nearly $3,000,000 as of Dec. 31, 1930, and listing other items which he thought should be added to the profit account, Kiel argued the company could go through the period of depression by drawing on its reserve. "The wage cut in this case means that the men are asked to add to the stockholders' profits," he said.

Kiel expressed the fear that "for the workers to be given a wage cut in this case with the evidence so overwhelmingly in their favor will be likely to cause an epidemic of unwarranted wage cuts all over this country. . . . I cannot conscionably accept that responsibility upon the mere guess that the company's financial condition in the future may be worse than the facts and figures now indicate. The men are receiving a bare minimum living wage and the company is in better financial condition than ever with greatly increased reserves and a very substantial sum of ready cash on hand. With all due respect for my brother arbitrators and their more lengthy opinion which I have carefully analyzed in the light of all the evidence in this case, I hold that a wage cut cannot logically be justified at this time."

Stanley Clarke, president of the Public Service Co., issued the following statement on the award:

"The award joined in by the majority of the board of arbitrators, granting a 10 per cent cut in the rate of wage paid to employes of this company who are members of the local street car men's union, we believe is to the best interests of the public, the company, and the employes themselves.

"A like cut of 10 per cent in rate of wage will simultaneously be put in effect as to all other employes except those, including all the executives, who receive higher total remuneration. As to these, proportionately greater cuts will be made.

"During the period since early summer, and pending the award which has granted the relief asked for, the revenue of the company has continued to drop off and the company has been faced with an extremely difficult task to maintain its service. Now that this readjustment, so necessary under the prevailing economic and industrial conditions, has been effected, the management, knowing that it will have the full co-operation of its employes, will supply the best service which its revenues will permit.

"The arbitrators joining in the award are to be congratulated for the way in which they went into the heart of the matter, finding the relief necessary for the protection of the car rider, and pointing out the tremendous and disproportionate burden of taxes imposed upon him in St. Louis."

Saves $430,000 in Wages.

Kiel was the arbitrator chosen by the Street Car Men's Union, the other two members, who joined in approving and making effective the wage cut, being E. J. Miller, a manufacturer, chosen by the company, and former Circuit Judge Harry E. Sprague, chairman, chosen by the other two.

The majority finding, made public Friday, will save the Public Service Co. about $430,000 in wages and salaries from Oct. 1 to next May 20, when the present working contract expires and beyond which time the arbitration award will not be effective.

BOARD OF EDUCATION CAUCUS

Meeting Tomorrow Will Choose President and Vice President.

Members of the Board of Education will hold a caucus late tomorrow afternoon to choose the president and vice president of the board, for formal election at the monthly meeting Tuesday night. No agreement has been reached on the selection of the new president, but supporters of Myrt A. Rollins, now vice president, think he will get a majority.

Rollins is a lawyer, with offices in the Title Guaranty Building, and resides at 6064 Westminster place. He was elected to the board to fill an unexpired term in 1925 and re-elected to a full, six-year term in 1927. Last year the board's election of officers was delayed a month and Rollins was made vice president in October. Emil J. Barth, an insurance man, who is president now, said he would not accept re-election if offered. Members have not centered on choice for vice president but one of the possibilities is the selection of Mrs. Elias Michael.

Closing Time for Foreign Mails.

Parcel post for Germany and Great Britain and full European mails will close at 9 o'clock tonight at the main Postoffice, Eighteenth and Walnut streets.

26,000 ASSISTED IN YEAR BY JEWISH ORGANIZATIONS

Eighty Per Cent of Cases Came Under Health and Relief Groups, Says Manager.

The benefits of the Jewish Federation's affiliated institutions were distributed among 26,000 persons in the past year, according to the annual report of Ferdinand S. Bach, general manager, to the Board of Directors on the eve of the Federation's campaign for $500,000 with which to carry on its charities in the coming year.

Bach prefaced his report with the observation that almost 80 per cent of the total individual cases came under the head of the health and relief groups, which are directly concerned with assisting the sick and the needy. "While the Jewish Federation has not sought to slight the cultural and constructive ends of social work, I think it an enviable record that four out of every five cases concerned the unfortunate."

In all, 19,285 individuals received attention from the health and relief agencies, according to Bach. Of this number, 6346 were given aid through the Jewish Family Service, while 210 persons who needed funds and could not obtain them in any other way were tided over trying periods by borrowing from the loan association.

300 MILES OF ROAD APPROVED

Highway Board Discusses Means of Relieving Unemployment.

The State Highway Commission, meeting here Friday at the Mayfair Hotel, discussed possible steps the Highway Department can take in relieving unemployment in Missouri. T. H. Cutler, chief engineer, said the chief problem before the department was in obtaining rights of way for roads, so that construction work can be pushed.

The commission approved a program for routing 300 miles of additional State roads, authorized under the 1928 bond issue. Work on this addition to the 7640-mile system will start next year. Cutler voiced approval of President Hoover's new banking proposal, as a means of raising the value of State road bonds.

BRITISH ELECTION CAMPAIGN TURNS INTO FREE-FOR-ALL

Three-Cornered Contests Among Liberals, Conservatives and Laborites Are Frequent.

OPPONENT FOR MACDONALD NAMED

Free Trade vs. Tariff Immediate Issues With Fate of National Government at Stake.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The campaign for the general election Oct. 27 has developed into a free-for-all fight unparalleled in the nation's history.

Bewilderment existed in scores of constituencies today as party groups pressed ahead with their plans for two weeks of high pressure electioneering to determine the fate of Ramsay MacDonald's National Government.

Despite party confusion, however, the opinion—backed by money on the Stock Exchange—prevailed that the National Government should have a majority of about 150 in the House of Commons which will meet Nov. 3.

Issues of the Campaign.

The campaign is settling into a fight for or against the National Government with free trade or tariffs as the main immediate issue. In the background is the struggle between capitalism and the British Labor party's brand of Socialism.

One of the important developments today was the refusal by Conservatives to withdraw three candidates at Darwen in opposition to Sir Herbert Samuel, leader of the National Liberals.

This action is likely to precipitate more three-cornered fights among Conservatives, Liberals and Laborites. Such contests are looked upon as seriously weakening the National Government's appeal for national unity.

MacDonald Seeks Seat.

MacDonald will go to Seaham Harbor Monday to open his campaign to be returned to the House of Commons.

At Seaham Harbor, William Coxon was selected today to oppose Prime Minister MacDonald as the Labor candidate in the district for the general election. He is Secretary of the Divisional Labor party which recently repudiated MacDonald as its representative in the House of Commons.

David Lloyd George denies that his rich "war chest" has been locked up. Liberals who stand for free trade without quibbling or reservations will have his financial support.

Arthur Henderson, Labor leader, went to Churt today and had a long "cordial" conversation with Lloyd George. The Welsh veteran's entire campaign is based on free trade and Labor likewise is strongly opposed to tariffs.

Nationalist Viewpoint.

J. H. Thomas, Dominions Secretary in both the Labor and National Governments, issued a manifesto stressing the need for empire development and for revising Britain's adverse trade balance.

Capt. Anthony Eden, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said in a speech at Leamington the general election was necessary to prove to the world that Britain was supporting the National Government and was ready to do her share in solving international problems of the gravest complexity which, during the next few months would test the skill of statesmen of all nations.

NIGHT WATCHMAN FOUND DEAD AFTER POLICE ELUDE DOGS

Henry Schmitt Succumbs While on Duty; Four Animal Aids Delay Discovery of Body.

Henry Schmitt, 64 years old, night watchman at the American Car and Foundry Co., 2800 De Kalb street, was found dead from natural causes at the plant early yesterday.

Four police dogs, which were Schmitt's nightly companions on the rounds through the foundry, delayed the finding of the watchman's body for an hour until a squad of policemen sent to the plant found a way to elude them. Schmitt lived at 2825 Winnebago street.

WHISKY FOR COW, MAN SAYS

Judge, Unconvinced by Medicine Story, Jails Illinois Farmer.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 10. — George Manlove, Augusta farmer, attempted to explain whisky in a barrel buried in his orchard, as the base for medicine for sick cows, but Federal Judge Fitzhenry, commenting that he was "full of explanations," sentenced him to two months in jail and fined him $200.

"Liquor that the prohibition agent got," Manlove told the Judge, "was a mixture of whisky and oil which a veterinarian had recommended to me for my sick cow. I don't sell whisky, keep whisky or use whisky." Agents, however, said there was a well worn path to the buried barrel.

For children's teeth particularly..

...this gentle, thrift dentifrice · Swift, Safe Cleaning · A Flavor Children Like

Neglect of children's temporary teeth, orthodontists agree, may result in serious malformation of the later, permanent teeth forming beneath the gum surfaces. Beauty may be marred, health impaired.

At the age of two

Dental authorities therefore urge a systematic cleansing of baby teeth after the child has reached the age of two years. For this purpose they suggest a tooth paste free from harsh abrasives; safe and swift in action, and pleasant to taste. Though the last seems unimportant, it really is important. Children welcome tooth brushing time if it is a pleasure.

A great many thousands of mothers have found Listerine Tooth Paste ideal for cleansing and protecting children's teeth, as well as their own. Here is the reason for this preference:

Protects precious enamel

Listerine Tooth Paste contains amazing new cleansing and polishing agents. They are softer than enamel. Therefore they cannot harm it. But they are harder than tartar. Consequently they remove it. The teeth are left brilliant, clean, unmarred.

Because of these amazing results, Listerine Tooth Paste has won more than three million users. Old favorites costing in the neighborhood of 50¢ have been discarded in favor of this modern one at 25¢.

Such a paste can be offered at such a price only because of marked economies (passed on to you), effected by cost-cutting methods of manufacture and distribution.

We ask you to try Listerine Tooth Paste for a week. Disregard, if you will, the saving it affords, and judge by cleansing results alone. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

ESTATE OF FRED BEHRING SR., INVENTORIED AT $64,872

Consists of Realty, Cash, Deeds of Trust and Bonds; Most of It Left in Trust for Widow.

The estate of Fred Behring Sr., who died last March 31, is valued at $64,872 in an inventory filed in Probate Court yesterday. It consists of real estate, cash in bank, deeds of trust and bonds.

The bulk of the property was left in trust of the Laclede Trust Co. for the benefit of the testator's widow, Mrs. Lizzie Behring, 3104 Fair avenue, and at her death the principal is to be distributed among the Eden Theological Seminary, German Protestant Orphans' Home on the St. Charles Rock road, Good Samaritan Altenheim and the Emmaus Asylum at St. Charles. The sum of $500 was bequeathed to each of five grandchildren and $5 to a sixth.

In regard to four daughters and two sons it is explained in the will that previously their father had given to each of them realty valued at $12,000. In each instance he took back a $6000 deed of trust, and the will provides these deeds shall be repaid to his estate, the children being entitled to the equity.

OHIO REALTY MORTGAGES SECURITY FOR PUBLIC FUNDS

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10.—Millions of dollars of liquid assets in Ohio banks will be released for new purposes under a ruling today from Attorney-General Gilbert Bettman that real estate mortgages may be pledged to secure funds of county, municipal and school districts. Heretofore banks have been required to post bonds, securities and surety bonds to protect the funds. Real estate mortgages were ineligible.

The Attorney-General's new ruling said real estate mortgages bearing not more than 6 per cent interest may be pledged to secure public funds, not exceeding one-half of the face value of the mortgages.

TWO RICKEY CHILDREN COME BY PLANE AND SEE LAST GAME

Branch Rickey Jr. and Sister, College Students, Left Ohio Airport Friday Afternoon.

Branch Rickey Jr. and his sister Mary, students at Ohio Wesleyan University at Delawara, O., saw the Cardinals win the baseball championship of the world yesterday at Sportsman's Park and were glad the series was decided by the close margin that it was.

Their father, vice president of the Cardinals, had promised them that if seven games were required to settle the issue they could see the last one. He instructed them to be at the airport at Columbus, O., Friday, and if it appeared that the Cardinals were losing the sixth game, to use their own judgment about whether to come to St. Louis.

The Cardinals were losing when the time for departure of the airplane approached. Branch Jr. climbed in, remarking philosophically to his sister, "Well, it's an ill wind"——

ALL CANNON EVIDENCE IS BEFORE GRAND JURY

Findings to Be Reported by Investigators in Week or 10 Days.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. — All facts that will tell whether Bishop James Cannon Jr. overstepped Federal laws in fighting Alfred E. Smith's presidential campaign today were assembled before a grand jury.

The completion of its job, to indict or dismiss, was promised "within a week or 10 days." The 23 jurors agreed just before noon that the 20 witnesses who have filed to the stand since Thursday morning had supplied the testimony needed for a finding. Three of the grand jury members are women.

The jury must tell the District of Columbia Supreme Court whether it found reasonable evidence the clergyman and treasurer of his 1928 anti-Smith organization, Miss Ada L. Burroughs, violated the Federal corrupt practices act.

This law requires the filing of reports on political contributions and expenditures with the clerk of the House of Representatives. That official, William Tyler Page, was the jury last witness.

He surrendered the original financial returns made by the Southern Methodist churchman. His first protest that to do so would violate prerogatives of the House was overrules by Justice James Proctor.

When the jury met at 10 o'clock this morning with only two hours before the week-end legal holiday began, Page and E. J. Armsbruster and L. P. Oliver, Justice Department agents, were the only witnesses awaiting call.

Armsbruster, expert auditor, was longer on the stand than any other witness. He explained transactions that mingled eight political and private bank accounts which the Bishop was shown in testimony before the Senate Campaign Funds Committee to have maintained in 1928.

Page presented his reports to the jury and then was allowed to return them to his files at the Capitol.

PERUVIANS COMPELLED TO VOTE FOR PRESIDENT TODAY

Citizens Must Cast Ballot and Take Photos and Finger Prints or Suffer Penalty.

By the Associated Press.

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 10.—Peruvian voters will take their finger prints and photographs to the polls tomorrow for the first presidential election since the overthrow of the Leguia regime a little more than a year ago.

Under the 11-year dictatorship of former President Augusto B. Leguia, now in prison, the Peruvian voters became so indifferent toward elections that only 170 votes were cast in the election of a Mayor of Lima.

Interest has been intense in the present campaign, under new electoral laws which require every male citizen over the age of 21 to cast a ballot under penalty of a heavy fine. As a result, 392,000 voters have registered and been provided with cards containing their photographs and finger prints for identification.

Four candidates are in the presidential race—Lieutenant-Colonel Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, conservative and former provisional President, who headed the revolt against Leguia; Arturo Osores, veteran political leader; Jose Maria de la Jara y Ureta, coalition nominee, and Victor Raul Raya de la Torre, young radical.

The president of the Junta which has been ruling Peru, Col. Davis Samanez Ocampo, nicknamed "David, the shepherd," is generally supposed to be eager to return to private life on his ranch in the Andes.

If none of the presidential candidates should receive 25 per cent of the total votes, the National Assembly is empowered to choose the new President from among the candidates.

Woman Dismisses Action Against "Ma" Kennedy's Husband.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 10.—The $250,000 breach of promise suit filed recently against Guy Edward Hudson, husband of Mrs. Minnie ("Ma") Kennedy, Los Angeles evangelist, was dismissed today at the request of Mrs. Ethel Lee Parker Herbart.

Hudson first married Mrs. Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, in Longview, Wash., but Mrs. Kennedy had the marriage annulled when it was found Hudson had not been divorced from his first wife. Later he obtained a divorce in Nevada and remarried Mrs. Kennedy in that State.

ALIENS BROUGHT IN AS SINGERS

Five Held in Alleged Plot to Get Italians Into U. S.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Dr. Carman Ferraro was under arrest today as the alleged head of a conspiracy to smuggle aliens into this country from Italy under the guise of opera singers. Five others also were in custody as the result of an investigation conducted by immigration agents under M. W. Garsson, special assistant to the Secretary of Labor. Dr. Ferraro was held under $10,000 bond for hearing Oct. 21.

Government men said Dr. Ferraro conducted a music school as well as a steamship ticket agency and obtained from $300 to $13,000 for smuggling aliens.

TABLET UNVEILED TO NEGRO, KILLED IN JOHN BROWN RAID

Principal Address at Harper's Ferry Ceremony Delivered by Head of Daughters of Confederacy.

HARPER'S FERRY, W. Va., Oct. 10.—Memorial Tablet to Heyward Shepherd, Negro, the first person killed in the John Brown raid here in 1859, was unveiled today.

Shepherd was a free Negro employed at the Baltimore & Ohio passenger station. The raid in which he was killed was followed by the trials and execution of Brown and his followers.

The movement to erect a memorail to Shepherd began at Asheville, N. C., in 1920 at the meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mrs. L. M. Bashinsky, Troy, Ala., president general of the organization, delivered the memorial address today. Mrs. Mary Dowling Bond, of Kentucky, chairman of the Heyward Shepherd Memorial Committee, presided.

Other speakers at the unveiling were Dr. Henry T. McDonald, president of Storer College, a Negro institution, and Matthew Page Andrews of Baltimore.

Tex Guinan Liquor Case Quashed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Proceedings against Texas Guinan, Helen Morgan and others indicted charged with violation of the liquor law after night club raids in June, 1928, were quashed today by the U. S. District Attorney's office. Miss Guinan and Miss Morgan, hostesses of two of the places raided, were acquitted on superseding indictments, Assistant U. S. Attorney Arthur N. Schwartz said, explaining they could not be tried again. Their defense was that they were merely salaried hostesses, having no financial interest in the enterprises.

NEW YORK SCHOOL JOBS UNDER INVESTIGATION

Records on Appointment of Democratic Leader's Sister Are Subpenaed.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Legislative City Investigating Committee set out today to learn how Margaret McCooey, sister of John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader, obtained her $12,000 a year position as Associate Superintendent of Schools.

The investigators will look into numerous complaints made at the time of Miss McCooey's appointment that she was "jumped over the heads of many teachers and principals who outranked her in seniority."

A subpena was sent today to the Board of Education demanding minutes of the proceedings leading to the appointment. A study will be made of how various members of the board voted.

An inquiry into the appointment of Lucille Nicol as a Brooklyn district Superintendent also was started. Complaints were made in 1923, when she received the position, that she lacked the educational requirements. The State Department of Education set aside the appointment, but a month later the local Board of Education reappointed Miss Nicol.

Hope of finding Russell T. Sherwood, Mayor Walker's private accountant, who has been sought by the committee for weeks, was revived today when investigators obtained from a relative of the missing man the first photograph of him they have been able to get. A tip was received that a relative in Suffern, N. Y., had a picture of Sherwood and an investigator obtained it.

The committee decided to suspend temporarily its inquiry into the appointment of Dr. William H. Walker, brother of the Mayor, as a medical examiner in the Board of Education, pending the outcome of a suit brought against Dr. Walker in relation to his appointment by the Civil Service Commission.

BARTENDER IN BEER FLAT SHOT DEAD BY EMPLOYER

P. J. McHale Killed by Virgil Faulkner at Dupo; Slayer Says He Fired in Self Defense.

Patrick J. McHale, a bartender of Dupo, Ill., was shot and killed by his employer, Virgil Faulkner, in a drinking quarrel in the kitchen of Faulkner's Dupo beer flat early yesterday. Faulkner fired one shot, the bullet striking McHale in the head.

Faulkner, who summoned police and surrendered, said he fired in self defense after McHale had drawn a revolver and fired at him.

McHale, 27 years old, came to Dupo about a year ago from Bucknell, N. Y. Formerly both he and Faulkner were railroad switchmen but had been out of work for several months and had operated a home brew resort, McHale serving as bartender. They had quarreled frequently.

WATCH YOUR CHILD'S LIFE LINE

Always Happy—Full of Pep—and Dad's Proud

It is wonderfully satisfying to be bringing up a boy like Jim Weston. His happy disposition makes him so easy to teach. But Jim wasn't always so. For years he seemed to be a born grouch. What changed him? Better digestion with the help of the double enzymes in Thompson's "Double Malted."

Perfect digestion is vital to children; they must eat and digest more than grown folks in order to grow. Thompson's "Double Malted" (with double enzymes) digests five times its own weight of other foods. This helps young, growing bodies to get full benefit from the food they eat. Then they eat more—hence gain in height, weight, energy. Thompson's practically doubles the food value of milk and is rich in the food elements that develop strong bones and teeth, firm flesh and sturdy muscles. It's the leading food for growing children.

Resolve that your boy or girl shall have the tremendous advantage in life that a vigorous body gives. Order Thompson's "Double Malted" from your druggist or grocer now.

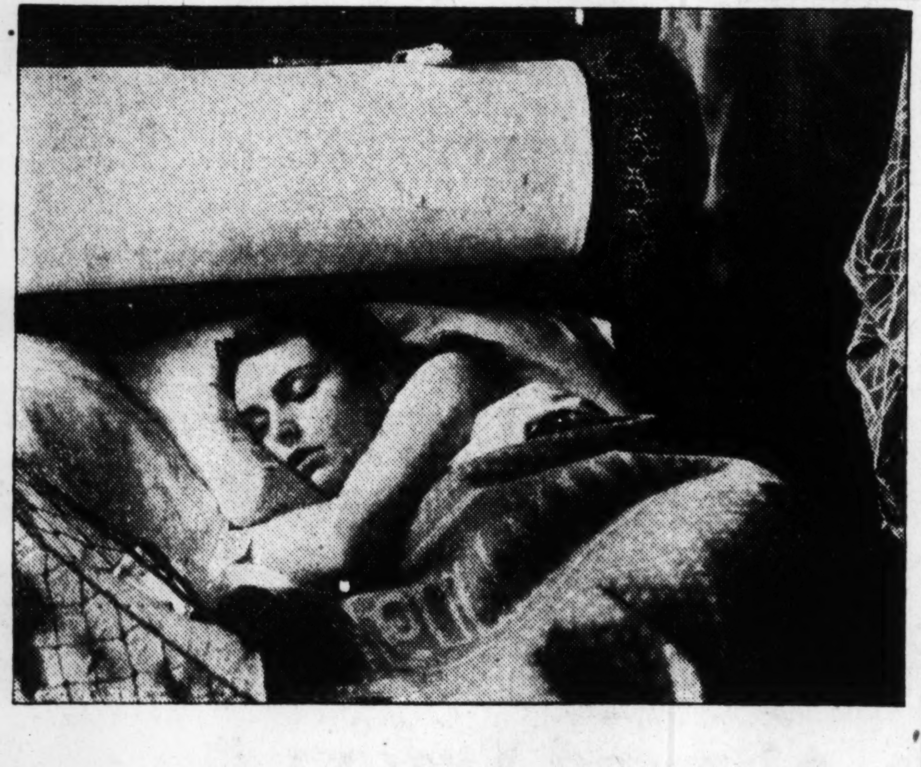
Thompson's famous Life Line Chart 6 feet high. Keep track of your children's height and weight. Keep them above average! Chart shows you how and helps you. Just mail a postal now to Thompson's Malted Milk Company, Waukesha, Wisconsin.

CHOCOLATE MALTED MILK

Mixed in a Minute at Home



HOW TO SLEEP . . .

on a train (or anywhere else)

You can't go to sleep until your nerves are at rest—on the train or in your own bed at home. Sheer weariness often brings some little nerve-nagging ache or pain. Slight as it is, it can spoil your night's rest.

That's the time to remember Bayer Aspirin. Take one tablet—and go to sleep.

It always works! If you doubt it, you haven't tried it. If you think there's the least harm in it, you haven't asked your doctor. Bayer Aspirin is quite harmless. It does not depress the heart. It does not upset the stomach. It does nothing except relieve the pain. So take it as often as it can spare you an uncomfortable hour.

You can head-off a headache by taking these tablets, or nip a cold in the bud. And relieve a sore throat with one good aspirin gargle. But read the proven directions, and be ready to relieve more serious suffering; neuralgia's awful ache; neuritic or rheumatic pain; sciatica, lumbago; muscular pains. Aches and ailments that once kept people home are all forgotten half-an-hour after taking Bayer Aspirin!

Every druggist has Bayer Aspirin in a little box for your purse, a bottle for your bag, or a bigger one for the medicine cabinet. If you wish to save money, you can buy the genuine tablets by the hundred. You don't want the imitations at any price!

NEW YORK SCHOOL JOBS UNDER INVESTIGATION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Legislative City Investigating Committee set out today to learn how Margaret McCooey, sister of John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader, obtained her $12,000 a year position as Associate Superintendent of Schools.

The investigators will look into numerous complaints made at the time of Miss McCooey's appointment that she was "jumped over the heads of many teachers and principals who outranked her in seniority."

A subpena was sent today to the Board of Education demanding all minutes of the proceedings leading to the appointment. A study will be made of how various members of the board voted.

An inquiry into the appointment of Lucille Nicol as a Brooklyn district Superintendent also was started. Complaints were made in 1923, when she received the position, that she lacked the educational requirements. The State Department of Education set aside the appointment, but a month later the local Board of Education reappointed Miss Nicol.

Hope of finding Russell T. Sherwood, Mayor Walker's private accountant, who has been sought by the committee for weeks, was revived today when investigators obtained from a relative of the missing man the first photograph of him they have been able to get. A tip was received that a relative in Suffern, N. Y., had a picture of Sherwood and an investigator obtained it.

The committee decided to suspend temporarily its inquiry into the appointment of Dr. William H. Walker, brother of the Mayor, a medical examiner in the Board of Education, pending the outcome of a suit brought against Dr. Walker in relation to his appointment by the Civil Service Commission.

BARTENDER IN BEER FLAT SHOT DEAD BY EMPLOYER

P. J. McHale Killed by Virgil Faulkner at Dupo; Slayer Says He Fired in Self Defense.

Patrick J. McHale, a bartender of Dupo, Ill., was shot and killed by his employer, Virgil Faulkner, in a drinking quarrel in the kitchen of Faulkner's Dupo beer flat early yesterday. Faulkner fired one shot, the bullet striking McHale in the head.

Faulkner, who summoned police and surrendered, said he fired in self defense after McHale had drawn a revolver and fired at him.

McHale, 27 years old, came to Dupo about a year ago from Hornell, N. Y. Formerly both he and Faulkner were railroad switchmen, but had been out of work for several months and had operated a brew resort, McHale serving as bartender. They had quarreled frequently.

SWEDISH lyric poet, who, Oct. 8, was posthumously awarded the Nobel prize in literature, which was won last year by Sinclair Lewis. Dr. Karlfeldt is the first member of the Swedish Academy, which selects the Nobel prize winners, to receive the literary award. He was permanent secretary of the academy and chairman of the Nobel Prize Committee. Last year he introduced Lewis to the King of Sweden at the presentation ceremony in connection with which Lewis made a widely commented on speech, declaring the way of art in America was hard. Dr. Karlfeldt died April 7, this year.

DISARMAMENT GROUP CALLS ON PRESIDENT

Hoover Tells Women He Approves of Effort to Create Public Opinion for Peace.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—President Hoover today accepted the petition of a women's coast-to-coast peace caravan from 22 states with a declaration of his own belief in disarmament.

"You realize as well as I do the attitude of myself and of this Government needs no urging," the President said in response to speeches by Jane Addams, Helen Taft Manning and others urging sweeping cuts in armament.

"Our difficulty, the difficulty of all statesmen, lies in public opinion," Mr. Hoover added.

"There is no one I know of heading any nation in the world today who is not desirous of achieving the ends you wish. It is a work I appreciate and that all men appreciate."

Commenting that no statesman could go beyond public opinion, he said: "The creation of public opinion in which you are engaged has the support of every statesman."

The President told the peace delegates he would be glad to keep the 150,000 signatures, piled high on an East Room settee, so long as the women wished to leave them at the White House.

Jane Addams had told the President that the women would return for the petitions to present them to the Disarmament Conference in Geneva in February, 1932.

ARKANSAS SENATE DEFEATS COTTON PROHIBITION PLAN

Votes Down Bill After Passage by House; State Joins Mississippi in Reduction Law.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 10.—Prohibition of cotton planting in 1932 was defeated in the Arkansas Legislature today as the Senate voted down a measure passed by the House of Representatives in favor of the bill.

The Senate's vote to defeat the plan, which is sponsored by Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana, was 15 to 12.

The House passed the prohibitory bill after approving another measure that embodied the Texas reduction plan to limit cotton acreage in 1932 and 1933 to 30 per cent of the land now in cultivation. The Senate likewise adopted the reduction bill, but previously had defeated a measure that embodied the Long plan and that originated in the Senate.

Meanwhile, the prohibition plan was revived in the Mississippi Senate today with the introduction of a measure based on its proposals. The House of Representatives defeated a similar measure earlier in the week.

Like Arkansas, both Mississippi Houses have passed bills for reducing the crops for 1932 and 1933 to 30 per cent of the cultivated area this year. In Mississippi, however, the application of the act would be conditional on other states growing 75 per cent of the American cotton crop passing a similar law.

FRAGMENTS OF BODIES FOUND ON BEACH AT HULL, MASS.

Medical Examiner Decides Remains Were Probably Those of Man and Woman.

HULL, Mass., Oct. 10.—Parts of two human bodies which apparently drifted on to Nantasket Beach on the tide last night, remained a puzzling problem to the police and medical Examiner John Sweeney today. Dr. Sweeney said death apparently had resulted from violence.

Henry J. Stevens, Commissioner of Public Safety, expressed the hope that identification or a further explanation of the mystery might be made possible by the finding of the limbs or other parts of the bodies.

He decided the bodies probably were those of a man and a woman, although he was not certain. The deaths might have occurred about three weeks ago, he said

The possibility that the organs might have been thrown into the sea by a medical student was discounted by the officials, who said a student would have been required to cremate such remains.

They inclined today to the opinion that a "raft" found not far from the bodies probably had no connection with them.

Valentino Tax Abatement.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. — An abatement of $61,432 to the estate of the late Rudolph Valentino, movie actor, for overassessment of income taxes and interest, was announced today by the Internal Revenue Bureau. Of the overcharge, $53,732 was caused by elimination from the net incomes of 1925 and 1926 of amounts added to them in a prior audit which was found to have been closed in another case. The rest represented interest assessed on deficiencies in tax.

Agricultural Exports Fall Off.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—American agricultural exports lost further ground in August, the index of 44 commodities touching 53 for a new low level. The July figure was 63, while in August, 1930, it was 87. The Agriculture Department's chart covers a period from 1914 to the present. Total exports for July and August were $96,054,000, against $106,762,000 for the same months a year ago. Imports were $159,443,000 and $196,086,000. All groups except fruits contributed to the decline in August.

6-BILLION REBOUND IN STOCK PRICES DURING WEEK

Reaction from New Low Is One of Swiftest in History of Securities Markets and Accompanies Formation of $1,000,000,000 Banking Pool.

SATURDAY'S MARKET IS RATHER QUIET

A Fair Volume of Profit-Taking Is Well Absorbed by New Buying and List Firms Toward the Close —Steel Unfilled Tonnage Figures a Surprise.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Formation of a banking pool authorized to raise up to $1,000,000,000 to supplement the work of the Federal Reserve System in alleviating bank burdens was accompanied during the past week by one of the swiftest rebounds ever witnessed in the securities markets.

Administration and financial leaders are now faced with the task of keeping the rifts in confidence closed. Scarcely anyone has predicted that the plans advanced will bring any immediate revival of business, although the outlook for 1932 is widely regarded as immeasurably improved.

The international outlook is still somewhat lowering, although knowledge that the administration is giving its attention both to the financial situation in Europe, and the hostilities in the Far East, has been reassuring.

The visit to the United States of Premier Laval of France, as well as representatives of the Bank of France, is being awaited hopefully by both the Old and New Worlds.

A redistribution of the world's monetary gold stock has already begun on a large scale, and may eventually provide a more stable basis for international trade. Through actual exports, and the setting aside of funds for foreign account, this country has been relieved at roughly $500,000,000 of its surplus and largely sterilized stocks of monetary gold in the past four weeks. It still has more than twice as much gold as any other country.

Six Billion Rebound.

Bankers say we could still lose much more metal without any prospect of real credit stringency, but as foreign balances here are now reduced to some $700,000,000, and foreigners will undoubtedly wish to keep substantial funds in this market, the bulk of the gold movement from this country probably has been completed.

The stepping up of the New York Federal Reserve rate from 1½ to 2½ per cent may have an effect of checking the outflow of gold, but was taken primarily to make interest rates more profitable to banks and bank depositors, check declines in bank stocks, and encourage banks in the financing of trade.

After plunging to new low levels for recent years in a state of extreme demoralization on Monday, the stock market made a sweeping recovery. The gain in values amounted to about 20 per cent, or some $6,000,000,000 for shares listed on the exchange alone. In percentage, the gain was unprecedented in recent history. Bonds naturally fluctuated less widely, but made one of the sharpest recoveries in years.

Quiet Week-End Session.

Stock trading lacked spectacular elements today. A fair volume of profit-taking was well absorbed by new buying, and the list firmed toward the close, bringing moderate net gains to many prominent issues.

Rails, less certain of a decision over the holiday on the freight rate increase, were somewhat mixed and experienced considerable realizing. Carrier bonds, however, again rallied and were active. Wheat, corn and cotton all closed higher.

The United States Steel Corporation's September tonnage statement, published just as the market was closing, showed a decrease in unfilled orders of 24,624 tons, well under advance estimates. New business during the month, it had been believed, was small and although the company's subsidiaries operated at about one-third of capacity, a larger decrease had generally been expected.

Youngstown district activity will start next week unchanged.

The feature of foreign exchanges was a brisk retreat of shorts in the Dutch guilder following a similar performance in Swiss francs yesterday. Apparently many traders had believed both countries would forsake the gold standard; their bad guess was costly. Guilders crossed 40 cents, getting above the gold point. Other rates were about steady. Sterling rose to $3.90½, where it was up 3 cents net.

In stocks, the profit-taking of the first half hour uncovered further support on a scale-down and prices moved slowly upward for the remainder of the session. American Can, General Electric, duPont, Westinghouse, American Telephone and Allied Chemical closed a point higher. United States Steel was up ⅝ on the day.

Some Outstanding Recoveries.

The recovery in market value of the outstanding stocks of several leading corporations in the past five days has been enormous. For American Telephone, it exceeds $300,000,000, and General Motors, $200,000,000. The common stock capitalizations of United States Steel, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Pennsylvania Railroad have recovered from $70,000,000 to $90,000,000.

The following table shows Monday's low level, as contrasted with today's closing level, of several prominent issues:

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER AT WEEKEND SESSION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Some early irregularity in cotton today was followed by advances on pre-holiday covering or re-buying.

Trade buying was also in evidence on the advance, which carried the price of December up from 5.72c to 5.93c. That delivery closed at 5.91c, with the general market very steady at net advances of 10 to 15 points.

The opening was steady, 3 points higher to 1 point lower, with near months relatively firm in response to steadier Liverpool cables and some foreign buying. Later months were influenced by Southern selling and liquidation or local selling in anticipation of increased hedging later in the session, and the general list eased off a few points during the early trading. March sold down to 6.02c, making net declines of about 4 to 6 points on the active positions, but the offerings from the South tapered off and the market firmed up later in the morning.

Some of the early buying was supposed to be for Liverpool and continental account, while there was also buying here through brokers with Japanese connections which helped to absorb the early offerings. Later the market seemed more sensitive to buying orders, and when hedging failed to increase materially in the late trading, covering became more active. March sold up to 6.26c, with the general list showing net gains of about 13 to 18 points, and the close was only a few points off from the best under realizing.

Today's buying was accompanied by continued favorable comment on the plans under way for improving the banking credit situation, and there was an absence of heavier Southern hedging here in advance of the two-day adjournment. The possibility of further developments before the reopening on Tuesday may also have had a tendency to check selling, while reports from Worth street were considered more encouraging.

Liverpool cables reported good calling and buying on the easier sterling in that market and said there had been fair sales of cotton cloths to the continent and South America. Cotton on shipboard at United States ports at the close of the week was estimated at 163,000 bales against 130,000 last year.

STRONG MARKET FOR WHEAT ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Oct. 10.—The wheat market was strong at the closing session of week, influenced by reports of European buying of wheat futures at Chicago, of overnight export sales of about 2,000,000 bushels with possibly another million today, rumors of charter cancellations by Russia and strong Liverpool and Buenos Ayres. Wheat closed 1½c higher. Corn was influenced by wheat and finished ⅛ to ⅝c better.

The upturn in wheat was ascribed to foreign demand for North American wheat, estimated at 2,000,000 bushels.

Liverpool wheat closed ½d to ⅝d higher.

Winnipeg, which was unchanged early, closed ¾@1c net higher.

Local wheat receipts which were 93,806 bu., compared with 155,400 last week and 121,800 last year, included 38 cars local and 29 through. Corn receipts which were 29,400 bu., compared with 60,200 last week and 33,600 last year, included 21 cars local. Oats receipts which were 19,800 bu., compared with 22,000 last week and 41,800 last year, included 9 cars local.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was 1c higher. The only transactions reported were several cars of No. 5. Trading basis was 1c below the Chicago December figure. Offerings were light and included some local elevator loadings. Hard wheat was nominally 1c higher. Demand was limited. No. 1 sold to an elevator here at 1¾c below the Chicago December figure. The only other sale was a car of No. 5 for feed. Corn was steady to ½c lower. Sales of No. 1 yellow were at unchanged prices and No. 2 steady to ½c lower. Sales of No. 2 yellow were on a basis 3c above the Chicago December price. Only one car sold until after the close. Yellow corn sold mainly to industries, the mixed to glucose plants and the white went for shipments. Receipts were liberal. Oats were steady. Receipts were liberal and offerings cleared fairly well. Mills, a shipper and a local firm were the purchasers.

CHICAGO WHEAT ADVANCES AT A RAPID RATE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—A display of vast buying power unequaled heretofore this season hoisted wheat prices today at a rapid rate. It was asserted in one quarter that Russia had canceled grain vessel export charters. Foreigners bought wheat future deliveries in Chicago on a big scale today, especially May, and the market rose buoyantly to more than 5½ cents a bushel higher than Monday of this week.

Wheat closed strong at almost the day's top level, 1⅝@1⅞c over yesterday's finish. Corn ⅝@¾c up, oats unchanged to ⅝c advance, and provisions varying from a shade decline to a gain of 2 cents.

From the outset, wheat tended powerfully upwards, influenced by estimates that 2,000,000 bushels of wheat had been purchased in North America yesterday for shipment overseas. Additional export buying today was also in evidence with signs that the total would approach 1,000,000 bushels more. Giving increased momentum to the upward flight of values was word that wheat recently disposed of by the United States Government sponsored grain stabilization corporation to Germany, China and Brazil was being prepared for movement.

A picturesque incident was the appearance of one of the largest Chicago grain operators in the wheat pit actively taking a hand as a buyer of future deliveries. Main interest throughout the day, however, focused on Russian developments.

Comment on the United States Government crop report issued after the close was that it confirmed assertions that 1931 domestic spring wheat yield had been the smallest ever known. The official figures on corn production were 24,000,000 bushels more than the average of latest private returns, with oats 28,000,000 bushels more than expected. Corn and oats prices today were bullishly affected by the action of wheat.

Provisions averaged higher with grains, despite downturns in hog values.

IRREGULAR ADVANCE IN THE BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The advance in the bond market slackened today, but trading quickened after a quiet first hour.

Sales aggregated $9,773,000, the largest total for a short session since Sept. 19, when the market was discounting in advance the decision of the British Government to go off the gold standard. The advance was irregular today and some sections of the list were inclined to recede at times.

Railroad issues continued to reflect buying interest. An active demand appeared in such diversified loans as Atchison general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1933 and of 1960, Rock Island Series A 4½s, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, Great Northern 5s of 1973, Missouri Pacific Series A 5¼s and St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s of 1978.

However, the uneven nature of the advance appeared in losses of 1 to 3 points in such active rails as New York Central, new 4½s of 2013, Nickel Plate Series C 4½s, Southern general 6½s and Chicago & North Western Series A 4¾s.

Public utility obligations fluctuated narrowly and closed steady after a large turnover. Industrial loans gained in quiet trading. Foreign bonds fluctuated narrowly and irregularly. With two or three exceptions trading was quiet.

Liberty and United States Treasury loans continued to decline. Most of them either reached new low levels for this year or equaled their previous minimum prices. The new Treasury 3s were the most active. The Treasury 3¾s of 1946-56 declined 2 points, an unusually large loss.

CURB MARKET IS DULL BUT THE TONE FIRM

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Curb market turned dull in today's short session, but managed to maintain a firm tone despite profit taking in advance of the 2½-day holiday.

The turnover was only 170,000 shares, the smallest in a fortnight. The market was inclined to sag in spots for a time, but came back to close irregularly higher.

Utilities moved narrowly. American Gas & Electric gained more than a point. Fractional advances were recorded by Electric Bond & Share, Utilities Power & Light, and Middle West Utilities.

Oils were but slightly changed, save for Gulf, which rose 2 points. Traders in this group are anxious to see what effect the renewal of production in Oklahoma may have on crude prices.

CARDS WIN WORLD SERIES WITH 4-2 VICTORY ON GRIMES' PITCHING AND WATKINS' HOMER

27-MAN BALL CLUB DID THE TRICK, SAYS PILOT GABBY

By Charles E. "Gabby" Street
Manager of the World Champion Cardinals.

This is the greatest moment of my life. I am manager of a world championship baseball club, an honor I had hoped to attain ever since I became connected with baseball.

In winning, we defeated a great baseball club in the Athletics. The American League champions fought us right down to the finish, but I think that we outplayed them to gain the title.

In winning the final game, 4 to 2, we beat George Earnshaw, a pitcher who had made us look bad in previous games.

I want to congratulate Burleigh Grimes on his fine pitching, as well as all the other players. They all gave me their best.

Yes, we had a few good breaks in the first inning, but I think we had some coming, inasmuch as we had none in the first six games. But there is no denying that George Watkins' wallop, the homer with a man on base, which gave us the margin by which we won, was an important sock.

Grimes was very tired at the finish. He had worked hard all through and I was sorry that I had to take him out in favor of Bill Hallahan with two out. But Grimes was the victor and thus won two games to gain revenge over the Athletics for the two beatings handed him a year ago. Two world series victories for a pitcher 38 years old is quite a feat.

There were those who figured that we would be upset by the bad breaks that we received in the sixth game. But we forgot all about that and showed it by the way we went after Earnshaw to win in the first three innings of the game.

I want to congratulate Connie Mack on his fine team. The Mackmen played real baseball throughout, but we won by being just a little better.

I am happy that I am the manager of the club to bring the title back to the National League after four straight years of reverse.

The turning point of the series, I think, was the way I manipulated my pitchers. It is hard to pick out the outstanding pitcher, but I think Grimes deserves high praise for the way he came back to pitch in his second game. His two-hit game and that for Earnshaw were the outstanding pitching performances of the series.

My reserves came through beautifully. Andy High played fine ball at third base in place of the injured Adams. In the final, I used Ernie Orsatti in left field in the place of Hafey, figuring to get more left-hand batting strength against a right-hand pitcher.

It's over now. We had a real fight, but we won as a 27-man ball club, the same as we won the National League pennant. That's all that can be asked.

PEPPER'S CONTRIBUTION: Martin's Steal of Second, Paving Way for Watkins' First Score

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

Pepper Martin's long head-first slide into second base for a steal in the opening inning. It was a big factor in the victory, for when Earnshaw struck out Orsatti, the next batter, it paved the way for Watkins to score when Cochrane had to throw to first to get the batter, "Watty" made it when Foxx's return throw was bad. Arrow indicates ball near Bishop's head.

Cards' Victory On Anniversary Of 1926 Success

IT was just five years ago yesterday that Grover Cleveland Alexander struck out Tony Lazzeri in the seventh inning of the game at Yankee Stadium in New York to give the Cardinals their first world championship in 38 years.

The Cardinals won the game from the Yankees, 3 to 2, Oct. 10, 1926. That gave the National League its last series victory in the title competition until Gabby Street's men came through against the Athletics.

$4484 EACH FOR THE VICTORIOUS CARDINALS

Each member of the World Champion Cardinals will get $4484 as his share of the 60 per cent of the players' pool taken from the receipts of the first four games. The Cardinals divided their "take" into 30 shares, including Manager Gabby Street, Coach Wares, Secretary Clarence Lloyd, Trainer Harrison Weaver and Assistant Trainer Kirby Samuels.

NORTHWESTERN STOPS STRING OF NOTRE DAME AT 20 WITH TIE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Rain, mud and a great Northwetsern team conspired to stop Notre Dame's famous victory march of football at 20 straight conquests before an excited throng of 75,000 spectators at Soldier Field today.

The "Fighting Irish," carrying on for their departed Knute Rockne, weren't beaten in their valiant bid to establish a new winning streak, but were held to a scoreless tie, a result which was almost as precious to the white-shirted giants from Northwestern.

Northwestern Came Close.

Of the two teams, evenly matched in all departments, but stopped by the almost constant deluge which churned the battle field into a veritable quagmire, it was Northwestern which came the closest to victory—not Notre Dame. Twice, the Wildcats marched, on the break of fumbles, to within the shadows of the Notre Dame goal line only to be turned back. Once, the Wildcats hammered through to the Notre Dame four-yard line only to miss their first down by the heart-breaking margin of one foot. A few minutes later, in the same second period, they rushed to the five-yard stripe only to see their golden opportunity float away on an incompleted pass over the goal line.

The Northwestern 20-yard line was the limit of the Notre Dame football travels today. Three times the "Fighting Irish" got to that point—once when Hoffmann smashed through to block Ollie Olson's kicks; again when the Irish clicked off a pretty lateral offense with Mike Koken and big George Melinkovich, substitute backs, doing the carrying, and again when Olson's punt popped up in the air and landed dead on his own 20-yard marker. But they could budge the Wildcat line no farther.

Fumbles Mar Game.

Bedlam in Clubhouse After Triumph; Baseball's Biggest Men Join in Celebration

By Charles Dunkley,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

"I have just realized the ambition of my life."

It was Gabby Street, grizzled manager of the victorious Cardinals, speaking. Street, now 49 years old, had won his first world's baseball championship after a quarter of a century in the game, and he was so happy that he was on the verge of tears.

Street rushed into the Cardinals' dressing room to congratulate his players, but before he could complete the round of handshaking he was rushed to the microphone.

"Hello, Sally Lou and Sonny Boy, down there in Joplin," he said. "Daddy kept his promise and is bringing the world's championship to you tomorrow morning."

That message was for his little four-year-old daughter and his seven-year-old son, Charles E. Street Jr. Then the Cardinal manager turned to newspaper men:

"Grimes Outstanding Pitcher."

"I am the happiest man in the world," he began. "This is the greatest day of my life. I've always wished I could manage a world championship ball club, but I didn't think I could do it at my age.

"Pitching was the turning point. We had the better equipped pitching staff, and we beat a great ball club.

"With the exception of the sixth game, my team played heads-up baseball. We went out to win as fast as we could, and it proves the strength of the club we had to lick when they carried us to seven games.

"The best pitched games were turned in by Grimes and Earnshaw. Grimes was the outstanding pitcher, in my mind, because of his ability to come back after being hurt in the first game. Hallahan pitched two marvelous victories.

"Pepper Martin, of course, was

Wray's COLUMN

Vindicated.

THE National League is smiling all around the circuit today, as a result of the Cardinals' world series victory over the Mackmen. It was the first success the National League has scored since 1926 and comes at a time when another defeat would have tended to the belief that the National was really weaker than the American League, as a circuit.

The victory brings vindication not only for the league but for the strategy of Gabby Street, for "chain store" baseball and for President Sam Breadon's choice of the world series opening dates, all three of which have been attacked.

Street's Strategy Works Out.

STREET was bitterly attacked for using Derringer in the opening game and for coming back with him in the sixth contest, after he had faltered his first attempt.

Street contended that the only reason for using Derringer Friday was that, since the Cards had one game to gamble with, it was better to take a chance on defeat and use Derringer, rather than send in his only remaining ace, Grimes, with insufficient rest. The great game pitched by Grimes yesterday completely vindicated this policy.

The chain store baseball idea, never popular with rival magnates and a large portion of the public and particularly with Commissioner Landis, needs no vindication since for the past six years the Cards' organization has supplied four pennant winners, two world champions and one entry that was beaten by a microbe's eyelash.

Breadon Had It Right.

AS for Sam Breadon, the critics sentenced him to the cuckoo ward, when it was learned that he had named Oct. 1 for the first game, giving Connie Mack an opportunity to use his two ace pitchers three times,

HALLAHAN STOPS ATHLETICS IN NINTH; EARNSHAW DEFEATED

By J. Roy Stockton

The Cardinals are champions of the baseball world!

Burleigh Grimes, the grizzled fighter of the pitching hill, held the powerful Athletics in check for eight innings yesterday afternoon, while the Redbirds were pounding George Earnshaw for four runs, and when Burleigh weakened in the ninth and the Athletics put over two tallies, Bill Hallahan, also twice victor over the enemy, trudged from the bull pen to the mound and retired the one remaining batter to make it a 4—2 victory.

It was the National League pennant winners' fourth victory over their American League rivals, who had evened the series Friday, scoring their third triumph of the struggle for baseball's highest honors.

Grimes pitched a courageous game, and the crowd hoped that he would be able to go through to the finish, to be in there when the last man was retired and the Cardinals were crowned champions. But while the heart remained stout and willing to the end, the flesh weakened, and when he finally had to stalk to the dugout he could barely drag one foot after the other.

In the last two innings the stubble-bearded fighter was pitching on his nerve. Two passes in the eighth inning put him in danger. He worked out of that crisis, but in the ninth his weary muscles could not co-ordinate to do the bidding and, with two runs in and two men on bases, Hallahan was called to the rescue.

Connie Mack had Earnshaw and he had Grove, but because Gabby Street had Grimes and because he had Hallahan, the old Sergeant is the proud leader of the world champions in his second year as a big league manager.

Two two-run attacks on George Earnshaw gave the Cardinals the runs that thwarted the Athletics in their ambition to capture their third straight world title.

High and Watkins Get the Runs

Two lucky hits and an error figured in the first inning rally, but a solid single and a home run by George Watkins, which hit the root of the right field pavilion, produced the other two tallies which constituted the Redbirds' margin of victory and gave the National League its first world series triumph since 1926.

Andy High, the third baseman of the first game, and in small measure a goat of that defeat, because a disastrous single caromed off his glove, started the first inning rally in the seventh and deciding game, dropping a pop single in short left center, just out of reach of Williams, Dykes and Simmons. Watkins hit another lucky blow, a single that dropped in left, an unprotected area because Simmons was playing near center for the left-hand swinging Watkins.

Frisch neatly sacrificed and then a wild pitch scored High and moved Watkins to third. Martin then drew a pass and quickly stole second and that steal was an important one. Orsatti struck out and if Martin had still been on first, the fact that Cochrane dropped the third strike would not have mattered, as Orsatti would have been out. But with first base unoccupied, Cochrane had to throw out Orsatti at first and while he was doing that, Watkins dashed for the plate and was safe on Foxx's low throw when Cochrane dropped the ball as Watkins crashed into him.

High also started the other rally, lining a single past Bishop to open the third frame. Watkins then picked on a fast ball inside and put it outside the park.

Earnshaw Invincible After Third.

After that Earnshaw was the master pitcher, the same invincible hurler that had stopped the Redbirds in other world series games. After that home run he retired 15 consecutive batters without a Car-

"Pepper" Martin Misses Chance to Set New Records

AFTER a sensational showing in the first five games of the series during which he tied the record for total hits (12) and also the mark for runs driven in one game (4), Pepper Martin went into a slump in the last two games and failed to get a hit.

In the sixth and seventh games the best he obtained was two passes, one of which he got yesterday and on which he stole a base. In his other efforts yesterday he popped out, grounded out and struck out with two men on.

During the series, however, he was the standout. Here is what he achieved:

Scored five runs, made 12 hits for a batting average of .500, stole five bases, made four doubles, hit one home run, drove in five runs, four in one game, hit for a total of 19 bases, struck out three times and walked twice.

McGRAW SAYS CARDS WON BY SMART AND AGGRESSIVE PLAYIN

WATKINS' DASH HOME IN FIRST A DARING PLAY, ASSERTS PILOT

By John J. McGraw

Manager, New York Giants.

Well, the Cardinals have won the world championship and are a credit to the National League. They clearly earned their title by outplaying the Athletics in most of the games. All the way through they did most of the smart playing and steadily led the attack. They made smart moves and ran on most any chance. On the other hand the Athletics played heavy, slow baseball depending alone on their hitting punch.

John McGraw

Connie Mack used good judgment in the way he handled his pitchers all through the series, and it was by that alone that he managed to tie it up. The defeat of Earnshaw probably came as a big surprise to the fans. He was due for a change in luck after his other fine games. Earnshaw started off unsteadily and the Cardinals were quick to take advantage of it. When he had steadied down it was too late.

Praises Grimes' Gameness.

Much credit should be given Burleigh Grimes for his skill and gameness. He pitched smart ball all the way through and for many innings had the heavy batters of the Athletics helpless. Toward the finish it could be seen that he was tiring, but he gamely stuck to his guns until removed for Hallahan to pitch to the last batter in the last inning. In the Cardinals half of that inning Grimes did a smart trick by deliberately striking out so as to save his strength. Even so when he went back to the box he had a flurry of wildness and walked two batters. Two hits gave the Athletics their only runs.

Street made a wise move in calling on Bill Hallahan. He retired Bishop on a long fly and it remained for Pepper Martin, the hero of all the early games and the sensation of the series, to make the last putout. I don't think I ever saw a game so full of thrills at the last minute. It had looked easy for the Cardinals up to then. All during the game the Athletics seemed to have their heads down. When they got those men on bases in the ninth, though, they came to life.

It was a great ball game.

Watkins Made Smart Play.

In this game the Cardinals continued their running attack and it paid dividends right off the reel. While on third with one out, Watkins made a dash for the plate when Cochrane was throwing Orsatti out on a dropped strike. It was a daring play and Watkins got away with it. It is an illustration of how the Cardinals took chances.

Another pretty play, showing how Wilson was on his toes, was his snap throw to first base which caught Bishop in the third inning. Wilson played snappy baseball all through the series.

Pepper Martin didn't get in his stride but the first time he reached first base on a base on balls he got a big lead on Earnshaw and stole second cleanly. It gave Orsatti a great opportunity but Earnshaw's pitching had him baffled and he struck out.

A feature of this game was the way Bing Miller began hitting solidly for the first time in the series. He hit safely his first three times, leading most of the Athletics' attack.

A Popular Victory.

George Watkins made the one hit that won the game. He had been worrying the pitchers all afternoon, having made a hit his first time up. Andy High, batting ahead of him, had shared honors with Miller as the hard hitters of the game. When Andy got on, Watkins hit one squarely on the button, a beautifully hit ball, and drove it over the top of the right field pavilion against the wind.

I want to congratulate Gabby Street for his sound judgment all the way through the series. In fact, I congratulate the whole Cardinal team. They are real champions.

FIVE TOUCHDOWNS BY STAR IN FIRST HALF

By the Associated Press.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Oct. 10.—Valparaiso University defeated Aurora (Ill.) College today, 50 to 0. Aurora was unable to stop Gauthier, fleet back, who streaked over the goal five times in the first half for touchdowns. In the second half the reserves went in for the locals and continued to pile up points.

Play Scoreless Tie.

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Oct. 10.—Lake Forest College and Carroll of Wisconsin fought a scoreless tie today for the second time in two years of football competition. Lake Forest neared Carroll's goal three times, but passes failed. First downs were 13 to 1 for the home team, and Carroll never threatened.

WHEN THE ATHLETICS CRACKED—Watkins Scoring the Second Run of the Game

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

The strain of the series told on the Athletics in the first inning when, after High and Watkins each had singled and Frisch had sacrificed them to second and third, Earnshaw pitched wide allowing High to score the first run. Then the other end of the battery, Cochrane, cracked. Orsatti swung and missed his for a third strike and the greatest catcher of all dropped the ball. Orsatti sped down to first. Cochrane hurled to Foxx to retire him. Watkins darted home as Cochrane threw and he is shown just about to hit the dirt and slide into the plate. Cochrane is waiting for the relay back from Foxx, and Pitcher Earnshaw is shown at the right backing up the catcher on the throw. The umpire is Stark and the tense figure in the foreground is none other than the batboy, about to pass out from excitement.

Cards Win the World Series On Home Run by Watkins

dinal reaching base, but it was too late for pitching to do the Athletics any good. The Cardinals had the runs they needed to win for Grimes and Hallahan, and one to spare.

A pass to Simmons started the ninth inning and gave the crowd its final thrill and a scare with it. Foxx fouled to Wilson, and Miller forced Simmons, but Dykes drew a pass and a single by Williams, a bounder that caromed off High's glove, filled the bases.

Grimes was weary. He mopped his brow and rested as much as he could between pitches. But he could not summon the one more unit of arm-power that he needed and when Cramer, batting for Walberg, who had pitched the eighth, singled to center, scoring Miller and Dykes, Grimes knew that a younger man and a fresher one would have to finish the job that he had almost completed.

The Right Man in a Pinch.

Hallahan was the right man. He pitched two balls to Bishop, but then grooved two strikes. A third ball drew the final groan of the series from the stands, but Hallahan put the next one over the plate and Pepper Martin had the honor of hauling down Bishop's fly for the final out of the first seven-game series since 1926.

Martin deserved the honor of grabbing that last souvenir for the battle. He was stopped today by Earnshaw and Walberg, just as he was stopped by Grove in the sixth game. But he had done his share and more. And without the base hits and the dash and daring of this madcap of the diamond, this Wild Horse of the Osage, the Cardinals would not be flaunting the championship banner.

What It Takes To Stop Bishop, Hallahan's Got

BILL HALLAHAN proved a jinx to Max Bishop in the world series just ended. Twice the Cardinal lefthander retired Bishop for the third out in the ninth inning when a long hit would have put the Athletics ahead.

Yesterday, in the deciding game, Hallahan got Bishop on a fly to Martin for the third out after the Athletics had made two runs off Grimes to get to within two runs of a tie.

A week ago Friday, with the bases filled in the ninth after the much-written play on Pinch Hitter Moore's strikeout, Hallahan made Bishop hit a foul which Jim Bottomley grabbed in a sensational catch, falling into a field box and ending the game, 2—0, favor Cardinals.

the outstanding fielder. His work was the inspiration that carried us through. All the infielders played great ball, and I'm particularly proud of Andy High, who filled in for Adams at third.

"The umpiring was good and bad in spots. Bill Klem, however, worked perfectly in every game. He's the best umpire in the major leagues.

"So long, boys, and thanks."

Congratulations From Mack.

With that Gabby rushed into the room where the jubilant Cards, singing and yelling, were pulling off their uniforms for a duck under the showers. Eddie Collins, first lieutenant to Connie Mack, rushed in carrying congratulations from the 68-year-old leader of the conquered Athletics. He was followed by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball; John A. Heydler, president of the National League; Branch Rickey, vice president and guiding genius of the Cardinals, and a flock of others.

"The best club won," said Collins, as he gripped Street in a hearty handshake. "Mr. Mack sent me over to tell you that. My sincere congratulations."

Mack had remained in the American League offices at Sportsman's Park to greet newspaper men instead of going over personally to extend his congratulations to Street.

"They Had Me Bearing Down."

Burleigh Grimes, the 38-year-old spitball campaigner, said he pitched the game of his life to win that championship. He declared he was not tired in the eighth, when Hallahan first began to warm up, but explained he wanted to rest so that he could finish. That's why he stalled so much.

"I had a hard time with those boys," he beamed. "They're great hitters. They had me bearing down all the way. I didn't fool. They're a tough club to beat."

The fond dream of Connie Mack of becoming the only manager to win three successive world's championships was shattered, and the tall leader of the Athletics felt a bit downhearted about it.

"I am sorry to lose the series, not so much on my own account as on account of my players, my league and because I am a loyal Philadelphian and wished to take a third successive world's series back to that city," he said.

Mack Praises Cards.

He praised the Cards as a great ball club. He hoped the Athletics would be lucky enough to win the American league pennant next year and that the Cards would be their foes in the series of 1932.

"I give all the credit to the Cardinals and Manager Street," He said. "We must give Grimes credit for pitching another great game. His club gave him a four-run lead, but he did not become careless. He bore down all the time, but after he struck out Simmons, Foxx and Dykes in the seventh inning he was through. He wore himself out in that inning, but did not weaken sufficiently for us to win.

"Earnshaw did not reserve that first inning, when two pop flies fell safely just out of reach of our infielders. He was pitching great ball. Of course, Watkins earned the two runs that came in the third.

"Earnshaw gave Watkins a fast ball, the same kind of a ball that he had pitched in his game at Philadelphia, when he retired Watkins on four fly balls in four times up. This time, however, instead of keeping the ball high, he got a little bit lower than he should have pitched it. It was just where Watkins wanted it."

How Cardinals Won Deciding Game, Play by Play

The crowd made up in enthusiasm for what it lacked in numbers and applauded vigorously when Grimes disposed of Bishop easily. The first two pitches were strikes, then a ball and Bishop fouled to High.

Haas grounded to Frisch, who fumbled, but recovered in time to catch the runner at first with a hurried throw.

Grimes pitched three balls to Cochrane; but found the plate with the next one for a called strike and on the next pitch Mickey grounded to Frisch to end the first half inning.

Two Runs in the First.

Andy Hign started the Cardinals off on the right foot in their half of the inning. He hit a pop single to left center, Williams and Simmons fearing they would interfere with each other. George Watkins got a similar hit, a pop fly that fell well inside the left field line, but far out of reach of Simmons, who was playing toward center for the left-handed hitting Cardinal right fielder.

Frisch neatly sacrificed, Dykes to Foxx, and two Cardinals were in scoring position, with Pepper Martin at the plate and the stands cheering wildly.

The first pitch to Pepper was bad but he failed to draw back his bat and the ball hit the end for a foul and strike one. The next was a ball, Pepper swung and missed the next and a ball made it two and two. The next also was wide, but as Martin ducked it hit his bat and caromed away for a foul. Pepper then fouled one toward the St. Louis dugout. Earnshaw's next pitch was high and wild and it broke past Cochrane's glove and rolled to the back stop, High scoring and Watkins reached third. The next was high and inside and Martin drew a pass.

Orsatti swung at the first offering, and missed, but Martin had a big lead and stole second, sliding hands first ahead of Cochrane's good throw.

Orsatti took the next one for strike two and then struck out, but Cochrane dropped the ball and had to throw Orsatti out at first, and Watkins took advantage of the break and dashed for home. A good throw would have had George, but Foxx's peg was low and Watkins was safe. Foxx was charged with an error. Martin took third on the play, but Bottomley fanned to end the inning.

Watkins was spiked in the left ankle, sliding into the plate, but he was patched up and remained in the game, though he limped slightly as he returned to his position in right field, and the Athletics took their second turn at bat.

Two Hits for Athletics.

Simmons, first up in the second, got the first hit off Grimes, a line single to right center, Watkins taking the ball on the first hop.

Foxx looked dangerous up there but Watkins ran toward the foul line and hauled down his fly. Bing Miller was more fortunate and his line single to left moved Simmons to second. Dykes hit sharply to High and it looked like a double play, but Frisch, after taking the throw at second, forcing Miller, had to dodge the sliding Miller and his throw to first was late.

Dibrell Williams had a chance to do something, but he sent a slow grounder to Gelbert, who ran in fast and rifled a throw to Bottomley for the third out.

Wilson, first up in the Cardinal second, drew a pass on four pitched balls, all of them far out of the strike zone. The walk was quickly nulified, however, when Dykes made a good stop of Gelbert's hot grounder and started a double play. Bishop, who took the throw at second, made a low relay to first, but the ball bounced right into Foxx's glove. Grimes was called out on strikes to end the inning.

Earnshaw opened the third inning with a harmless grounder to High, but Bishop waited, worked his string to three and two and drew a pass. Max didn't stay on first long, however. He took too long a lead while Haas was batting and Wilson, taking a high pitch inside, whipped the ball to Bottomley and Bishop was caught off the bag. Haas sent a long fly to right, but Watkins, backing against the pavilion, made the catch.

Watkins Hits Home Run.

Andy High got his second hit to open the Cardinal third inning and this one was no fluke safety. It was a solid drive that Bishop dived for, but couldn't catch.

Then the crowd had its biggest cheer of the day. Watkins swung at the first pitch and lo and behold! The ball soared toward Grand boulevard. The spectators knew at once that it was a home run. It bounced on the roof once and then dropped into Grand boulevard and George trotted around the bases, scoring behind High to put the Cardinals four runs ahead.

That was the end of the attack, as Frisch flied to Haas. Martin popped to Bishop and Orsatti struck out. The third strike was low and Cochrane threw to Foxx for the putout on Ernie.

No Base Runners in Fourth.

Grimes disposed of three tough customers in the fourth inning. Cochrane bounced to Frisch, the terrible Simmons grounded to Gelbert, and Foxx, swinging from his heels, struck out, without getting a foul.

The fourth was Earnshaw's easiest inning, not a Cardinal reaching base. Bottomley struck out for the second time, Williams threw out Wilson and Gelbert popped to Foxx.

Bing Miller got his second hit, a single to center, to start the fifth inning and Bottomley sat down fielding Dykes' roller, or he might have had a force play at second. Jim scrambled to his feet, however, in time to beat Dykes to the bag. Williams followed with a scratch hit, beating out a slow bounder to High, while Miller moved to third.

A double play took Grimes safely out of the inning. Earnshaw grounded to Frisch and Gelbert, taking the throw at second, pegged to Bottomley in time to double Earnshaw.

Andy and George Go Out.

Earnshaw made the Cardinal fifth a quick inning, retiring three batters without difficulty. Grimes tapped gently to Dykes. Earnshaw grabbed High's bounder and tossed him out and Watkins bounced to Foxx.

Grimes continued his shutout pitching in the sixth. Bishop, first up, took three called strikes, getting a foul between the last two. Haas again hit a long drive, but Orsatti backed toward the bleacher wall and made the catch. Cochrane, swinging half - heartedly, rolled to High and was thrown out.

Martin Out on Grounder.

Frisch bunted to start the home sixth, but the ball was poorly placed and Earnshaw threw him out. Martin, still looking for a record-breaking hit, was cheered when he went to the plate. He fouled one against the stand and then hit one into the left field stands, another foul. Two more foul tips and then on the next one Martin hit to Williams, who made a clean stop of the grounder and threw Pepper out at first.

Orsatti struck out for the third time to end the frame, taking a called strike after a couple of swings.

"Strike him out, Burleigh," the crowd yelled when Simmons went to bat to open the seventh inning and Burleigh did just that. Grimes needed only three pitches, Wilson squeezing a foul tip for the third strike.

Jimmy Foxx was just as helpless. He hit a foul near the backstop screen and then took a called third strike.

Miller Hits Third Time.

Grimes had two strikes on Miller, but Bing had another hit in his bat, his third straight single. It was a hot grounder near second. Gelbert checked the ball but it rolled away from him for a safety.

The hit merely prolonged the inning, however, as Dykes went down swinging. Grimes' third strikeout of the frame.

Three Cardinals went down in order in the seventh, making a total of 15 consecutive batters retired by Earnshaw. Bottomley popped to Cochrane in front of the plate, Wilson flied to Haas and Gelbert was Earnshaw's seventh strikeout victim.

Bill Hallahan, twice victor over the Athletics in the series, began to warm up in the bull pen as the American Leaguers went to bat in the eighth inning. It was a precautionary measure.

Two Passes, No Damage.

Grimes still seemed as strong as ever and Williams, first up, struck out.

Phil Todt, a St. Louis boy, then made his first appearance in the series, batting for Earnshaw. Burleigh quickly had two strikes on Todt, but he worked too carefully on the corners and Todt drew a pass. Bishop, swinging weakly, was thrown out by High and Haas walked, but the two passes did no damage, as Grimes knocked down Cochrane's hot line drive, pounced on the ball like a panther on its prey and threw Mickey out at first.

Rube Walberg, a southpaw, went to the hill to pitch the eighth inning. The first two offerings to Grimes were balls, but Burleigh walked down and conferred with Manager Street, and the returned and struck at the next three. He sswung at the second one after it was in Cochrane's glove and Stark, not seeing the swing, called it a ball, but Eddie Collins ran out and protested and Stark changed his decision after consulting Umpire McGowan. Street apparently didn't want to tire Burleigh by making him run any bases.

Andy High followed with his third hit of the game, a bounder over second that Williams reached for but missed. Watkins drew a pass, Frisch popped to Dykes and then the crowd cheered because Pepper Martin was getting his last chance at the world series batting record for total hits. Pepper didn't make it. He took two balls, a called strike and then two vicious swings for a strike out, and will have to be satisfied with a tie for the honor.

The Hectic Ninth.

Simmons was first up when the Athletics took their final turn at bat. The first pitch to him was inside, but he swung and missed. The next was a ball outside and the third a called strike that cut the outside corner. Simmons declined to fish for the next one, a curve outside, and a low ball made the call three and two. And when the next was high, Simmons walked.

Jimmy Foxx looked bad on a couple of swings and then fouled to Wilson, near the back stop, for the first out. Miller, who hit safely on three previous trips to the plate, grounded to Gelbert and his throw to Frisch forced Simmons at second. Frisch's relay barely missed a double play. In fact the Cards thought it was a double play and protested McGowan's decision at first base.

Grimes seemed to be tiring and Dykes drew the second pass of the inning. Burleigh was still wild pitching to Williams and the batter worked his string to three and two. Then he hit a high bounder toward third and the ball caromed off High's outstretched glove for a single. Gelbert, backing up the play, got the ball and held Miller at third, but the bases were filled.

Cramer, a left-handed hitter, was sent in to bat for Walberg. The pinch hitter delivered. With a call of two and two, he popped a single to center and Miller and Dykes raced home, while Williams stopped at second.

That was enough for Grimes. He knew he was not the tough pitcher of earlier innings and he willingly walked from the field, while Hallahan, twice victor over the Athletics, took over the hurling job.

Bill's first two pitches to Bishop were balls, but he then grooved two and Bishop took them for strikes. The next was low and outside and the count was three and two.

But the next one was in the strike zone and Pepper Martin had the honor of hauling down Bishop's fly to end the series, which made the Cardinals champions of the world.

CARDINALS WON ON THEIR MERIT, MACK WRITES

By Connie Mack.

Manager Philadelphia Athletics.

The Cardinals showed their real strength when they came back yesterday and won the seventh game to give the National League its first world championship since 1926.

I give Gabby Street and his men full credit for their victory. There is no flaw in their conquest for they won the series on their merits.

I felt certain that we would carry off the title again after Fridays' victory, but I was wrong. Burleigh Grimes pitched better ball than I thought and the National Leaguers were triumphant.

CONNIE MACK.

Yet it must be admitted that it was a tough game for Earnshaw to lose. Two pop flies just out of the reach of Williams and Simmons tabbed two runs for the Cardinals in the first inning and that proved their margin of victory.

Earnshaw's One Mistake.

Earnshaw's one mistake was pitching a fast ball to Watkins in the third inning. He pitched right in his groove and Watkins belted the ball out of the park. High was on base at the time and these two runs beat us.

Otherwise Earnshaw pitched masterly ball and he did not let a man reach base after Watkins hit his homer. The damage, however, had already been done. Earnshaw retired in favor of a pinch hitter and Walberg was on duty in the eighth and blanked the Cardinals.

Grimes wiggled out of trouble several times. We never could get started until it was too late. We had two runners on bases in the second, fifth and eighth innings, but could get none of them over the plate.

Our rally did not start until the ninth, when Grimes started to show some effects of the hard work he had done. Pinch-hitter Cramer batted for Walberg and delivered a timely single that scored our two runs.

Two men were out and Hallahan went to the rubber to replace Grimes. Max Bishop tried his best and took a healthy sock at the ball, but it sailed straight to Martin and the series was over.

"My Players Did Their Best."

There is nothing else to say. The Cardinals profited better than we did by the events of the afternoon, and the final game was lost.

My players battled their best, but we were in a batting slump most of the time. I thought they were out of it as a result of their victory Friday, but they could not hit timely in the final game. If you don't hit timely in a world series you are going to lose.

As good a batsman as Cochrane was virtually useless to us on the attack in this series, when he generally is one of our most dependable men at the bat. I am not trying to pick out Cochrane as the goat, however. The Athletic team as a whole did not play its game. We simply were not there.

I suppose it is simply not in the wood for one team to win three straight world series. That's what we tried for and we failed, although forcing the Cardinals to seven games.

No other team has been able to win three world flags in a row, and the Cardinals prevented us from doing that.

WESTMINSTER BLUEJAYS CRUSH WASHINGTON U. ELEVEN, 20 TO 0

TOLLIVER SCORES THREE TIMES; BEARS' PASSING ATTACK FAILS

By James M. Gould.

Little Westminster College went to Francis Field last night "loaded for bear" and they got their Bear in workmanlike football fashion, defeating Washington University, 20-0. The Blue Jays from Fulton, Mo., had an attack which was just what Washington lacked and there was no doubt as to which was the better team.

Westminster introduced a young streak of lightning in the person of Keith Tolliver, a quarterback from Springfield, Mo. He was hurt and out of action in the second half, but in the first, ran around and through the Bears at will, scoring all three touchdowns on runs, respectively, of 20, 77 and 34 yards. When Tolliver was forced out, Westminster's attack went with him. After the first half, Washington desperately attempted to pass, but, trying 25, completed only seven, most of which were only for short gains.

In the second quarter, one of the longer of these was completed and the Bears had the ball on the Blue Jays' one-yard line on a first down. But, even from there, they couldn't show sufficient punch to score. After that, they were never closer than 20 yards to the Westminster goal. There was no scoring in the two final periods.

It was the first defeat of the year for Washington and the third straight victory for Westminster.

Washington fumbled often and on offense showed little power or cohesion.

World Series Sidelights

By Herman Wecke.

If nothing else, Connie Mack has faith in George Earnshaw as a batter. In the fifth inning of the final, men were on first and third and the Athletics were four runs behind, when Earnshaw came up and hit into a double play. In the fifth inning of the second game, against Hallahan, the A's had men on second and third with but one out and that time he also hit into a double play. In the seventh round of the second contest, he was permitted to hit with runners on first and third and struck out to end the battle. Can you imagine the roar which would have gone up had Gabby Street permitted his hurlers to hit under similar conditions?

During the series, the Redbirds had seven double plays, or one in each contest.

Williams Strikeout King.

Dibrell Williams, the young shortstop of the Athletics, gained the somewhat dubious title of "strikeout" king with nine. This is the same number which made Jim Bottomley the "goat" of 1930. Williams, however, made quite a few hits and finished with an average of better than .300 on the series.

They certainly took the "rabbit" out of the baseball on the series. There were only five home runs. Simmons had two, while Foxx, Martin and Watkins had one each.

Although the Cardinals beat Earnshaw to win the world title, they made only 12 hits off the big right hander in the 24 innings he pitched in the series.

Grimes found for 10 hits in two games in 1930, stopped the Athletics with nine in 17-2-3 this year. Quite a bit of pitching from a 38-year-old veteran.

American Still Tops National.

The world series count between the two leagues now is 16 victories for the American and 11 for the National. Previous to this season, the National League teams had won only three games and dropped 16.

The attendance was the smallest which ever attended a world series game at Sportsman's Park.

"Boy did you see Martin make that $1500 catch," said Coach Buzzy Wares as he left the ball park. "That certainly was a long fly to carry that much money."

Connie Mack was after his third straight victory in world series competition, something no other manager had accomplished. But Burleigh Grimes and Bill Hallahan, plus George Watkins and other Redbirds saw to it that he did not achieve his goal.

The Athletics did not attempt a steal during the series.

Players on Japanese Tour.

Except for a few exhibitions, it was finis until 1932 for most of the players. Frankie Frisch, captain of the Redbirds, and Al Simmons, Mickey Cochrane and Bob Grove, will now become teammates for a tour of Japan with an All-Star major league club. The athletes will stop off on the coast for a night game, before sailing for the Orient.

When Max Bishop took two called strikes facing Bill Hallahan, Al Simmons, the American League's champion batter and one of the Mackmen's stars in the series, jumped off the bench and kicked half a dozen bats towards the field. Simmons appeared disgusted from the way Bishop was permitting good balls to go over the plate without offering at them.

One member of the Athletics was right at home at the finish of the game. He was Phil Todt, who again will winter here.

STANFORD WINS OVER MINNESOTA ELEVEN, 13 TO 0

By the Associated Press.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Oct. 10.—Ripping Minnesota's defense into shreds with a fourth period offensive that swept everything before it, Stanford's Indians scored a 13 to 0 victory today over the Mid-Western team in a fiercely fought intersectional battle.

Behind the reverses, fake reverse and laterals that go to make up coach Glenn Warner's famed system of football, the Indians turned a potentially scoreless game into a Minnesota rout.

For nearly three periods, the warriors from the Northwest had either held their own or withstood scoring threats. Then Somers, whose brilliant plays at quarterback for Minnesota had thrilled 30,000 spectators time and again, miscalculated a punt. It slipped from his hands, and Hand, Stanford substitute left tackle, dropped on it, 21 yards from Minnesota's scoring turf.

Stanford's big rally started. Allen flipped a pass to Caddel that was good for 17 yards. Hillman, quarterback, plunged into the center of the line and came up with a one-yard gain. Cadel went over the remaining three yards for a touchdown. Moffatt made the try for point with a placekick.

Cheering had hardly died down before the men of Stanford were on their way to another score. The Indians received the kick off on their 22-yard line. When the ball was released by them, another touchdown had been posted on the score board.

NORTHWESTERN STOPS NOTRE DAME'S STRING AT 20 WITH A TIE

game and gave the two teams chances during the frenzied battle for that precious touchdown, but the punting duel between March Schwartz and Olson made spectators forget about those mistakes. The two, realizing the game might be won or lost on the break of a fumble, kicked frequently and thrilled the rain-soaked throng. Despite the wet, muddy ball, and the treacherous greensward, these two punters sent the oval on its way with remarkable accuracy and distance. One of Schwartz's boots traveled 71 yards, counting the short roll, while Olson sent his spinning 50, 60 and 65 yards.

Statistics gave Notre Dame a slight edge in the game despite the two big Wildcat threats that were almost cashed in. The raiders from South Bend made 106 yards from scrimmage to 81 by their rivals and piled up six first downs to Northwestern's three. Fumbling was about even, but Northwestern recovered nine muffs to six by the Irish. Not a single pass was completed and only one was intercepted and that one by Notre Dame deep in its own territory.

GEORGIA WINS THIRD STRAIGHT OVER YALE, 26-7

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN Conn., Oct. 10.—outclassing the Blue-Jerseyed opponents all the way, the Georgia Bulldogs completed another successful invasion of the Yale Bowl today by overwhelming a weak but courageous Yale eleven, 26 to 7, before 65,000 spectators.

It marked the third straight victory for Georgia over Mal Sterven's eleven and shattered a tradition that has endured as long as the vaunted "Big Three' of eastern football. Never before has a team outside of the Big Three defeated a member of the triumvirate three consecutive times.

Led by Homer Key, a galloping halfback from Columbus, Ga., the Southern Bulldogs crashed down the field four times, two each in the second and fourth periods, while Yale counted its only touchdown after recovering a fumble on Georgia's 30-yard line in the third period. Another time the forces of Albie Booth penetrated the Georgians' five-ward territory, but they couldn't fight their way across.

As if to assert its supremacy the further, Georgia used two complete teams with about equal results. First one and then the other took turns ripping through Yale's uncertain defense. They piled up a total of 258 yards by rushing from scrimmage, compared with Yale's 72, and gained twice as many yards by the aerial route. The victors chalked up 13 first downs, compared to four for Yale.

Impressive as was the Southern team's victory, however, it did not succeed in completely throttling little Albie Booth, who comprises a vast majority of Yale's football strength. The darting little leader of the Blue got away for one jaunt of 75 yards before he finally was tagged on Georgia's 20-yard line, and he scored Yale's lone touchdown in the third period, almost single handed. He was rivaled for the game's individual laurels only by Key and "Catfish" Smith, brilliant Georgia end. Georgia was fought on about even terms during the first period and it was not until the middle of the second that the invading Bulldogs got started on their victory march, scoring two touchdowns.

Georgia added two more touchdowns in the final period.

Brown Defeats Princeton Again, 19-7.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 10.—For the third straight year, Princeton was defeated today by a Brown University football team. The score was 19 to 7.

A fast moving interference followed by brilliant ball carriers enabled Brown to score three touchdowns, one each in every period except the first. Princeton got its lone score in the final quarter when Larsen caught Van Dyke's forward pass over the goal line.

Using an attack that consisted mainly of double and triple passes behind the line and ending up in off tackle smashes or wide end sweeps. The Bruins tore the Tiger line to shreds.

Dartmouth Defeats Holy Cross, 14 to 7.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 10.—Dartmouth, using every one of its guns, today overcame its first major opposition, the hard fighting Holy Cross Crusaders, by a 14-7 score, but in so doing probably ruined its 1931 prospects, for four of its outstanding linemen were injured.

The Dartmouth casualties were Capt. Stanley Yudicky, who made his first start of the season in the second period; Mackey, end; Bill Hoffman, first string guard, and Henry Durgin, one of the starting tackles. It is likely all four will be out of action for several weeks.

RUTH SAYS CARDS OUTPLAYED A'S AND DESERVED TO WIN SERIES

By Babe Ruth.

My hat is off to Gabby Street and the members of his Cardinal team. I picked the Athletics to win the series and up to the last I had hopes that they would do it, but they failed and there is no excuse. The Cardinals outplayed their American League rivals and rightly deserve the honors they have won.

It was a great finish to a highly interesting series. Burleigh Grimes was too much for the Athletics just as he had been in his other start and Earnshaw gave a fine exhibition of pitching after a weak start. The series finally went down to a point where a long hit in the ninth inning of the last game could have changed the result, which shows that it was a fight worth while. But, as I said before, the Cards deserved to win.

Grimes Tired.

It was tough on Grimes that he could not stay to the final out of the game after the wonderful work he did. But Burleigh has been around a number of years and his early exertions tired him out. I could see it in the eighth that he was weakening and I thought he would be taken out when two walks and Williams' hit filled the bases in the ninth. But Gabby Street hated to do it. He wanted to give Burleigh every effort to pull himself out of the difficulty and pitch the final out.

Then Roger Cramer hit a single to center which scored two runs and Street had to act. I know just how Burleigh must have felt in not being allowed to go to the finish but he was the correct answer in the biggest game of the baseball year, so I guess he will not complain.

Sorry for Pepper.

I was a little sorry, too, for Pepper Martin, even though I was pulling for the Athletics to win. I wanted to see Pepper get the hit which would set a new record for world series. Establishing records always adds interest to any sport. He had three chances in Friday's game and three more yesterday and couldn't hit one safely. But that's the way it goes. He had been pulling too hard for the record hit.

But Martin must be held as the hero of the series. He was the main reason why the Mackmen were beaten three times in the first five games, and with Grimes and Hallahan, he stands out as the Cardinal star.

For the Athletics Simmons and Foxx hit well and I figure Earnshaw pitched better ball in losing two of the three games than Grove did in winning two of three. I must pay my respects to Mickey Cochrane who caught through the seven games when he was physically unfit. Injuries on hand and leg, an ailing stomach and several pounds below his usual weight could not dim the fire of Mickey's playing. He wasn't the catcher that he was through the season in our league, but physical ailments explained that.

Change Good for Baseball.

I must say I was badly disappointed in the crowd. I went out to the park believing that people would be battling to get into the place, but there were no such scenes and I went in to find the park only a little more than half filled. I think a great many ardent rooters gave up hope after that 8-1 defeat the Cardinals suffered on Friday and that had a lot to do with keeping them away. Then there was the long distance which many would have to go for tickets, with the possibility that there might not be any. So they would not make the trip for them.

It has happened before in world series. People fight for tickets and pay speculators' prices up to the final game, and then it is impossible to sell all the tickets overnight, even though the game is the most important of the series. It was too bad there wasn't a crowded house for this finish, as the game was worth it with a thrilling ninth-inning rally that might have changed the result.

It is a long time since the National League champions won and a change is a good thing for baseball, at that. Too many victories are like too many cooks.

Harvard Defeats New Hampshire, 39-0.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 10.—A hard-riding Harvard football team ran rough shod over the University of New Hampshire eleven to score a 39-to-0 victory before a crowd of 20,000 in the Stadium today.

Playing their second game under the regime of Head Coach Eddie Casey, the Crimson stuck closely to football fundamentals, as in their opening game against Bates a week ago. A powerful line that tore wide gaps in the New Hampshire forwards, enabled the Harvard backs to plow through for long gains. The Wildcats, unable to penetrate the Harvard defense through the first three-quarters, put on a brief closing surge that carried them to the Harvard three-yard line in the final minute of play.

The Harvard first team, after rolling up three touchdowns, gave way to the reserves before the end of the second period.

Had he named Sept. 29, it would have forced Mack to use a second-string pitcher on his third game and might have broken up his two-man combination.

But—as Breadon believed, no two pitchers were equal to stopping his fine array of hurlers and hitters indefinitely, and Earnshaw in the final game weakened at the start just enough to prove the correctness of his reasoning.

The vindication of the club and of the league's prowess is now complete. And the taunts that followed four successive defeats by the American League, with only three world series victories out of 19 games, now will be silenced for good.

Asking Too Much.

THE result indicates that Connie Mack will have to develop another airtight pitcher next season, if he is to come back and win a world title.

There have been signs this year that the old Elephant was not as strong as usual. The team's hitting has been weaker all season and his replacements except Williams have not been first-class.

The series definitely proves that even two SUPER pitchers are not enough to walk off with a world championship from a rival well fortified with hurlers. The strain on the morale is more than two arms can sustain.

It's Worth While.

CLUB owners of the past have been heard to remark that they would rather finish second than win the world series. But that was before the day of million dollar gates.

Today it is worth real money to the participating clubs, even though the players and the advisory council get the lion's share of the first four games' receipts.

Take the case of the Cardinals who have participated in four world series in six years. Their share of the receipts in that time has been about $475,000, $100,000 more than was paid to Mrs. Britton when the "Knot Hole Gang" first bought the franchise and grounds at Vandeventer avenue.

That series money, of course, was over and above the big mid-season profits for the various years since the Cardinals began to occupy the seats of the mighty.

How He Has Shrunk.

PRIMO CARNERA is not exactly a shrinking violet. But my, how he has shrunk! And that goes two ways. He has dwindled more than 25 pounds in weight and almost 100 per cent in public interest, since a year or so ago, when he swept through the country on the crest of a wave of popularity and conquest.

For his fight with Jack Sharkey tomorrow night at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, he has announced that he would weigh under 260 pounds, the lowest figure since he first came to America and about 25 pounds under his European fighting weight. And as to popularity, Carnera hasn't been asked for his autograph for three months. From what was considered a sure half-million dollar attraction, a few months ago Carnera, even with Jack Sharkey as his opponent, has dwindled to a point where a $250,000 gate will be considered wonderful.

Sign of Good Condition.

CARNERA'S SHRINKAGE in weight is commendable. It means that this big fellow has not ceased his efforts to keep himself in fine physical condition and to gain more knowledge of boxing. It means that those who attend this fight will see the finest specimen of conditioned big man that was ever seen in a ring. At 260 pounds Carnera is as fine as a greyhound, with his ribs showing and his big muscles standing out as though carved in wood.

His dwindling popularity comes from a less commendable cause. This is the belief that he is in unscrupulous hands and that his campaign may be mismanaged—or worse.

One can't say much about that feature, not knowing the whole truth. But to the best of this writer's belief, Bill Duffy, however unsavory his reputation, is trying in every way possible to develop this giant into a real champion and thinks he is approaching success. At no time for the past several months has Carnera sidestepped foes. All the 'running" has been done by his rivals; and the runaways include Champion Max Schmeling and Young Stribling as well. Sharkey, it appears also tried to escape. Max and Willie both sidestepped propositions to meet him and Schmeling had to resort to a subterfuge to evade a contract with Carnera.

Expect Sharkey to Win.

AS to what Sharkey will do to Carnera in 15 rounds or vice versa, that's what has the boys buzzing. Most of the experts were scornful about the Italian until Jack Sharkey showed that a middleweight could hold him even and now they are not certain whether Sharkey or Carnera will prove the worse of the two.

Few doubt that Sharkey will beat a tattoo on Carnera, especially during the earlier rounds; but the mystery lies in how many thousand powderpuff punches Sharkey will take to bring the Man Mountain low.

The prevailing view is that Sharkey will win on points, most of the experts believing Carnera too huge to be seriously bothered by the smaller man's punches.

Has Carnera Improved?

IF there is any man mayhem done, it is likely that Carnera will commit it, although he is a poor puncher with his right hand and does not get full steam behind his left. If in the last six months Carnera has learned how to cross his right hand, Sailor Sharkey is likely to encounter the surprise of his life.

Sharkey's Punch Weak.

THERE is no way to accurately forecast such a fight, except to say that Sharkey is a weak-hitting heavy, whose last fight was a poor one and who will be conceding 65 pounds to his foe; and that Carnera is apparently too big to hurt, but too slow to land a powerful blow on a fast man.

Carnera's chance will come if, after 10 rounds of futile punching, Sharkey tires or becomes discouraged, thereby opening the way to a killing punch.

On the other hand, Sharkey will find that Carnera is far from being the boob in handling his fists that he has been advertised.

Carnera outpointed Maloney using one hand only, the right arm being devoted exclusively to protecting broken ribs, on that occasion. Few men would agree to take on Jimmy Maloney with one hand barred.

The match will be interesting because it will shed some light on the mystery of how good is Carnera or how bad is Sharkey?

PASSES ENABLE PURDUE TO WIN OVER ILLINOIS BY 7-0 SCORE

By the Associated Press.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 10.—Purdue, still lacking polish in its running plays, but showing lots of latent power, defeated the young and hard fighting Illinois eleven in the first Western conference football game of the season for either team here today, 7 to 0.

The Boilermakers prevailed more than the score indicated, but fumbles exacted heavy toll. The Illini strong on defense, showed little in line plunges or aerial attack that Purdue could not meet successfully.

The only points were made in the second period, when two long passes, each Hecker to Moss, placed the ball 16 yards from the Illinois goal. Three running plays gave the Boilermakers first down on the four-yard line. Purvis then went wide around left end for the touchdown and Hecker place kicked for the point.

It was late in the same period that the Illini made one of their two rallies. Berry circled end for 15 yards and Evans substituted at right halfback, took a pass from Horsley and was downed on the Purdue's 35-yard line after a gain of 27 yards. Three Illinois passes were battered down and the flash was over.

Purdue Superior.

A partially blocked kick from the toe of Fred Hecker gave Illinois another opportunity in the third period. Illinois got the ball on Purdue's 25-yard line, but a furious defensive ended the scare.

Purdue made 13 first downs, to three for Illinois. The Boilermakers made 332 yards from scrimmage, including seven successful forward passes out of 14 attempts.

Illinois made 85 yards from scrimmage, including four successful forward passes for 37 yards. The Illini tried 15 aerial assaults.

SETH'S HOPE RUNS FASTEST MILE OF MEETING AT FAIRMOUNT

PARSON ENTRY TIMED AT 1:39 IN CAPTURING $1500 HANDICAP

Seth's Hope of the J. A. Parsons Stable, established himself clearly as the best of the horses that have gone to the post at Fairmount Park since the running of the Fairmount Handicap, when he won the Hotel Statler Handicap here yesterday over a high class field in the time of 1:39. It was the fastest mile race decided at this track this season.

Second to the Parsons star was Port O' Play, a new comer from Riverside Park, and Totem, a recent winner here, finished third after making a great stretch run. In the beaten field were Etonardo, Nyack, Hand to Hand, Lady Seth and Dixie King. Lady Seth ran coupled with Seth's Hope and Etonardo and Nyack were the Seremba entry.

Seth's Hope Closes Fast.

Etonardo set the early pace with Hand to Hand and Nyack following closely. Seth's Hope was not called on for his speed until the turn from the back stretch. He then went by the mid-fielders as he pleased and coming into the stretch, gained a clear lead, which he maintained to win by a length and a half.

This race and others which provided a lot of excitement with close finishes and popular winners were witnessed by a crowd of about 9000, of surprising proportions considering that the last world series game was being played here.

Roll 'Em Down Wins Opener.

The first race resulted in an exciting finish between Roll 'em Down, the favorite, owned by R. Van Ry and Vladimir, one of the field horses, the decision going to the former by a head. Sen Ruben who was linked in the field, finished third.

Ninotte, running in the field, started off the daily double, paying $18.40. The six-year-old Chicle mare, owned by Mrs. S. Orr, quickly reached the front after Starter Wingfield had released the big bunch on almost even terms, and she was good enough to hold on throughout, although she was strongly challenged by Winning Card near the end with Captain J. S., the favorite, well up in third place.

"Double" Pays $226.

J. Hernandez, little New Orleans rider whose father, "Butsey" Hernandez, has a small string of horses here, distinguished himself by riding both winners of the "daily double." He was on Ninotte in the second and Eric the Red, winner of third, and in the latter instance he had to hustle his mount hard to win from Vanquish. Nursery Rhymes was third.

The double on the two mounts of Hernandez paid $226.64.

Belleville Beats Granite City, E. St. Louis Wins

In the two Southwestern Illinois High School Conference games played yesterday, the Granite City eleven, defending champions, was defeated by Belleville, 13 to 12, and East St. Louis High defeated Madison, 20 to 0.

Madison could not stop the plunging of Kavalier, and the passing attack the East Side team opened, and at the end of the first quarter. In the second quarter, Coach Nolen of the East Side team used his entire second team and the Madison eleven managed to hold them to a scoreless quarter.

The Granite City-Belleville game proved an upset as the Granite City team was rated as a possible repeater in the conference. Fumbles proved costly to the Granite City eleven and both teams took to the air from start to finish.

MARYLAND WINS ITS FIRST VICTORY OVER NAVY, 6-0

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Striking swiftly through the air to score the only touchdown of the game, the University of Maryland today beat the Navy, 6-0, for the first time in football history.

Before 20,000 rooters at Griffith Stadium the Golden-Jerseyed-old liners tallied in the third period on a perfect forward pass play. They fought the Middies to a standstill the rest of the struggle.

The touchdown came with spectacular suddenness. The ball was in mid-field. George Chalmers, triple threat halfback, dropped back and hurled a long arching pass.

Al Pease, speedy left end, gathered it in over his shoulder on a dead run and dashed 20 yards to score without a Navy man near him.

Army Overpowers Michigan Aggies, 20-7.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 10.—A substitute Army backfield, led by Ken Fields of Elkhart, Ind., today gave the Cadets a 20 to 7 victory over an outnumbered Michigan State squad in the first major test of the year for the future Generals.

Outfought and outmaneuvered most of the first half by the green and white clad visitors from East Lansing, the Cadets opened up a full bag of tricks with the entry of Fields, Bob Carver of Dallas, Edward Herb of Revere, Mass., and Henry Sebastian of Sherman, Tex., in the second quarter and pushed over two touchdowns in half a dozen plays.

Bob Monnett, stubby legged little halfback from Bucyrus, O., gave the Michigan State rooters new hope at the start of the second half when he broke loose on the third play to run 62 yards to a score behind perfect interference, but Army tightened its defense and held the visitors safe thereafter.

Army's third touchdown came in the third quarter when Jack Price, Army's big tackle and captain, from Fort Dodge, Ia., intercepted a forward and ran from midfield to the five-yard line before he was caught from behind. Thomas Kilday, another of the Texas boys, from San Antonio, bucked it over in two trys.

BURNING BLAZE CAPTURES $20,000 JUVENILE RACE AT LAUREL

COLT FINISHES FAST TO BEAT TICK ON BY MORE THAN A LENGTH

By the Associated Press.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 10.—Burning Blaze, sensational colt that races for Pat and Richard Nash of Chicago, added further to his juvenile triumphs when he administered defeat to 14 of the outstanding colts and fillies of the season. With the lone exception of C. V. Whitney's Top Flight when he accounted for the renewal of the $20,000 Richard Johnson Stakes here this afternoon.

Carrying the crushing impost of 130 pounds and high weight amongst his most formidable rivals, Burning Blaze under the excellent handling of Jockey W. Garner was forced to circle his field after being outpaced for the first three furlongs, staged a sensational rush that has been his forte in all of his starts of late, and wearing the early leaders down rapidly through the final furlong of the six-furlong sprint, was across the winning line to lead his nearest opponent, Tick On, by a length and one-half. Third fell to Pairbypair, which performed for Mrs. J. D. Hertz, while George Wingfield's Western colt, Hygro, choice of the issue, barely lasted to stall off E. R. Bradley's Burgoo King for fourth money.

The Richard Johnson Stakes was the fourth number of the program and liberal estimates were that a crowd of 18,000 witnessed the running. Burning Blaze's owners were enriched with a purse of $13,225, and it followed upon his recent score in the Eastern Shore Handicap at Havre de Grace, in which his earnings for the prize exceeded $20,000.

Joseph E. Widener, president of the Metropolitan Jockey Club, and Hileah in Miami, presented to Pat Nash, one of the owners of the colt, the Richard Johnson trophy that must be won three times by the same owner to become his property.

Burning Blaze rushed hard to secure contending position, worked his way up fast, saved ground wherever possible and closing resolutely when straightened into home stretch took command in the last furlong, and was going away under strong pressure. Tick On improved his position steadily on the inside and finished courageously in the final drive. Pairbypair secured racing room between his field to enter contention and finished with good energy. Hygro was used up racing with Mexico and tired fast in the closing furlong. Burgoo King, a sluggish beginner, was forced to race extremely wide the entire trip. He was racing strongly at the end. Rabbit Skin met with some interference through the home stretch. Mexico displayed keen early speed, but was not good enough. Phanton Legion tired, as did Osculator. Tempus had no excuses.

$2 mutuels paid: Burning Blaze, win $10.70, place $5.10, show $4.90; Tick On, place $9.70, show 6.40; Pairbypair, show $3.70.

MRS. HYNES IS FAVORED TO WIN GOLF TOURNEY

Mrs. Ignatius S. Hynes, Westborough Country Club, is expected to have a comparatively easy time in winning her second district championship in the twelfth annual district tournament which opens at Bellerive Country Club tomorrow, in which 103 women members of the St. Louis district, have entered. Further entries are expected tomorrow as the association has announced that women players may enter at the first tee.

Mrs. Hynes won the championship in 1929 at North Hills Country Club in which she defeated Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr. of the Country Club in the final. She has won the medal play championship three times and was runner-up on another occasion.

Mrs. Wallace is considered the only real obstacle in Mrs. Hynes' path this year as she has been playing steadily and working to win another title. Mrs. Wallace, the former Audrey Faust, has won the title three times and the competition formerly lay between her and Miss Virginia Pep, who won the championship last year. Miss Pep has turned professional during the past year, however, and is, therefore, ineligible to compete in the tournament.

KANSAS AGGIES HAND MISSOURI 20 TO 7 DEFEAT

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 10.—Bo McMillin's husky, fumbling Kansas Aggies overpowered and defeated the Missouri Tigers in their Big Six Conference football season opener here today, 20 to 7, before an inaugural day crowd of 6500. Without the fumbles on this tropical October afternoon, Kansas State might have rolled up a more decisive margin, although the Tigers, too, yielded one touchdown on a bobbled pass back over the goal line late in the final period.

The fumble score showed nine by the Aggies and three against Missouri. Fumbling started in the scoreless first period when Missouri recovered two on the first two Aggie plays and made a bid for an early lead.

The Aggies' first touchdown march started when big Percy Gill's pass was intercepted by Henry Cronkite, Aggie end. Emmett Breen, reserve, Ralph Graham and Coach Bo's nephew, Ray McMillin, set the Tigers back on successive line plays to their two-yard stripe, whence Graham charged over for the first score.

Missouri tied the score on the first play of the second half when George Stuber, sophomore took Elden Auker's kickoff 95 yards to the goal line.

It was a re-enactment of one of Coach Gwinn Henry's oldest "touchdown plays," a modification of the ancient flying wedge with 10 players knit closely together for a concerted blocking charge on receipt of the kickoff.

The Aggies scored in the third period with an infantry and overhead offensive after Breen raced 37 yards around his left end to the Tiger's 37-yard line. Auker got away for 21 yards and fumbled, but recovered. Graham charged to the Missouri six-yard line and cracked the line twice for the touchdown.

Expulsion of Carl Johanningmeier, veteran Tiger back, for slugging and a penalty of half the distance to the goal, gave the Aggies the ball on the Missouri's 26-yard line, and another opportunity to score. Graham fumbled, however, at the one-yard line and Missouri punted out of danger momentarily.

The Aggies again drove back after Bushby intercepted Crane's pass, at the Missouri nine-yard line, but Bushby fumbled and Missouri recovered.

SHARKEY-CARNERA BOUT CALLED "BATTLE OF TWIN-ENIGMAS"

FORMER SAILOR IS FAVORED TO WIN 15-ROUNDER FROM ITALIAN

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—It may be a fight for the "American heavyweight championship" to the promoter but to the experts the forthcoming scrap between Primo Carnera and Jack Sharkey looks like the "battle of the twin enigmas."

Certainly Promoter Jimmy Johnston might have looked far and wide without discovering two other heavyweights over whose capabilities such violent and widespread controversy has arisen. Their 15-round duel in Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Monday night should settle once and for all just what right Sharkey has to his position of "permanent outstanding contender." By the same token, the bout should decide definitely Carnera's status among the heavyweights.

Sharkey a Mystery.

Sharkey has been the prize mystery man of the boxing industry ever since he was knocked out by Jack Dempsey in 1927. He knocked out Jack Delaney in one round and Tommy Loughran and Phil Scott in three and gained decisions over Young Stribling and K. O. Christner. But against these items on the credit side of the ledger was his sad draw with Tom Heeney, his defeat by Johnny Risko, the foul controversy surrounding his victory over Scott, his defeat by Max Schmeling on a foul last year and his recent draw with the overgrown middleweight, Mickey Walker.

He has been the most inconsistent of all the heavyweights and one of the most unpopular. Another defeat should remove him from the heavyweight picture but Sharkey, in the past, has had a disconcerting habit of bouncing right up again just when the critics had him down and out.

As for Carnera, many close observers have put him down in the book as a "freak" of no real fighting ability. There has been a widespread succession of rumors of "arranged" bouts which the mammoth Italian has won in short order and some of the boys still remember that Primo got no better than an even break in two bouts with Jimmy Maloney and never came close to upsetting the fragile Boston heavyweight. Stribling proved in Europe that the big Italian, despite his 270 pounds, could be floored.

Sharkey Is Favored.

Friends of Carnera maintain that the Italian has come along fast in the last year and that he now is a match for any heavyweight in the game.

The betting odds favor Sharkey at 6 to 5. Estimates of the probable attendance vary from 15,000 to 30,000.

John Burroughs Defeats Western "A" Eleven, 21-0

In the only "A" team game played in the "ABC" League yesterday, John Burroughs defeated Western Military Academy, 21 to 6. The Burroughs "B" team trampled Principia, 13-0. The Principia "C" eleven retaliated by winning over the Burroughs midgets, 6-0. At Alton the Country Day School "B" eleven was beaten by Western, 26-0. The Country Day "C" team won from the Western men, 6-0.

In the "A" game, John Burroughs exhibited one of the best elevens that the school has ever produced. In the first five minutes of play, after Western had received the kick-off, the Burroughs men recovered the ball and Glancy went for a sensational end run of 35 yards to place the pigskin on the five-yard line. Then Glancy crashed through the line for the first touchdown. Turner successfully kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter, after a number of successful line bucks, Turner made another touchdown from the three-yard line on a smashing line buck. Turner dropkicked the point after touchdown. In the same quarter Burroughs completed a long pass to Depew which placed the ball within scoring distance. Then Turner repeated his performance by scoring another touchdown and dropkicking the extra point. When the half ended the ball was on Western's 10-yard line.

In the last half the Burroughs players twice threatened the Western goal but were unable to score. The Cadets hit their stride in the final quarter and made great gains though they could not put the ball across the Burroughs' goal.

SNYDER HOPES TO START CLIMB BY DEFEATING CHRISTNER HERE

By W. J. McGoogan.

Angus Snyder, the husky farmer boy from Dodge City, Kan., whose aspirations for the heavyweight championship of the world suffered a severe shock recently, when he was knocked out by Ernie Schaaf, hopes to make another start in the right direction tomorrow night, when he tackles K. O. Christner of Akron, O., in the 10-round main event of Kid Bandy's initial show at the Coliseum.

Snyder has worked hard for the bout, and is in excellent condition. He has been in strict training for the past week at the National Gymnasium, and those few fans who have forgotten the world series long enough to see Angus exhibit his wares, agree that Christner likely will be in for a beating, something to which the rubber man from Akron has become accustomed during the past year or two.

Snyder, on his only previous appearance here, stopped John Schwake in five rounds with a terrific right-hand uppercut attack to John's head, which left both of Schwake's eyes in mourning. Christner has been matched with Schwake, but fas forced to cancel the engagement due to a broken hand. But the Akron battler has recovered now and is ready to tackle the stalwart Kansan.

Although he occupies a secondary position on the card, it is likely that most of the interest of the fans will be directed toward Johnny Kaiser, the veteran featherweight, who, late in his career, seems to have attracted the genuine admiration of a formerly hostile home public here. Kaiser made a sorry showing against Roy Logsdon at the Winter Garden in June, after which he laid off for several weeks and then came back to win several bouts on knockouts. He tackles Harry Forbes of Chicago, a boxer who is rated good enough to give Kaiser a hard test. Bandy has declared that he has a title match with the featherweight champion, Battling Battalino in the making for Kaiser if Johnny wins, but even if that is only a publicity puff, a far worse battle could be imagined.

In other contests, Chick Rains of Dodge City, Kan., a stablemate of Snyder, who has been campaigning here all summer, meets Bobby Green of Nashville, Tenn., while Frank Powers, a local heavyweight who has been inactive for more than a year, returns to the ring with Tim Charles of Louisville, Ky., as his opponent. Charles met Knost and Schwake here during the summer of 1930 and put up game but futile fights against the St. Louis heavyweights.

RIFE-WOODS TEAM SETS TWO RECORDS AT SARATOGA ALLEYS

The Rife-Woods bowling team established two alley records in the Maplewood Handicap League at the Saratoga drives Friday night, rolling 3095 for the three games and 1117 for one game. The Rife-Woods scored games of 947, 1031 and 1117.

The former record was held by the South Side Chevrolets, who two years ago, rolled 3050 and 1095 in a match game with the Saratoga Five.

"Buzz" Wilson, a member of the General Tires in the Major City and Washington Scratch Leagues, was high for the Rife-Woods team with a 682 series. He was followed by C. Glaub with 641, Al Bonfanti with 615, W. Glaub 606 and Jack Woods 551.

Knox Wins, 7-0.

GALESBURG, Ill., Oct. 10.—Knox drove to a touchdown in the first five minutes of play today and held the edge throughout the rest of the contest to defeat Illinois State Normal, 7 to 0, in a little Nineteen Conference football game. Burtle caught Vasen's pass and threw off two tacklers in a 25-yard dash across the goal line soon after play started. Center place kicked for the extra point. Vasen, who comes from Quincy, Ill., and managed to score a touchdown for Knox against Army last week, was injured and taken out of the game. He collapsed when he attempted to walk off the field after the end of the game. His head was injured.

Droke's Safety Gives Webster Eleven Victory

Charley Droke, left halfback of the Beaumont football team, lost an evenly but poorly played interleague game for his team yesterday afternoon to the Webster Groves High eleven, when he stepped out of the end zone in an attempt to kick out of danger, the act resulting in a safety and a 2-to-0 victory for the Robertsmen. The contest was played on the county field.

The lone score came in the third quarter, after Webster had driven the Lewismen to the one-foot mark, but lacked the strength to push the ball over the goal line.

Excepting the one misstep, Droke was the outstanding offensive player for the losers. He made several long plunges through the line to take the city team to the five-yard line in the opening period, but could not put it over.

Roosevelt High's football team scored its first victory in three games when it smothered the Principia Junior College eleven, 32 to 0, yesterday afternoon at Taylor Field. The Rough Riders, led by Jack Connors, who scored three touchdowns, were tuning up for the City High School League opening, Oct. 24.

Connors, the right half in the Rough Riders' backfield, was responsible for the first touchdown in the initial quarter and after Al Shannon counted in the second period, Connors made it 19 to 0 with a successful plunge from the six-yard line. Shannon place-kicked the point after the second touchdown.

In the third period, Connors tore off 51 yards for the fourth Rough Rider touchdown. The kick for the extra point was blocked. Carl Woods bucked the line for nine yards and the final score in the same quarter. Arbini made the score 32 when he plunged for the extra point.

The score by quarters:

Roosevelt	6	13	13	0—32

Scoring: Touchdowns—Connors 3, Shannon, Woods. Points after touchdowns—Shannon, place-kick; Arbini, plunge.

August, 1931.

RAYMOND P. BRANDT, for several years a member of the Post-Dispatch Washington staff, has had first-hand knowledge of Russia and its people since 1922. In that and the following year he was a district supervisor for the American Relief Administration, serving in different sections of Russia. He toured the country in 1930 to collect material for a series of articles for the Post-Dispatch and now he has just returned from his third visit to the Soviet States. His observations, obtained this summer in traveling some 6000 miles through the most active centers of the Russian experiment will be set forth in a series of articles to be published in the Sunday and daily editions of this newspaper, the first of which is here presented.

HE emblem of the Soviet Union is the hammer and sickle, the traditional tools of the workers and peasants. ried Views of Russian Plan.

n July and August the writer, on his third it to Russia, journeyed 6000 miles ough the Soviet Union seeking information on two main points: What changes, good bad, are the Russian leaders effecting by ist economy, and how successful have y been in carrying out the communistic as and ideals of their teachers Marx and nin? The findings of this personal inves- ation will be told in a series of articles in e Post-Dispatch.

Before coming to Russia this year the iter encountered four views about the Rus- n experiment. First, that consummation of 5-Year Plan and its successors would ke the country a vast market in which the t of the world could share, and that de- opment of the country by planned econ- y would create and distribute wealth, reby raising the living standards of Rus- ns who would increasingly demand great- comforts and luxuries. This is the view en by Col. Hugh L. Cooper, builder of Keokuk and Wilson Dams and now pres- of the Russian-American Chamber of mmerce.

The second view was that Russia, through nned economy and forced labor, would de- op into an economic and military "men- e," constantly working for world revolu- n. According to this view other countries uld have nothing to do with Russia or uld try actively to hinder Russian prog- s.

The third view, often expressed by persons o know the least about the experiment, hat the 5-Year and succeeding plans, for e unexplained reason, could not succeed d that it would be a waste of time to dis- ss the destiny of the 160,000,000 Russian ople.

The fourth view, held by enthusiastic com- unists, misinformed as the third group, was at Russia was an "earthly paradise," with unemployment, plenty of food and complete uality of wealth and opportunity.

rift Is From Communism.

The last two views can be eliminated. The esent regime with modifications will con- nue for a long time, barring a world war. e leaders, like politicians the world over, ll be forced to modify their policies but ey will compromise to remain in office. e "earthly paradise" is three or four gen- ations away if it is over the horizon at all. e first two views cannot be so sum- arily dismissed. There is abundant evidence to support each. The most that can be said at this time is that the actions and the unofficial words of the present leaders are to the effect that Russia is being gradually forced toward the Right—that is, is taking more leaves out of the capitalistic book, just as the European and American countries are being forced by economic pressure to adopt socialistic doctrines of the Left despite protestations to the contrary. If these tendencies continue, with individualism getting more opportunity in Russia and collectivism increasing in the rest of the world, the two systems, now widely separated, may eventually, perhaps in three or four decades, draw so close that the peoples of the U. S. A. and the U. S. S. R. will find they have so much in common that it will be better to co-operate than to try to destroy each other.

Russia wants to trade with the rest of the world today. In fact last year she bought $150,000,000 worth of American goods and sold us only $30,000,000 worth. She is paying American engineers, technical advisers and managers about $10,000,000 a year and expects to hire more. American methods are model methods for the Russians, and the standard of living of the American class is the goal her leaders have set for all the Russian people in the Utopian "classless" society. Whether this desire to trade with the United States and the rest of the world will continue depends on too many contingencies for the writer to hazard a guess. At present Russia is trading and wants to continue to trade with the rest of the world.

"Menace" Mostly a Myth.

The economic and military "menace" of Russia, if it exists at all, is merely in the embryo stage. No one can see the appalling waste, the lack of co-ordination, the archaic transport system, the low quality of finished goods, the lack of adequate management, the low intelligence of the workers and peasants without realizing that it will be many years, perhaps generations, before the Russians attain the efficiency and living standards of present day Americans. In official exhortations to their own people, however, the leaders give ample evidence that Russia hopes to be an economic and military "menace" to the capitalistic world, and the young Russians talk confidently about the world revolution, but in their acts these same leaders give weightier evidence that the tendency is toward the Right.

Russia is not suffering from the so-called world-wide depression. Planned economy is succeeding. Never before has she seen such construction—in new apartments and industrial plants in Moscow, in the Ford automobile plant at Nizni-Novgorod, in the tractor plants at Chelyabinsk, Stalingrad and Kharkov, in the blast furnaces at Magnetagorsk, in the oil fields in the Caucasus, in the coal mines in the Don and Kuznetz basins, in the State and collective farms in the Ukraine, in the hydro-electric and industrial plants at Dnieprostroy and in railroad building everywhere. This year she presents a striking contrast to the United States, England and Germany. Militant collectivism, for the time being, is producing far greater results than rugged individualism.

The Russian leaders never tire in pointing out this contrast, but they have to be reminded about the appalling waste, the lack of co-ordination and the absence of liberty among the Russian people. The leaders deserve great credit for what they have accomplished during the last 10 years but in boasting over the contrast between present conditions in the capitalistic world and in socialistic Russia they overlook the fact that the capitalistic world is suffering from over-production, or better still, maldistribution of goods, whereas Russia is still suffering from a lack of production which will take her decades to overcome. The real test between the individualistic and collective systems will come after Russia has an adequate production. Then we shall see whether capitalism with private initiative and its wasteful competition can compete with the momentum of profitless planned industry operated by a bureaucracy.

Other "Plans" to Follow.

The present 5-Year Plan, started in October, 1928, is merely the first of a series of theoretically co-ordinated programs for industrial, agricultural and cultural development by which the Communist leaders expect to "overtake and outstrip" the most advanced nations of the capitalistic world, meaning by inference the United States and Germany. The State Planning Commission, a branch of the Council of Labor and Defense, is now working on the second 5-Year Plan, scheduled to start in 1933, almost immediately after the successful completion of the present plan in four years has been announced. There are reports that after the completion of the Second 5-Year Plan the leaders will embark on a 15-Year Plan and there is talk of a 50-Year Plan, but it is generally believed in Russia that the Government will adhere to a series of 5-Year Plans, how many no one professes to know.

There have been misconceptions both in Russia and abroad about the present 5-Year Plan, called in Russia, the "Pyatiletka." Many Russians who knew nothing of conditions in the outside world and many persons in the outside world who knew little about conditions in Russia thought that the Russian leaders expected to "overtake and outstrip" the capitalistic world by November, 1933. In the written propaganda about the plan, however, great care was taken to be extremely vague about the date when this goal was to be reached. Since 1928 the plan has been revised many times, usually upward, but discussion of some of the most important items, such as the proposed decreases in production and living costs, has been entirely dropped.

Details of the present 5-Year Plan are much too complicated for exposition in a newspaper article. The original plan filled three large volumes, most of which was columns of statistics. The original plan has been revised so often that it is doubtful whether any one Russian official today knows exactly all the ramifications of the plan.

What Is Hoped for Now.

In general, however, the present plan and its successors call for the transformation of an extremely backward agricultural nation into an industrial nation. Stalin told the directors of Soviet industries last winter that Russia was 50 to 100 years behind the advanced countries. "We must cover this distance," he said, "in 10 years. Either we do this or we will be crushed." That would put attainment in 1941.

Such a goal is almost as fantastic as the 1928 presidential campaign predictions of a chicken in every pot and two cars for every garage, but politicians are the same the world over.

Stalin, however, is the dictator of an underproduced country which can profit by the inventions of the overproduced countries, and when the successful completion of the present plan is announced next year, at the end of four and a quarter years, there will be a great many industrial plants to show for the sacrifices the people have made since 1928.

The plan calls for a 55 per cent gain in agriculture and a 136 per cent increase in industrial production. Even if these figures are not reached, the progress will have been sufficient to claim a victory. Capital investments in the entire national economy are expected to increase 238 per cent; the total aggregate of electrical power capacity is expected to increase 193 per cent, and the total electrical output is set at an increase of 326 per cent; freight traffic is supposed to increase 85 per cent; producers' prices are expected to decrease 24 per cent, and the cost of living is expected to be reduced 14 per cent.

The plan is divided into years and months with quotas for these periods in industries and plants. During 1928-29, the first year of the plan, industrial production increased 24.3 per cent instead of the scheduled gain of 21.4 per cent; in 1929-30, industrial production increased 24.6 per cent against the 21.5 per cent originally planned. The tempo for the latter period, however, had been speeded up to a schedule of 31 per cent, so while the new figure was not attained, the old figure was exceeded. For this year the control figure has been set at a 45 per cent increase over 1930, but it is highly doubtful whether this will be reached. American engineers say that the workers do not have the enthusiasm they displayed last year.

Russian Goods Lack Quality.

American engineers also say that the Soviet claims of accomplishments are misleading because the figures do not take into account the quality of the produced goods. Even Soviet officials admit that the Russian goods at present will not compare favorably with finished goods from the United States, Germany and France.

The leaders are not particularly worried about this. They insist that the Russian workers are learning to work at a western tempo. They are willing to pay the price as long as the workers progress in industrial technique.

The workers themselves are not so well satisfied. They see the tremendous increase in production month by month yet clothing, food and shelter are as difficult to obtain as in 1927 and 1928. The reason for this is that the present plan calls for the development of the basic, heavy, industries and not for plants producing consumers' goods.

How much of a "menace" the present 5-Year Plan is and why the plan is a disappointment to the Russian people can be deduced from the fact that the quota for shoes in 1933 is set at 80,000,000 pairs, about one-half pair per Russian. The American per capita consumption is three pairs a year. The quota for automobiles for 1933 is only 158,000 machines, which the American Ford plants could produce in less than 20 days. The Russian just won't believe that there are more than 26,000,000 automobiles in the United States. This summer there was great joy over the fact that the Russian textile mills had made 90,000,000 pairs of socks and stockings during 1930. This was less than one pair for every adult in the Union.

But the oil production goal of 1933 had already been reached early this summer and in July the Soviet press announced that the agricultural collectivization program had progressed so far that there should be no more attempts to get new members in many of the richest agricultural districts. The press also announced that the Union had become the second largest tractor producing company in the world, second only to the United States, which is still far ahead. Tractor production, however, is behind the control figures.

Soviet Idea of Machines.

The policy of concentrating on the heavy or primary industries such as steel, coal, agriculture, electric power, caused a split in the Communist party itself. The "Right Wingers" wanted to concentrate on consumers' goods—light industry, but Stalin, pursuing what he called a "Center" policy, insisted that the primary industries must be developed first to make Russia independent of the rest of the world.

The ultimate aims of the Communists and the reasons for the sacrifices demanded of the present generation in Russia through the working out of the plans are well expressed in the New Russia Primer, a textbook in Russia and a best seller in the United States.

The Primer points out that in the United States comparatively few persons own the machines whereas in Soviet Russia all the people will own the machines and get the benefits.

"The more machines we have," says the Primer, "the easier will be the work, the shorter will be the hours, the lighter and happier will be the lives of all."

The rich people of the United States, according to the Primer, build more factories merely to make more money for themselves, while in Russia they "build factories in order that there may be no poverty, no filth, no sickness, no unemployment, no exhausting labor—in order that life may be rational and just."

This attitude accounts for the closing of virtually all foreign concessions in Russia. The Soviet leaders are not willing to allow foreign capitalists to exploit Russian labor. To be sure, the Russian state is today exploiting Russian labor, in fact the present form of government is closer to state capitalism than it is to communism or even socialism, but the communists say this exploitation is a necessary preliminary for the ultimate benefit of the workers.

On the boat to Europe a wealthy American told the writer how he had started his fortune by exploiting—he did not use that term—the Yaqui Indians in Mexico many years ago. When this American landed at the mine of which he was to be the superintendent he found that the warlike Indians would not stay on the job.

"I sent to New Jersey for a lot of cheap jewelry and highly-colored blankets," he said, "and opened up a company store and sold to the Indians on credit. Within two months 5000 workers were indebted to me. As long as the Indians were in debt they couldn't leave the mine, and, of course, they became virtually slaves."

Similar methods would be possible in Russia today but the Russian leaders declare, and their actions fit their words, that they will not permit such capitalistic exploitation, either of people or of natural resources. The communistic aim is a "classless" society in Liquor and Prosperity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM interested in William B. Scott's recent letter, in which he charges that I have made unsupportable statements.

The opponents of prohibition charge that modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment would restore prosperity and relieve unemployment. So far they have not produced a single figure from authentic sources in support of this claim. My statement that the beer business would depress other business came from the statements of nationally known economists who have discussed this question with many volumes of supporting evidence. Recent Washington dispatches indicate that the information at the Department of Commerce supports my statement. The National Grange and other farm organizations have proved to their own satisfaction that the restoration of the liquor traffic would hurt and not benefit agriculture over a long period of time, or over a wide area. It would take many pages of the Post-Dispatch to assemble the facts presented on these subjects, but I will refer particularly to Louis J. Tabor, president of the National Grange, and to Prof. Thomas N. Carver of Harvard University, and to Prof. Paul Nystrom of Columbia University.

There is nothing unsound in citing England as an example. England today has more brewery prosperity and more unemployment than almost any country I know of. No English leader wants more beer to make more prosperity in that beer-ridden country, where the only dividends which have increased in the last few years have been brewery dividends; all other net profits and dividends being on the decline and about to disappear.

There is no fallacy in my mind as to the wet or dry status of this country. If it is as wet as Mr. Scott says it is, then there is the same amount of raw material going into illicit liquor as went into legal liquor. At any rate, all the brewers and all the distillers in the entire country used less than 2 per cent of the entire grain crop at the height of the liquor business, and 2 per cent one way or the other does not cause farm distress. The fact is that prohibition, poorly enforced and observed as it is in large cities, has brought about social and economic benefits.

Is it possible that Mr. Scott, in speaking of the number of men employed in saloons, wants a return of the saloon? Whenever I ask this question, some wet answers that the saloon was better than the speakeasy. Without discussing their relative merits, let me say that any community can rid itself of the speakeasy by electing conscientious law officials. The speakeasy is an outlaw, the bootlegger is a criminal. The liquor business is no longer a business but a crime. To take the ban off of liquor means to put the liquor business back in control of politics and government, where it ruled for nearly 40 years to the detriment of the country. Liquor is now an outlaw and is acting like an outlaw.

Fishing in Forest Park.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN Forest Park is a lagoon where the River des Peres formerly ran. Why not stock this with cat and sunfish and throw it open to children, giving them permits through their schools? It would be an endless source of pleasure and save many from playing on the streets. It is done in Central Park, New York City.

Not Irreconcilable.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHEN bananas and coffee are dumped into the sea, garden truck into the Hudson River, wheat into the furnace, with oil and cotton begging for a market, while the world is preparing for an increasing bread line, our leadership smacks of buffoonery rather than statesmanship. Private interest and public welfare are not irreconcilable.

WM. J. COQUELIN.

Sonnet.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THAN moonlight, or a quivering of leaves
On tenuous boughs in autumn, or the tune
Made by a steady rain on ruined eaves,
Or kildees crying by an old lagoon,
You are upon this moment, in my eyes,
A thing of greater loveliness: and so
I am persuaded strongly to arise,
Possess that beauty utterly, and go.
And on the other hand I feel inclined
To quit you now, and leave you happier,
Recalling me as one of noble mind:
A docile and romantic worshiper.
It may be I am capable of such Idolatry. I doubt it very much.

CARDINAL LE GROS.

THE RECEIVERSHIP BUGABOO.

Former Mayor Henry W. Kiel, chosen by the street car employes to represent them upon the board which arbitrated the wage dispute, disagrees with the other two members of the board that to postpone a receivership of the property was the primary purpose of the arbitrament. He insists that fairness to the 20,000 people in St. Louis affected by the decision was the great desideratum, and so it was.

Mr. Kiel had a good honest case, and it is to be regretted that he did not win it. He points out that the employes of the street car system are entitled to a decent living wage, which was all they were getting, and that the company could still pay them that decent living wage without going into bankruptcy. He was not deceived by the sophistry that the $500,000 or less which the 10 per cent wage reduction will save to the company between now and next May is essential to the solvency of the Public Service Co. The company is taking virtually that much money out of its earnings and putting it into its depreciation fund to the credit of the holders of the common stock. The Missouri Public Service Commission has ruled that the company cannot take more than $800,000 per annum out of its earnings for depreciation, but the company ignores that ruling. It sets aside annually about $1,500,000, and in 1930 it had an admitted surplus and undivided profits of nearly $3,000,000.

President Nelson of the street car men's union says the employes fared better when the system was in receivership. Of course they did, and so did the public. In the period in which Rolla Wells was receiver, the property was admittedly in a more robust condition than it is today. Nevertheless, when Mr. Wells was placed in charge of its affairs it was in the same waterlogged condition that it is in today. It had been capitalized for $110,000,000. Notwithstanding street car riding was then in its heyday, the system was unable to stand up under that burden. It collapsed, just as it will collapse under its present burden. The wages of the street car employes in St. Louis are less than those paid in 10 other big cities in the United States; cutting them is not going to save the street car company, and to drag out the bugaboo of a receivership, as the majority opinion in the wage arbitration did, is only to postpone the certain end.

Mr. Kiel has done more than make an honest case for the street car employes. He has told the people the truth about this evil matter. It is true that the business of the street car system declines almost daily. It will continue to do so. If the company kept in step with the times it would take up its tracks from streets where traffic has become unprofitable. It would also extend its bus system and co-ordinate it with its street car system. But the company is not interested in making the best of a bad situation by such operating economies. It preserves the status quo for the purpose of frightening the people into the belief that they are likely to wake up any morning and find themselves without street car service. The people are, of course, in no such peril. If the Public Service Co. comes to a point where it can no longer maintain itself, the courts will appoint someone to operate the property in the interest of the creditors. This is what happened before, and it is what will happen again. Mr. Wells took the property in hand and made money with it, and another receiver can take the property and make money with it.

Mr. Kiel is shocked by a brutality which puts the greed of profiteers above the simple rights of the people who work for the street car company. It is shocking. It is also unnecessary. The financial interests behind the street car company, ramifying as they do into such great holding corporations as the North American and the City Utilities, are among the richest in the nation. Yet the street car company has convinced two of the three arbiters in the wage dispute that these great corporations need in the next seven and one-half months $500,000 of the meager livelihood of 3600 workmen. It is worse than shocking. It reveals one of the great maladies of our time in the United States, the insatiable greed of profiteers for more and more profits at the expense of the general public.

AS THE SUMACS TURN.

Fortunate he who for business or pleasure is traveling country roads these days. Autumn's gayest festival is coming to the hills. The sumacs are turning. Every morning now they are redder than they were the night before. Beside the shore of Witch Lake on the upper Michigan peninsula, an Irish woman, who has searched the world over, says she has at last found the most beautiful spot in the world. Dwellers in the Mississippi Valley need not tramp the globe. The first road out of town to the hills will do and the country gained, any leaf strewn lane off the highway. For along the side roads on one bank or the other, or perhaps both, wind-blown crimson pennants of the sumacs are tossing in the mellow October sun. When their brilliant scarves deck the valley countryside, every turn of a road through the hills is the most beautiful spot in the world.

THE MIDLAND IN DISTRESS.

The Midland, a literary magazine modest in form and pretensions but mighty in accomplishment, has entered upon dark days. Published for 16 years, first at the University of Iowa and recently in Chicago, and never for profit, it has sought to "crystallize the best expression of contemporary national life." These are the words of its editor and founder, John T. Frederick, a teacher of English, who has built up the publication with little aid from subscription revenue and virtually none from advertising. Seeking to "encourage the making of literature in the Middle West," it has succeeded so well that H. L. Mencken considers it "probably the most important literary magazine in America." It has fought standardization, the besetting sin of magazines published for profit. It has never paid for contributions, but has "discovered" such distinctive writers as Ruth Suckow.

Now, however, after meeting a series of deficits, Mr. Frederick feels he cannot continue without help, for the year's debt is $2040. He has long had a goal of 5000 subscribers as a self-sustaining basis, but circulation has averaged around 1500. America, and the Middle West in particular, need such a magazine. While pulpwood periodicals printing the veriest trash prosper, it would be saddening to see the Midland with its high standards succumb to money troubles. Subscriptions or gifts would permit its continuance, and these would preserve its independence better than endowment, merger with another publication or adoption by a literary group. It would be a sad day for America's creative literature if the Midland went under.

OUR VICTORIOUS CARDINALS.

For 10 blue, bland October days St. Louis and Philadelphia have been following the fortunes of the Cardinals and Athletics from the topless heights of hope and the bottomless pits of despair. First it was the Athletics. Then the Cardinals. Again, the Cardinals. Once more the Athletics. All even for a sleepless night and a chattering morning, when another Cardinal masterpiece propelled St. Louis to the front. One more and victory, but the Athletics came back to capture the sixth contest, and yesterday the program reached the finale. Nothing more on the agenda. It was do or die.

The Cardinals did, nobly.

The Athletics died, nobly.

A world series is purely an emotional affair to the fan, but to the players and team owners it is an economic enterprise as well as a sporting event. The members of the victorious team receive 60 per cent, the losers 40, of the receipts of the first four games, less certain deductions, while the profits to the team owners largely come from the other games. A series that ends in "four straight," as has twice happened within recent years, yields little to the owners. When a series runs the full schedule of seven games, as this year's did, it is the happy fortune of the owners to take the cash and credit, too.

And a world series is an item of economic importance to both of the cities represented. We have no idea how many visitors the series has brought to St. Louis, but the hotels have been crowded to capacity, banishing for the time being the specter of depression. The shops have, of course, shared in the harvest, and, altogether, there is a considerable amount of money in the till which otherwise had not come here. From a business standpoint, then, the "baseball classic" is an entry of pith and moment.

The emotional value of the series cannot be put down in figures, but surely it must be worth a good deal in times like the present to divert the national mind from the besetting cares and anxieties. It is no exaggeration to say that the national mind has thus been liberated. All America has been reading voluminous reports of the battles, listening in on radio versions, watching electrical depictions of the contests. The smallest hamlet knows Grimes and Grove and Earnshaw and Hallahan even as the St. Louis and Philadelphia bleachers, and Broadway has been talking about the exploits of Pepper Martin as excitedly as any Main street.

So endeth the series of the century.

MORE LINDBERGH TROPHIES.

Mrs. Nettie Beauregard, archivist of the Missouri Historical Society, who has done an excellent job of cataloguing the Lindbergh trophies and providing for the great crowds that visit the west wing of the Jefferson Memorial, will soon have another task. Word comes from Tokyo that the souvenirs presented the Colonel and his wife, in Japan alone, required two large crates for shipment. They included numerous dolls for the "Hiko Okusan"—the "Flying Madame," and many, many kimonos in brilliant colors and hand embroidered, some of them for Lindbergh himself. But there were a great many other gifts, lacquer ware, bronze pieces, swords, Cloisonne, scrolls, carved ivory, wood prints and carved bamboo. Hitherto the Lindberghs have added all recent gifts to the collection and there is reason to believe that they will do the same with these. It is to be hoped that the Colonel will not change his mind.

NONSTOP AROUND THE WORLD.

Now that the Pacific at last has been spanned by airplane, and successful Atlantic flights by a dozen or more craft have made that ocean passage a beaten path, it is only natural that aviation should cast about for further wide expanses to conquer. So a nonstop flight around the world follows in the logical sequence of flying progress. Maj. Roy W. Ammel, Chicago aviator, has announced such a project, scheduled for next May. He will refuel twice in the air, he says, above Moscow and Tokio. The plan may seem a bit startling, but no more so than a scheme to fly over any ocean or either pole would have seemed a generation ago.

If Ammel flies on the course of the Graf Zeppelin's world cruise, which seems to be his plan, to judge from the two cities mentioned, the distance will be 19,000 miles. Doing that on three tanksful of gasoline, he will thrice break the present distance record, 5011 miles, made by Boardman and Polando on their flight to Istanbul. A plane previously has traversed a greater distance without descending than Ammel proposes to do, for it was estimated that Jackson and O'Brine went 25,000 miles on their 420-hour endurance flight here two years ago. This particular plan may not succeed, but such a feat is sure to be accomplished within a few years. Then there will remain only a nonstop world flight via both poles without refueling, until interplanetary aviation begins.

THEY DON'T MIX.

Harken to the costly experience of the First Christian Church of Mayfield, Ky. Last spring one of the pillars of the congregation passed on to his reward, bequeathing his 400-acre farm to the church whose revivals and chicken suppers he had so long attended. The trustees engaged a tenant, worked out a system of shares, and prayed for sun and rain in the proper proportions. Members of the finance committee went out every week to see how things were coming along. Unfortunately this church-owned farm was subject to the same ills that brought its worldly brothers low. The outgo was more than the income and things went from bad to worse. When the enterprise was plainly beyond redemption, the livestock and machinery were put on the auction block and the trustees washed their hands of the matter. Which leads us to this conclusion: Religion and agriculture is a combination like religion and politics. They don't mix.

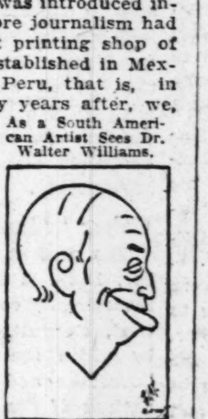
Journalism and Democracy

Giving information accurately and fully, journalism may be a potent weapon for democracy; has power to blight or to build, and thus may become voice of the people; reader also has a duty, in rejecting publications which fall short of best ideals; freedom of the press must be assured to permit its best functioning.

From an Address by Walter Williams, President of the University of Missouri, at the Popular Lecture Institute, Buenos Aires.

JOURNALISM is a new profession. In the modern sense, it has hardly one century of existence. Printing was introduced into our Western world before journalism had begun to exist. The first printing shop of the three Americas was established in Mexico, the second in Lima, Peru, that is, in South America, and many years after, we, the sons of North America, installed the third printing office of the three Americas.

As a South American Artist Sees Dr. Walter Williams.



I speak of journalism as the arm of democracy. My definition of democracy comes from a paraphrase of what the great French scientist Pasteur said. Pasteur said that democracy was a state in which one allows each individual to display his greatest efforts. According to my definition, democracy is a state in which every individual has an opportunity to rise as much as he can, and has the same possibilities as far as can be possibly attained by just laws, decent salaries and relations between individuals. This is the democracy for which the new journalism, as I understand it, must be a brilliant arm.

In what way can journalism be a weapon for democracy? First, by giving all information, to all and everywhere, with accuracy, always adhering to the truth and in comprehensive manner. And then, by interpreting the information with intelligence and sympathetic spirit and commending same. And in the third place by inspiring courage and legitimate ambitions to the people, to all and everywhere. In the present moment, when clouds darken the sky, we surely need a journalism which will unveil behind those clouds with courage and hope—a new and better day.

Modern journalism considered as an arm for democracy does all of this. It has admitted the weak, the ignorant and the uneducated man to knowledge, to the discoveries and inventions of the cultured men who govern humanity. It has become emancipated in a great proportion from smallness, intolerance and ignorance. It has become a medium for the gathering and distribution of news of all parts of the world. It has become emancipated from outside control, so that journalism wherever it exists enjoys the greatest possible freedom. It has become the nervous system of the world, as the whole world knows the sentiments of all the rest of the world.

On the other hand, modern journalism has noticed the power of the new instrument which we call publicity. As electric light not only supplies light, but also heat which burns and destroys, modern journalism, considered as a weapon for democracy, throws light over the world, but also directs ardent fire on the evils, and if it handles it wisely, it destroys them. Modern journalism, which I am advocating, is becoming the profession of the interpreter, which interprets life such as it is now, so tomorrow it may be what it ought to be.

The voice of the people, once confused, at other times unjust and unfit, is interpreted at its best by modern journalism. Do you remember Victor Hugo's words? He said: "The people are silent," said the poet. "I shall be the advocate of their silence. I will speak for the mutes. I shall speak for the great men and for the humble ones. I shall speak to the strong for the weak ones. I shall interpret their confused words, their recriminations, their aspirations and their hopes."

Journalism is a new and great weapon for democracy. Are there any journalists or journals which reach this ideal? I do not know. On a certain occasion a man traveling through France asked a young man on a road where was the City of Lille. "I don't know," said the young man, "where Lille is, but this is the road which leads you to that city." I don't know where is the great journalism, which must be the best weapon for democracy; I don't know whether it is in Buenos Aires or in any other place, but I have here the road which leads you to it.

How must the readers help in this modern journalism to make it a weapon for democracy? They have in their hands a remedy against bad journalism. Those who criticise a modern daily have in their hands a remedy for this daily if they need one. They should not read it. If they would read only those dailies which render the greatest services to this great cause, the others would go under for lack of readers. But the best remedy against bad journalism is held in journalism itself and in each journalist individually.

The journalists, as such, must comply with an obligation of public service. This is a personal obligation which no one should shirk, an unavoidable individual obligation for the profession to which they belong. For a journalist to render the best possible services, journalism and the journalist must be free. The freedom of the journalist must be assured by the Government and by the people, and not because it is required by the interest of journalism. Freedom is not necessary for this cause, but so that journalism will comply with its great duty for all the people.

Journalism must be free not only from outside interference from the part of the world surrounding it, but the journalist must be free also from the pressure made on him by his own ignorance, his own prejudices, lack of sympathy and lack of knowledge. No journalist can get out a paper if his hands are tied, not simply by the Government, but by his own prejudices, his own restrained nationalism, his envy, fears and ignorance.

I consider that the great resource in the exercise of the profession will be found in education, temperance, study, sympathy, the things most needed in the world just now. If there should be in our midst a journalist who would not be true to such a high mission, let us look for him and try to bring him back to the right path with kind and gentle words. But if our efforts should prove futile, let us drive him with whips from the temple which he is disgracing.

Broadening Reserve Bank Discounts.

By Editorial Research Reports.

THE Federal Reserve system was es lished to provide, among other thi an agency from which commercial b could obtain credit for seasonal or em ency needs. The framers of the Federal serve Act therefore provided that so-ca commercial paper should be eligible for count with Federal Reserve banks. is a class of paper which arises in the cess of financing the flow of commodi in production and trade and which co mercial banks acquire in considerable v ume in the course of their ordinary ope tions. The loans are ordinarily repaid the borrower from the sale of goods u derlying the transaction, so that this pa is so liquid that it can safely be held banks of issue, such as the Federal Rese banks.

Eligible commercial paper at pres comprises notes, drafts and bills of change, with a maturity of not more t 90 days, which have been drawn or proceeds used for the production, purch ing or marketing of goods. After the w agricultural paper of certain classes, wi maturity of not more than nine mon was made eligible for discount.

On June 30, 1931, member banks of Federal Reserve System held $3,198,000,0 of such eligible paper and in addition $4,707,000,000 of Government obligatio which could be used as a basis of borro ing at Federal Reserve banks. Borrowi from Federal Reserve banks on that d totaled only $147,000,000, or 18.5 per c of the total that could have been borrow On the face of these figures, there app to be no necessity of increasing the sc of member-bank accommodation at F eral Reserve banks. However, holdings eligible paper and of Government secu ties, are not evenly distributed through the banking system. The portfolio some banks may be entirely devoid o per entitling them to accommodation Federal Reserve banks. It is in the terest of these banks that it is now p posed to enlarge the classes of paper el ible for discount.

Specifically, it has been suggested t the Federal Reserve Act be amended make commercial paper running for p ods longer than 90 days eligible for d count, and to modify in some degree provisions which forbid the discount of per drawn for or the proceeds of w have been used for fixed investments capital purposes. Any broadening o eligibility provisions, in addition to a ing certain banks in the present emerg would tend to encourage lending by ba upon types of paper to which the disco privilege was extended. RUSSIA IN TRANSITION which there shall be no large private accumulations. Economic surpluses, controlled by the Government, are to be applied to increase the real awards of labor in higher wages, to grant shorter working periods and to raise the cultural level of the working man and woman.

As to Concentrated Wealth.

The United States, which 50 years ago was the richest "young" country just as Russia is the richest "young" country today, was developed by private exploitation. The Soviet leaders, while willing to learn from American technical development, believe that they can avoid what they think are injustices in the American system. They have no intention of permitting to exist a Russian group comparable to the Goulds, the Harrimans, the Hills, the Rockefellers, the Morgans, the Mellons and the Insulls. They believe in conserving the "surplus value" produced by the workers for the workers' benefit.

What is this controlled "surplus value" which is expected to furnish the means of transforming Russia from a backward into an advanced country? Bruce Hopper of Harvard and Oxford, in his excellent book, "Pan-Sovietism," gives the best definition the writer has seen.

"Marx tried to prove," says Hopper, "that the proletariat creates all the commodities and values, whereas the capitalists live on the surplus value they have stolen from the creators of value.

"Surplus value is the difference in value between what the laborers create and what they receive as wages. As an example, let us say a laborer can produce in four hours the necessaries for himself and his family, expressed in the form of $3. If he worked four hours a day for $3 there would be no surplus value. But in buying labor power the capitalistic employer treats it as any other commodity and makes the laborer work 8, 10 or more hours a day.

"The theory is that during the four hours the laborer is putting in 'necessary labor time,' enough for a subsistence wage. During the rest of the time he is putting in 'surplus labor time,' creating surplus value for the employer. He creates all told, say $6 or $8, but he receives only $3. The rest is the employer's gross profit, divided into rent, interest and net profit."

The Russian leaders, following their prophet Karl Marx, believe that politics are concentrated economics. The political state coincides with the economic state. Marx left a legacy in his writings on scientific socialism and his plans, formulated more than 50 years ago, are being adjusted to present day Russian conditions.

Really State Capitalism.

Russian leaders finally have admitted that the form of government they are forcing on the people is not communism. They say they are "building socialism" as the transitional stage toward communism and are vague as to when they will start "building" pure communism. To the outside observer the present system resembles state capitalism more than anything else. The state, by taking the "surplus value," is exploiting the people for the benefit of the state with the explanation stated above.

Pure 100 per cent communism was tried in Russia between 1917, just after the revolution, and 1921, when Lenin was compelled by the peasants to announce the New Economic Policy, which restored small private trading. The New Economic Policy, or NEP, as it was called, continued until 1927-28, when a new socialistic offensive was launched by the Government and was followed by the present five-year plan. This collectivist and leveling movement reached its height in the winter of 1929-30, and was checked by Stalin's "dizziness with success" admonition in March, 1930. Since the admonition there has been a decided shifting to the Right which could no longer be concealed when Stalin in July this year made public his famous speech before a conference of Soviet industrial managers.

These deviations from the pure doctrine of Marx are called "zigzags" by the communistic press, which insists that the shifts are merely temporary compromises with exigencies, not with principles, and declares that the ultimate goal has not been changed.

Under Lenin, the departure from pure Marxism was called Leninism, and under Stalin it is called Stalinism, although Stalin himself prefers to call it "creative Marxism." The next dictator of Russia will have it named after him because the personality of the dictator necessarily will affect the interpretation of Marx and Marx's Russian followers. If Trotsky had outsmarted Stalin as Stalin outmarked him, there is no doubt that there would have been "Trotskyism" in Russia today, which would have been quite different from Stalinism. Yet Trotsky and Stalin each declare that he alone is the true disciple of Marx and Lenin.

Where "Leveling" Failed.

Three factors are involved in these departures from pure 100 per cent Marxism communism. They are ideological pressure of the communist party from above as its leaders "interpret" Marx, Engels and Lenin; the economic pressure from below of 160,000,000 people for the necessaries and comforts of life, and least of all, the capitalistic pressure, consciously or unconsciously applied from the outside, or abroad.

Stalin's July speech demonstrated the effect of these three factors. When he announced that the "leveling" process must be changed to system of grading the rewards of labor in real wages be actually departed from one of the basic tenets of communistic philosophy, as expressed in the slogan: "From each according to his ability, to each according to his need." The Stalin announcement changed this to "To each according to his ability," which the capitalists would say is the ideal of the individualistic philosophy. It must be admitted, however, that this is still an unattained ideal in most capitalistic industries.

The imponderables forced Stalin to change the collectivist doctrine just as the imponderables are forcing the governments in the United States, England, Germany and the Scandinavian countries to compromise with their individualistic theories. An example will show how this worked. In the winter of 1929 and 1930, when the drive was on to force the peasant into the collective farms, there was a similar movement in the factories to level all wages regardless of the workers' services. Under party domination the workers voted to divide the payroll equally between themselves. The man who swept the floors was to get as much as the skilled mechanic. In a short time the skilled mechanics, not properly imbued by communistic ideals, slacked on their work and began looking around for a factory where there had been no leveling. Other skilled mechanics found that their relatives in some distant city needed them. As a result, production fell off. The party was not slow to see its mistake. Piece work was substituted and production increased.

The reaction to forced collectivization took a different form with the peasants. When they were told that they must pool their cattle, swine, chickens and even their household goods, the recalcitrant peasants either refused—in which case they were sent to Siberia—or they slaughtered their livestock and chickens and tried to sell their household goods. Persuasion has taken the place of force in the farm collectivization program now and the peasants are allowed to keep their livestock and fowls, and are allotted a small garden for their personal use. Only the horse, oxen, land and labor are pooled. The result has been an increased production, much greater than under the old individual cultivation.

Russian Submissiveness.

The same process in reverse form is taking place on a larger scale in the United States, Canada and Europe. The Federal Farm Board announces that it will trade American wheat for Brazilian coffee, but explains that this is an emergency measure. The Russians would call this a "zig-zag." In Germany today the Government controls all but one large bank. In England the thousands of co-operative stores have millions of members. The economic imponderables force their way through in the West as well as in Soviet Russia.

Americans, with a forgivable ignorance of Russian history, usually want to know how long the Russian people will stand for the dictation of the meager communistic minority. Americans forget that the Russians are a semi-Asiatic people who have lived under tyranny for more than five centuries and that Lenin and Stalin are of the race of Ivan the Terrible and Peter the Great. The Communist leaders know more about Russian psychology and Russian endurance than any outsider can possibly know and they realize quicker than anyone else when they must shift their policies, or as they say, when they must "zig-zag."

Americans also forget that the Russian people have suffered during the past 15 years as no other people have suffered. They went through tortures of war more severe than experienced by Belgium or Germany; they fought in a terrible civil war which was followed by a famine that killed more than 10,000,000 people. Then they saw the Communist dictators gradually raise the standards of living of the whole country. Americans usually visualize Russians as people of their own standards. Nothing could be farther from the facts. The Russians, particularly the peasants, who constituted the great majority of the people, are at least 100 years behind the Western world.

The Russians call themselves a "dark" people, meaning that they have not had the advantages of the light enjoyed by other nationalities. It is their way of admitting they are backward. The old monarchy, aided by the Orthodox Church, actively worked to keep the vast majority of the people in darkness, and ignorance. The new masters, although using the technique of the old tyrants, have given them something at once and much more to look forward to. It is quite possible that the present generation will not see the fulfillment of the communistic promises. There is a probability that the second generation will.

Liberty Is Not Claimed.

This does not mean that anything like a majority of the Russian people are contented with or support the present regime. The Communists, seeking perfection, are compelling sacrifices that would not be endured by any Western country. The Russian people, like people everywhere in the world, prefer immediate comforts to ultimate perfection. Marx probably would say that the perfection ideal was the "thesis," that the comfort urge was the "antithesis," and that the final outcome will be the "synthesis." The Marxian formula may fit the conditions of logic, but only history can tell what form the "synthesis" will take.

Liberty, as Americans understand it, does not exist in the Soviet Union, and there are many intelligent, fairly Liberal-minded Americans in Russia who will argue that the Russian people are not yet ready for liberty. If there were liberty of the English or American variety, they contend, the present planned economy would be impossible. The people would demand comforts and luxuries immediately and let the coming generations scratch for themselves.

The Communists, however, do not claim there is liberty in Russia. They frankly admit the despotism, which they call the dictatorship of the proletariat. They would be nearer the truth if they called it a dictatorship for the proletariat. The millions of workers and peasants have little to say in the government. Stalin admitted in 1928 that no political or organizational problem was ever decided by Soviets and other mass organizations without directions from the party.

The hopeful point is that the Communists are educating the mass of the people to take part in the Government eventually, something the old Government fought against. To this end, the Communists have established the most elaborate system of "thought control" in modern history. The only system comparable was that of the Church during the Middle Ages.

Propaganda on Big Scale.

The positive agency for this control is propaganda, the publications, the radio, the drama, the cinema, the clubs, the schools and the lecture platforms. The negative agency is the terrifying secret police, known throughout Russia as the Gay-Pay-Oo, the initials of the official title.

There is not a free newspaper published in the Soviet Union. It is impossible for a person reading only Russian or one of the Russian tongues to get impartial information about Russia or the outside world. Moscow is a city of almost three million and it has many newspapers but each is the representative of a Communist group.

Izvestia is the central organ of the Soviet Government; Pravda is the central organ of the Communist party; Economic Life is the organ of the Council of Labor and Defense; the Workers' Paper is published by the Communist party, as is the Peasants' Newspaper; the Moscow Worker is published by the Moscow committee of the Communist party; Trud (Work) is published by Central Council of the Trade Unions; the Commercial and Industrial Newspaper is the organ of the Supreme Council of Economic Economy. The various trade unions have their own publications and the Young Communists have theirs. Newspapers in other cities are published by similar groups.

News of the outside world is extremely scanty and greatly editorialized, so much so that it often defeats its own purposes. The writer's interpreter was a Russian newspaper man who had lived in the United States 15 years and had a better than average grasp of world affairs, yet the significance of much of the foreign news in the Russian newspapers had to be explained to him. All the evils of capitalism are featured in the Soviet press and none of the benefits are mentioned.

The results of this distorted information and lack of background take the American visitor by surprise when he talks with the Russians, particularly the young Russians. There has grown up a generation which knows little or nothing about conditions in Russia before the revolution and which has had nothing to feed the mind except communistic propaganda. This younger generation knows its Communist catechism by heart and can counter questions about Russia with embarrassing questions about the capitalistic world.

New Generation Now Active.

If an American argues that there is no liberty in Russia the contention falls on barren grounds—the Russian youth has been taught obedience to governmental authority. He also knows that if he does try to assert what Americans would call "rights" the Gay-Pay-Oo would soon swoop down. But if an American points out that the Russian wages are barely sufficient for existence, the youth will tell how much better conditions are than they used to be, how much better they will be in the future, and then reminds the American that millions of workers cannot get employment in the United States and Europe whereas in Russia the factories are calling for more hands.

If the quality of Russian food is decried, the Russian youth replies that there are millions of Americans living in want although the Government has hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat it says it can't get rid of; if working conditions are denounced, the youth repeats a newspaper article saying that Henry Ford has closed down his plants temporarily thereby throwing 75,000 men out of work. The youth will volunteer the observation that this is too much power for one private person to have. And if an American wants to have an interminable discussion on his hands, all he has to do is to start answering questions about the Sacco and Vanzetti and the Scotsboro cases.

The New Generation.

This coming generation is the enigma of Russia. They have been and are being trained in pure Communism. Many belong to the so-called "shock-brigades" which voluntarily are supposed to speed up the work of the older people. To hear many of them talk one would think they had the same communistic fire that made martyrs of the early Bolsheviks. But among the shock-brigaders the enthusiasm soon wore off and the Government had to offer tangible inducements to keep them working at what is high tempo for a Russian. The shock-brigaders were given special food and supply cards, special vacation privileges, and worthwhile prizes. These inducements were in fact increases in real wages. They represented the same step to the right as Stalin's announcement that skilled workmen were to get greater rewards than the unskilled.

Lenin said, "Give we four years in which to teach the children and my clock will never be put back." The Communists have had 14 years in which to teach the children and while they know their catechism they are demanding real rewards for their additional labors. It seems to be the old struggle between comfort and perfection.

The counsel of perfection is producing results now in great industrial plants, enormous hydro-electric projects, more productive farms, better apartment houses. But the comfort urge is getting stronger and stronger and is forcing shifts, or "zig-zags" if you will, to the Right. The two forces are reacting on each other and if there is any truth in capitalistic history will continue to react. But despite the urge for comfort, to which the majority might succumb if given the chance, something formerly dormant in the Russian character has been awakened by the tangible developments of the perfectionists during the past 10 years. That something is hope—hope for a better life in this world.

Postmaster Michener to Speak.

A. J. Michener, postmaster, will address the Women's Advertising Club on the subject of "Postal Service," at the luncheon meeting tomorrow in the Daniel Boone Room of Hotel Statler.

CITY MEAT INSPECTION WILL BEGIN TOMORROW

About 25 Packing Houses Not Under Federal Supervision Are Affected.

City inspection of about 25 packing houses not subject to Federal supervision will begin tomorrow under the direction of Health Commissioner Starkloff. A staff of 10 veterinarians and 10 lay inspectors, headed by chief inspector J. S. Koen, has been appointed.

The inspection, Dr. Starkloff said, will be comparable to that now supplied by the Federal Government to packers who do an interstate business. It provides for ante-mortem and post-mortem examination of every animal slaughtered, and frequent inspection of meat and meat food products to detect misbranding and adulteration.

"The strictest sanitary conditions will be required," Dr. Starkloff said, "in every place where meats are prepared. Every known means of safeguarding public health and insuring sanitary conditions in the preparation of meats is provided for in the ordinance."

Chief Inspector Koen, formerly a meat inspector in the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, has been in St. Louis since August, supervising necessary alterations in packing plants.

Several small packers, Dr. Starkloff says, are retiring from business, and others will have their slaughtering done in inspected plants maintained by other companies. No charge is made for the inspection, but there are strict regulations governing plant conditions with which some have not been able to comply.

City Offices Closed Tomorrow.

All city offices will be closed tomorrow, Columbus day, by order of Mayor Miller. Federal offices will be open.

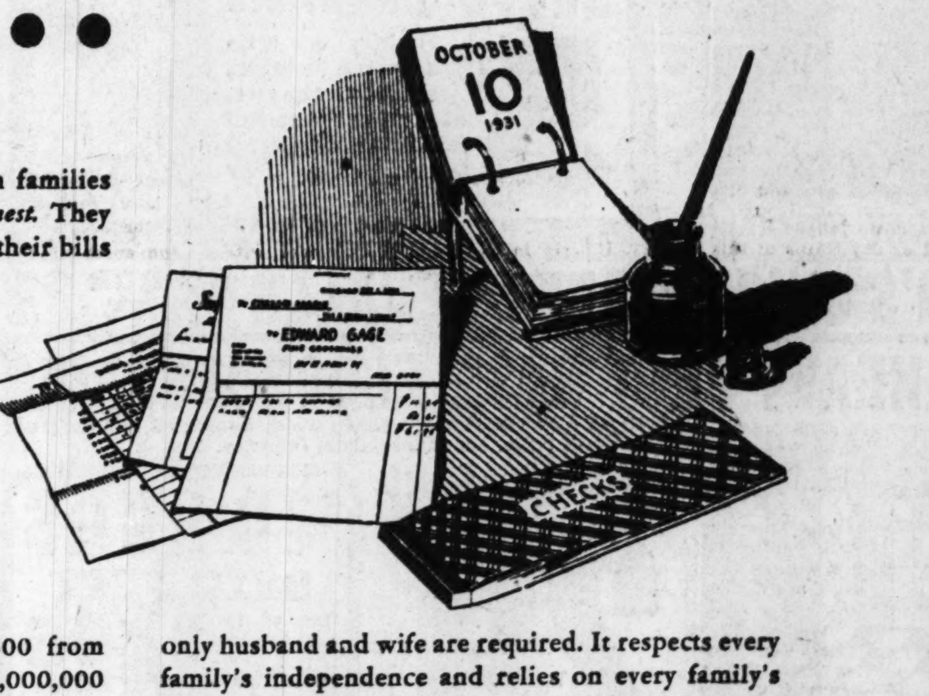
99 out of 100 families would pay bills on time ...IF....



A statement can be made about American families that has almost no exception—they are honest. They realize their obligations; they want to meet their bills on time.

...NOT a debt do they willingly dodge. Not a delinquent account that they aren't as anxious to have cleaned up as are their merchants, doctors, landlords.

...THERE is a true and proud tribute to this integrity of families on the books of Household, America's foremost family finance organization.

...330,000 families borrowed up to $300 from this organization last year. A total of $66,000,000 was loaned to them. The collateral was chiefly their character. And the losses were mighty small indeed.

...THE very fact that the great majority of these families borrowed to pay bills, is further evidence of American honesty. Temporary unemployment and other emergencies had dragged them behind, so they sought auxiliary funds to keep their credit clear.

...WHEN more families understand the service that Household offers, there will be even less past due indebtedness. 99 out of every 100 families would pay on time ... if they had the money to tide them over times of stress.

...THE Household Loan Plan makes available to them from $100 to $300 on short notice. It does not require bankable securities—stocks, bonds, real estate. It asks no outside endorsers; the signatures of only husband and wife are required. It respects every family's independence and relies on every family's integrity. It allows up to 20 months for repayment.

...THE charges for this service are as low as it is possible to retail money under present conditions, 2½% a month, in accordance with the Small Loan Laws of Missouri. The entire amount of the loan is paid in cash and interest is charged only for the actual number of days the loan is kept.

...MORE, these families receive helpful advice on getting back on their feet, on budgeting their incomes to keep out of debt in the future.

MONEY MANAGEMENT FOR HOUSEHOLDS, a helpful booklet on budgeting family income, leading to the happiness of financial security, is offered without charge to all. Telephone, call, or write for a copy.

LA FOLLETTE FINDS NO HARD TIMES REMEDY IN HOOVER PLAN

Senator Who Will Speak in City Tonight Urges Extensive Program for Government.

"The proposal made by President Hoover to the bankers that they form a corporation to inject $500,000,000 into their frozen assets is good in so far as it prevents and postpones additional bank failures, but I do not regard it as a solution for the economic problems which confront the country," Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin said in a telegram yesterday to Gilbert Harris, secretary of the Y. M. H. A.

Senator LaFollette, who telegraphed from Atlanta, Ga., is to deliver an address, "In Defense of the Senate," before the Liberal Forum at the Y. M. H. tonight. The telegram was sent in response to a request from Harris for a statement on the President's recently announced plan.

"If the purchasing power of the people is to be restored," the statement continued, "we must have a comprehensive program on the part of the Federal Government which will help in fighting the depression on all sides. This program should include a tremendous public works bill to give a substantial amount of employment to those out of work, thus helping to increase purchasing power and at the same time give a moderate and controlled inflation. It should include also a plan for the stabilization of industry, and legislation to afford relief to the farmer."

LACE DISPLAY AT MUSEUM

LABOR CONVENTION OBSERVES 5-DAY WEEK

Only Committee Hearings Continue — Beer Plank Expected to Stand.

By the Associated Press.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 10.—The American Federation of Labor paused today in the midst of its fifty-first annual convention to observe the five-day week, with planks in labor's platform for the coming year laid during the first week of the convention, and the troublesome problems of prohibition, Philippine independence, labor conditions at Hoover Dam and unemployment insurance among those listed for action the coming week.

Committee hearings on various questions continued today, although most of the delegates took a holiday. Tomorrow many of the delegates will attend churches in the city, with labor leaders occupying several pulpits. Monday also is a holiday, being the Canadian Thanksgiving day, so sessions will not be resumed until Tuesday morning. The convention may be concluded by Thursday night.

Among the pronouncements which have been accepted by the convention for its platform have been resolutions voicing opposition to a sales tax as a burden on those least able to pay; advocacy of universal adoption of the five-day week, with the Government taking the lead by granting postal employes two days off in seven; demanding extension of the prevailing wage scale to all Federal projects and urging investigation of the labor policies of industries requesting changes in tariff laws.

The first week also saw the crystallization of sentiment on the prohibition question, and although the recommendation of the Resolutions Committee will not be known until next week, convention leaders, both wet and dry, expressed conviction that labor's stand for 2.75 per cent beer, taken several years ago, would be reiterated.

This, despite two resolutions, one demanding repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the other repeal of the Volstead act, and severe and open denunciation of prohibition by many delegates. These resolutions, it was felt, would be sidetracked and the Executive Council's stand for beer would be given preference.

Speakers during the week both praised and condemned the idea of unemployment insurance subsidized by the Government. The Executive Council of the Federation, in its report, indicated it felt such insurance would be unnecessary if work and the earnings of industry were distributed equitably.

Speakers exhorted the Federation to demand positive action by the coming Congress and by industrial leaders to correct the unequal distribution of wealth or suffer the penalty of political reprisal.

"Industry must share its excess earnings with labor in the form of wages," President William Green said, "or we will take it in taxation."

500 EXPECTED TO ATTEND PHOTO-ENGRAVERS' MEETING

Convention Which Meets Thursday to Discuss Problems of the Industry.

About 500 are expected to attend the annual convention of the American Photo-Engravers' Association which will open Thursday at Hotel Statler and continue through Saturday. Preliminary to the main meeting conventions of the Southern Photo-Engravers' Association and the Employing Photo-Engravers' Association will be held Wednesday.

No formal program has been arranged but there will be informal discussions of problems of the industry, which has grown until now it pays $50,000,000 a year in wages, consumes $9,000,000 in materials, and creates $80,000,000 in products each year.

Women who attend will be entertained with sight-seeing trips, a card party at North Hills Country Club, a style show and theater party. The annual dinner dance will be held Friday night at Hotel Statler.

SAND ON RAILS CAUSE UNION STATION WRECK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Sand on the rails which caused a track relay to fail to be shunted by a switch engine, was responsible for a collision between a Terminal Railroad Association switch engine and an Illinois Central passenger train in the Union Station yards at St. Louis, Aug. 21 last, it was announced today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Homer Farris, 30-year-old switchman, was killed, and William Horn, an engineer, was injured when the switch engine was struck by the passenger train which was backing into the station. Farris was between the engine tender and a baggage car and was crushed. He lived at 270 West Big Bend road, Kirkwood.

SUES WIFE FOR DIVORCE AND SHARE OF STORE PROFITS

Morris Zarkoff Says Spouse "Exploited Him as Mere Slave While Utilizing Talents."

Morris Zarkoff, former proprietor of a men's furnishing store on South Broadway, filed two suits in Circuit Court yesterday against his wife, Rose Goldwasser Zarkoff. One is a divorce petition, in which he alleges general indiginities, and the other is for an accounting of profits and one-half of property and other accumlations, held in her name but acquired, he says, by their joint efforts. They were married Dec. 16, 1922, and separated recently.

Zarkoff states that he and his wife conducted a dry goods business at 1920-22 South Broadway, and although his hours were from early morning until 9 p. m., he worked without salary, the defendant "exploiting him as a mere slave while utilizing his talents and efforts in furthering her own wealth." He avers that from earnings of the business she purchased several parcels of realty, which she later sold at profit, and she is "basking in luxury" while he is almost penniless.

The accounting suit sets forth that the pair jointly own realty at 2625 South Broadway, but Mrs. Zarkoff has been collecting the rents. Besides a division of this property and other holdings the petitioner asks the court to appoint a receiver to handle the rents.

Mrs. Zarkoff, who lives at 316 Euclid avenue, Webster Groves, denied any profit was made in the dry goods business, but declared she and her husband lost money. Before her marriage she was the widow of Samuel Goldwasser, a realty operator. She said Zarkoff had left her without cause.

Course in Letter Writing.

The Chamber of Commerce Sales Managers' Bureau tomorrow night will start its seventh annual business letter writing class for St. Louis executives. Six sessions will be held at the Hotel Statler on successive Monday nights with Dr. Frank W. Dignan as instructor. The subject of the first lecture will be "Writing Letters That Must Be Read."

Roever, son of Prof. and Mrs. W. H. Roever, 6802 Waterman avenue. The chancel was almost concealed beneath palms and ferns, with large baskets of white chrysanthemums at each side. In addition to the branched candelabra, which illuminated the front of the church, the bridal party passed through a candle-lit center aisle. The Rev. Dr. Theodore S. Smylie officiated.

The sleeveless bodice was designed with a deep V neck line finished with a tiny scalloped bertha. She wore pomegranate slippers and carried Joanna Hill roses. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Clarence Allen Good Jr., Miss Frances Butts and Miss Lisette Gross, wore satin in different tones, fashioned with high waistlines and the bodices in the new surplice effect tied in back. Mrs. Good's gown was gold colored and she carried small bronze chrysanthemums and golden yellow roses; Miss Butts wore the nasturtium tint and carried Joanna Hill roses and bronze chrysanthemums, and Miss Gross' gown was the pomegranate shade with which she carried a bouquet similar to that of Miss Butts.

The bride was gowned in deep ivory satin, designed simply with no trimming and depicting the Empress silhouette. The skirt, fitting close to the figure to the knees and flaring to the floor, depended from a deep square-necked bodice and ended in a built-in train. There were long sleeves. She wore a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridal veil, of ivory tulle, was arranged from a medieval cap banded in pearls. Her flowers were lilies of the valley. GREASY HAIR FROM—

LAZY GLANDS

Hair that is full of oil and is streaky, is due to a gland disorder. Soap and water alone cannot clear up this condition. Face the truth about it.

When the scalp oozes oil from every pore, the glands are wasting nourishment and need attention. Stimulate those lazy glands to check all that grease and scale. And watch what happens to the hair itself, when properly nourished!

With glands normal, hair has new life and new color. You won't have any streaks to "touch up" or gray locks to hide. Pigmentation will slowly but surely revive the natural color of any hair not completely and permanently gray.

Start stimulation of those lazy glands tonight! The way to wake them is by massage. Use your fingertips, dipped in Danderine. The Danderine will cut through to the pores, and get at the inactive glands. One treatment will loosen and dissolve dandruff. The first week will give you a vastly improved scalp. But keep the treatments up until the very feel of your hair tells you it is in perfect condition.

You can get Danderine at any drug store. It is a marvelous medicine for sick scalps.

WATCH YOUR GLANDS!
WHEN Lazy glands won't open, the hair is starved and faded.
WHEN lazy glands don't close, scalp is too oily.
ANY dandruff is a sign the hair glands need stimulating.

RELIEF AGENCIES CALL FOR MORE VOLUNTEERS

94 Workers Needed for Family Service — 34 for Clerical Duties.

The Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment is seeking to enlist the services of volunteer workers to aid the six social service agencies affiliated with it in caring for the needy.

Miss Claudine Rodgers, in charge of volunteer service, said 94 were needed to help the regular family service workers, 34 for clerical duties, and 150 who can supply automobile transportation. Each volunteer will be expected to contribute at least two half days of her time each week.

Last year 340 volunteers worked with the committee in some cases carrying out family relief plans as arranged in conference with the regular workers. So far this fall 46 have volunteered.

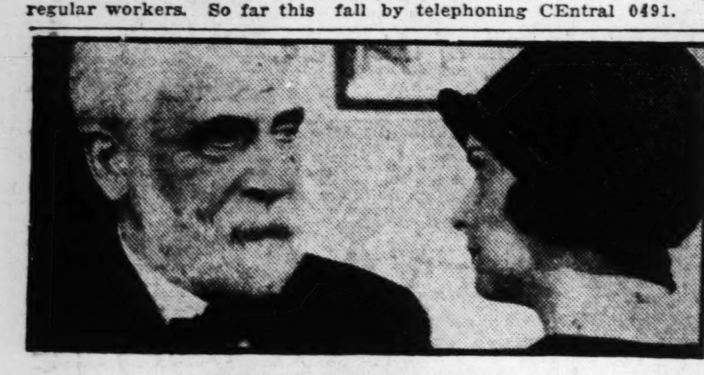
Many of the volunteers have been deeply impressed with their experiences. One of them, Miss Erna Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Rice of Clayton, said: "This is peace time work, but the volunteer's place is much nearer the front than it was in the last emergency. She comes in contact with suffering that can be as horrible as it was during the war."

"Those who receive help," Miss Rice said, "are extremely-grateful." They are anxious to repay one for taking an interest in them," she said. "It seems to be a telling comment on people who don't know from where their next meal is to come, that they are eager to share the bite they have with a well-fed volunteer."

The employment bureau of the committee, at 2023 Washington avenue, received 3587 applications for work during September as compared with 1863 during August.

Jobs were found for 496 in September, but only 165 of these were permanent. In August, work was found for 489, of whom 239 were placed in permanent positions.

Since it was organized last January the bureau has found work for 4442 persons. Employers may obtain its services without charge by telephoning CEntral 0491.



PRESCRIPTION
for Constipation
tested by 47 YEARS' PRACTICE

THERE'S one way to help the bowels that is safe, and sure. It eliminates all the poisonous waste without doing any harm. Its action is thorough but so gentle that it never causes the least discomfort.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin always does the work, and it leaves you feeling fine. You can take it freely, reducing the amount as the bowels grow stronger.

If you feel sluggish, can't eat, have dull headaches, feel tired, weak and run-down, this famous doctor's prescription will help get rid of the waste that is probably poisoning your system. If the children have coated tongue or unpleasant breath; if they seem bilious, fretful, upset, give them a little Syrup Pepsin, too. It tastes so good they'll like it, and it can't hurt them. Its gentle aid is ideal for women. By taking a little at those times when they are most likely to be constipated, they can avoid much discomfort. Its mild but thorough action commends it to older men and women, too.

Dr. Caldwell specialized on the bowels. His prescription of laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other ingredients has been tested by 47 years' practice. Get a bottle from your drugstore. Take some next time you feel the need. Then you'll know why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is the family laxative of millions.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

TWO DISTRICTS PLAN BOY SCOUT RALLIES

Inter-Troop Competitions, Inspections, Campfire Stunts Are on Program.

Two Boy Scout rallies, for every troop in the North and South districts of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, will be conducted by those districts Saturday, as the first district-wide programs of the scout organization this fall. The North District rally will be held at Pasadena Hills, on Natural Bridge road near Lucas-Hunt road, while that for the South District will take place in Tower Grove Park, near the Spring avenue entrance on Arsenal street.

The programs for both rallies will be similar, consisting mostly of inter-troop competitions, games, inspections and campfire stunts and songs. That for the North District, however, will start at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, while the South District program will begin at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Upon arrival at the rallies, each participating troop will pitch two pup tents in its assigned place, and will raise its troop flag. Flag raising ceremonies will then officially open both camps. Eight contests will be held, in knot tying, forms of respect to the flag, use of the compass, signalling, fire by friction, whittling, potato race, and mapping (South District) or first aid (North District). In all but signaling only one scout may be entered from each troop, four scouts, however, being permitted in the signaling event to act as reader, sender, receiver, and recorder. No boy may take part in more than one event.

First to fourth place streamers will be awarded troops making the highest scores in these contests, and attendance streamers will be given the troops having the largest percentage of registered members present. The North District, in addition, will award a ribbon to every troop with 12 or more scouts in attendance.

The North District rally will be in the charge of a committee headed by Scoutmaster Carl Vogel, while that for the South District will be headed by Scoutmaster Arthur Theobald. Max Nusser and Carl H. Laemmli, field executives of the districts, will have general supervision.

Pasadena Hills may be reached by the Kirkwood-Ferguson street car. Tower Grove camp may be reached by either the Tower Grove or Sarah car.

When they just won't gain weight—
Fatten them this way—

A Pound a Week

The youngster who has no appetite, probably has stasis (constipation of the colon). A little fig syrup will soon help correct this condition—then watch the child eat—and gain!

Mothers should never coax a child to eat. Nature knows best. Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite—get rid of stasis. Children who don't eat are sluggish. Not to correct this is inexcusable. It is so easy to do, if you will only use the "California treatment." Read what it is doing for sluggish, listless children in every part of the country!

Begin Tonight!

Your child will eat well from the day and hour you conquer sluggishness. But that girl or boy with furry tongue and an unpleasant breath should not be dosed with salts!

Begin tonight, with enough pure fig syrup to cleanse the colon thoroughly. Less tomorrow, then every other day, or twice a week until the appetite, digestion, weight, complexion, tell you the stasis is gone. It might take a month, but you can positively wean the child away from constipation and need of cathartics. When a cold or other ailment has again clogged the system, fig syrup will soon set things to right.

When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, California fig syrup will gently stimulate the colon muscles—and the child you used to coax to eat will fairly devour his food, digest it, gain weight and strength.

There's just one IF

The marvelous things you hear and read about California fig syrup are true and it will do the same for you—IF you get genuine CALIFORNIA fig syrup. Don't accept any bottle that doesn't say CALIFORNIA.

WHEN ROMANCE BLOSSOMED—and DIED!

Pity tugged at her heartstrings. Yet how could she overlook his fault—"B.O."?

The end. The end of all his hopes. She would not marry him—and could not tell him why!

IT CAN'T be excused, it can't be discussed—this intimate, personal matter of "B.O."—body odor. That's why it's so important always to make sure of not offending. For we'll seldom be warned—either by others or by our own sense of smell. Though pores are constantly giving off odor-causing waste—a quart daily—we quickly become used to an ever-present odor. We're not aware of "B.O." in ourselves but others are.

Play safe—always!

Don't take chances—risk the ruin of your dearest hopes. Adopt the simple safeguard millions of particular men and women use. Wash and bathe often with Lifebuoy to keep pores free from odor.

How gloriously fresh and clean you feel after a Lifebuoy bath! And no wonder. For Lifebuoy's rich, creamy, abundant lather penetrates pores, purifies and deodorizes them. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy gives real protection against "B. O."

Complexion soap?
There's none better!

If you paid ten times as much, you couldn't get a finer complexion soap than Lifebuoy. So pure and bland—so kind to the skin. Cleanses so gently, yet so thoroughly. Frees pores of clogged impurities; coaxes back fresh, healthy radiance to dull cloudy skins. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

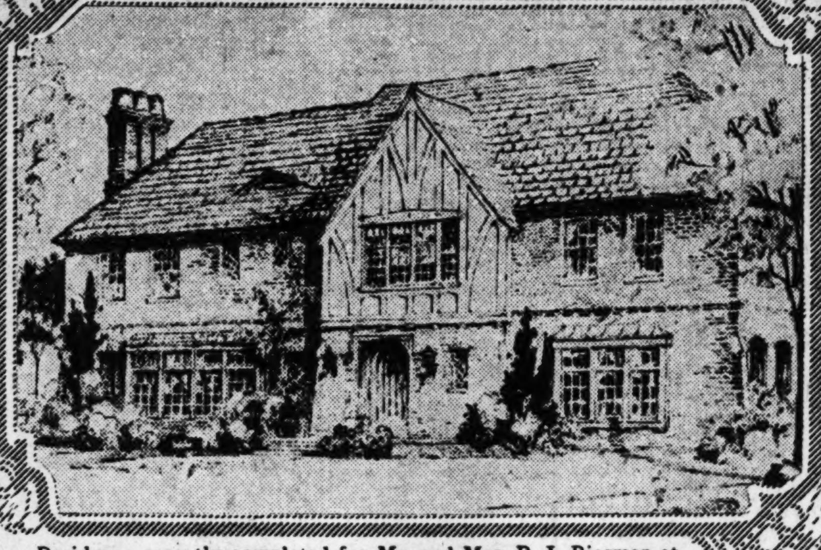
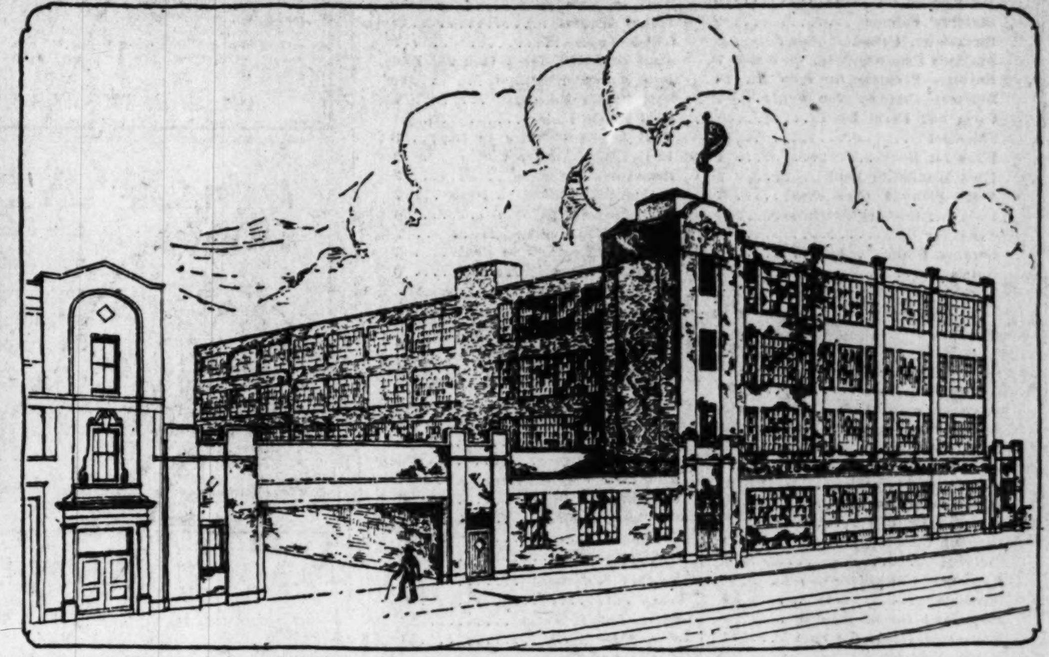
Residences and Apartments Figuring in Recent Transactions; Design for New Bakery.



Residence recently completed for Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Bierman at 7347 Maryland drive, University City.—Ed. H. A. Volkmann, architect; Victor A & B Co., constructors.

Colonial residence at 7303 Maryland avenue in University City, owned by Carl F. Setz, sold to John C. Ryan through the Mississippi Valley Trust Co.



Sketch of $750,000 bakery building to be constructed at 1311 South Thirty-ninth street by the Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. Emil H. Niemann, architect.

MESKER BROTHERS ACQUIRE BUILDING AT 432 S. 7TH ST.

Property Occupied by General Candy Co. Quarters Adjoins Corner Purchasers Already Own.

REPORTED PLANS NOT CONFIRMED

Boulevard Frontage Co. Buys Two Half Blocks Available as Business and Apartment Sites.

By Berry Moore

The Mesker Bros. Real Estate Co. has purchased the General Candy Co. building at 432-34 South Seventh street, owned by the Rozier Investment Co., adding another important parcel to its real estate holdings in this block. The valuation established was not announced.

The property embraces 40 by 125 feet. It adjoins the northeast corner of Seventh and Poplar streets, the key to this quarter of the block, acquired several years ago by Mesker Bros. Real Estate Co. The latter is occupied by an old four-story building. The two parcels form a site of 80 feet on Seventh and 127 feet on Poplar.

Mesker Bros. declined to confirm a report in realty circles to the effect that plans were under way for a seven-story concrete commercial building for the corner and the adjoining holding acquired from the Rozier Investment Co. The site is opposite Cupples Station on Seventh street and is available in connection with the tracks of the Missouri Pacific Railway on Poplar street.

David D. Lynch represented the Mesker Bros. Real Estate Co., a holding corporation for the Mesker Bros. Iron Co., and Elmore Cave & Co. acted for the Rozier Investment Co.

Mesker Brothers' Holdings.

The Mesker Bros. Real Estate Co. owns an aggregate of 225 feet of property in different parcels on the east side of Seventh street between Spruce and Poplar streets, including the four office buildings of the Mesker Bros. Iron Co. The Mesker Bros. Iron Co.'s plant, 310x[illegible] feet, covers the entire Sixth street half of this block, with the exception of the southwest corner of Sixth and Spruce streets, the site of the six-story Cupples Tire Co.'s buildings, 65x127 feet, owned by Washington University. The concern is one of the largest manufacturers of metal windows and doors and ornamental iron.

The Mesker Bros. Real Estate Co., by virtue of the location of its real estate holdings, controls the terminal facilities of this block offered by the Missouri Pacific Railway on Poplar street, which forms one of the most valuable assets of this part of the city.

The Rozier Real Estate Co. owns the northeast corner of Thirteenth and Olive streets, occupied by a hotel building and other attractively situated downtown properties. The Thirteenth and Olive street corner, which will command the Memorial Plaza, has figured several times in large hotel plans.

Buys Two Half Blocks.

The Boulevard Frontage Co. has purchased two half blocks of ground, one at the northeast corner of Hampton and Nottingham avenues and the other at the northeast corner of Hampton and Neosho avenues, opposite St. Louis Hills, Cyrus Crane Willmore's new residential park. The considerations were not disclosed. The purchases carry no building plans. The sites will be held for resale.

Both tracts were acquired because of their availabilty for business and apartment purposes. The Hampton and Nottingham corner occupies a commanding position in relation to St. Louis Hills. The purchases were predicated on the rapid growth of this district, comprising Wenzlick Park, Northampton Park, West Hampton and Ivanhoe Park subdivisions, among the most active subdivision centers. St. Louis Hills includes the former David R. Francis farm, Francis Park, the land for which was donated by the late Gov. David R. Francis, forms an attractive feature of this part of the city.

It is reported that the Boulevard company is negotiating for other corners in the southwestern part of the city regarded as logical business sites, but locations will be withheld pending acquisition.

Boulevard Frontage Operations.

The Boulevard Frontage Co. of which Harry Brinkop is president, was launched eight months ago. It declared its initial dividend last week. Since its incorporation it has acquired approximately 4000 front feet of business real estate on main St. Louis boulevards. A comparatively small portion of this has been resold, but negotiations are

FOUR NEW INDUSTRIES FOR CITY IN MONTH

Nine Factories Already Here Announce Expansion Plans in September.

Construction of 111,000 square feet of factory space and investment of $440,000 will be required for four new industries established in the St. Louis industrial district in September and for the nine existing industries which expanded their facilities, according to the monthly report of the Industrial Bureau of the Industrial Club of St. Louis. The report, issued yesterday by E. S. Tompkins, acting director of the bureau, stated that 79,700 square feet of existing space will be utilized and employment will be afforded 312 additional factory workers.

"The number of expansion programs announced this month is greater than any previous month since August, 1930," the report continues. "The amount of square feet for new factory construction is larger than any month since November, 1930. Additional employes required and the amount of additional capital investment are both greater than for any single month since March, 1931. While none of these totals is of large proportions, the comparisons are interesting and would seem to indicate, at least, a more optimistic viewpoint on the part of some of our local industries."

Among the new industries announced is National Cinema Service, Inc. This company will produce silent and sound motion pictures, including recording for sales promotion and radio broadcasting.

Principal Business Barometers.

Principal business barometers for the month of September, 1931, compared with the September averages for the preceding five-year period, were summarized as follows: Building permits decreased 43.87 per cent; bank clearings decreased 34.78 per cent; debits to individual accounts decreased 23.24 per cent; postoffice receipts decreased 15.90 per cent; loaded freight cars handled by the Terminal Railroad Association decreased 34.67 per cent; barge line tonnage decreased 3.73 per cent; water consumption increased 2.19 per cent.

For the month of August, 1931, compared with the August averages for the preceding five-year period, telephone calls increased .16 per cent; revenue street car and bus passengers decreased 28.60 per cent on the lines of the St. Louis Public Service Co.; bus revenue passengers decreased 18.86 per cent on the lines of the People's Motorbus Co.; industrial gas consumption decreased 24.51 per cent; industrial electricity supplied by the Union Electric Light and Power Co. increased 34.47 per cent, and industrial electricity supplied by the Laclede Power and Light Co. increased 84.96 per cent.

New Industries Established.

New industries in addition to National Cinema Service, 4237 Duncan avenue, are:

Snug Set Clothes, Inc., 704 Washington avenue, manufacture of wearing apparel; expects to employ about 40 persons.

K. C. Root, Inc., 3219 Papin street, to manufacture mastic set ceramic tile.

G. P. Food Products Co., 6058 Maple avenue, to manufacture a general line of food products.

Expansion are: Sieloff Packing Co., 4329 Natural Bridge avenue, plans the erection of a three-story and basement packing plant addition adjacent to its present plant.

Artificial Ice Co., 3715 Easton avenue, plans to erect an ice storage house with 200,000 cubic feet capacity, construction starting about Nov. 1.

Laclede Packing Co., 3801 Aldine street, has purchased Louis Johann Canning Co., 501 Spring street, Collinsville, Ill., and moved this plant to 2238 McNair avenue.

Christian Board of Publication,

MORE HOME-OWNING CAMPAIGN ON DEC. 1

The National Association of Real Estate Boards has designated Tuesday, Dec. 1 as National Home Savings day, President Harry S. Kissell, Springfield, O., announces. On that day a campaign, based on a recently completed survey of the budgets of low-salaried families, will be made to encourage more home-building by persons of modest means.

Members of the real estate associations in 600 cities, banks and other agencies will use the survey of family spending habits to show prospects how to assemble the money to build their own homes.

Kissell says: "I think that there are thousands of people with modest incomes who could become home owners but do not know it. They think that they simply could not save the down payment. They don't want to change their living standards and they should not change their living standards. The real estate men know that. It wouldn't be good for our business to have homes bought at the expense of other businesses. So, if we can show enough American families where there are leaks that can be turned into savings, we can possibly within six months, divert sufficient funds into the home buying and building market that will be felt all along the line."

W. R. HESSI AND F. H. TOBEY FORM REAL ESTATE FIRM

William R. Hessi and Frank H. Tobey have organized the realty firm of Hessi-Tobey, Inc., with offices at 5427 Gravois avenue.

SEVEN LOTS IN DARSTDALE ARE SOLD BY DARST FIRM

Joseph Darst Realty Co. reports sale of seven lots in Dartdale, University City. Darstdale overlooks the Ruth Park Golf course. Two new five-room modern bungalows are under construction.

Builders are planning to construct a number of five-room bungalows with complete kitchen installation, colored tile baths, showers and other features.

$750,000 KROGER BAKERY BUILDING

New Plant to Be Erected on South Thirty-Ninth Street.

Construction is scheduled to start within 30 days on the new $750,000 bakery building designed for the Kroger Grocery and Baking Co. It will adjoin the company's present quarters at 1311 South Thirty-ninth street. Plans call for a four-story modern fireproof bakery plant with a garage with covered driveway in the rear of the premises.

The new bakery will have a capacity of 9000 loaves of bread an hour and 50,000 pounds of cake a week. It will use four high-speed mixers, each with a capacity of 1300 pounds of dough and two electrically controlled traveling plate ovens, 85 feet in length. Fermentation rooms will be equipped with air conditioning units, making it possible to maintain an even temperature of 87 degrees and a humidity of 78.

A storage room for flour will occupy the basement of the new building, and offices for the St. Louis district will be on the fourth floor. A. S. Grogg, in charge of Kroger operations in this territory, will have supervision of the new plant. The St. Louis plant is part of a program for which building contracts are expected to employ about 300 men. The program also provides for a factory, creamery and sales depot in Cincinnati. This is part of $1,000,000 program.

Solution Found to the Small Home Problem

Saint Louis interests produce very modest homes with unusual character and charm.

Several months ago, the Albert Wenzlick Real Estate Co., sponsored a program of small home construction under the direction of Klingensmith & Grover, Architects, with the object of proving that modest homes, well designed architecturally and well constructed, could be produced at costs comparable to average buildings.

First Group Completed

The first group of three buildings, located on Lloyd Avenue just west of Tamm, in a very modest home neighborhood, has just been completed. One is characteristic of the English Cottage type, one an English town house with half timbered second floor construction and the third a Colonial. They contain five and six rooms and the latest conveniences and built-in features in addition to the distinctive but simple and conservative exterior design. The lawns have been completely sodded and artistically planted with shrubbery. The little English Cottage has been completely furnished, in a very simple, charming and inexpensive manner by the Lammert Furniture Co., American Stove Co., and the Union Electric Light & Power Co.

Hoover's Conference Interested

As an interesting experiment, these homes have attracted the attention of President Hoover's Conference on Home Building and Home Ownership and are being visited by many who are interested in small homes from an architectural standpoint. All of these homes have been built to sell for less than $8,000.00.

Public Invited

The public is invited and the homes are open daily from 10:00 A. M. to 9:00 P. M. A hostess is in charge. They are located at 6478, 6482 and 6484 Lloyd Avenue, one and a half blocks west of Tamm Avenue, and can be easily reached by automobile from Tamm Avenue, either from Manchester on the south or the Tamm Avenue entrance to Forest Park on the north or by Manchester street car to Tamm Avenue. Lloyd Avenue is two blocks north of Manchester. A visit to this group is well worth anyone's time.

PUBLISHER FINDS PEOPLE OF DIFFERENT NATIONS ALIKE

French, German, English and Americans Great Deal Closer Than They Think.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—David Gibson of Cleveland, O., publisher of the Lorain (O.) Journal, returned from a three-months' tour of Europe today with the belief that Great Britain, Continental Europe and America are "a great deal closer than they think they are."

"It is impossible now for the casual observer to distinguish between an Englishman and a German, a German and a Frenchman, or a Frenchman and an American, excepting for speech and accent," he said. "They wear the same clothing, eat about the same food, use the same machinery, dance the same dances and sing the same songs."

From his observations in Europe, Gibson said, he became convinced that tax problems could be solved to a great extent if nations would "cease to fine people for their purchasing power and raise more revenue on socially created values which now is being privately appropriated."

"For example," he said, "England could revive herself industrially by taking the tax off automobiles, which now amounts to $5 for each unit of horse-power.

"The English people are probably the most orderly in the world. They are not surprised at anything. They have been through so much since the thirteenth century they know they will come out of this. They have been attacked from within and without, but the English can stand more grief than any other nation."

TEX RICKARD PROMOTED BOAR HUNTS IN GRAN CHACO

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 10.—Hunters of wild hogs in the Gran Chaco region have the late Tex Rickard to thank for their sport.

Many years ago Rickard tried stock farming in the southern section of the Gran Chaco, the half jungle wilderness which extends into Bolivia and Paraguay and is now causing a boundary dispute between those countries.

To his ranch at Loma Pora he brought blooded Berkshires and middle whites from the United States, but the venture didn't pay and he turned the animals loose.

These tame pigs gone wild interbred with the jabali, or native wild hog, the result being an animal that is savage when cornered.

GRAPE PRODUCTS TEST CASE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 10.—Legality of the sale of unfermented grape products which the Government alleges are potentially alcoholic was at issue today in the trial of the Ukiah Grape Products Co., Inc., of New York, on a charge of violating the prohibitory law. The essential facts of the case, which involves the sale of the company's grape concentrate to householders and others, have been agreed upon.

Government attorneys said the action was in the nature of a test case to determine whether it is lawful to sell grape preparations which may easily be turned into wine.

Chinese Latinized by Soviet.

By the Associated Press.

VLADIVOSTOK, Oct. 10.—A Latinized Chinese written language is to be introduced in the schools of this Far Eastern soviet. The decision came after 28 illiterate coolies had mastered the 28 letters substituted for the 50,000 ideographs of their language and learned to read and write in six weeks.

Ethel Barrymore Drops In

Comes to the Shubert in a Revival of "The School For Scandal"—Mary Hart Brings Suzanne Caubaye, French Star, to Orpheum in "Naughty Cinderella," And Midtown Drags "Dracula" From His Grave.

THREE revivals are offered theatergoers during the coming week with Ethel Barrymore arriving at the Shubert tomorrow night in that ancient classic comedy, "The School for Scandal." At the same time Mary Hart will start her second bill of the season at the Orpheum with Irene Bordoni's great success, "Naughty Cinderella," for which she has brought on the singing French star. Suzanne Caubaye, as the guest artist, and out at the Midtown Theater the Woodward Stock Company has dug into the grave to resurrect that thrilling ghost, "Dracula," for the week which begins there this afternoon.

Miss Hart, Incidentally, has made her first raid on the regular legit houses. "High Hat," which got through at the Shubert last night, has not been the success which its backers hoped for even with the clever Edna Hibbard as its star and so, when the Orpheum's impresarioess stepped in and offered Miss Hibbard a contract that young woman was ready to listen to reason. "High Hat" will end its tour next Saturday night and Miss Hibbard will return here a week from today to begin rehearsals in "The Greek's Had A Word For It," which is to be Miss Hart's next offering.

MISS BARRYMORE has a large and enthusiastic following in St. Louis, a loyal following which was not especially disturbed when its favorite actress presented "Scarlet Sister Mary" here last season. This year, Miss Barrymore is reversing the customary order and is making an extensive tour from coast to coast before presenting "The School for Scandal" in New York.

"The School for Scandal," by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, commonly is regarded as one of the greatest comedies of the English language. It is a satirical play, dealing with a group of reputation wreckers of the upper social strata. As Lady Teazle, Miss Barrymore again puts breath into one of the renowned characters of English drama and in her company here will be Walter Gilbert, McKay Morris, C. H. Croker-King, Beatrice Terry, Harry Plimmer, Ernest Cowan, Charles Romano, Anita Rothe, Anne Seymour, William Shaw, Marcel Dill, A. G. Andrews, Ralph Roberts, Arthur Treacher, Charles Campbell and others.

The American Theater, which has had no attractions so far this season, now announces its opening date as Oct. 25 when it will get Frank Craven's comedy, "Salt Water," with Taylor Holmes as the star. This will be followed on Nov. [illegible] by Noel Coward's play, "Private Lives," with Donald Brian and Edith Taliaferro heading the cast. After that the American is to get George Tyler's revival of "The Admirable Crichton," starring Walter Hampden and Fay Bainter.

IN ADDITION to Miss Caubaye, Miss Hart has brought on, for "Naughty Cinderella," Robert [illegible] and Robert Hyman, Mr. Hyman being cast in the leading juvenile part. Pierre Watkin, popular idol of three seasons with Miss Hart, will be seen in an important role.

"Naughty Cinderella" is a romantic farce containing several song numbers which are sung by Miss Caubaye during the course of the play. The story centers around a Parisian working girl, poor but respectable," who assumes the job of home-wrecking on the Lido at [illegible]00 francs a week. The home to be wrecked is that of Gerald Gray who has become enamoured of a Mrs. Fenton. She and her husband are bound for the Lido, and Gerald, who has one of those simple trusting natures, believes that as long as he brings his imported housewrecker along, everything will be all right. Gerald, however, was quite wrong, and the situations which follow tend to make the play most entertaining.

"Dracula," which is at the Midtown, needs no retelling here, being entirely familiar to all theater goers. Count Dracula, you doubtless recall, was a thousand year old vampire who came back to life from the grave to pester a nice English family. It has had one of the most successful runs in the history of the American stage, being on the road season after season. Alex Luce, one of the most popular members of the Woodward organization, will have the role of the he-vamp, and Hazel Whitmore will be cast as the trusting young thing who escapes from his clutches.

RICHARD BRINSLEY SHERIDAN'S "The School for Scandal," which Miss Barrymore brings to the Shubert tomorrow night has been playing pretty steadily since it was first produced in London in 1777 with Mrs. Abington as the first Lady Teazle. As early as 1785 it crossed the Atlantic and was produced in New York.

Augustin Daly presented his version at the Fifth Avenue Theater in New York on Sept. 12, 1874; Fannie Davenport was Lady Teazle and among other favorite actors of the time in the company were Mrs. G. H. Gilbert, Sara Jewett, Sol Smith Russell, Louis James, Charles Fisher and William Davidge.

Practically every prominent actress of the nineteenth century had her turn at Lady Teazle—Mme. Vestris in 1827, Mrs. Kendall in [illegible]1, Mrs. Bancroft in 1875, Mrs. John Wood in 1875, Ellen Terry in [illegible], while Ada Rehan and Louisa Drew, Ethel Barrymore's grandmother and the mother of John Drew, played it year after year.

The Week's New Films

—:— By NIE —:—

HOW the tabloid newspapers dig up 20-year-old scandals and cause battles and murders and suicides and other little trifles of that sort is pleasingly told in "Five Star Final" down at the Ambassador Theater, where "Pepper" Martin of the Cardinals is hogging the show by making personal appearances on the stage. Edward G. Robinson, long identified in the films as an A-No. 1 Public Enemy, has reformed long enough to become the managing editor of the sensation-loving Gazette, and Frances Starr, once a shining light of the legit stage, is the woman whose almost forgotten past is brought to light. She has to kill herself to get out of the pit dug for her by the tab sheet, but there is an indication that her death will bring about a reformation in that style of journalism, so that everything ends as happily as possible under the circumstances. "Five Star Final" is really a fine and thrilling meller, with just the sort of intense entertainment which appeals to the modern movie fan.

Love in the Jungle.

WHEN "East of Borneo," at the St. Louis, goes in for pictures of wild animals—tigers and lions and monkeys and even crocodiles enjoying a nice little meal with a man as the meat course — it is worth seeing, but when it wanders off into a jungle love story it gets pretty flat. You see a white man and his wife, who have not been getting along so well together, get all tangled up with a native Prince who might have placed the woman at the head of his harem if a long slumbering volcano hadn't suddenly come to life. The eruption wipes out the Prince, his palace and everything else around that section of the country but steps aside long enough to allow our heroes to escape by way of a handy river and a raft. Volcanoes are nice things to have around a motion picture lot just for such emergencies but while we have never seen one doing its stuff and saving innocent women from a fate worse than death we got the impression that this one was a little bit fakey.

Women to the Front.

BEBE DANIELS in a cinema idea of Balzac's old story, "The Honor of the Family," is supposed to be the feature at the Missouri this week, but "The Mad Parade," next on the bill, is a better picture. In it is shown how Evelyn Brent, Irene Rich, Louise Fazenda, Lilyan Tashman and a lot of other nice American girls fought and won the World War. Men figure only in the film by innuendo and appear only as shadows, but the girls provide plenty of excitement and thrills and Miss Tashman furnishes plenty of comedy as a wise-cracking nurse who knows what its all about.

Mother Love.

ELISSA LANDI has to depend upon her beauty to wring any sort of success out of "Wicked" at the Fox Theater, for the story is a trite and unlikely history of a young wife who shoots a policeman by accident, and goes to jail for it after her husband has been killed. She has a baby, too, which is adopted by a rich family, and when Elissa gets out of the booby hatch she might never have found the child again if Victor McLaglen hadn't come all the way from Australia to help her. "Wicked" is not very wicked and not very good, either.

Cinderella Is Back.

IN "The Brat," at Loew's, Sally O'Neil is a Daddy Long Legs heroine who is picked up in a Police Court by a tender-hearted writer who decides to make a lady out of her. He succeeds after a struggle, but it is not a very interesting one and the picture is just an ordinary program affair.

Mario Chamlee First Music League Artist

The Civic Music League, which through its membership plan has been able to introduce to St. Louis such artists as Claudia Muzio, Tito Schipa, Paul Kochanski and John Charles Thomas, has announced its series of programs for the 1931-32 season. This will be the organization's ninth season.

A recital by Mario Chamlee, tenor, will be the first offering. Chamlee, formerly with the Metropolitan Opera Company, has recently been singing important roles with the Ravinia Opera Company at Chicago. He will be followed by the Gordon String Quartet, headed by Jacques Gordon, former concert master of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and pupil of the late Frank Kneisel.

Next will come Kruetzberg and his group of dancers, whose work has been characterized by a departure from conventional routine. Kruetzberg and his dancing partner, Georgi, were brought here two years ago by the Civic Music League. Walter Gieseking, pianist, who has won acclaim both in Europe and America, will be the fourth attraction.

The final program of the series will be given on April 19 by Mme. Elizabeth Rethberg, lyric-dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera. This will be Mme. Rothberg's first appearance in St. Louis.

All the programs will be at the Odeon.

Sally O'Neil in "The Brat," Loew's.

Rose Hobart in "East of Borneo," at the St. Louis.

Facing The Music

THE St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will begin intensive preparations for its fifty-second season with its first rehearsal under Vladimir Golschmann, the new guest conductor at the Odeon tomorrow morning. Daily rehearsals will continue for two weeks until the opening of the symphonic year with concerts on Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, Nov. 23 and 24.

An orchestra with many changes in its personnel will face Mr. Golschmann tomorrow morning. Death has taken three of its members. Some others have moved from St. Louis and among the new members will be Scipione Guidi, who last season completed 10 years as concert master of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and who is the St. Louis Symphony's new concert master and assistant conductor; Rene Corn, for five years first oboe of the Cincinnati Orchestra under Fritz Reiner; Mme. Graziella Pampari, who returns to the orchestra as solo harpist this season, having been absent for a year because of illness, and also her husband Pasquale de Conto, who has served in the 'cello section with distinction in other years.

Mildred Dilling, American harpist, and Olga Averino, Russian soprano, will open the season of The Principia Concert and Lecture Course in joint recital at The Principia next Friday evening, Oct. 16.

Lawrence Tibbett, grand opera and cinema star, will be heard in a concert at the Odeon, Friday, Nov. 6, when the College Club of St. Louis will present him for the silver jubilee of its annual scholarship benefit. Following this autumn's concert tour from coast to coast when St. Louis will hear him one evening, Tibbett will again appear in grand opera.

Fritz Kreisler, violinist, returns to open the recital season at the Odeon, Friday, Oct. 31, when he will be presented under the Cueny Concert direction, which has sponsored his St. Louis appearances for many years.

The first meeting of the Piano Teachers Round Table for the season will be held at the Gatesworth Hotel on Wednesday at 12 o'clock, with Frank E. Arnhold presiding.

Arliss As America's Best

Inherited the Monocle Habit From His Father, Who Was Called "The Duke of Bloomsbury" —Introduced Afternoon Tea to the Hollywood Studios — Greatest Success, Although He Is Thoroughly British, Has Been in This Country.

LIKE Will Rogers, now a movie star of the first magnitude and a man of wealth and position, as told in these columns a Sunday or so ago, George Arliss was no great shakes at the box office in the days of the silent films. Today the man who introduced afternoon tea to Hollywood studio sets and who really looks through a monocle, is America's leading screen actor as he proved again, during the past week, with his portrayal of "Alexander Hamilton" at the Ambassador Theater.

Arliss, despite his American standing, is thoroughly British. The tea and monocle testify to that. Furthermore he has no idea of ever becoming anything more than a transient resident of these United States. He is deeply interested in English politics and between pictures, in Hollywood, he retires, across the Atlantic, to his country home on the Kentish coast where, someday, he expects to settle down and spend his declining years.

And that retirement may come before so very long for Mr. Arliss is no rising young juvenile man of the stage or screen. He is close to 64 years of age having been born on Good Friday, in 1868, in a district of London known as Bloomsbury where his father, through the same monocle habit carried on by his son today, was called "The Duke of Bloomsbury." The elder Arliss was a printer and publisher in a small and not very successful way and young George worked in the print shop by days and took a fling at amateur theatricals by nights.

FINALLY young George decided on a theatrical career and he made his debut as a "super" with the Elephant and Castle Stock Company in London in a melodrama, "Saved From the Sea." There he played to a three penny gallery and had to make himself heard over the crackle of hot chipped potatoes and the munching of fried fish. Better roles came and then he played a season in musical comedy. He admits that his singing voice was terrible.

Then he got to London's fashionable West End Theaters and finally an engagement with Mrs. Patrick Campbell. He became popular with audiences; in fact, he had arrived. Then he met Florence Montgomery whom he first noticed because she had "nice arms." He proposed when they had both been caught in a sudden rainstorm, and they were married. You saw her with him on the screen in "Disraeli" and "The Millionaire." He gives her credit for the important decisions made during his career. This includes his decison to come to America with Mrs. Patrick Campbell's company. He came for a four months' tour and he has been coming back for more than 20 years. He was disappointed in Fifth Avenue when he first saw it, but he found out later that he had seen Sixth Avenue and thought it was Fifth.

His success was greater in America than it had been in London. He scored in Pinero's "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," and in the same dramatist's "The Notorious Mrs. Ebbsmith." Then he was engaged by David Belasco for "The Darling of the Gods" with Blanche Bates. He was a leading member of Mrs. Fiske's notable Manhattan Company for several seasons, playing in "Becky Sharp," "Leah Kleschna" "Hedda Gabler" and many others.

HE was first starred in Franz Molnar's "The Devil," which opened in New York on Aug. 18, 1908. His wife had said, "We must remain in America, and you must become a star." So he did. Other plays came. Then "Disraeli," which was his first outstanding success. It opened in Montreal, then moved to Chicago. It seemed doomed to failure. While it was "failing" Mr. Arliss agreed to play on Sundays. Finally the play caught on and became a tremendous success. He has not played on the stage or in a motion picture scene on Sunday since that time.

Following came two biographical dramas, "Paganini" and "Alexander Hamilton," the last of which has just served him again as a screen vehicle. Then he scored in "The Green Goddess" and was successful in John Galsworthy's "Old English." There is an amusing anecdote about "Old English." It seems that the character that Arliss played was intended to be a gentleman greatly over weight. At rehearsals Arliss stuffed pillows under his coat, but he decided he did not care for that style of embonpoint. He became the slender Englishman that you have seen in "Old English" both on stage and screen. His last stage appearance was as Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice."

Mr. Arliss has said that Hollywood had a great deal of courage to present him on the screen in "Disraeli."

"First they had to engage me. That was a risk. Even my most ardent admirers admit that I am not much to look at. That doesn't much matter in the regular theater, but it has always been considered a drawback on the screen. Then the kind of parts I play offer no effective scope for the art of osculation. My screen kisses nearly always have to be either paternal or avuncular—never lasting more than the fraction of a second. It is impossible to fade out on one of my kisses. I can't ride a horse, I can't drive an aeroplane, I can't even drive an automobile. So what is there left?"

MR. ARLISS declared that he mentioned these facts to the cinema magnate, and that all the producer said was, "I want you to do 'Disraeli.'" Mr. Arliss asked why, and got the answer, "Because I think it is very fine and I want to put it out." Then Mr. Arliss asked if the producer thought it would make any money.

"To be frank with you," he was told, "we don't expect to make money out of it. But we admire it and we are willing to take a chance. There is one thing it will do. It will bring a certain class of the public to the pictures that we have never been able to reach."

The picture was both an artistic and financial success and was awarded the Photoplay Gold Medal which proclaimed "Disraeli" as the outstanding motion picture production for the year 1929.

As Mr. Arliss admits, he is not a handsome man. His features are interesting and aristocratic, but irregular. He is a meticulous dresser and something of a dandy. He is never seen without his monocle. He does not carry a cane but he smokes gold-tipped cigarettes made especially for him. He is not generally satisfied with portraits of himself. Possibly this is why he has played character roles from the beginning of his career.

He never authorizes anyone to write a statement for him and is suspicious of press agents. He is a delightful conversationalist and always has something important or interesting to say to interviewers. He will not be interviewed by the so-called "sob sister." He is reticent regarding his personal life which is very beautiful and domestic, and he will not discuss it with newspaper people.

He is a lover of good books and disapproves of scandalous memoirs published currently and declares it is a "blackguardly thing to do." He is very fond of the theater and takes great enjoyment in a good play. He did not like silent motion pictures and he regarded them as a primitive form of entertainment.

He has no favorite role on stage or screen, declaring his favorite is the one he is about to play. He thinks that the English spoken by educated Americans is superior to the extreme Oxford accent.

TRUSTEE TO FORECLOSE ON DELMONTE BUILDING

Acts Without Recourse to Courts — Sale Scheduled for Nov. 3.

The Delmonte Hotel and theater building, at 5630 Delmar boulevard, is advertised for sale at foreclosure for the benefit of holders of defaulted mortgage bonds. The sale is to be held Nov. 3 on the steps of the Civil Courthouse.

A foreclosure and receivership suit filed in Circuit Court was dismissed yesterday by the Franklin-American Trust Co., which brought the action as trustee for the bondholders. Thomas S. McPheeters, attorney for the bondholders, said this was done to expedite the sale. The trustee has power under the terms of the trust, he explained, to foreclose the property when bonds are in default, without recourse to the courts.

Construction of the building was financed in 1924 by the sale of $300,000 in first mortgage bonds, issued by the Delmonte Investment Co. The investment company retired $69,500 of the bonds within the next few years, but in June, 1930, defaulted in payment of both interest and principal.

When the building was erected the theater was advertised as the largest one-floor moving picture theater in the world. Several operators who leased it were unable to do a profitable business and for a long time it was vacant. A year ago it was remodeled and occupied for a brief time by Club Diablo, a night club. This venture failed and then it was converted into a roller skating rink. Lately it has been vacant again.

In addition to the first mortgage of $230,500, about $12,000 in mechanics' liens have been filed by contractors who remodeled the auditorium for use of the night club. The bondholders' suit was filed, it was explained, in an effort to have these adjudged claims against the night club owners and subordinate to the bonds. The suit was dropped when attorneys came to the conclusion that the mechanics' liens would be subordinate to the bonds in any event.

Principal stockholders of the Delmonte Investment Co. are Lambert Walther, an attorney; former Mayor Frederick H. Kreismann and F. L. Cornwall, a real estate dealer.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD MEMBERSHIP WEEK

Local Organization Seeks to Collect 20,000 Garments for Needy.

National Membership Week of the Needlework Guild of America is being observed in St. Louis and throughout the country this week. The St. Louis branch, one of nearly 700 in the nation, is seeking new members and new units, and is preparing for its thirty-ninth annual exhibition of garments collected.

The object of the guild is to collect and distribute new, plain garments for men, women and children, to meet the requirements of hospitals, homes, schools and other institutions coming in contact with the needy. The name is a misnomer, for most members buy garments rather than make them, although some groups, in churches and elsewhere, do their own sewing.

While women comprise the bulk of membership, men and children are eligible also. To become a member, a person must contribute two or more articles of wearing apparel, of the same size; some household linen or bedding, or a sum of money. Shoes are included in the collection.

The St. Louis branch is conducting its annual collection of garments now. They will be displayed, before distribution among local institutions, at the annual meeting, to be held this year at West Presbyterian Church, 5872 Maple avenue, on Nov. 3. Donations may be sent to Mrs. James A. Dickson, president of the St. Louis branch, at 5883 Julian avenue, or information concerning membership obtained from her. Her telephone is MUlberry 5223. The public may view the exhibition.

Mrs. Dickson will deliver addresses over radio station KWK and WIL today about the work of the guild.

The guild includes junior sections among such organizations as Campfire Girls and Boy Scouts, and is seeking more, as a means of perpetuating the work. Those benefiting from the guild's collection include all ages, from newborn babies to the aged and infirm. One class served is the poor convalescent, going home from a hospital with inadequate clothing.

This year's goal in St. Louis is the collection of at least 20,000 garments. Last year a record was set of 19,085 garments, sent to 73 institutions. The branch is co-operating with the clothing bureau of the Citizens' Committee on Unemployment Relief.

Col. Brockman Shows Dual-Drive, 6-Wheel 3-Ton Federal Truck

Four and Six Cylinder Models Said to Give Great Traction With Heavy Loads.

A new three-ton, dual-drive, six-wheel Federal truck was introduced locally Monday night at a meeting of 175 truck owners at the showrooms of the Federal Truck Co. of St. Louis, 4022 West Pine boulevard. Col. Philip Brockman, head of the company, entertained the truck men. Maj. Robert E. Lee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, acted as master of ceremonies.

Speakers included Rex Glasson, sales promotion manager for the Federal Truck Co., and W. P. Bates, Southwestern district manager for Federal Truck. A moving picture showed performance of the new dual-drive truck on bad roads as well as on hills and in stopping.

There was also a guessing contest on the number of miles that the new three-tonner would run on five gallons of gasoline. The mileage made, as certified by R. W. Matthews of the Automobile Club of St. Louis, was 48.2 miles to the five gallons.

The new dual-drive Federal truck comes in four-cylinder and six-cylinder models at $1350 and $1450 at factory for standard chassis, respectively. Unusual traction is given by the dual drive, which, like other Federal six-wheel equipment, is designed to provide economical handling of relatively large loads. The dual drive is said to be particularly adapted to operation in sand, mud, deep snow or under other conditions which require maximum traction and materially broadens the field of practical six-wheel operation.

The dual drive for this new truck was developed by Federal engineers. Among the patented features are the spring suspension and reservoir method of lubricating trunnion pins. Power is applied to the four rear wheels through two bevel drive full-floating rear axles with oversize differentials and driving gears.

Unusual tire economy is said to be accomplished by the unique arrangement of the spring suspension. There are two bearings on each side—one above and one below the axles attached at the center to forked bearing brackets mounted on a short trunnion shaft supported from the frame side rail.

The upper spring on one side is shackled at the forward end, while the lower spring on the other side is shackled at the rear. With this construction, there is provided not only considerable flexibility in the tandem unit, but there is also a natural tendency for the wheels to "track" each other when rounding curves. The same pronounced ease of riding and load-cushioning properties of the single-drive Federal are incorporated in this model.

Truck Overloading Means Greater Cost Through Tire Trouble

Of interest to truck operators is the recent statement by tire engineers of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., maker of Silvertown tires, that increasing truck loads in the effort to cut transportation costs, usually causes unwarranted tire trouble.

According to E. R. Kenner, general manager of Goodrich Silvertown, Inc., 2301 Olive street, excessive loads cause undue strain on the cords embodied in the tire designed for certain stresses. Flexing of these cords, beyond the natural recovery weakens the inner structure of the casing and makes the tire more susceptible to tire bruise and ultimate failure.

"In addition," Kenner says, "overloading often is combined with underinflation, which alone is one of the most serious of tire negligencies. The practice of having tire pressure checked regularly is of extreme importance to every owner who is expecting maximum utility from his truck and top mileage from his tires.

"It takes only a few minutes to gauge the pressure and inflate the tires, which is a service gladly performed by the tire merchant."

Slow Driving Not Favored.

It is unlawful for any person unnecessarily to drive an automobile in West Virginia at such slow speed as to block the normal and reasonable movement of traffic. This highway ruling is enforced, except when reduced speed is necessary for safe operation or on a grade or when a vehicle is a truck or truck and trailer necessarily, or in compliance with the law, proceeding at a slow speed.

Time to Have Car Made Ready for Cold Weather Driving

Wiring Should Be Overhauled as Well as Cooling System and Mechanism.

At this season motorists would better have their cars overhauled and prepared for winter driving.

"Due to shorter days and colder weather, considerably more work is imposed on the electrical system of an automobile in winter," say Oldsmobile service men. "Therefore, it is wise to have the service man go over all the wiring, replace any broken wires, or those on which the insulation is worn, and clean and tighten all terminal connections so as to prevent current leaks.

"All light bulbs should be checked and new ones installed where needed. The battery should be checked and kept well supplied with distilled water. Battery terminals should be cleaned and greased. If the battery is kept fully charged, there is no danger of it freezing and it should function without trouble.

"The cooling system should be thoroughly cleaned and inspected before adding any special anti-freeze compounds. It is advisable to have this done by a competent service man who is trained and experienced in this work, and who has the proper equipment for doing it. He should tighten all radiator and hose connections, to prevent leaks.

"Tires should be carefully inspected to see if the wear is inclined to be to one side of the center. If this is the case, the tires should be reversed on the rims, to give additional tire mileage. If motorists are likely to drive fast, the best tires should be placed on the front, where there is greatest danger in case of blowouts.

"Other things which should have the attention of the service man are the draining of the differential and transmission and refilling with winter grade lubricant; cleaning and spacing spark plugs and distributor points, and setting the ignition timing; general tightening of chassis and steering parts; cleaning generator commutator and adjusting charging rate for winter driving; adjusting valve lifters; adjusting and equalizing brakes, and aligning front wheels.

"Periodic minor adjustments, tightening of chassis and proper lubrication will keep a car running like new. At this time Oldsmobile service stations are specializing on the operations which contribute to better car performance during the winter."

L. F. Thompson Heads Distributers Of Anti-Carbon Fluid

L. F. Thompson, who was for years connected in an official capacity with the J. C. Penney company's St. Louis office, has opened a sales office at 520 North Grand boulevard, with warehouse at 3656 Washington boulevard, under the name of Dynamic Sales Co., to distribute Neal's Dynamic Fluid, manufactured in Chicago.

This is a preparation for treating gasoline by which carbon is eliminated, and imperfect seating and sticky valves, sticky rings and burnt pistons are prevented. By conditioning the motor, more power is given, therefore more miles per gallon of gasoline and less consumption of oil.

Thompson says that it is being used by some of the large truck operators in this district and the reports from them are most satisfactory.

New High Gloss Finish for Autos

Ray-O-Lite, a new high gloss finish, is being introduced by the M. J. Beirne Supply Co., 3803 Page avenue. The Beirne Co. was formerly at 3330 Washington boulevard. It is well known to St. Louis contractors, fleet owners, industrial plants, automobile dealers and to the automotive trade, for high grade lubricating oils, greases and auto and liquid soaps.

Beirne has spent considerable time in perfecting Ray-O-Lite so that it affords a durable high gloss without much rubbing. Tests have proven that the finish remains glossy and intact for more than 30 days on a car.

Oakland-Pontiac Dealer for Downtown Section

PRESIDENT of the Central States Motor Co., 3145 Locust boulevard, which has been appointed downtown associate dealer for Oakland and Pontiac cars. The appointment is announced by R. D. Williams, zone manager for the Oakland Motor Car Co. The firm is distributor of Franklin cars.

Hambuechen has had years of experience in the automotive business. His firm has ample service facilities and has 25,000 square feet of floor space in its building. Extra equipment has been installed for servicing Oakland and Pontiac cars of all models.

Buick Car That Paced Speedway Oil Tests Visits St. Louis Zone

Buick dealers in the St. Louis metropolitan district showed and demonstrated the past week the Buick model 8-90 seven-passenger sedan which was one of 13 cars used by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana in its official test run on the Indianapolis Speedway early this year, under supervision of the A. A. A. This Buick was the "No. 1" car in the test and was the official pacemaker in all the runs.

The idea behind the test was to determine certain facts regarding oil consumption at varying motor and car speeds, formation and deposit of carbon and effect of different grades of motor oils on engine operation.

The Buick pacemaker has a number of special instruments in addition to those on the regular instrument board. This includes a special chronometer with 1-5-second graduations for stop-watch timing, oil temperature gauge and water temperature gauge, tachometer, indicating motor revolutions per minute; a decellerometer, which indicates the rapidity of pickup or speed in stopping, and a special flowmeter for indicating gasoline consumption.

Following the test run at Indianapolis, the Standard Oil Co. sent the various cars around the country to visit the dealers handling each particular make of car.

The car was placed at the disposal of the Willcockson-Buick Co., South Side Buick Auto Co., West Side Buick Auto Co. and Kuhs Buick Co., giving the men in each organization an opportunity to tride in the car and observe the action of the recording instruments and to also show the car to pospective buyers.

Following the St. Louis visit, the car was sent to East St. Louis, Granite City, Cape Girardeau. It will return to Webster Groves on Saturday, Oct. 10, to be on exhibition by the Rederer-Renger-Buick Co. Following that, the car will go to Metropolis, Ill., before leaving the St. Louis zone.

Cadillac-La Salle Pistons Fitted to 10,000th of an Inch

In fitting pistons pins in the assembling of Cadillac and LaSalle engines, tolerance, or variation from perfection, permitted is one-tenth of one-thousandth of an inch —one-fortieth the thickness of a hair.

If one divided a copper cent into eight equal sections and attempted to feel the weight of one of the sections by balancing it on his finger, he might realize how accurately reciprocating parts of Cadillac and LaSalle engines are balanced. For the tolerance here is one sixty-fourth of an ounce, which is equal to the eighth part of a cent.

Gasoline Substitute.

A substitute for gasoline as fuel for automobile and other internal combustion engines, recently invented by a chemist in Chile, can be produced at a cost of less than a cent a quart. The new fuel contains the essence of eucalyptus, pines, balm essence and other native growths.

New General Motors Low-Priced Truck Models Stir Interest

Much interest is being shown in St. Louis, as well as in other major cities, in the new General Motors ton-and-a-half to two-ton low-priced truck, according to Harry De Hart, advertising manager of the General Motors Truck Co., Pontiac, Mich. De Hart was in St. Louis Thursday to confer with O. H. Perkins, St. Louis zone manager, on the introduction of this new truck, which is being displayed at the company's branch headquarters, 2640 Washington boulevard. Priced at $595 to $665, this new truck has a six-cylinder engine of 60 horse-power. It is finished in deep Murat green with Venetian yellow striping. Twelve other optional color combinations are offered at no additional cost.

A full range of body types is offered with this new truck, making it available for use in any type of industry, business, or in the agricultural field.

Effortless steering is obtained through a steering gear of the roller-bearing worm type with three teeth in mesh. Large load-carrying space is provided in both trucks with maximum body width between the tires of more than 45 inches and a maximum length behind the cab of 9 feet on the 131-inch and 12 feet on the 157-inch base.

Smooth, even engine performance, without vibration, is assured through use of a heavy crankshaft, which is not only statically and dynamically balanced, but is counterweighted and equipped with harmonic torsional balancer as well. Three-point engine suspension is used.

A feature is the flat tube and fin type radiator, affording protection against bursting if frozen.

License Tags for Congressmen.

The 1932 automobile license plates for every member of Congress will be displayed in patriotic three colors. The plate has a white background. The border and "1932" are in blue. The number and the congressional designation are in red.

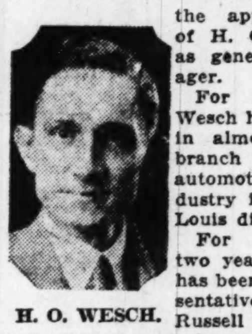
Automobile grade crossing fatalities in the United States were reduced from 2485 in 1929 to 2020 in 1930.

Wesch Appointed As General Manager Of Brake Service Co.

M. A. Chaudet, president of the General Brake Service Corporation, 2727 Locust boulevard, announces the appointment of H. O. Wesch as general manager.



H. O. WESCH.

For 14 years Wesch has served in almost every branch of the automotive industry in the St. Louis district.

For the past two years Wesch has been a representative for the Russell Manufacturing Co., manufacturers of Rusco products. A policy of the Russell company is to train its men in detail and all the problems of brake service stations. Previous to that time he was sales manager for the Standard Auto Parts Co.

The General Brake Service Corporation is a pioneer in the brake business in St. Louis. In fact, it is one of the first and largest exclusive brake service stations in the country with a large plant on Locust boulevard and two sub-stations, one in South St. Louis at Grand and Fairview, the other at 5821 Delmar boulevard.

High 'Gas' Mileage In Studebaker Free Wheeling Contest

During recent months numerous tests in different parts of the country have demonstrated the saving in gasoline consumption through Studebaker free wheeling. The latest evidence is supplied by an economy contest at Terre Haute, Ind., in which eight men and five women averaged 28.3 miles per gallon.

Homer Pugh, employed by the Terre Haute Malleable Co., was winner with the average of 31.8 miles to the gallon. I nt Jacob, a student, averaged 31 miles. Carson Mann was third with 30.4 miles per gallon.

The contest was sponsored by Studebaker dealers in Terre Haute. Supervision was in the hands of a committee of two newspaper men and the secretary of the local automobile club.

The contestants in turn drove a stock Studebaker six sedan over a prescribed route which covered every type of driving condition with which the average motorist comes in contact. They were required to start the car, travel at any desired speed, observe stop signals, etc.

In preparing the car for the run, the regular gas line was disconnected, carburetor drained and a half-gallon of fuel fed through a container certified before each start by the city official in charge of weights and measures.

Graham-Paige's Salesmen's Plan Said to Work Well

In a summary of two months' operation of the Graham-Paige salesmen's co-operative compensation plan, under which the factory shares equally with the dealer the burden of paying salaries to new salesmen, C. W. Matheson, general sales manager of the Graham-Paige Motors Corporation, says that the plan has been successful in its main purpose; that is, the discovering and developing of productive salesmen during the slack selling season, so that dealers may be well prepared for the peak of business that will mark the return of better times.

"The salesmen's co-operative compensation plan," says Matheson, "was put in effect when, because of the seasonal falling off of sales, many dealers had been compelled to reduce their sales forces to an extreme minimum.

"The plan was, of course, an experiment, since it was the first instance in the automotive industry of a factory's sharing in the paying of retail salesmen's salaries and the first attempt to put motor car salesmen on a regular income basis through factory co-operation.

"During the two months that the plan has been in operation, our dealers have engaged hundreds of new salesmen. Dealers were permitted to give each salesman a three weeks' test, to determine whether he would produce. There has been a large turnover, which was to be expected — but many salesmen quickly demstrated real ability."

Franklin Reduces Prices as Low as $1795 for One Model

The Franklin Automobile Co., Syracuse, N. Y., announces new low prices for current Franklin models as low as $1795 for the Transcontinent sedan, with similar reductions on 21 other types in the complete de luxe and Transcontinent lines.

This action establishes the lowest sedan price in the company's 30 years of manufacture of air-cooled cars, says L. P. Hambuechen, of the Central States Motor Co., distributer of Franklin cars. It brings this base price under $2000 for the first time and puts Franklin in the position of the lowest priced fine car on the market. The reductions range as high as $500, representing 22 per cent below previous list prices. Prices of the de luxe models now start at $2395 for the sedan.

The reductions apply on the very latest production, which constitutes Series 15 Franklins incorporating the airplane-type air-cooled motor and the latest body features, with all the mechanical refinements made within recent months.

The new scale of Franklin prices accomplishes the aim of the Franklin company, inaugurated two years ago, to introduce its established fine car standards at prices practically on a par with the medium price field.

Reo Royale Special Does 104 M. P. H.

Officially timed by American Automobile Association officials a Reo Royale Eight special which, except for body, was almost a duplicate of the Reo-built Elco Royale special that finished ninth in the Indianapolis 500-mile race this year, traveled both ways over a measured kilometer on Pismo Beach, Cal., in an average of 21.415 seconds or at 104.45 miles per hour.

Parker Abbott, a former race driver, who piloted the car during the trial, gave the aerodynamic lines of the body a share of the credit for the performance, reducing as they did the wind resistance.

Here and There on the Air

By J. L. S.

A DEPARTURE in radio advertising programs, virtually eliminating commercial features and urging listeners to read the newspapers for advertisements, has been inaugurated in New York with a flood of commendation from the listeners, the Associated Press reports. The innovation was sponsored by the National Sugar Refining Co., New Jersey. After two years of broadcast advertising in the customary manner, the company announced at the beginning of its usual half hour musical broadcast over NBC: "In tonight's program we initiate an innovation in radio. We have done away with our commerical advertising announcements. We realize that as you listen in on our program you wish to be entertained." It was then suggested that listeners interested in the company's product read its newspaper advertisements. Since then the company has merely announced its sponsorship of the program at the start, with no interruption of the musical numbers for commercial announcements. At the time of pause for station announcements attention is called to the fact that the firm's advertisements appear in the daily newspapers. Company officials say their radio plan has attracted favorable comment from listeners in all parts of the country and that many letters of commendation have been received.

FOR an hour and three-quarters, from 7:15 to 9 o'clock, tomorrow night the Columbia network, including KMOX, will broadcast the first concert of the season by Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. The concert, in a measure, will survey seventeenth century music from the founding of modern opera in Italy to the works of Bach and Handel. The concert will open with excerpts from the opera, "Orfto," which Claudio Monteverde, maestro di capella to the Duke of Mantua, wrote in 1602. Then will come excerpts from five operas by Jean Baptiste Lully, an Italian who became a subject of Louis XIV of France. Henry Purcell, the leading British composer of his day, will be represented by his Concerto Grosso in D-minor. Next will come an overture by Rameau and the delightful "Water Music" of Handel. The broadcast will conclude with five works by Bach—the Fugue in C-minor, Prelude in E-flat minor, two choral vorspiels and the Toccato and Fugue in D-minor. The concert will be broadcast from the Philadelphia Academy of Music, and Linton Martin and Pitts Sanborn, music critics, will attempt to make listeners see and realize the scene in the auditorium where a brilliant audience will be gathered. The new dynamic microphones will be used.

The Mexican station, which has been broadcasting for a week on 730 kilocycles, between WGN and WSB, announcing its call letters as XER, is the new transmitter built by Dr. John Brinkley, whose station in Kansas was ruled off the air by the Federal Radio Commission and then sold to another licensee. The station's signals are very strong, blotting out other Mexican, Cuban and Canadian stations on the 730 kc. channel. Interference with WGN is already noted by owners of the less selective receivers. Announcements from XER say that the station will go on a commercial basis Oct. 21.

Radio Trade Notes

Atwater Kent Distributer Moves to New Quarters.

The Brown Supply Co., Atwater Kent distributer, has moved its headquarters to the large modern building at 2800 Pine street, corner of Leffingwell avenue. Fronting 155 feet on Pine street and running back 135 feet, this building gives the firm a showroom 80 by 40 feet as well as large office space and about 15,000 square feet of storage room. The repair and stock department has been equipped to service any model of Atwater Kent receivers, from the earliest make.

The Brown Supply Co., formerly the Brown & Hall Supply Co., has been in business since 1913. Norman S. Brown is president of the company; Fred A. Wiebe, vice president and general manager; Gilbert E. Semple, secretary, and Forrest Brewington, treasurer.

Radiotron Dealers Will Meet on Thursday Evening.

A dinner meeting of Radiotron tube dealers will be held at 6:30 next Thursday evening, Oct. 15, at the Chase Hotel. C. H. Hunter, district manager for the RCA Radiotron Co., will preside.

Speakers are expected to include Hayes Clark, division manager for the Mid-West; Ben Barber, Mid-West sales promotion manager, and J. W. McIvor, general sales promotion manager, of New York.

Westinghouse Co. to Distribute Van Sicklen Auto Radio.

The Westinghouse Electric Supply Co. has been appointed distributer of Van Sicklen automobile receivers in Eastern Missouri, Southern Illinois, Arkansas, Western Tennessee and Northern Mississippi.

This set has a six-tube chassis, remote control on the steering column, automatic volume control, full sized dynamic speaker and dust-proof, non-rattling mounting for set and batteries. A variable mu tube, two 24 type screen grid tubes, a 27 type tube and two 171a tubes in push pull audio are used. The detector is of the screen grid power type.

"Hyper-Heterodyne" Circuit in New 14-Tube Zenith Set.

Among the new Zenith receivers announced by Geller, Ward & Hasner Co., distributer, is a 14-tube set that has a new "hyper-heterodyne" circuit which is said to be a distinct improvement over the superheterodyne circuit so generally used. Other features are a tuning meter to make sure that the set is tuned exactly at the point of highest efficiency and finest tone and an automatic voltage regulator to insure against burning out of tubes by excessive voltage.

The tuning meter was devised because even the keenest, most musically sensitive ear often is at fault in judging reception. Users of this new Zenith can tune in as they hear the reproduction from the speaker, then can make perfect adjustment by looking at the tuning meter. The meter gauge instantly registers whether or not the set is tuned on the exact peak of the station channel. When its indicator swings to the farthest limit at the right, the set is scientifically tuned on the wave peak.

House current may fluctuate from 85 to 135 volts without making any difference to this Zenith receiver.

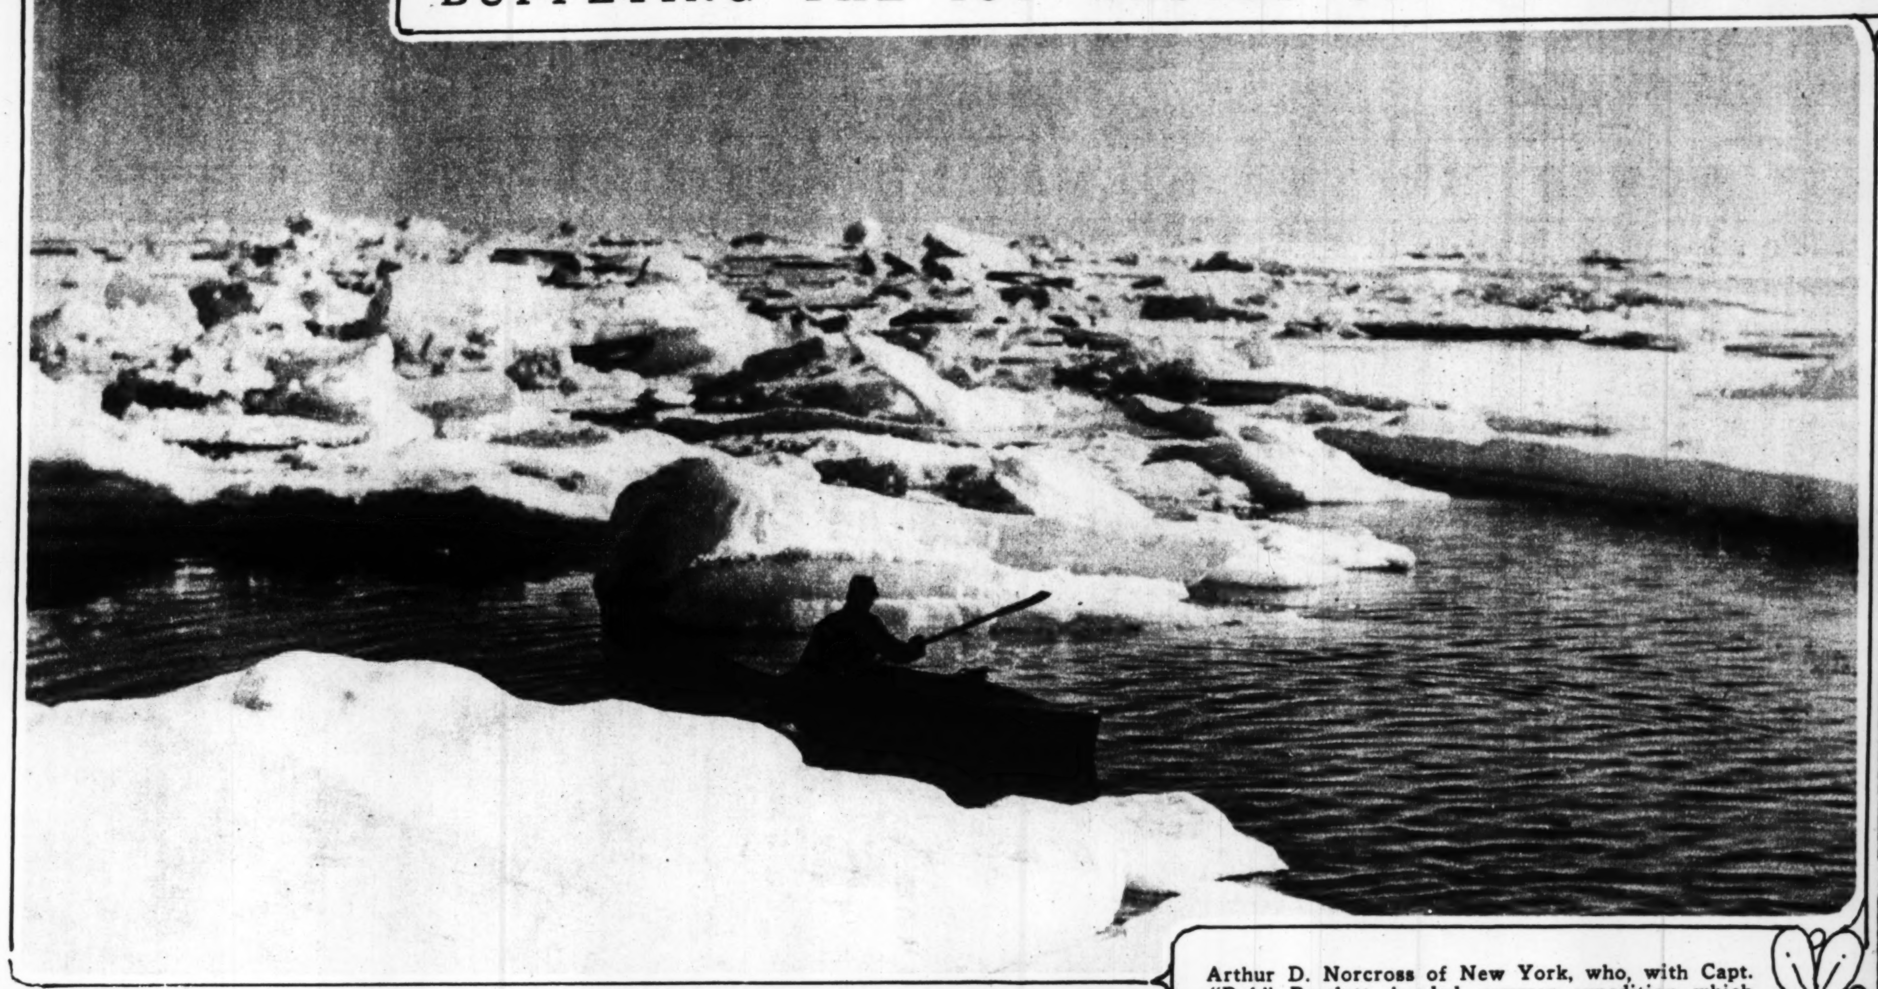
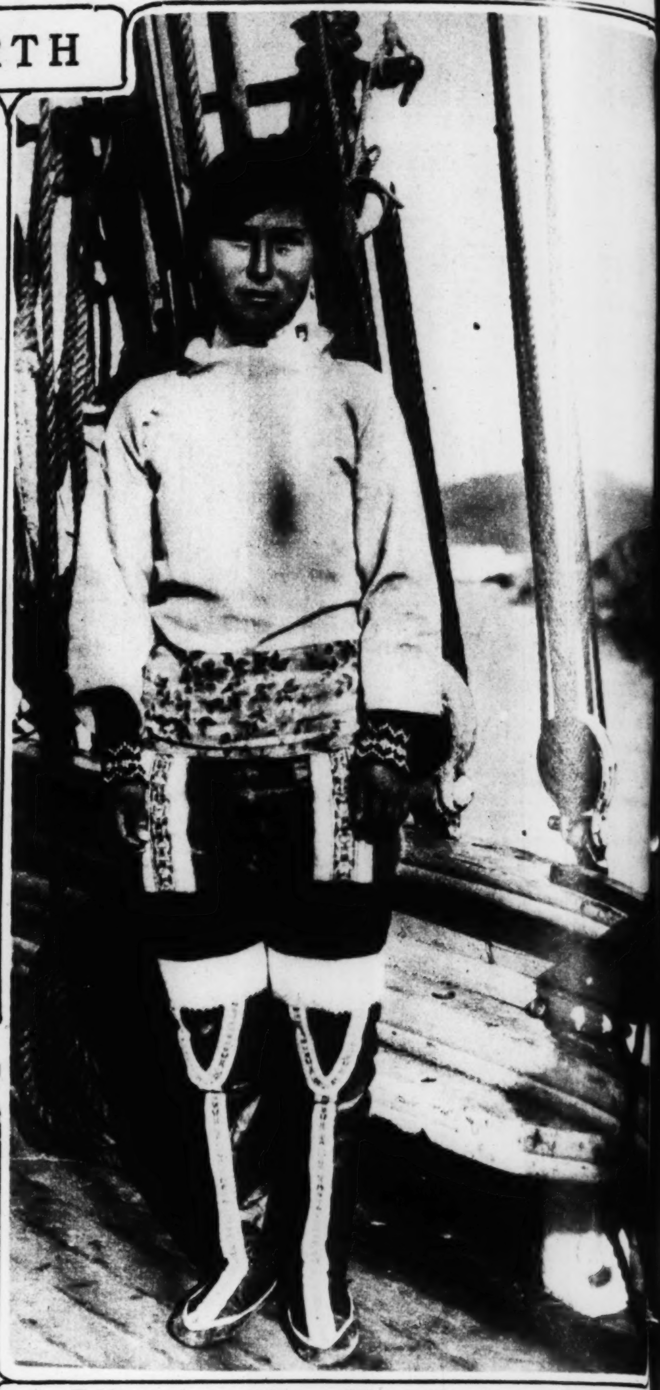
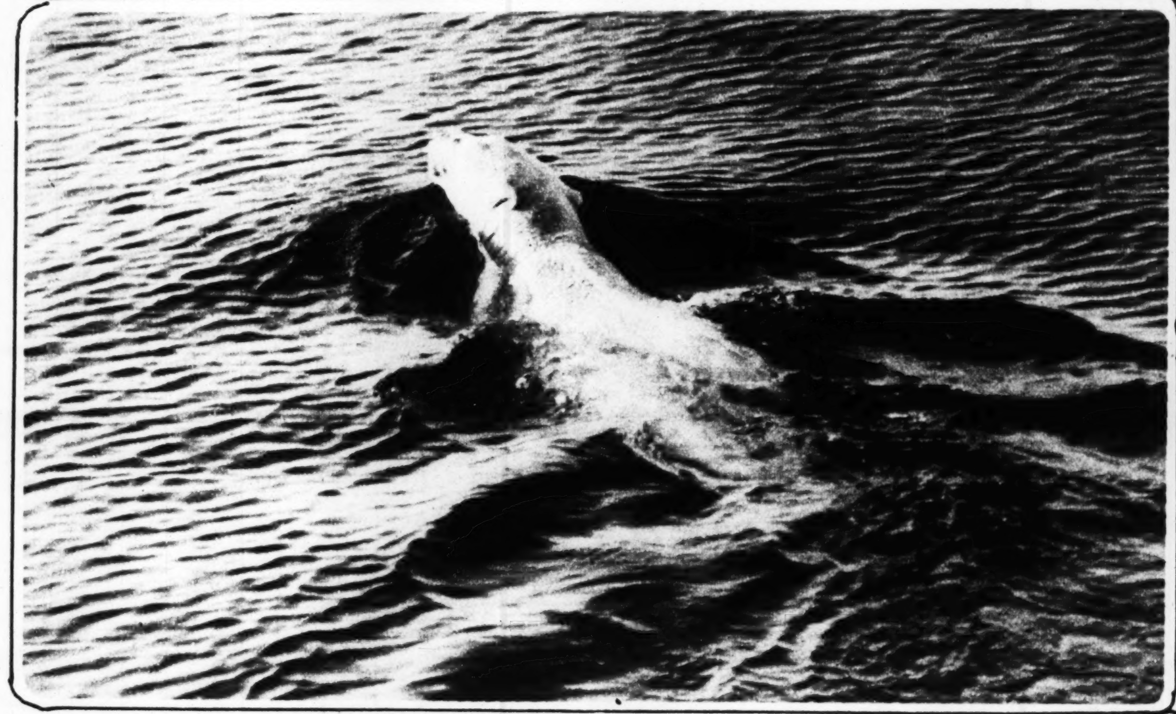
BUFFETING THE ICY WASTES OF THE FAR NORTH



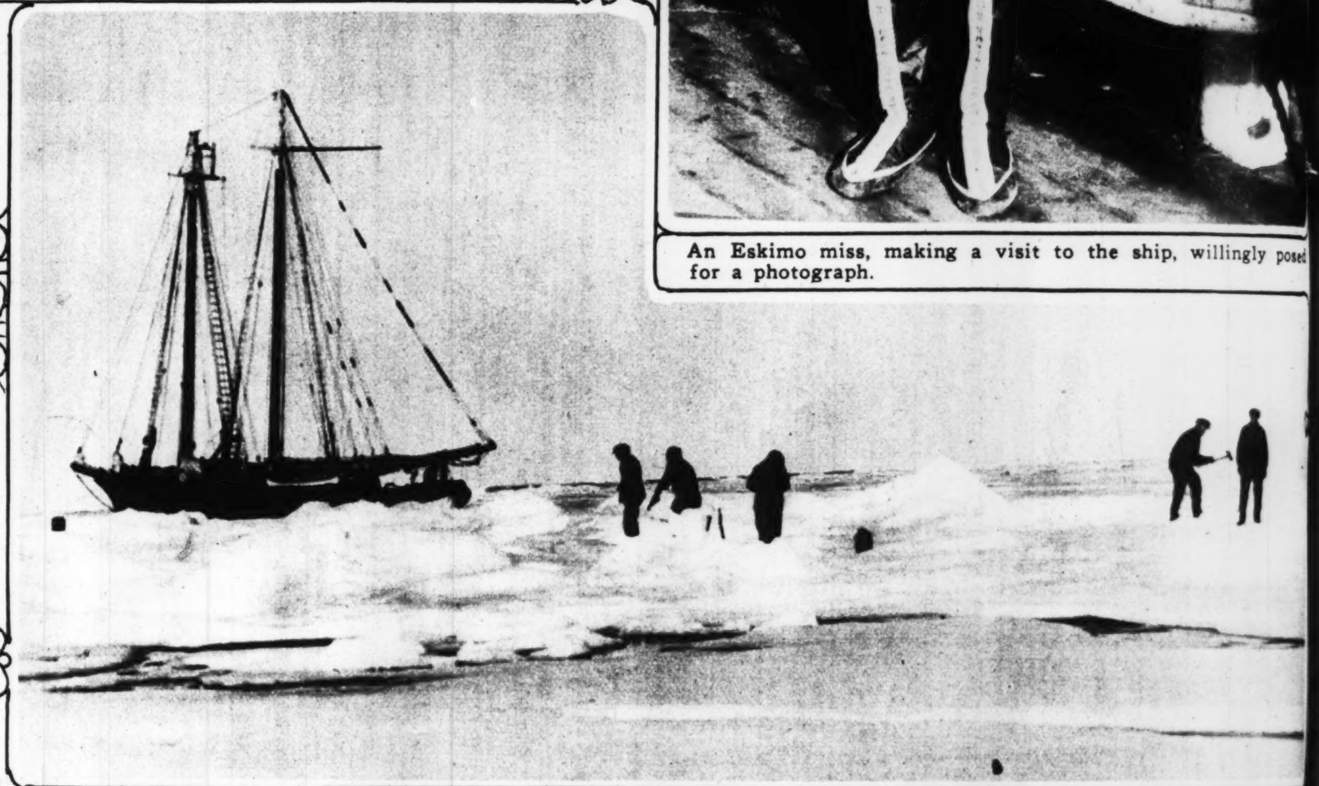
Arthur D. Norcross of New York, who, with Capt. "Bob" Bartlett, headed summer expedition which tried to reach Franz Josef Land, about to start out on a seal hunt off the Greenland coast.



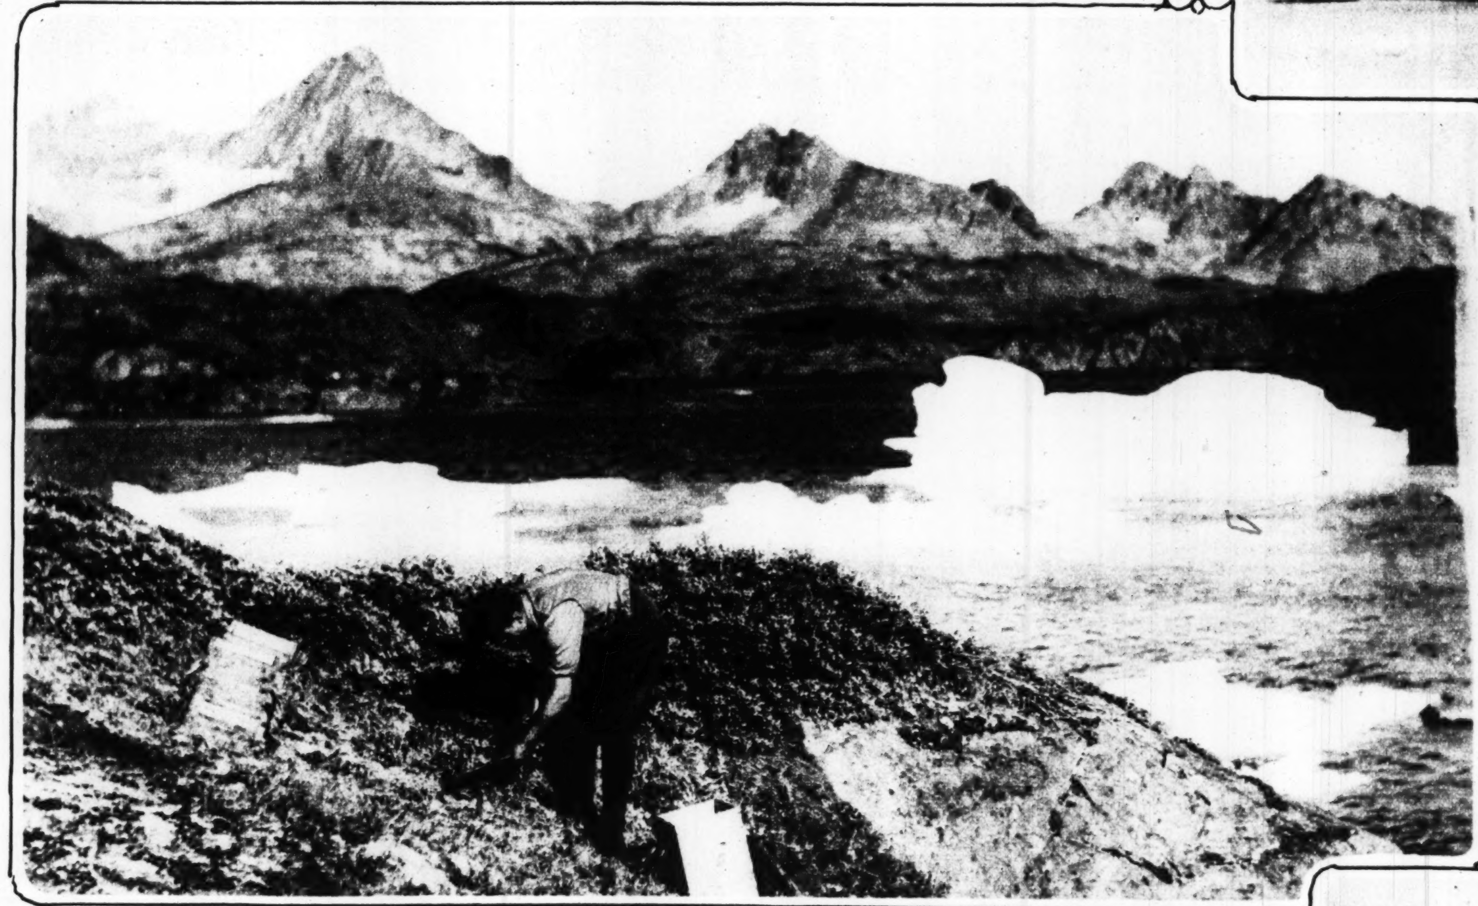
An Eskimo miss, making a visit to the ship, willingly posed for a photograph.



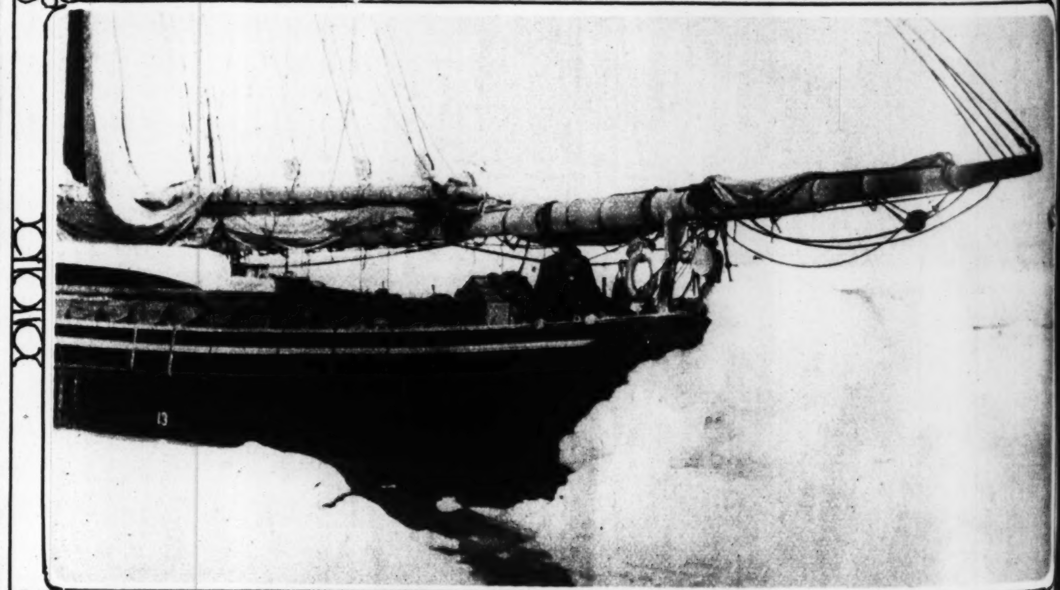
This inquisitive bear, with no trace of fear, swam out close to the schooner and so made it easy for the cameraman to get a good shot at him. Here it is.



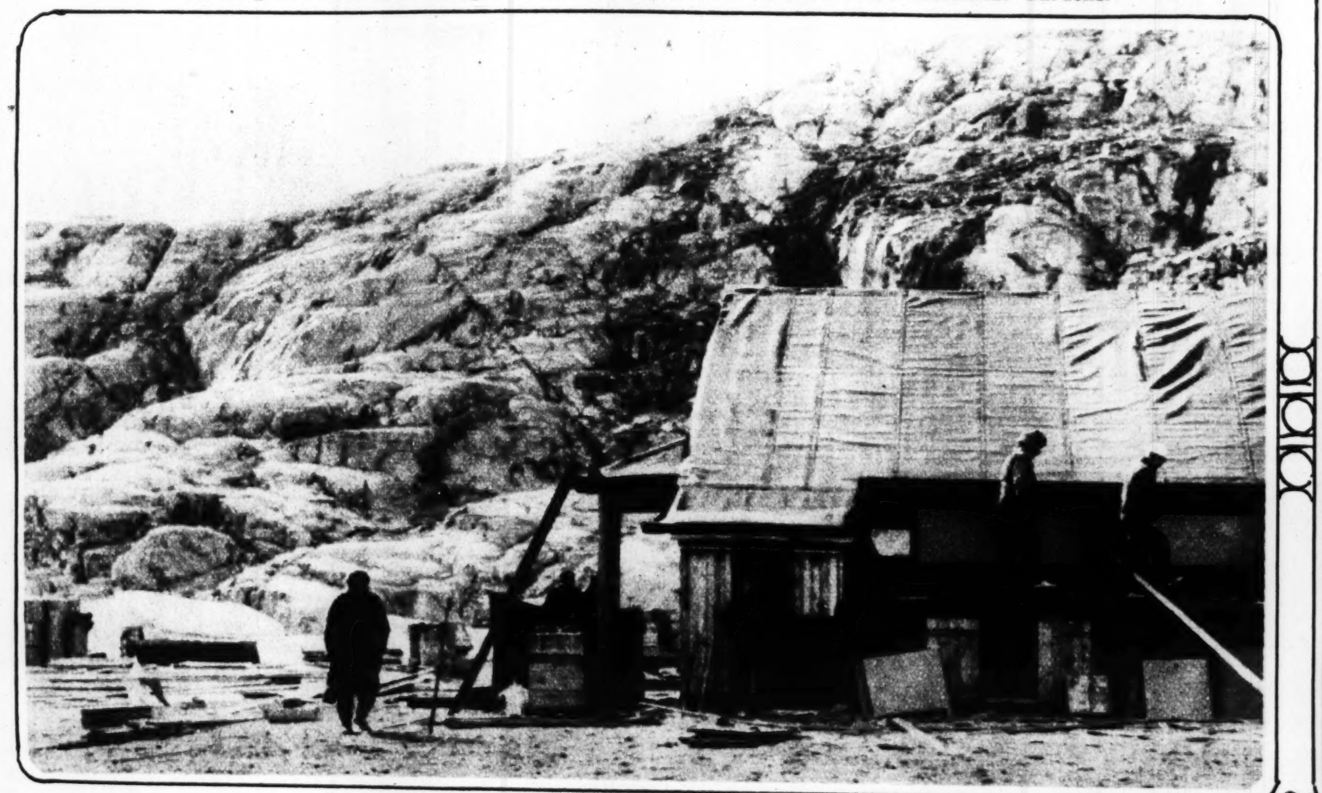
Members of the Bartlett-Norcross expedition getting ready to free their vessel, the Effie Morrissey, from the white ice by means of a blast of dynamite. Several times during the trip this operation had to be undertaken. Eventually, on account of tremendous ice, the plan to reach Franz Josef Land had to be abandoned.



Collecting flowers and odd plants in Greenland for the New York Botanical Gardens.



Ice jammed against the stern of the Morrissey, with resultant damage to the rudder.



An Eskimo settlement in the making. Houses for natives being erected on Clavering Island by the Danish East Greenland Company.

A Private Interview with a Coffee Bean
...in which the Coffee Bean gives some inside information about fresher coffee

This little booklet gives you some inside information about getting your coffee fresher and making your coffee better. It is yours for the asking at your Kroger Store

COUNTRY CLUB . . . A blend of the choicest coffees from noted plantations. Sealed in vacuum, immediately after roasting and grinding, to preserve its full strength, flavor and aroma.

FRENCH . . . The best coffees grown in four countries give this blend its rich, mellow character. Packed in the new lock-top can, ground for you when you buy it, to suit your needs.

HER GRACE . . . A new blend of coffees from Colombia and Brazil that produces an unusually fine flavored beverage. Sealed in a bag immediately after roasting, and ground for you at the time of purchase.

JEWEL . . . A mild, sweet-drinking coffee of unusual body and bouquet. Millions of pounds of this most popular Brazilian blend are sold every year.

IT'S not a very thick book and it's not a very big book, but it is a book you'll want to get and keep. For it was written especially for you—to help you with the choosing and the brewing of your coffee.

It gives you all the "inside information" about the coffee bean itself (remember this little booklet is really a "Private Interview with a Coffee Bean")—it tells you all there is to know about the various methods of brewing coffee—gives recipes for a variety of coffee-flavored desserts that you will surely want to try.

And in telling the inside story of the coffee bean, this booklet also gives you some inside facts about Kroger Coffees—why they are rushed from the roaster onto the shelves of the Kroger Stores—why you can always be sure of getting the freshest and best coffees at the lowest prices at Kroger's.

Tomorrow morning, go to your nearest Kroger Store and ask for your copy of this booklet. And, if you want to taste what a difference freshness makes, try any one of these four brands.

WHY CAN'T I GET TO SLEEP ?

Which Are You Doing—

Or Getting 8 Hours

of Sound Natural Sleep?

Try This Swiss Discovery... Accept the 3-Day Test

NO matter how hard a time you usually have getting to sleep—no matter how much you worry and toss—things can be vastly different tonight.

For a way has been found to induce instant, restful sleep entirely without drugs. It is a way that 20,000 doctors recommend—and millions of people know.

You go to sleep almost as soon as you go to bed. And sleep for 8 hours as soundly as a child.

While you sleep, wasted tissue is replenished and restored. Frayed nerves are relaxed and calmed.

In the morning you waken to find your whole being refreshed—mind clearer, nerves calmer by far. Your whole appearance reflects the result of the sound sleep and the rejuvenating process you've enjoyed.

So if you have difficulty getting to sleep at night—if your sleep is restless and disturbed—don't put up with the trouble any longer. Try this new discovery which is as free of drugs as the bread you eat or the milk you drink. See for yourself how it brings the kind of sleep that really RESTS you!

What It Is And How It Works

A remarkable food concentrate will do this for you. It is called Ovaltine—a pure food-drink that you take with warm milk. In the World War, it was a standard ration for invalid, nerve-shattered soldiers. It does 3 things no other food in the world will do.

First, it induces sound, restful sleep by a natural process.

Second, it aids digestion, since it contains in high proportion a remarkable food property known as diastase. This is a natural food substance with the power to digest the starch content of other foods in your stomach. Thus it lifts a great burden from your digestive organs.

Third, it rebuilds worn-out nerve and body cells. In addition to other valuable food elements, Ovaltine contains in concentrated form a natural vital property called "lecithin," which is the important part of nerve and brain tissue. And these special food properties rebuild nerve, brain and body tissues as you sleep.

Try It Tonight

Just try Ovaltine tonight. You'll be amazed how quickly you fall asleep. See how different you feel tomorrow. A few weeks' use of Ovaltine will make an amazing difference. Your whole appearance will show the result of this restful sleep and new vitality.

Due to its high content of diastase—Ovaltine relieves digestive distress and in this way combats one of the main causes of sleeplessness.

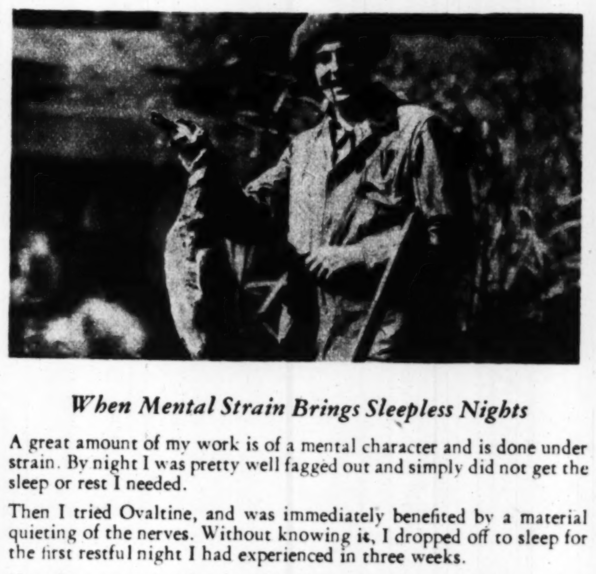
For, through stimulating and aiding digestive processes, Ovaltine tends to draw blood away from the head. And reduces the congestion that is present in brain capillaries when a person lies awake thinking and worrying instead of sleeping.

Thus the mind is not disposed to unusual activity. On the contrary, a state of mental calm is induced. And normal sleep follows quickly.

Start tonight! 'Phone your druggist or grocer [illegible] a tin of Ovaltine. Mix 2 to 4 teaspoonfuls in a glass [illegible] warm milk and drink just before you go to bed. [illegible] sleep more soundly, probably, than you have in w[illegible]

But don't judge Ovaltine merely by what is c[illegible]d for it. Even disregard, if you wish, the fact tha[illegible]s endorsed by 20,000 doctors . . . Try it and see f[illegible]rself. You'll be delighted with the sound refreshin[illegible] you get and the redoubled energy that's yours [illegible] day.

(Note) Thousands of nervous people, men and women, are us[illegible]ltine to restore vitality when fatigued. It is also widely recommended by [illegible]ans for nervous, underweight children, nursing mothers, convalescents a[illegible] aged.



When Mental Strain Brings Sleepless Nights

A great amount of my work is of a mental character and is done under strain. By night I was pretty well fagged out and simply did not get the sleep or rest I needed.

Then I tried Ovaltine, and was immediately benefited by a material quieting of the nerves. Without knowing it, I dropped off to sleep for the first restful night I had experienced in three weeks.

Now I count on getting my sleep in a natural way, with Ovaltine. Instead of tossing about all night, waiting for day to come, I go to bed and wake up to find the day is here. I get up rested, refreshed and feeling absolutely fit.

F. P. Butler, 940 Newkirk Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

In Cases of Impaired Digestion, Sleeplessness And Nerves

I was tired, run down and very nervous. I could not sleep enough and had no appetite. I had begun to be very much discouraged over the thought of perhaps having to give up my school work, when I noticed an advertisement about the wonderfully good results of using Ovaltine. I got a sample package from you and found that what the others said was true. I began to sleep well and had a better appetite. I intend to use Ovaltine instead of medicine, when I feel run-down, fail to digest my food and lose my appetite.

THE KROGER FOOD FOUNDATION

make fewer food dollars go farther . . . help you practice thrift with pleasure and with pride

NOW, at this timeliest of times, THE KROGER FOOD FOUNDATION comes to you with the welcome news of a new service—two specially developed groups of "Budget-Saving" Menus, for breakfasts, luncheons and dinners, for fourteen days. Menus selected by experts of THE KROGER FOOD FOUNDATION for proper balance and health-giving nutrients. Menus approved by domestic scientists as having the greatest appetite appeal for the most families. Menus that you will approve, too, because they will show you how to spend less, and get more for every food dollar that you do spend.

To give you a "sample" of this new service, one group of "Budget-Saving" Dinner Menus is printed here. Fourteen of them—planned to appeal to your sense of thrift, and, at the same time, help you keep up the food standards on your table.

To fit in with these dinner menus, THE KROGER FOOD FOUNDATION has also developed breakfast and luncheon menus for each of these fourteen days—all overlapping, one dependent on the other, so you can do your planning and your marketing for days in advance. And that's another sure way to save, you know. This first group of menus can be served to a family of four at a cost of $30, or less, for the two weeks (based on the prevailing prices in a large midwestern city).

For those whose food budget is less than $15 a week, THE KROGER FOOD FOUNDATION offers a second group of menus—three a day for fourteen days—which can be served to a family of four for $10 (or less) a week.

Both groups of "Budget-Saving" Menus are offered to you in THE KROGER FOOD FOUNDATION'S latest bulletin, "Budget-Saving Menus for 14 Days." This bulletin also gives weekly shopping orders, with exact quantities, together with recipes and such helpful suggestions as how to serve left-overs disguised in new and appetizing dishes . . . how to save back vegetables and fruits to combine in salads . . . how to cook tomorrow's luncheon with tonight's dinner.

Of course, you will want a copy of this bulletin, and you can get it at your neighborhood Kroger Store tomorrow morning. But better go in early, as there is always a big demand for these Foundation Bulletins. Or, if you prefer, write direct to The Kroger Food Foundation, Cincinnati, O.

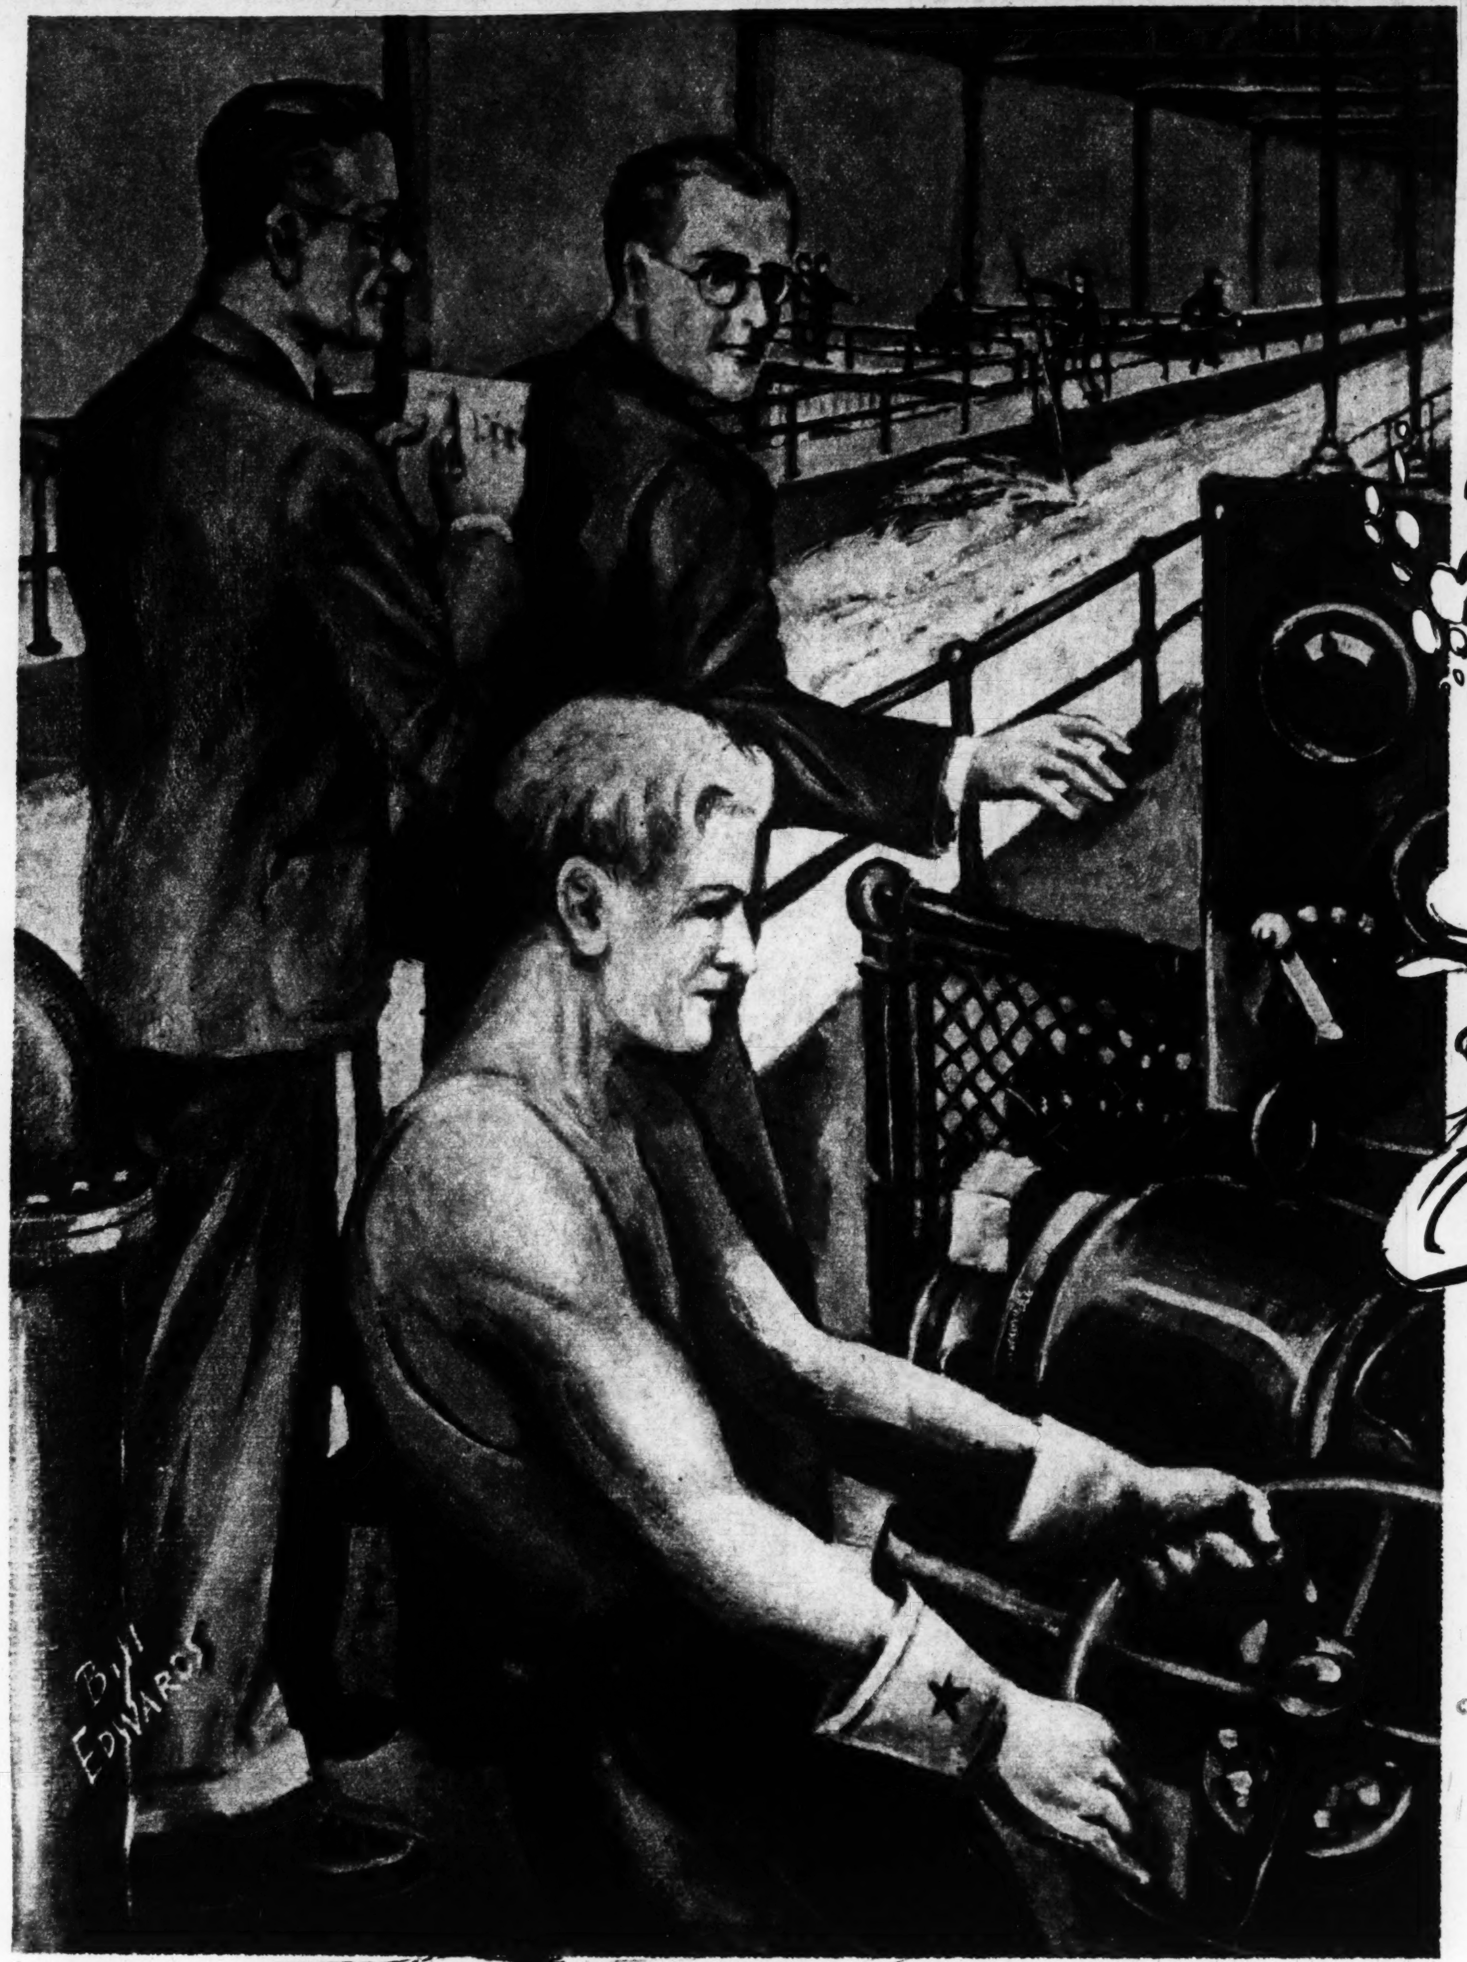
Reproducing Rivers and Waterfalls in the Laboratory

United States Government Creating New Plant Which Will Furnish First-Hand Information Necessary in Flood Control, Building Dikes and Other Projects Affected by Water.



Artist's conception of the main flume on the ground floor of the new Hydraulic Laboratory now in construction. This cross-section of a mighty river, together with a battery of gigantic pumps and other devices, will provide facilities for studying the flow of water.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

WASHINGTON.

IN the miniature scale model, before a shovelful of earth had been turned, it looked like something that the Germans might have devised for children, a fantastic toy. But now that the first steel girders have begun to rise and the magnitude of the project is apparent, it is clear that this is a very serious undertaking. In the building that is rapidly going up, there will be reproduced, through the skill of the country's leading engineers, rivers, waterfalls, canals and flumes. On a small but exact scale it will be possible to study all the effects that flowing water produces.

It will be called the National Hydraulic Laboratory. In a sense it will be a great plaything for the engineers in charge. They will send rushing streams of water in and out and around through the various channels that will be constructed in the building. They will create the crash and thunder of the greatest waterfalls. They will get a great kick out of this complicated game. And from it they will be able to draw conclusions that will affect the whole country.

Hydraulic engineers have worked wonders in stemming tides and harnessing water for the use of mankind, but there are still today many fundamental problems which remain unsolved. A factor of uncertainty still enters into the construction of dykes, levees and spillways. Dams call for costly and expensive margins of safety. Piers and bulkheads wash away. The laws of beach erosion have never been written and numerous other hydraulic principles have been found wanting.

For generations the hydraulic engineer has been handicapped by incomplete knowledge in the science upon which his skill is based. But he has come to realize that solution of the vast problems which lay ahead of him depends upon his being armed with basic rules, formulas and measurements which he does not now possess, that basic research is needed "to make more exact the knowledge of the flow of water," new facts must be sought, more accurate coefficinets determined.

To supply this need the United States Government has created the National Hydraulic Laboratory at the Bureau of Standards in Washington, and has now under construction an amazing new building where facilities such as have never before existed anywhere in the world for similar study will be provided.

In this unique structure, now lifting the steel skeleton of its framework at the foot of a hill on the Bureau grounds, nine powerful pumps totaling 1200 horsepower will deliver a flow of water for experimental purposes which will be more than twice the volume normally supplied to the District of Columbia.

THIS water, drawn from a storage reservoir in the building, will race through pipes, troughs and flumes in quantities varying from the volume of a great waterfall to the trickle of a faucet, and will be returned through any one of five different channels to its source tank.

In this building there will be numerous valves, by-passes and sluice gates, meters, gauges and pipe lines for distributing and controlling the water flow and broad, deep basins for volumetric tests. The visitor will see long, wide stretches of open floor space, light and well ventilated, with every provision for the moving and placing of hydraulic machinery and the delivery of water in various quantities and at different pressures. He will see a wide concrete flume, over 200 feet long, bearing a swift current of water, he will witness batteries of mammoth pumps at work, ingenious constant-level reservoirs, and accurate models of dams, hydro-electric plants and river beds of every character and description. And he will stand in mystifying corridor-like basement chambers with the rush and roar of great forces of water in his ears watching profound experiments that may revolutionize the whole science of hydraulics.

It is planned that this great laboratory be a clearing house of hydraulic information to work in liaison with foreign laboratories, and that there will be available the most complete list of references of hydraulic investigation both at home and abroad.

According to Director George K. Burgess of the Bureau of Standards, "the laboratory will be active in studying proposed designs of hydraulic structures for such departments of the government as may need this help. Such studies will be intended to make improvements in the configuration of particular designs in order to obtain the best and the most economical structure for a given service. From tests of an engineering nature such as these, scientific information may also be obtained—for example, an understanding of the laws which govern scale effects, and a more exact knowledge of the nature of flow. Numerous specific problems have been suggested by the Bureau of Reclamation, such as the Hoover Dam and the Cle Elum spillway, and some more general in nature, such as a study of the hydraulic jump on sloping surfaces, of flow in chutes and in transition sections, and a study of means for preventing erosion below spillways."

In this laboratory hydraulicians will study flood control problems by delving deeper into the mysteries of the flow of water and the action of river currents, supplementing the work now being done by the Corps of Engineers of the War Department in the Mississippi Valley.

Laboratory research and experimentation extended over a long period may answer the question of whether straightening the course of the Mississippi by eliminating its great bends will increase the force of its current, scour a deeper river bed and thus carry floodwater within lower levees with far greater safety to life and property than under present uncertain conditions; it may solve the problem of river-bed erosion and sand bar formation; it may develop satisfactory means for regulating harbor currents; perfect siphon spillways; improve high-speed turbine runners and increase the efficiency of high-lift centrifugal pumps.

EXPERIMENTS made recently at Princeton University for the Stevenson Creek Dam in California in which mercury instead of water was used to produce the pressure again a celluloid model of one-fortieth scale proved that models can be used satisfactorily in predicting performance of full scale structures of this type, and tests such as these will be conducted at the new Hydraulic Laboratory.

Here also will be made a study of the laws of transportation of silt and sediment by rivers, canals and flumes, a knowledge of which is needed for the successful solution of many river and flood control problems, and for the benefit of industry.

"Much work has been done on this difficult subject both abroad and in the United States," states Director Burgess, "but as yet we have touched only the surface of the problem."

Another phase of the laboratory's work, the director points out, will be the testing and development of hydraulic instruments and accessories. "At present the only tests of hydraulic instruments which the Bureau of Standards is equipped to make are calibrations of current meters in still water and tests of water meters up to 1½ inches in size. These existing facilities will not be duplicated in the new laboratory, but will be extended to enable tests of current meters to be made in running water, with or without artificially produced eddies, and the other type of disturbances. The new laboratory will also make possible the testing of water meters up to six inches in size, and of venturi meters, orifice meters and the like in moderate sizes.

"ROUTINE or special tests of hydraulic instruments and accessories will be made for department and independent agencies of the Federal Government; for states and their political subdivisions; and also for private individuals and firms on the payment of a suitable fee, providing the necessary facilities exist in the laboratory and cannot be found elsewhere. Scientific investigations and model studies will be made for governmental agencies up to the capacity of the laboratory."

By including the Hydraulic Laboratory in the Bureau of Standards "Research Associate Plan" Director Burgess anticipates that arrangements will be made to permit governmental agencies to send their engineers to the Bureau to work in co-operation with the staff of the laboratory on the problem in which they are interested.

Hydraulic laboratories have been established in many engineering colleges throughout the country, although these have been small and used principally for instruction, and various government departments have established field laboratories for specific studies in hydraulic problems, but the new laboratory equipped with a main flume to carry from 112,000 to 135,000 gallons of water per minute and provisions for circulating more than twice the volume of water available in any other laboratory under cover, will open the door to a new and deeper realm of investigation in hydraulics.

Functioning under the administration of the Bureau of Standards, the Government's wonderland of science, which has paid back into American business $200 for every $1 the United States has appropriated, not too much emphasis can be placed on possible benefit to industry and to the nation from the new laboratory.

What the proposed new 200-inch telescope offers astronomy in greatly extending the reach of its study, the new hydraulic laboratory offers in its own realm, and there is no way of telling what new wonders lie in store for the research worker whose discoveries may turn the science of hydraulics into new and broader fields.

Although the need of a National Hydraulic Laboratory in the United States has long been stressed, nine years elapsed between the introduction in Congress by Senator Ransdell of Louisiana of the resolution to provide for it and the final signature of the bill by President Hoover on May 14, 1930. The bill called for an appropriation of $350,000 for the construction of the laboratory, and an additional $52,000 will be required annually for operation.

Poverty Makes Further Inroads Into the British Nobility

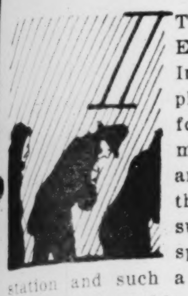
Lord Ossulston.

One Peer a Recipient of the Dole and Many Others Making Their Livings in Middle and Lower Class Occupations.

LONDON.



IT IS a miserable day and the miserable English rain falls over all of England. In each town and hamlet at each employment exchange men stand in line for what is politely called "unemployment pay." Their clothes are steamy and damp and they grumble a little as they wait in line. Their stipend, the sum that wards off starvation and despair, has been cut. There is such a station and such a line of men in the town of Ironbridge in Shropshire. Look at the third man in the line before the official who must approve the unemployed cards. There is nothing that would single him out. He looks as shabby as the others. His voice drones with the characteristic accent of a Shropshire lad. This man who stands waiting for his share of the dole is Sir Charles Burnett Buckworth-Herne-Soame, eleventh baronet. To date he is the only one of England's peers who has fallen back upon unemployment relief.

But a great many men and women of title have been driven to common expedients to earn a living since the war. The confiscation of their estates by surtaxes is an old story. That has been going on for 20 years or more. But it is only recently that the peers and peeresses have been forced to drive taxis, to sell insurance, hats, milk, beer and spirits, to run laundries and to decorate other peoples' houses for a living.

But Sir Charles Buckworth-Herne-Soame has fallen lowest in the scale. Poor Sir Charles! He had to walk a mile in the rain to the unemployment exchange at Ironbridge. Before the announcement of the new budget his income was approximately $5.75 a week. This included 13 shillings unemployment pay and a pension of 10 shillings for his four years of service in the World War.

By an ironic coincidence Sir Charles was driven to apply for unemployment pay the day after he succeeded to the title through the death of his father. The tenth baronet, Sir Charles Buckworth-Herne-Soame, died not long ago leaving little else but the title. The proceeds from the estate served to bury him. He had been at one time a distinguished attorney but years of ill health had ruined him.

Sir Charles, who is 36, lives with his wife at Sheen Cottage, Coalbrookdale, Shropshire. The modest six-room cottage is called Sheen after the ancestral seat, the great manor, Sheen, in Surrey. Lady Buckworth-Herne-Soame does all the housework, including the washing, and, as well, she makes their garden.

It is a distinguished line that has thus come to poverty. Their history is recorded in that fat, red-and-gold-bound volume, "Burke's Peerage, Baronetage and Knightage." In the order of creation it is the two-hundred-ninth baronetcy. Altogether there are 1497 baronetcies. The first person to come into prominence in the line was Richard Buckworth of Cambridgeshire, in the sixteenth century. John Buckworth was created a baronet on April 1, 1697. He was Sheriff of London and held other high offices.

Lord Northesk.

SIR EVERARD BUCKWORTH, the third baronet, was gentleman usher to George II. It was the fifth baronet who assumed the additional name of Herne upon his marriage and the sixth of the line put on still another name, Soame. This last was done in compliance with a stipulation in the will of Sir Peter Soame, a baronetcy now extinct. The wife of the ninth baronet was an heiress of Ironbridge, the town in which Sir Charles draws his dole.

Sir Charles feels that the title is a handicap. He would like to shed it but that would require expensive legal proceedings that he can't possibly afford. The war made him a baronet. His older brother, Richard Everard, enlisting as a private, became a sergeant in a Shropshire regiment. So did Charles enlist as a private. Richard died in 1916 of wounds received in action. Charles came through four years of war with only minor wounds.

The reporter asked the villagers of Coalbrookdale where Sir Charles' cottage was located. At first they had no idea who Sir Charles was. Then at last they remembered, "Oh, you mean Charlie!" they said. "Why Charlie Soame is in the house next from the one at the top of the hill."

"I have been working as a laborer," said Sir Charles, "and my pay was a general laborer's wage of 11 3-4d (about 23 cents) an hour. It used to be a shilling an hour until they cut us down by a farthing. We could manage quite well on that amount, for there is only my wife and myself. We have no family and if we do not have any children the title will become extinct with me.

"Naturally, I am glad of the unemployment pay. I have no false pride, for it is all that is coming in from outside."

His last job was with the government office of works, doing common labor on the restoration of Buildwas Abbey. This was one of the "made jobs" by means of which the government tried to avoid the dole.

Sir Charles has been active in the British Legion. It was while he was looking out for the interests of a disabled ex-service man that he met his wife, a pretty brunette. Her father was also an official in the Legion.

Sir Charles has done almost every type of labor, from breaking stone in a quarry to superintending a gang of workers on road jobs. He spends most of his time now looking for work but it is a hopeless, despairing search, with the realization that he is one of an army of several million.

Those peers who have paying jobs are lucky, from Sir Charles' point of view at any rate. The list of those who are working for their bread and board is long. Fifty, even 30 years ago, the suggestion that some day the aristocracy would labor with the multitude would have been greeted with polite laughter. There are, of course, innumerable peers in finance in the city. And many of them take an active part in the business with which they are connected. But there must be at least 50 titled persons who are doing practical work with their hands or with some skill they have acquired.

THE youngest son of Lord and Lady Dynevor was found one day in the kitchen of one of London's great hotels shelling peas and peeling onions with interest.

The market porters of East Smithfield were almost tongue-tied when they dropped into the Hand and Shears tavern one day for their mid-day "'arf-and-'arf" and found a new host pulling the beer. It was Earl Beauchamp's brother, Major the Hon. Henry Lygon, who had just bought the license of this ancient and picturesque pub.

Lord Portarlington joined a firm of coach-builders a year ago. He actually invented an adjustable seat to accommodate a motorist of any size.

Both the Earl of Northesk and Lord Cottenham went in for selling motorcars. Lord Lathom and Prince George of Russia have done interior decorating. Young Lord Ossulton has piloted an air-taxi.

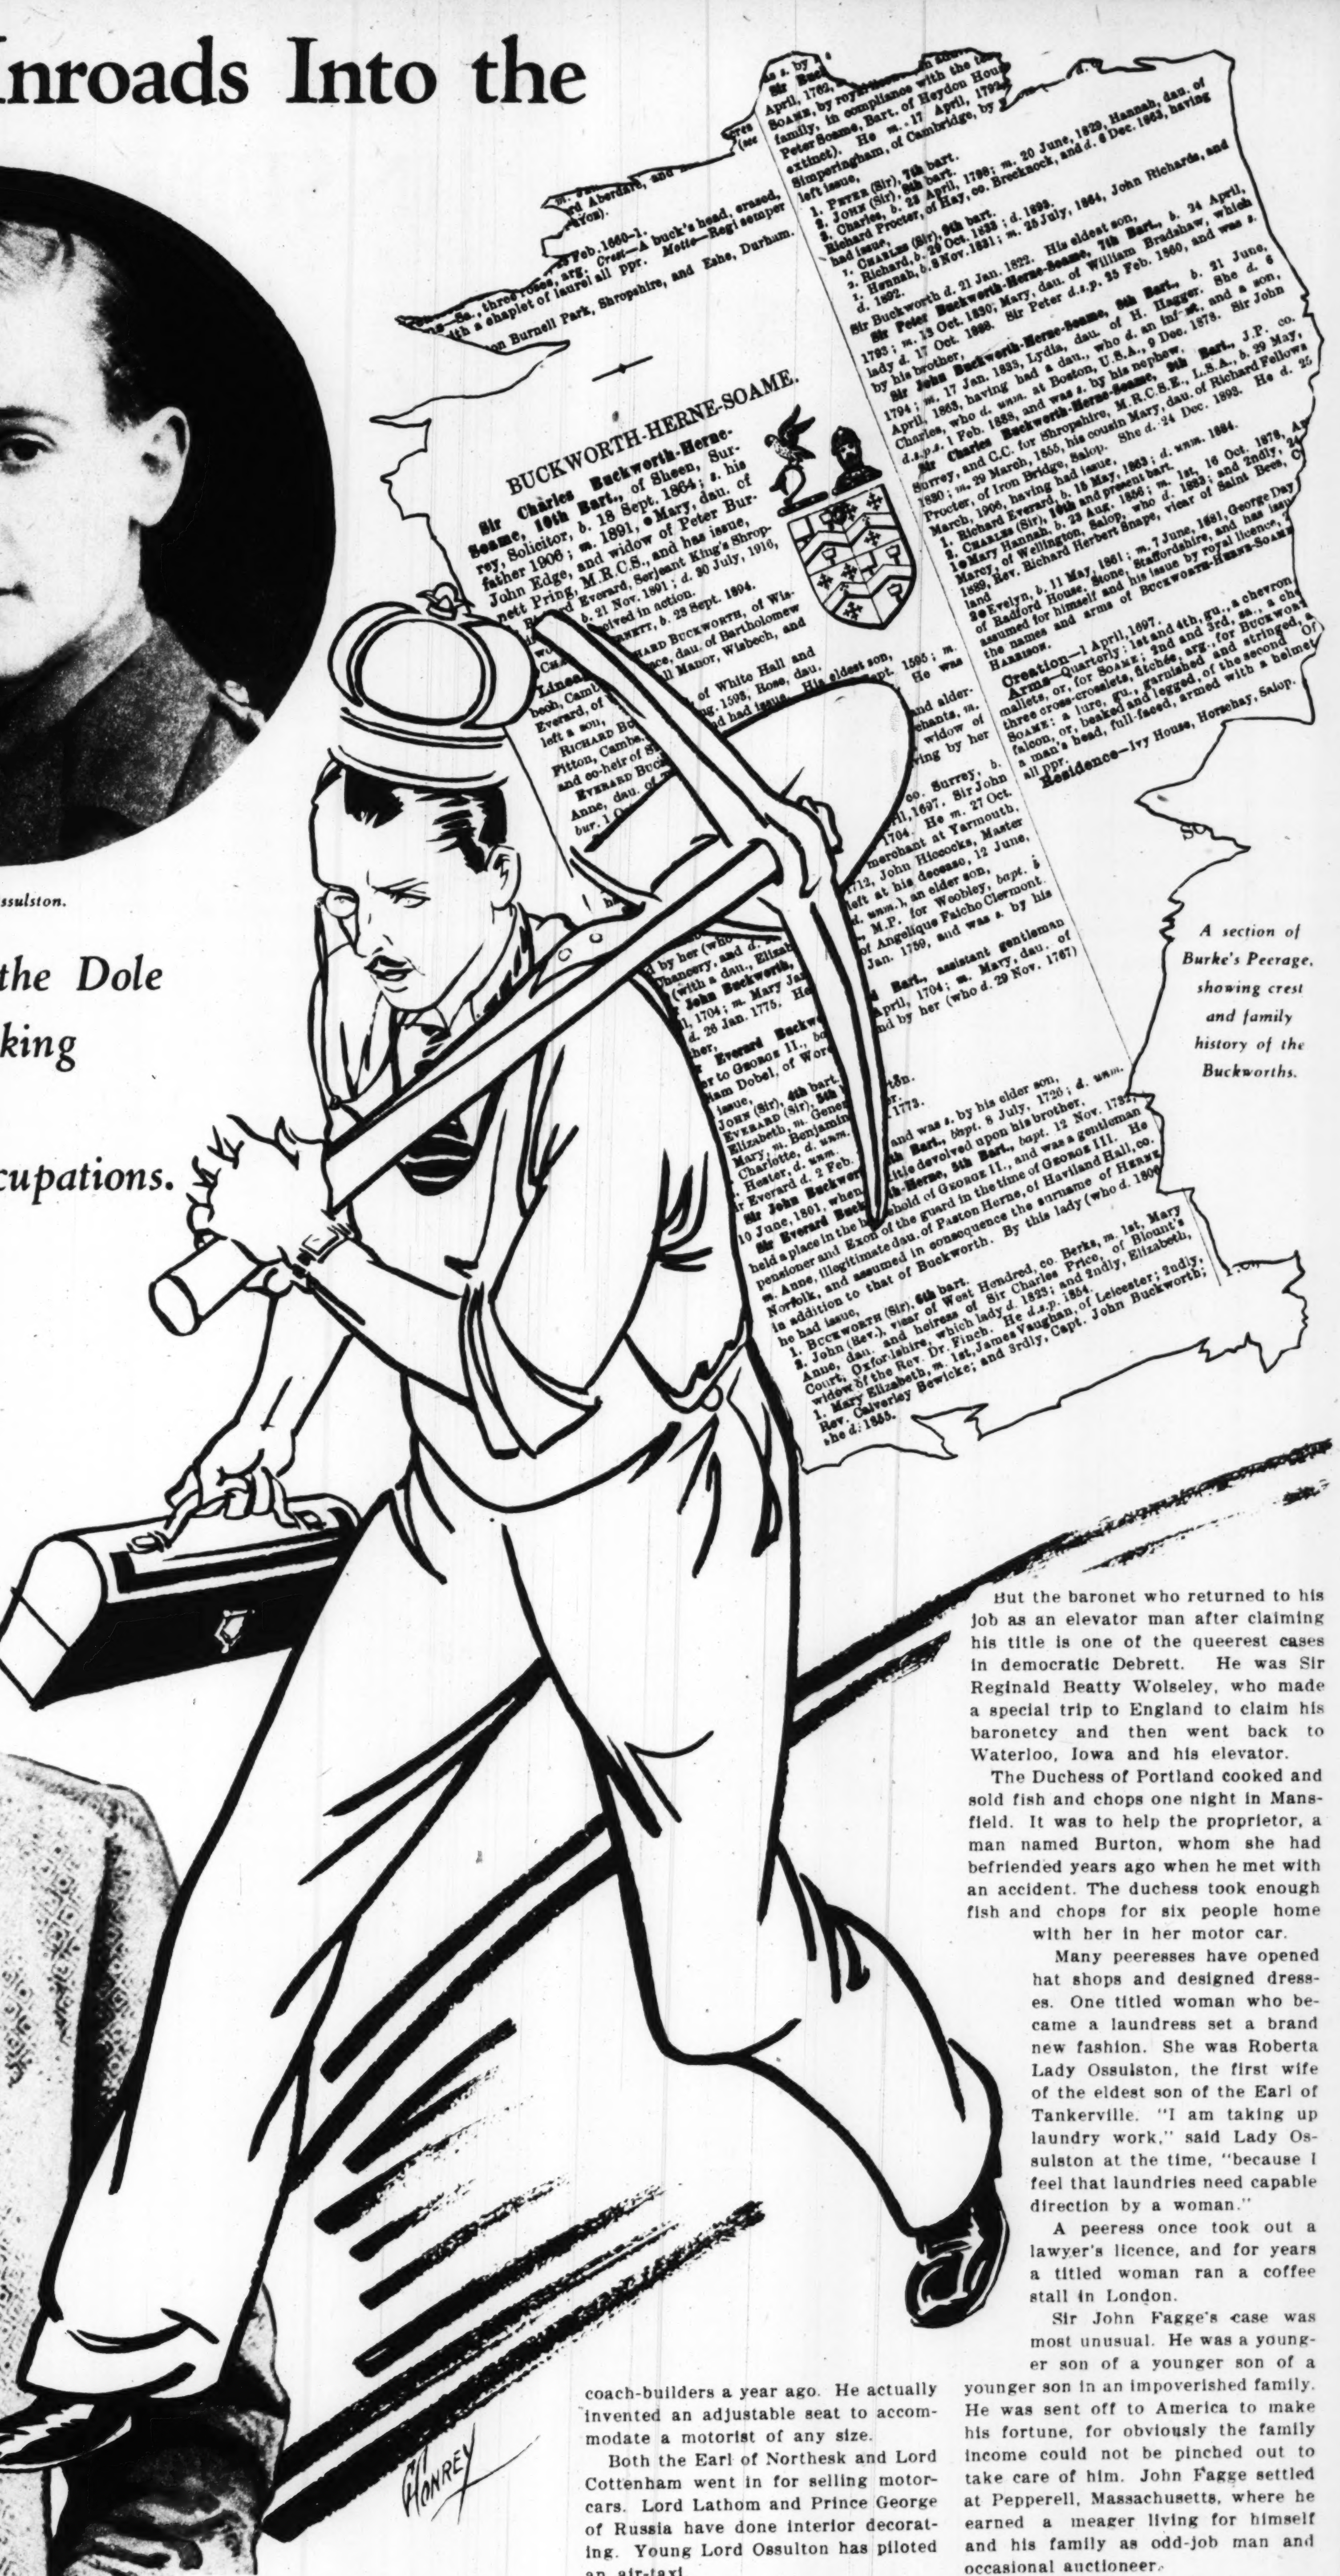
A few months ago the Marquis of Carlsbrooke, the King's cousin and a brother of the ex-Queen of Spain, was found in working-class Camberwell, learning the job of social organizer for a huge block of tenements.

"Cecil Glenarthur. Cars for hire at moderate prices." This notice outside a shop at Nice told recently of how Lord Glenarthur was earning his living on the Riviera.

Lord Howard of Effingham, eldest son of the Earl of Effingham, said, "I must earn my living somehow," when he joined a stockbroking firm in Sheffield. He had previously tried his hand in the basement of a haberdasher's shop at Manchester.

Lord Hamilton of Dalzell, as a social experiment, opened a milk shop in Glasgow. Lord Gorell became a publisher, and Lord Burghley, one of England's most famous athletes, became branch manager of an insurance company.

The Marquis of Mulford Haven, whose mother is a first cousin of the King, went to America at the beginning of the year to take a job in a Wall street office.



A section of Burke's Peerage, showing crest and family history of the Buckworths.

But the baronet who returned to his job as an elevator man after claiming his title is one of the queerest cases in democratic Debrett. He was Sir Reginald Beatty Wolseley, who made a special trip to England to claim his baronetcy and then went back to Waterloo, Iowa and his elevator.

The Duchess of Portland cooked and sold fish and chops one night in Mansfield. It was to help the proprietor, a man named Burton, whom she had befriended years ago when he met with an accident. The duchess took enough fish and chops for six people home with her in her motor car.

Many peeresses have opened hat shops and designed dresses. One titled woman who became a laundress set a brand new fashion. She was Roberta Lady Ossulston, the first wife of the eldest son of the Earl of Tankerville. "I am taking up laundry work," said Lady Ossulston at the time, "because I feel that laundries need capable direction by a woman."

A peeress once took out a lawyer's licence, and for years a titled woman ran a coffee stall in London.

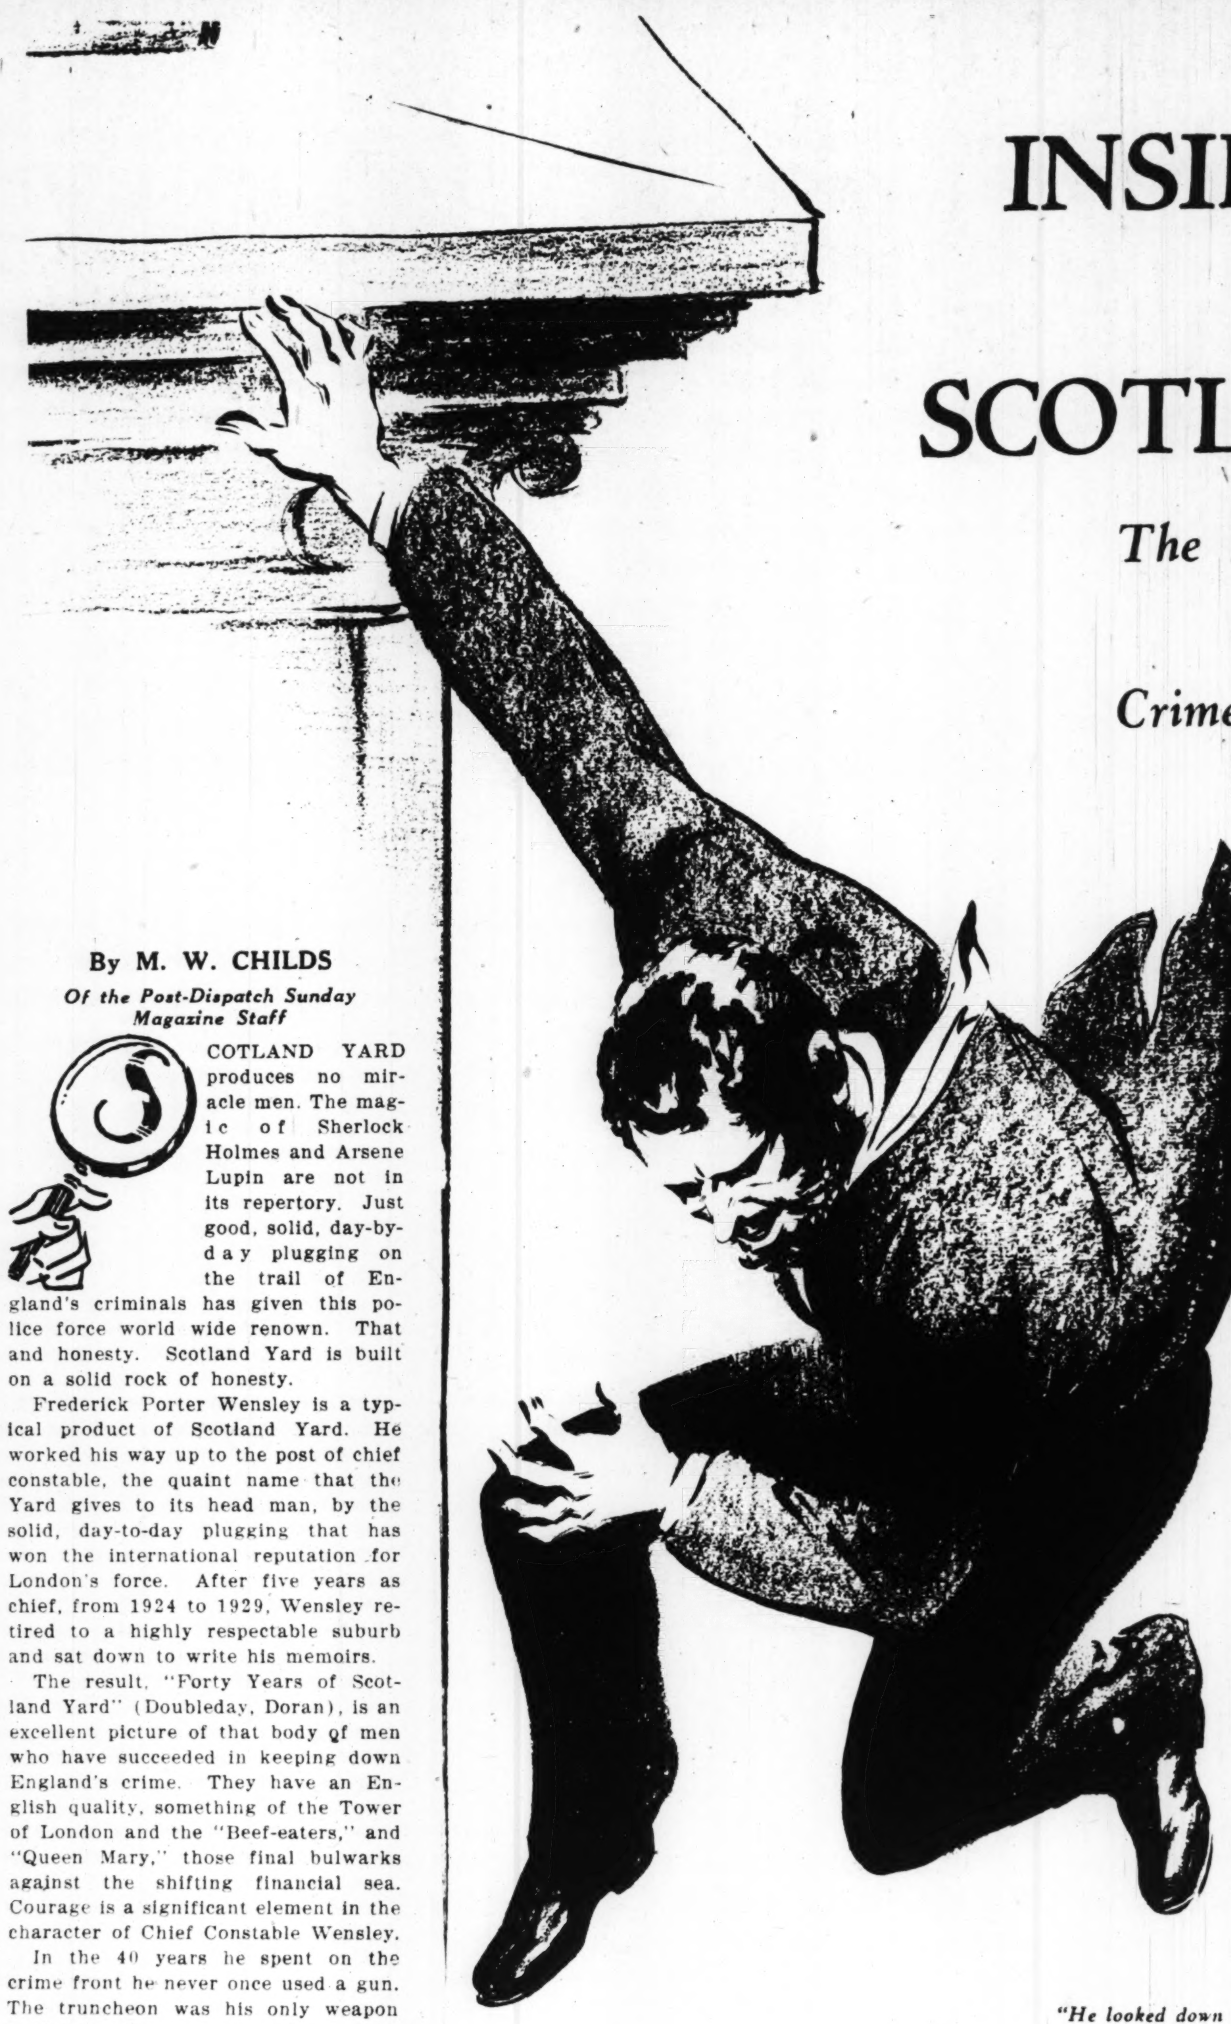
Sir John Fagge's case was most unusual. He was a younger son of a younger son of a younger son in an impoverished family. He was sent off to America to make his fortune, for obviously the family income could not be pinched out to take care of him. John Fagge settled at Pepperell, Massachusetts, where he earned a meager living for himself and his family as odd-job man and occasional auctioneer.

BUT there were sufficient deaths in the family and one day came a Boston lawyer with a cablegram from a firm of London solicitors announcing that the baronetcy had fallen to John Fagge. With the aid of his daughter, who worked in a razor factory, he got together enough money to go back and become legally and officially Sir John Fagge. But there is a happy ending to this story. Sir John, a widower, met and married Mrs. Florence Murdock, the widow of a patent medicine millionaire.

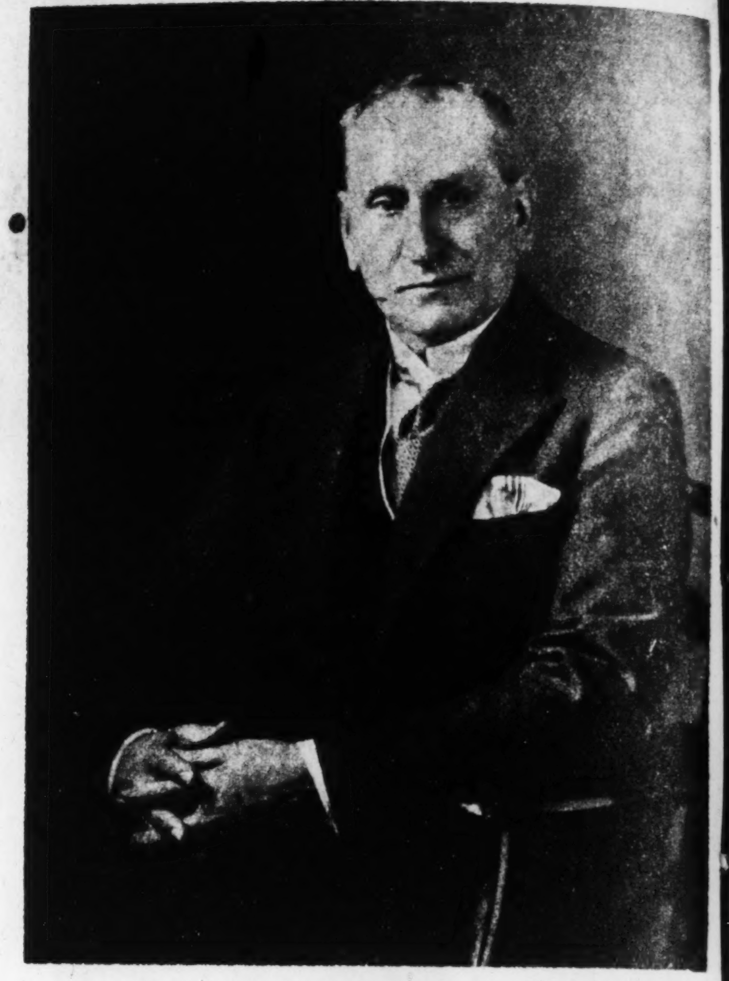
In the remote past that was the traditional solution for impoverished noblemen. But the crop of rich young American heiresses and wealthy widows seems to have been greatly reduced. Or at any rate the heiresses don't show an inclination to marry titled Englishmen and save them from work. Which may be one of the reasons why the peerage has in late years gone so intensely democratic. Perhaps in the future, Burke's will give the occupation or trade of the peers and peeresses, along with their titles, lineage, orders, and decorations.

An INSIDE VIEW of SCOTLAND YARD

The Retiring Chief of the Famous English Crime-Hunting Institution Tells How It Got Its Reputation.



"He looked down at the crowd, some 40 feet below, and then, placing one hand on the parapet, vaulted over."



Frederick Porter Wensley, retiring Chief Constable of Scotland Yard.

By M. W. CHILDS

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

SCOTLAND YARD produces no miracle men. The magic of Sherlock Holmes and Arsene Lupin are not in its repertory. Just good, solid, day-by-day plugging on the trail of England's criminals has given this police force world wide renown. That and honesty. Scotland Yard is built on a solid rock of honesty.

Frederick Porter Wensley is a typical product of Scotland Yard. He worked his way up to the post of chief constable, the quaint name that the Yard gives to its head man, by the solid, day-to-day plugging that has won the international reputation for London's force. After five years as chief, from 1924 to 1929, Wensley retired to a highly respectable suburb and sat down to write his memoirs.

The result, "Forty Years of Scotland Yard" (Doubleday, Doran), is an excellent picture of that body of men who have succeeded in keeping down England's crime. They have an English quality, something of the Tower of London and the "Beef-eaters," and "Queen Mary," those final bulwarks against the shifting financial sea. Courage is a significant element in the character of Chief Constable Wensley.

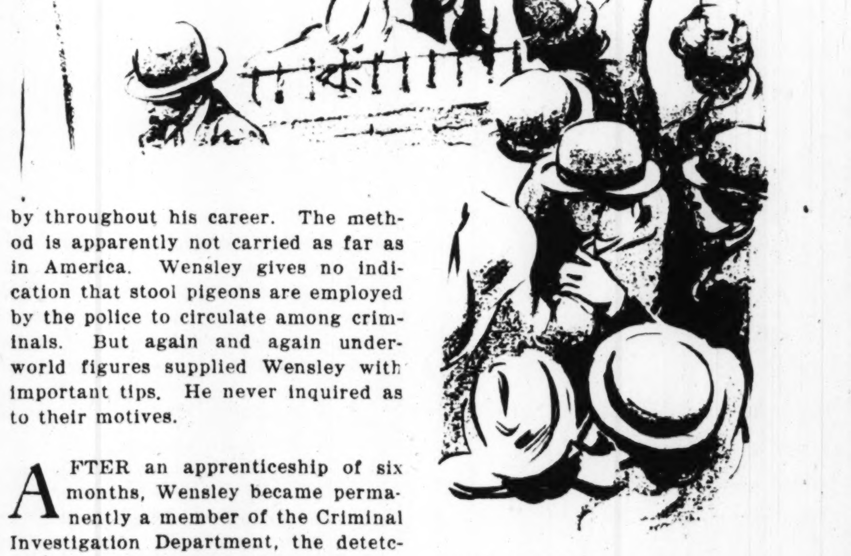
In the 40 years he spent on the crime front he never once used a gun. The truncheon was his only weapon against murderers and thieves, gangsters and scoundrels of every type. Scotland Yard is opposed to violence. Once when Wensley used his truncheon on a desperate character who had drawn a sword cane on him, he was reproved for resorting to "unnecessary force." On one occasion when desperate foreign criminals had barricaded themselves with rifles in a house in the slum quarter, there was great difficulty in finding sufficient arms with which to equip the police assigned to capture the intrenched criminals.

HORATIO ALGER might have used Wensley's life story to good advantage. He is the typical young man from the country come to the city with high ambitions. He wanted to be a great detective and he joined London's metropolitan police force with the determination to work up to the top. His ardor cooled somewhat when he was stationed in the toughest part of London, the East End, the Limehouse district, where a slum condition breeds all kinds of criminals. He was to fight it out there for 20 years before recognition and transfer came.

"The more I saw of detective work, the more it fascinated me," he writes. "There was about it an infinite variety that attracted me more than any sport or entertainment. Brain and body were constantly on the alert. I was out at all hours of the night and day, winter and summer alike. There are tricks in every trade, and particularly in that of a detective. I believe I learned them all by experience. Do not misunderstand me. I could not then, and cannot now, miraculously deduce the author of a crime from a piece of burnt matchstick, but I could at least say, often with reasonable certainty, who was the probable author of a crime by the circumstances in which it was carried out. I learned, also, what was more important: how to find proof and how to catch the criminal.

"Pure reasoning is all very well, but the blood and bone of all practical detective work is information. That is to be got in a variety of ways, but the simplest form is from informants. I realized that I had to get to know informants and to win their confidence. To that end I laid down one strict rule for myself—always to keep faith."

It is a little startling to learn that informers were Wensley's chief standby throughout his career. The method is apparently not carried as far as in America. Wensley gives no indication that stool pigeons are employed by the police to circulate among criminals. But again and again underworld figures supplied Wensley with important tips. He never inquired as to their motives.



AFTER an apprenticeship of six months, Wensley became permanently a member of the Criminal Investigation Department, the detetctive nucleus of Scotland Yard. Shortly after this one of those lurid episodes occurred that, Wensley says, offer such sharp contrast to the "ordinary routine" of the detective. He was off duty and walking with a fellow detective when he was attracted by an excited crowd gathered before a house in a mean street.

The two detectives scaled a rear wall and forced an entrance. They pushed open a tightly closed door and found a bearded old man dying of many wounds. There was obviously nothing they could do for him, and they pushed on to the upper floor of the house. In a bedroom they found a woman lying dead amidst appalling confusion, furniture broken, drawers spilled out, and over everything a litter of plaster. There was a gaping hole in the ceiling and beneath it a chair, indicating the way in which the murderer had escaped. There were sounds from the roof.

Wensley and his companion scrambled through the hole and started in pursuit of a big, black-bearded man who was making his way over the tiles of the roof. He retreated toward the parapet, and it was plain that he was about to jump.

"There may have been times in my life," Wensley writes, "when I have moved quicker, but I don't recall them. I ran along and dropped through the hole in the roof, then along the rafters to the opening in the ceiling, through which I dropped in an avalanche of plaster. I took the stairs in two headlong leaps and, somehow, in a matter of seconds, found myself among the crowd that was gaping upwards in Varden street.

"The murderer was already on the edge of the roof. He looked down at the crowd, some 40 feet below, and then, placing one hand on the parapet, vaulted over. There was no possibility of avoiding some of the people beneath, and he may have counted on this to break his fall. Two or three people, in fact, were hurt, and when I flung myself forward to seize him I met with no resistance. He was unconscious. Among other injuries he had fractured an arm and a thigh.

OF THIS murderer, Seaman, Wensley writes:

"For a large part of my life I was thrown into close contact with some of the most desperate rogues in London. I have eaten with them, drunk with them, and mixed with them in every variety of circumstances. In my early days the kid glove crook was rarer than he is now, and I knew plenty of men from whom the character of Bill Sikes might have been drawn—reckless, brutal, drunken scoundrels, with the instincts and ferocity of wild beasts of the jungle. Seaman was one of the most perfect examples of this type—the most truculent and repulsive desperado with whom I ever came in contact. I think he is the only man I ever met of whom I could honestly say that he had no single redeeming trait."

One of the most perplexing cases, of the hundreds that Wensley helped to solve, was the "Blodie Belgium" episode. Inside the railings of the gardens of Regent Square a parcel wrapped in sacking was discovered. Inside was the torso of a woman still clad in underclothes of lace and blue ribbon. Head, hands and legs were missing. A sheet had been wrapped around the body and on a piece of torn wrapping paper the words "Blodie Belgium" had been scribbled.

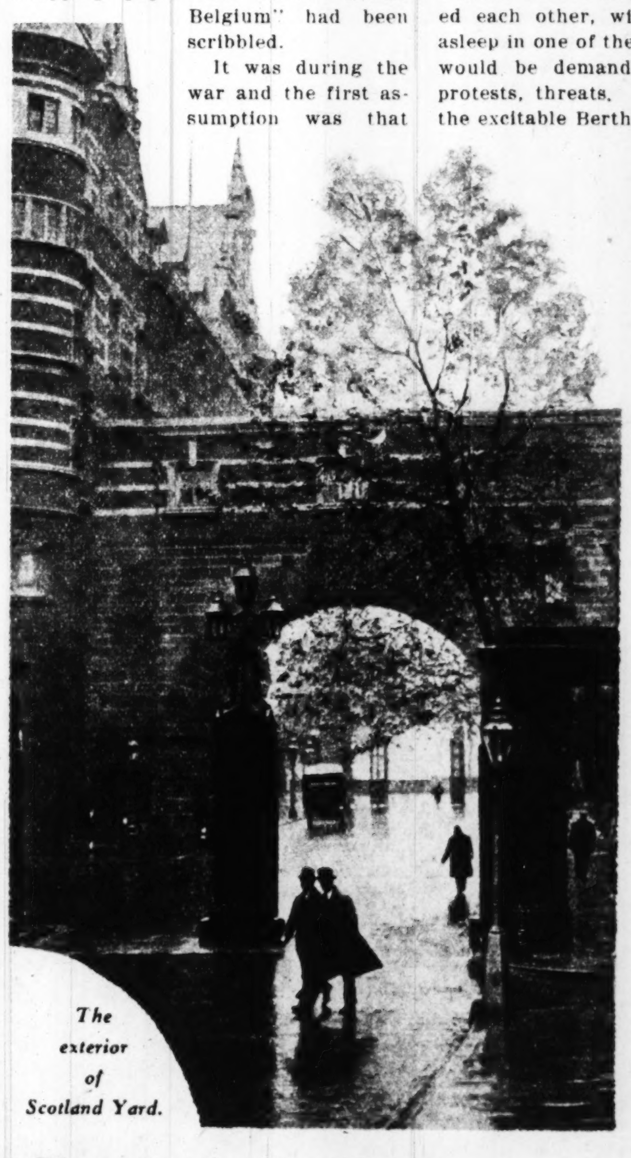
It was during the war and the first assumption was that this was a spy murder. The mutilation of the body showed some anatomical skill. The first clew was a laundry mark, "II H," worked in red cotton on a corner of the sheet. This led to the house of a Madame Emilienne Gerard, who was missing.

In the customary effort to run down the woman's friends and associates a butcher named Louis Voisin came into the picture. Madame Gerard had acted as his housekeeper. Voisin and the woman with whom he was living, a Madame Berthe, were taken to the Bow Street Police Station and questioned. But they knew nothing. Voisin's profession of ignorance was most plausible. Without any prompting, however, he did tell of some butchering operations and of taking home a calf's head. This gratuitous bit of information was enough to arouse Wensley's suspicion.

With appalling swiftness the details clicked into place after that. A second search of Voisin's house disclosed in the basement a cask that apparently contained sawdust. But buried beneath the sawdust were the dead woman's hands and head. The bloodstains all about Voisin's kitchen were those of human blood, an examination revealed.

WITHIN a few hours of these discoveries Wensley was able to present an exact picture of the crime. Madame Gerard had, in reality, been the mistress of Voisin. On the night of the murder occurred the heaviest air raid of the entire war. Madame Gerard, who lived alone in a flat, was terrified. With others in the neighborhood she sought greater safety in a nearby subway station. When at last the all-clear signal came, she ventured out, but she was still in a panic of fear. What to do? She decided to go to the house of her lover, Voisin. She burst into Voisin's house, and there came face to face with her rival, the other woman, of whom she had long had an intuitive suspicion.

"Conceive the situation," writes Wensley, "as the two half-hysterical French women unexpectedly confronted each other, with their lover half asleep in one of the other rooms. There would be demands for explanations, protests, threats. And then suddenly the excitable Berthe Roche, seizing the first weapon that came to hand, springing like a wildcat at her rival. Voisin, aroused by the quarrel, rushes in, and perhaps seizes Madame Gerard, smothering her screams in a towel, while the other woman continues to rain blows on her. Finally, as the struggle went on, he himself made short work of her."



The exterior of Scotland Yard.

The evidence against Madame Roche was less direct than that against Voisin, and the Judge acquitted her of murder. On an indictment as accessory after the fact she was subsequently found guilty and sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. She went mad in prison and a year later died. Voisin was found guilty and he was executed on March 2, 1918.

Wensley himself seems to have been equally successful in all phases of the detective's job. He first exposed the "Siberian gold swindle," which had victimized hundreds of Londoners. Through an intended victim, Wensley, posing as a rich young guardsman, was put in touch with two suave gentlemen, a Russian and a Rumanian. They were discreet, secretive, cautious. But they would let the rich young man in on a scheme that would bring him an enormous profit.

THEY were in touch with a Russian officer of high position whose authority enabled him three times a year to smuggle across the frontier large quantities of Siberian gold. "The gentleman who used to purchase it was dead. He died worth a lot of money. We want to find another buyer."

They produced a nugget and a bottle of aqua fortis and tested the metal. Yes, it was real gold. Rich young guardsman Wensley fell hard for this scheme. After some time the arrangements were made and the two suave gentlemen agreed to deliver to him 90 pounds of Siberian gold. When they were arrested they had 90 pounds of brass filings and a bottle of water labeled aqua fortis for the test.

The methods used by the gangs in London's East End resemble the Chicago technique. The same type of racketeering was effective. Petty merchants were made to pay tribute, and if they refused their shops were wrecked. There was the same timidity on the part of the victims. They almost always refused to testify against their persecutors. But, of course, in their methods of torture and reprisal they were much less vicious than the gangs that are rampant in American cities. Bearing in mind the nature of gang vengeance in America, it sounds incredibly tame and mild when Wensley says of the London gangs: "One of them, at least, had been mixed up in a stabbing affair in which a man was killed."

By vigorous methods these gangs that flourished in the early years of this century were stamped out and there have been no comparable criminal armies since then.

DURING the course of his long conflict with the underworld Wensley found only two or three women who were the master mind type, directing the operations of a criminal alliance as men frequently do. He adds:

"Perhaps, from the detective's point of view, the most difficult of the fair sex who adopt crooked ways are those people of some education and standing but few scruples, who, in a lower situation in life, would be classed as criminals. These are not infrequently responsible for the losses that occur in society circles. Even when particular individuals are suspected it is seldom simple to gain reliable evidence, because few people are willing to tell what they know. The detective gets no real opportunity of investigation. Lady So-and-So 'cannot give you any information.' If she is pressed, 'What about such-and-such a person?' she will remark loftily, as one putting an end to the matter, 'Really, I cannot tell you,' and the means of getting at the truth are limited."

When he was made head of Scotland Yard, Wensley introduced a number of reforms. The automobile, he realized, had entirely altered the methods of most criminals. No longer would the old system of fixed districts, with a rule that no one must operate outside his own district, suffice. Wensley originated the flying squad, which has gained such wide fame. He also devised a system whereby the various districts were co-ordinated so that they could work together.

CHORUS GIRLS TURNED OUT by MASS PRODUCTION METHODS

Fanchon and Marco's Unusual Dancing Mill at Hollywood, Which Has Already Produced 10,000 "Hoofers."

HOLLYWOOD, California.

NOT so many years ago, if Ziegfeld or Earl Carroll or George White or any other New York producer of the girl and music brand of American drama happened to need a half-dozen toe dancers for their stages it was a matter of considerable worry to assemble that number. Maybe four or five could be picked up in New York and the missing one or two secured in London or Paris. Today, if a musical show wanted 50 young women able to do steps on their toes that the old-time hoofers couldn't do, flat-footed, they could get them by the simple expedient of wiring out here to Hollywood. Within a few minutes the 50 specialists—or 500 of 'em for that matter—could be ready for shipment anywhere.

For Hollywood is now the dancing center of the world and a young woman—herself an ex-hoofer—is responsible for the stage careers of more than 10,000 dancers, most of them native daughters of California, who are grouped under the general term of "Sunkist Beauties." The woman who is known far and wide as the person who has "Put 10,000 girls on the stage" is Fanchon Wolff, who, with her brother, made up the former very small-time vaudeville team of Fanchon and Marco, and who now form the sole members of the amazing team of Fanchon and Marco, purveyors of stage shows for more than a thousand motion picture houses, with 150 miniature musical comedies on the road working 52 weeks, three and four times a day, in every year.

A class in acrobatics.

More than a thousand young women are dancing under the Fanchon and Marco banner today in the picture theaters which extend from coast to coast, and tomorrow afternoon—every Monday afternoon, in fact—100 or so prospective dancing girls will get a try-out in the immense F. & M. Hollywood studio. No girl who says she can dance is ever turned down when she applies for a job. Large or small, homely or beautiful, the word "dance" is all that is required. Then, at the tryout, if the prospective artist can do her steps she is hired on the spot and begins to learn the routines or specialty numbers required for a specific Fanchon and Marco show. There is no waiting around to get in, as is the case with the movie studios. Dance and you're in; don't dance—well, you might as well save the car fare.

No need here to go into the long fight Fanchon and Marco had for recognition as dancers on the stage before they turned producers, or to tell of how Ziegfeld turned them down cold when they tried to get into one of his shows in New York. No necessity, either, to tell of their humble beginning with a single unit show which they produced for a California picture theater. Rather, this is a tale of a dance factory, a story of mass production on a scale undreamed of by any master mind of musical comedy anywhere.

It is all summed up in a brief description of Miss Fanchon—her name, Miss Wolff, has long since been forgotten.

"She put 10,000 girls on the stage!"

Writers know the power of numbers to impress their readers—and to put 10,000 girls on the professional stage is to be the foremost producer of stage entertainment in the entire world. Yes, that is to be more prolific than Earl Carroll, more ambidextrous in talent than George White, more ubiquitous than Flo Ziegfeld. In short, to put 10,000 girls on the stage is to start more girls on their careers than all the Broadway moguls wrapped together.

"Where do they all come from?" "How are they chosen?" "How can you take care of so many girls on the road?" "Won't the supply ever run out?"

These are only a few of the questions with which Fanchon is assailed from time to time.

"The girls come from near and far," says Fanchon. "Mostly they are the products of Los Angeles dancing schools. They have taken lessons for a few years; they feel they are proficient enough for professional work; so they come to me."

"But how can you personally see so many girls?"

"It's simple. We have a tryout system. Every Monday afternoon tryouts are held in one of our rehearsal halls for all aspirants. My assistant, Alice Goodwin, supervises these first tryouts. She weeds out the better talent. Those who pass in Miss Goodwin's judgment are told to report for further auditions next day. Then I look at them, or listen to them, as the case may be."

Here in Hollywood, just opposite the Fox film studio, is a long row of brownstone buildings — over which hangs a Neon sign, "Fanchon and Marco"—"Studios of Fanchon and Marco Ideas." Here is a golden portal in actuality, besieged every day in the week, and sometimes on Sunday, by fame seekers, mostly feminine.

Los Angeles is liberally peopled with theatrically ambitious girls, for since the talking pictures caused the Western theatrical capital to make inroads on New York's fame as a producing center there has been a constant flow of talented persons, mainly girls, toward the studio gates.

Almost all of these young women, most of whom combine beauty with an ability to turn cartwheels, to sing, to dance on their toes, at some time or other have approached the Fanchon and Marco portals.

Fanchon Wolff.

In regions behind the entrance door lies a row of glass-partitioned offices. Some of them are only sufficiently large to accommodate a desk and a chair. Others are as spacious as a board of directors' room. Behind the offices are five huge rehearsal halls, equipped with stages. It is in this atmosphere of partitions, desks, art studios and costumers' dens that the theatrical vehicles of the "Sunkist Beauties," are worked out to a detail of finished perfection.

Each "idea," as it takes to the road, carries a line-up of "Sunkists." Sometimes an "idea" has been embellished with 16 or more, usually 12, and in a few rare instances, in which a line-up of boys is employed, 10 or less.

Visualize the girl when she walks into the office, seeking theatrical road life. Almost every day, in the glass-partitioned regions, someone is casting an "idea." The girl is "sized up" and classified "large or small." She's rated as a dancer, singer, poser or what not. She's told to report at 5 o'clock Monday for a try-out.

IN THE meantime, production of the "idea" proceeds. Perhaps the "idea" is nameless. Perhaps it is planned around a feature vaudeville act or a star from musical comedy. It may be designed to feature a color scheme or it may be created around a piece of elaborate scenery.

Rehearsals proceed. Miss "Sunkist Beauty," the embryo "Sunkist," who was ordered to report at 5, Monday finds herself in the midst of perhaps a hundred others, who, like herself, harbor hopes of finding a path to fame on the stage.

Out of the group are chosen the comparatively few, the 15 or 16, who possess theatrical qualifications, those who impress Fanchon's aides as being adaptable to the uniformity, the "zip-bang," the skill and proficiency in dance and song, which sets the standard for the stage shows.

Until these girls entered the rehearsal hall for their Monday evening try-out, they may have possessed only a name on the envelope addressed by their mother, or they may have been stage favorites of Los Angeles or other cities. But, with the passing of tests incident to that try-out, they find themselves endowed with a regular job, in line for a tour.

The next move is the actual rehearsal. Stage is cleared in a down-town theater. There, in the environment of the playhouse, the line-up of girls is turned over to a co-director.

This person begins with rudiments of footwork. The line is drilled to machine-like precision, until every girl is a unit in a mechanism.

For two weeks, at least, these young women practice at their study of dance and song. Perhaps they rehearse steps or melodies which will be included in the finished "idea." Or they may find their entire routine changed, when Fanchon herself assumes the directorial reins.

That great time in the career of these young women now looms. There is that morning, on which Fanchon herself, with a critical eye, takes her place in the pit of the rehearsal hall.

BY THEN a general plan has been worked out for the act. Fanchon rules that certain numbers, steps and business of the "Sunkist Beauties" must be altered for increased effect.

She leaps to her feet, snaps crisp orders and probably devotes that day and the next to personal supervision.

A mistress of line-up direction, she causes the group of "Sunkists" to blossom out with rapidity. They acquire their new steps and songs. It is easy to learn these things now, for they have rehearsed together until they have a joint mind, just as they appear to have a concerted movement in their dancing.

There are days set aside for being measured for costumes. The girls are taken to the large sewing rooms, where wardrobe women fit them in a twinkling into their brand-new stage garb.

But still they rehearse in the drab togs, the bathing suits, the shorts and other attire of the rehearsal hall.

As yet, they have not beheld their scenery, nor have they gazed upon an audience.

In the studios, artists and artisans are working out scenic investitures for the unit. Castles, pyramids, fairyland coaches and other theatrical decorations, first made in miniature, are reproduced on a large scale sufficient to fill the stage of any modern theater.

The costumes are carried into elaborately sketched forms by artists employed under her supervision, and later are executed as real costumes by the women of the sewing room.

Dress rehearsal, of course, sets the

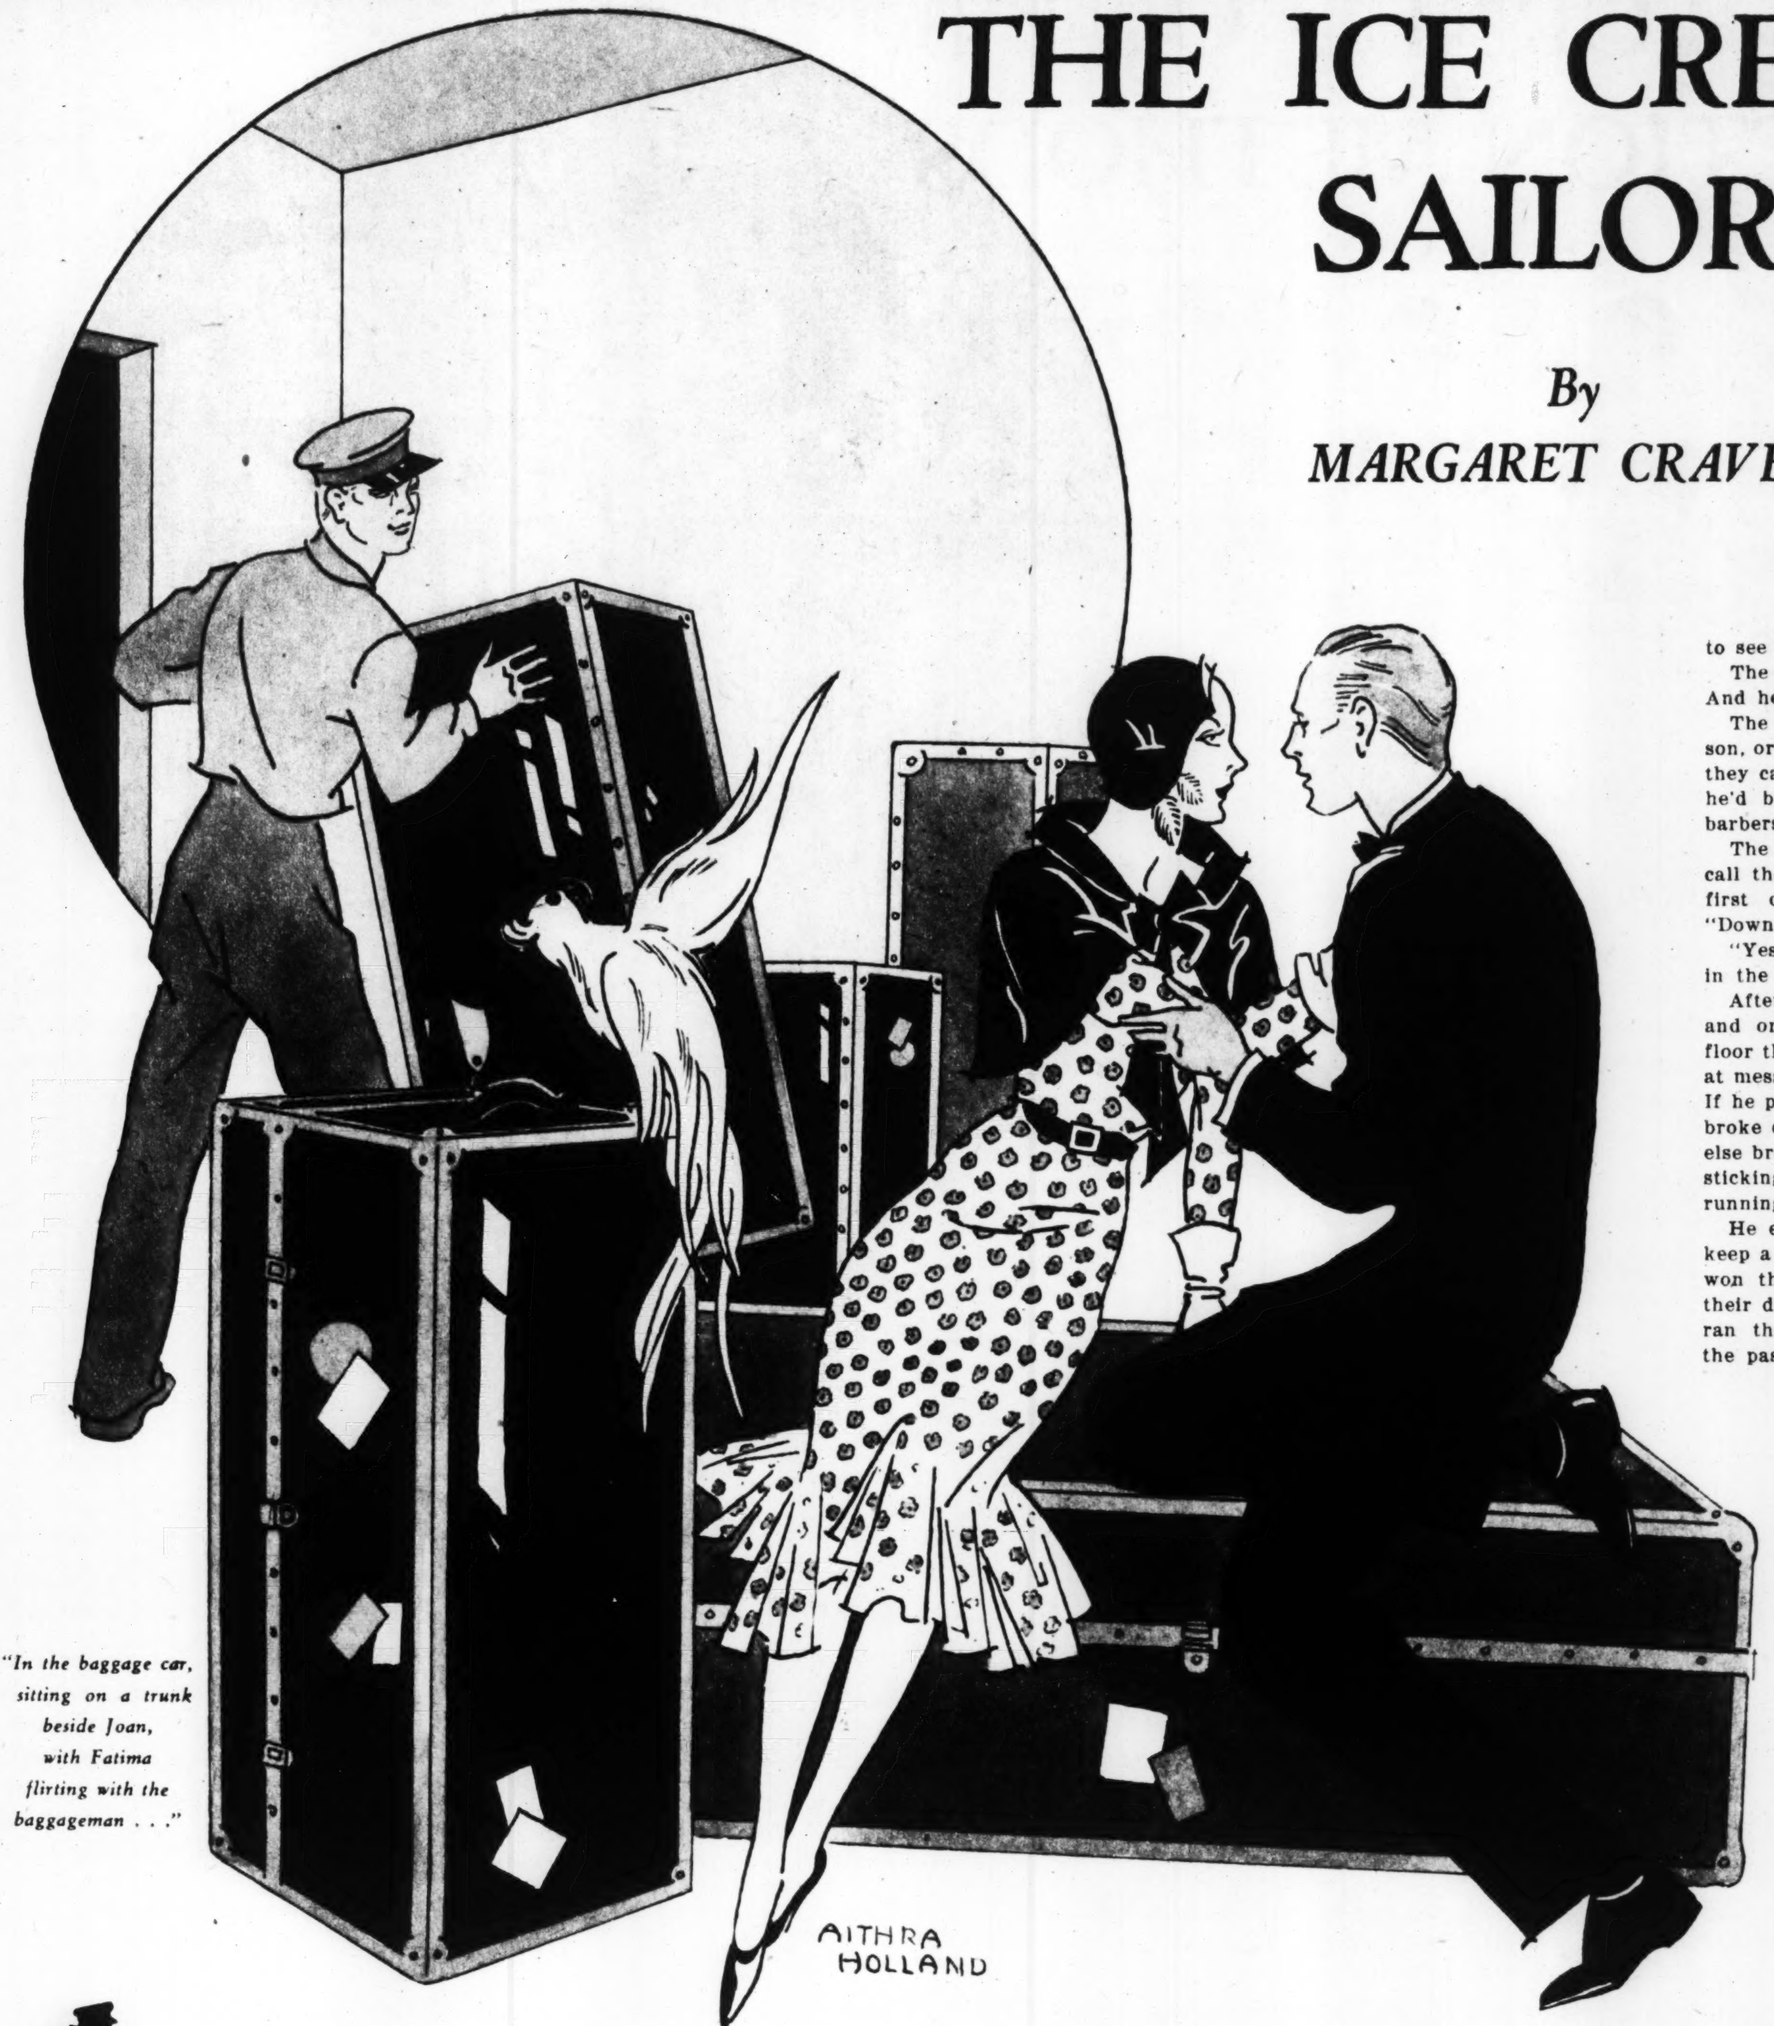
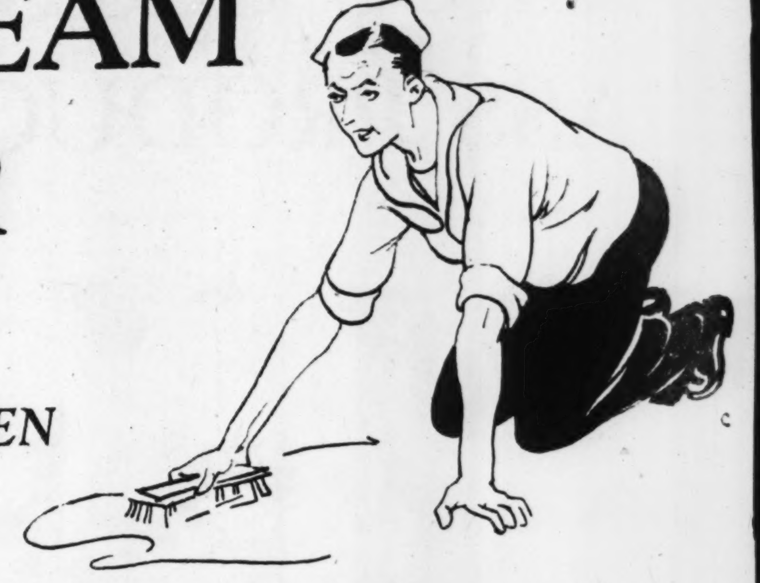
THE ICE CREAM SAILOR

By

MARGARET CRAVEN



"In the baggage car, sitting on a trunk beside Joan, with Fatima flirting with the baggageman . . ."



HE WALKED out on the pier where a group of seamen were gathered around a lifeboat on davits. He walked as if he were trying to get away from something, to lose it.

The air smelled of tide flats and of fish and out across the bay a round-the-world ship was being turned about, a flock of sputtering tugs yanking at her skirts.

The morning was clear, too, without fog, with the sun glinting the water so that it looked clean and cold.

He didn't notice these things. He didn't notice anything but the man in uniform who took in his polished oxfords, his clean hands, his white collar, his shaven face with one long look and who said: "Well, well—another ice cream sailor," in a manner which implied no compliment.

All the other men grinned, too, which didn't make matters any better, and then he knew that he was going to be first.

Sure enough! The inspector singled him out with a forefinger. "Here, you," he bellowed, "where's the painter?"

He knew that one: "The line in the bow."

"Where are the falls?"

He could only think of Niagara.. He searched frantically, shook his head.

The voice grew bigger now.

It was hopeless! He felt himself sinking, growing small in the spotlight of their amusement.

"You might as well drop out." The words cracked a moment and lay dead.

It was just like that! Just as easy as that! A whole dream shot in a moment.

It isn't unusual. The same thing has happened to a thousand men in their middle twenties whose lives have suddenly taken on a Conradesque twist and whose souls have hankered for the spurt of spray in the curving sail."

But this one was different. He met a sailor with a dunnage bag who stopped him for a match. He asked, "Got any old clothes in that bag you can sell me?"

That afternoon he spent in the public library, humped over "Knight's Midshipman's Manual," memorizing the 27 articles that must be in a lifeboat.

Three days later, unshaven, in a pair of faded dungarees topped by a blue jersey patched at the elbows, he walked again down the pier.

"Can you row?" The inspector hardly looked up.

"Yes."

The inspector picked up his pen. "Name?"

"Peter Wilson." Rather low, way down in his throat.

"Peter Olson," wrote the inspector and handed him his tag.

And that's how Peter Worthington Wilson got his lifeboat certificate, burned his bridges and went to sea. But before you know what happened to him, you must know why.

An 8 o'clock lecture room was almost filled. He was late again. That was because he had been up three hours already, doing his daily dishwashing stunt. He hated those dishes. He hated this class. Peter Wilson came in the side door and sank into his seat in the row with the W's.

JOAN WILTON was late, too. That was because when the French maid called her she had pretended to be deep in sleep, her red hair framing her face against the white of the pillow. Finally she had got up and driven entirely too fast in her imported roadster between long rows of palms in the cool of the morning.

She tripped in the side door, tramped over three pairs of brogues and sank into her seat in the row with the W's.

She looked at Mr. Wilson and announced amiably: "Hello! My hands are cold," as if he should do something about it.

He said: "Sit on them." Just that! Exactly!

Miss Wilton reflected that she ought to feel flattened out, but she didn't. For six weeks every time he opened his mouth words came out designed to make her feel like a worm.

Somewhere in the back of her mind rose a big, long wail: "Why did he have to find out that my father has three millions? Just when everything was going so well, too." It was followed by another: "Why do I want him when I can have anybody else?" This was a rhetorical question. She knew why. He was a person. Not a polo player. Not a rich son. Not an usher at society weddings. He went to college for an education. He worked to get it. He got his hands dirty to get it.

Miss Wilton opened her notebook and prepared for the lecture. She thought: "I'll bet he never asks me again to sit at a dairy lunch and munch a butter horn. He thinks I have to be fed on humming bird tongues."

Mr. Wilson opened his notebook and prepared for the lecture. He thought: "She fooled me. She didn't tell me she was a Hillsboro Wilton. The little pill." He looked at her small foot, expensively clad, clenching the rung in front of her.

"She isn't much," he thought. "She isn't even beautiful."

She wasn't. He had forgot how fervently he had once told her that she was. When men told Joan Wilton that she was beautiful she knew that they were either deep in love or somewhat in their cups—a convenient method of classification. Peter Wilson didn't drink. She remembered that now. It gave her courage for her next move. She thought: "I'm going to propose to him. Yes, I am. I'm going to propose to him in five minutes."

She sat up straighter. She was scared. Most girls would be if they were going to ask a man to marry them.

Nobody in the class knew that anything unusual was about to happen.

The professor began. He read aloud in a voice which he secretly thought was rather good: "'If one could have that little head of hers, painted upon a background of pale gold.' Mr. Simpkins, discuss what Browning means to convey in this poem."

Mr. Simpkins didn't know.

"Mr. Hollingsworth."

Mr. Hollingsworth had only a vague idea.

"Miss Young—Miss Phoebe Young."

Miss Phoebe rose. She had broad toes and wore a fountain pen on a ribbon around her neck.

The men slunk lower in their chairs while Miss Phoebe got another A opposite her name.

But Peter Wilson only saw the firm roundness of Joan's arm, holding her loose leaf. He thought: "I wouldn't marry her if she were the last girl. . ."

The professor consulted his book to see who hadn't recited for some time. "Miss Wilton, read the next to the last verse of 'Youth and Art,' page 396, and discuss the poem."

HER hands flipped the pages mechanically. Her eyes followed the verse. She started. This was just what she wanted. Browning had meant it just for her.

She read aloud:

"Each life unfulfilled, you see;
It hangs still, patchy and scrappy:
We have not sighed deep, laughed free,
Starved, feasted, despaired, been happy."

She spoke slowly, distinctly:

"This poem tells the story of Kate Brown, a singer, and Smith, a young sculptor. They lived in the same street. They watched each other's windows. They fell in love. But they didn't marry. For some silly, stupid reason they didn't marry. Perhaps he was afraid it would hurt his work. Maybe she had more money than he did." Joan Wilton hesitated a moment, to let that sink in. Then she heard her own voice going on:

"Browning means to convey that they went to rust in a vacuum, that it would have been better if they had married, even if they had a hard time." She hesitated again to let that sink in, too. "Of course," she continued quite calmly, "it wouldn't happen these days. If the man hadn't enough sense to see what was the thing to do, the girl would have found some way to humble her pride and make him."

The class laughed, and so did the professor, quick to appreciate something unusual in the way of recitation.

"You're quite sure?" asked the professor.

"Quite sure." She sat down. There—nobody could say she hadn't done her darnedest. She waited a moment. She thought she'd better look around to see how he took it. She looked.

The seat was empty. He was gone. And he didn't come back.

The sailors called him Big Slim Olson, or sometimes just Big Slim. When they came right out and asked him if he'd been to college, he said: "Yes, barbers' college."

The first thing he learned was to call the boatswain the bo'sn. On his first order he said to the bo'sn: "Down these stairs, sir?"

"Yes," answered the bo'sn. "Down in the cellar, sonny."

After that he called stairs ladders and omitted the sir. He called the floor the deck. If there was no spoon at mess, he said: "Where's my gear?" If he put on a clean shirt, he said: "I broke out a shirt." And if somebody else broke out a shirt and left the tail sticking out, he said: "Your tail's running in the wind."

He expected to do his job and not keep a good man on the beach. That won the sailors' respect. He shared their disdain for the college boys who ran the motion picture machine for the passengers or pulled wires to get into the purser's office in uniform. That won their friendship.

The first time the mate said to him, "Grab that lazy guy," he looked around for a sailor who was loafing on the job. After that he grabbed the line without blocks which held the boom.

The first time he had to go into the wheelhouse to ring the bells he went in on the windward side. The charts which the captain was studying were blown helter-skelter about the room. After that he went in on the leeward side.

After that, when the captain walked down the deck, his big macaw perched on his shoulder, Slim Olson watched the women gather 'round. He listened to the captain's "Don't come near—Princess Fatima bites," in a voice far different from the one he had met in the wheelhouse.

Sometimes, on watch in the crow's nest, he'd think about his life. He thought a lot about his life. He had it all laid out, like a checkerboard, like a subdivision, like a railroad timetable. Enough money saved to get back to school. One more year in law. Then a job in a big office that specialized in admiralty. Six or seven years of plugging. A bank account. A partnership.

There was no room in it for a rich girl.

He scarcely thought of her. Every half-hour in the crow's nest at night the man on the bridge would ring the bells and he'd duplicate the ring, to show that he was awake.

In those 30 minutes sometimes he'd remember Joan Wilton with the same disdain that he felt for the sweet young things who tripped the deck accompanied by equally sleek young men in knickers. His kind of people made the ship go. Her kind bought tickets and rode on them.

He'd forgot the night he met her at a big table in the library. He'd forgot the walks they'd taken around the lake and the talks they'd had on a bench under the palms of the inner Quad. And the malted milks at the counter of the Cellar.

BUT he hadn't forgot the day he had found she was a Hillsboro Wilton, spelled all in capitals. That her father was the H. B. Wilton of the financial section. That her mother was the Mrs. H. B. Wilton who looked out at you from the pages of the 50-cent society magazines.

No—and he hadn't forgotten the ridiculous way she'd stood right up in class and practically asked him to marry her, as if he didn't have something better to do with his life than be a professional son-in-law, live in a house, eat the food and sleep in the bed for which the H. B. Wiltons had paid because they wouldn't care to see their only offspring do her own work in an apartment which cost $50 a month.

Slim Olson made a trip to China. Then he made another. At the Philippines he had a letter from the fellow who had roomed next to him in the hall. Joan had left school. It was rumored she was going to marry a man with a lot of dough.

That letter gave Slim a lot of satisfaction. The day after it came he sanded the deck, put a little lye water on it to bleach. And he thought how beautifully he had ditched Miss Joan Wilton.

A stewardess with the captain's macaw came down the deck. Princess Fatima was an old bird with long, green feathers, as wise in her way as Queen Victoria. By day she bounced up and down on a swing above the captain's shower, to be delegated every so often to a chosen few for an airing. The stewardess was evidently among the chosen.

"SORRY," said Slim, "you'll have to use the other deck." Then he looked up. Stopped. Stared.

She had on a little navy skirt with a white, starchy waist above it and a big, blue cape.

"I'd have been here sooner," she said, "only I missed the first boat, and I had to maneuver to get away from the family."

"Some people never know when they're not wanted," he replied, with a horrible calmness.

"Some people never have enough sense not to let some fizzly little thing like a father with a lot of money ruin their lives." Miss Joan Wilton spoke sweetly, but made it sound conclusive.

"I have no yen for you. I have no time for you. I don't want to be bothered with you," said Slim Olson, just as sweetly.

"You had a yen for me, time for me and you wanted to be bothered plenty with me before you knew who I was."

"There is something in the male species that makes a man want to do his own chasing. Memorize that," said Slim Olson.

"If you did your own chasing you'd probably marry somebody like Phoebe Young," she told him. "My methods may be crude, but my intentions are honorable. Memorize that."

Slim Olson thought how much he'd like to wring her neck and prepared for a lecture. "Now, Joan," he said, quietly, "get this straight. I know just what I'm going to do with my life, and there's no spare room for an heiress. You belong to one class and I to another. They won't mix. Now run along. I'm a busy man."

"HOW big, how serious, how dumb," she sighed. "You think you can save your life, like a pocketful of coins, and spend it when you wish. You're class conscious, too. You're so old-fashioned you wouldn't think of marrying a girl who had a little more money than you. You haven't enough sense to know that any girl worth the sawdust that fills her wants a husband who would stand on his own pocketbook. You're a snob and you need to be educated. I'm the person who is going to do it."

"You need to be spanked."

Miss Wilton saw that it was quite useless. "I must be going," she announced. "That fat dowager in 227 wants some beef broth. You know, I've been imagining you going around the deck with a roll of line on your shoulder and a leather thong on your wrist."

She was so sure of herself. So pert. So absolutely confident. Trying to see how the other side lived. Trying to get a new thrill—a vicarious thrill. Playing a part. That's what she was doing.

"I'm going downstairs. Come on, Fatima, we'll go this minute." She clutched the macaw. "If you want to see me," said Miss Wilton in her drawing room manner, "just ask for Kate Brown."

"H. B. Wilton, San Francisco: Your daughter is aboard the S. S. President Lincoln, bound for China, as a stewardess, under the name of Kate Brown."

He signed himself Smith. That was the name in the poem.

Miss Joan Wilton was the sensation of the ship. The captain put her in the best suite aboard and advanced her money. The passengers vied with each other to meet her. When they succeeded invariably they asked her why she did it.

Miss Wilton always answered, "It's so interesting to see how the other half lives."

And when they asked her what she

A NEW CAVE IN THE OZARKS

Strange and Beautiful Formations at Rock Spring Cavern.

CUBA, Missouri.

THE Ozarks have a new cave—new, that is, in the sense of being recently discovered. The black hole in the earth, with its strange and beautiful rock formations, has been there, presumably, for thousands of years.

Rock Spring Cavern is the name that has been given to the cave, which is said to be the largest in the Ozarks. It is in Shannon County, Missouri, 160 miles southwest of St. Louis and 90 miles from Cuba, on State Highway No. 19. The property containing the cavern adjoins Round Spring State Park. The region is one of scenic splendor. State Highway No. 19, a gravel road, runs here on a high divide between Jack's Fork and Current River, among mountains which bear virgin growths of pine and oak on their slopes. Less than 800 feet from the highway and a quarter of a mile from Round Spring is the entrance to the cavern.

About two months ago, Edward Houser, a real estate dealer of Cuba, and E. C. Myers, a business associate, discovered the cave. They went inside and spent nine hours exploring the labyrinth of passages and rooms. Several times they became lost. One room was a forest of stalagmites and stalactites, so close to one another that it was with great difficulty they squeezed their way through. When they returned to the open air they decided to remove some of the difficulties they had encountered and invite others to see the marvels they had seen. They planned to have the cave ready for sightseers this month.

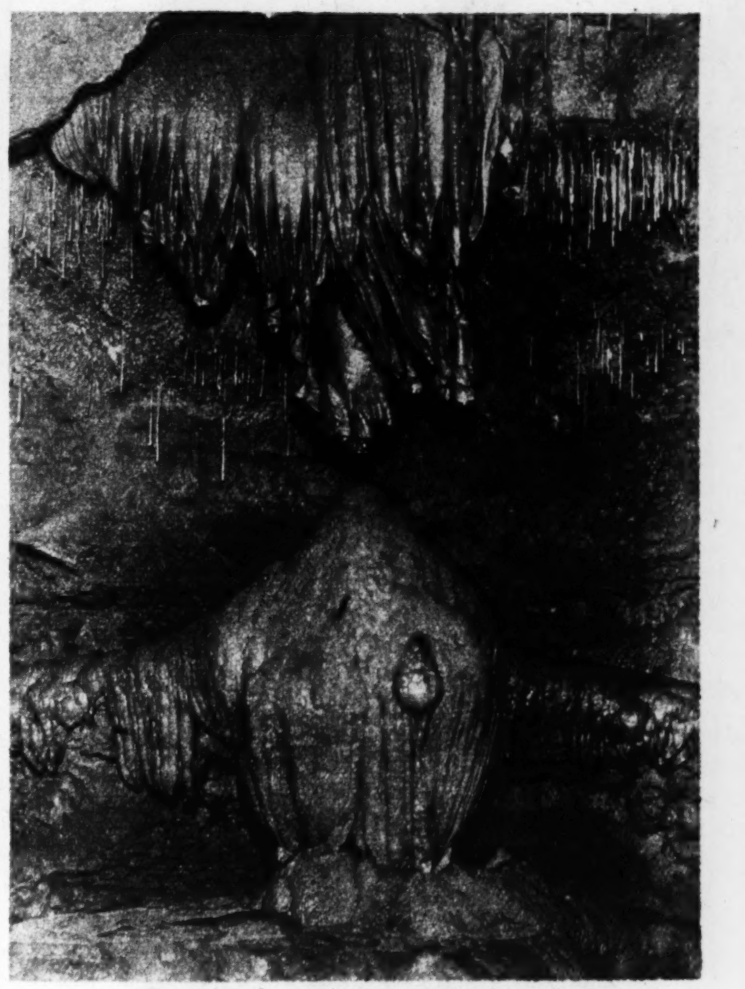
The cavern apparently was hollowed out of the mountain by Round Spring. There is evidence that earth tremors cracked the floor and ceiling in many places and allowed the water to follow other courses. The rock formations are remarkable in size and design, and many are of white onyx. In places this white onyx is surrounded by darker rock. Some of the stalagmites are 16 feet in diameter at the base.

The shapes into which nature has formed the interior rocks is varied in the extreme. Many of these formations resemble living creatures and growing plants. There is a rounded, twisted line of stone that looks like a serpent. From ceilings hang huge sheets of onyx, some of them 20 feet long, which one might imagine were the ears of monster elephants. There are bits of rock like cauliflower, others like milkweed pods. One massive knob resembles a beehive, another a cluster of marbles. Likenesses of roots, trees, leaves, antlers, draperies can be discerned almost everywhere one looks. Some of the great white sheets of onyx are so twisted and wrinkled that they look as if they had just been wrung over a washtub and hung up to dry. In several places there are masses of rock which look like waterfalls and fountains whose motion had been abruptly stopped.

AMONG the formations named thus far are: Black Angel, Snow Owl, Baby Face, Camel, Monkey, White House and Statue of Liberty.

In one room there are projections of rocks shaped like chimes.

Round Spring Cavern will be operated by a company, organized by Houser and Myers. Preparations for opening it to the public included the installation of lights, the construction of walks and bridges and the enlarging of the entrance. About four hours is required for a trip through the cavern. An admission fee will be charged to visitors.



A strange formation.

had found out, she said, that "the other half has the best time." A rather grave little answer, accompanied by a flash of two perfectly serious eyes.

Slim Olson tended to his job. The passengers didn't seek out the crew. The crew couldn't seek out the passengers. He had put her on the other side of the fence, and there she would have to stay.

At the mess the sailors' main amusement was to swipe a menu from the passenger table—a menu full of French names that contrasted with their own fare, of which Slim could sometimes eat only the rice and bread. One of the sailors would read off. "Well, Slim, what are you going to have?"

And Slim would say, "Pate de foi gras," mispronouncing all the words and grinning with the rest. And he'd think of her up in the big dining saloon with waiters bending and hovering.

Twice he saw her on deck with a group of men hanging over her. A college chap who went around deck with his chest stuck out and a letter on his sweater was especially attentive. And so was an older Englishman, probably looking for a girl with a fortune.

Again he saw her walking alone with Fatima on her shoulder. And suddenly he was afraid of the sea. He wanted to go back before it got him, before he'd be wringing salt water out of his socks for the rest of his life. He wanted to go back to school and get started. But he didn't have enough money saved.

That night a seaman broke his arm and the passengers planned an entertainment for his benefit. The Englishman offered to sing "Mandalay." And the collegiate gentleman with the letter on his sweater modestly admitted that he could box. The mate was sent down to the forecastle to see if there was a member of the crew to oppose him.

In the forecastle the sailors held an impromptu try-out. They picked Slim to represent them.

AT FIRST he didn't want to do it, but the sailors insisted. They got together and bet on him. They got the mate to take charge of the bets and go up to the saloon and get passengers to make up a pool. Some of the passengers who knew their candidate's college record backed him at nice odds.

He had never had anybody back him like this. He took everything he had and got the mate to put it up for him on the biggest odds he could find.

The passengers sold tickets for the entertainment. One voice, one pert young voice, raised itself above all others: "Tea deck seats right here. See the collegiate champion knock out Slim Olson." When Slim heard that nothing could have stopped him.

The fight was held on an after hatch, the ship moving along through a calm sea. The crew gathered on the after deck, while the passengers looked down from the tea deck.

When Slim Olson came on he looked up where the women sat in a thrilled group above him. He saw Joan's red head among the rest. Here was where he proved how different they were—he on one side, backed by the crew; she on the other, surrounded by her kind.

Then the fight began.

Both men went at it carefully, sparring to get each other in the glare of the cargo lights, feeling each other out.

Behind Slim the sailors formed a dark mass, talking to him, yelling to him, encouraging him. He knew the other fellow expected a good-humored boxing exhibit, with nothing of the savage scrap of professionalism. He knew that the sailors expected a fight. The passengers' bets meant little to them but an evening's amusement. The sailors' bets meant their earnings

It went along tamely until the fourth round. Then Slim Olson settled down to win. He wasn't satisfied to win on points. If it got too bloody the captain might stop it. And besides, one pert young voice had used the word "knockout."

BEHIND him he could hear the crew. During the fifth round even the tea deck sensed that something was going to happen. The crew knew it long ago. The collegiate gentleman knew he was in for it and did the best he could.

In the sixth round Slim Olson landed one big punch, followed it with a rush across the ring. The other man was down and out before the passengers realized what was up, the captain, more surprised than anybody, making the count.

When it was over, Slim looked up just once. He saw a red head held very high.

In the forecastle he counted up his bets. He had made $2000. That was enough to go back to school. To go right back, with no more dishes. No more looking at the people who did it topside. It occurred to him that when you were on top you didn't always look down on the man below. That he only thought you did.

In the morning the passengers were lined up for quarantine, a drowsy crowd, tired from the night before, eager to get off.

Slim Olson went forward with a heaving line over his shoulder for the last time. If he went to sea again probably it would be topside as a passenger, which he knew now would never be half the fun that this had been.

He passed Joan Wilton, looking lovely and expensive. He said: "Hello; going back to school this year?"

"Good-by, Olson," she replied sweetly. "No, I'm not. Remember Kate Brown? I'm going to do what she did."

Slim wondered what Kate Brown had done, but he was too busy to find out.

He tried to remember the poem. "If one could have that little head of hers against a background of pale gold." No—that wasn't it. There would be no more small head looking up smartly and grinning: "I got an A. What did you get?" No more dumb courses just because she was in them. Suppose Kate Brown had done something awful. Died off slowly with a broken heart. Jumped overboard.

He decided that he would pay her the honor of finding out what happened to her. Just before he went ashore, as he was saying good-by to the crew, he came on the freight clerk.

"What did that girl do—the singer in Browning's 'Youth and Art?'" he asked him. "You're a college punk. You ought to know."

"She died, didn't she?"

"What?"

"Oh, no—my error. I remember now:

"Nobody calls you a dunce,
And people suppose me clever;
This could have happened once,
And we missed it, lost it forever."

"I won't want the ending. I know that. I want to know what happened to her," insisted Slim.

"I was coming to that. She married a rich old lord. Does that hurt?"

That was it. That was what she had meant. She was going to marry a rich old lord.

SLIM went below, signed off, passed the customs man at the gangplank and went ashore.

The minute his feet hit the ground the ship dropped away. He was a landsman again, with a landsman's standards. The sea was gone. Slim Olson was gone.

In their place was Peter Wilson, and in Peter Wilson's head buzzed one thought: Was Joan Wilton such a little nut that she would marry some old goofer who was years older than she was?

He checked his bag and went to an athletic club for the first real shower he had had in months.

The perfect pattern of his life had been preserved. It lay before him as perfect as ever, like a checkerboard.

He felt lonely. Just plain lonely. He'd been away for months. The new quarter was beginning the next day. He must go down and go through the fuss of registering. It would have been nice to have met some girl in that long line in the administration building, some small redhead.

Suddenly he knew he'd been a fool. She wasn't a poser. She'd never have been interested in him in the first place if she were. He wanted to go right out and find her. He wanted to ask everybody he met if they'd seen a redheaded girl who looked as if she might be fool enough to marry some rich old lord.

Late that afternoon Peter Wilson took the train down to Stanford. It was a commuters' train, and seats were few. He walked through one car, then another.

In the fourth car there was an empty seat. He walked toward it, heard a voice saying, as if the sentence had been repeated many times: "Don't come too near. Fatima bites."

There she sat, far down in the corner of the seat, with the captain's macaw beside her.

He was tickled to see her, but the sight of that bird drove everything else from his mind.

"Where did you get that bird?"

"I won her," said Joan Wilton. "I won her on the fight. I won $1500, too. How much did you win?"

"You bet on me?" He couldn't believe it. "You aren't going to marry some rich old lord?"

Up went her nose. "I'm not going to marry anybody. I'm going back to college and be an old maid and wither away."

PETER WILSON sank down into the seat. He felt tuckered out. First she's wanted him and he wouldn't have her. Now he wanted her and she wouldn't have him. He sank down into the seat, but he forgot that Fatima's tail feathers were there beside him. She let out a loud squawk and settled her beak on his finger.

He jumped. Everybody jumped. The conductor came running. He saw a big bird, a scared girl wrapping a sunburned young man's finger in her small handkerchief, saying, "Oh, my darling, are you hurt? Did that naughty . . ."

"Lady, you'll have to take bird into the baggage car."

In the baggage car, sitting on a trunk beside Joan, with Fatima flirting with the baggageman, Peter Wilson added together $2000 and $1500 and found even in his excited state that it came to $3500, which anybody knows is enough for two people to live on quite a while, if they're careful.

He saw his checkerboard life fading into oblivion. Another year in school. A job in a big office. Years of hard work. But with what a difference if a redhead shared them.

He said: "If that man Smith had lived today he'd have done things differently. He'd never have let a spiffy little thing like a girl's father's money ruin his life. Do you know what he'd have done?"

She shook her head. "No," she lied, "tell me."

Chorus Girls Turned Out by Mass Production

hearts of "Sunkist Beauties" in a flutter. For the first time, they are to try on the pinks, greens, blues and reds, which have been in the making for at least a week.

The "D. R." is held on the stage of the rehearsal theater, with Miss Fanchon much on the alert in an orchestra chair, armed with pad and pencil to make notes for changes and corrections. But the flutter attendant thereto is incomparable with the flutter which obtains on the following evening, when, in a suburban theater, the girls are to face their audience for the first time.

This happens one evening after the dress rehearsal, when, without scenery, these girls engage their rehearsed routine at last in public.

It is not a particularly auspicious occasion. Perhaps constumes, fitting doubtfully, need being gone over once more by an expert fitter. Perhaps the audience, sensing the incompleteness of an act without scenery, fails to respond wholeheartedly. But the raggedness is smoothed out after the second performance—and by the end of the three suburban tryout days the unit runs like clockwork.

THEN the "idea" moves to a big theater in Los Angeles, for a permiere week. From there it travels for 52 weeks through the key cities of the United States.

"But how do the new girls react to the road? They're not accustomed to being away from home?" Fanchon was asked.

"We have little trouble from our girls on that score. We appoint a head line girl, one of the older girls, who has had several seasons of experience. She is an older sister to the girls, advises them, keeps them in line on stage and off. The girls can stay at any hotel they choose, as long as it is a desirable one. But they must be in the hotel each night by 12, unless given special permission to stay out under special conditions. No drinking or incorrigibility is tolerated. Girls who commit breaches of the moral code are immediately discharged. For minor offenses they receive a number of demerits, which count against future engagements."

"Will the supply of girls never end?"

"We hope not," Fanchon laughed. "There is little possibility of having fewer girls than needed. Today it is easier to obtain dancing lessons than 10 years ago."

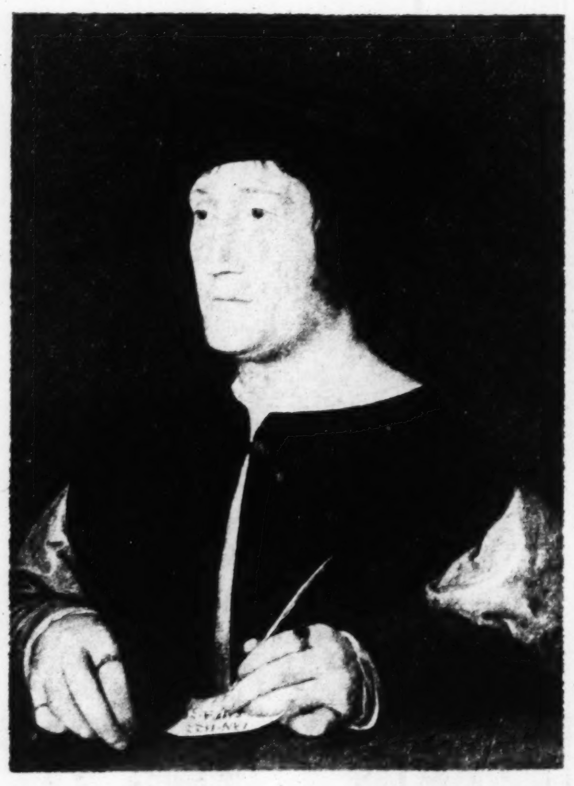
"THE YOUNG BANKER"

The Second of a Series of Art Objects Being Given a Special Showing at the St. Louis Art Museum.

THIS portrait, "The Young Banker," by Jan Mostaert of Haarlem, is the second in a series of masterpieces which are being prominently displayed at the City Art Museum by Director Meyric Rogers. Each week one of the museum's rarest treasures is placed in a special setting that has been created to the left of the entrance. Each masterpiece will be reproduced in the Sunday Magazine of the Post-Dispatch, with an account by museum authorities in the various fields of the history of the work. The complete series will be an excellent guide to the most precious possessions of the city's museum. There follows a description of the painting:

This sensitively drawn portrait, acquired by the museum in 1925, is one of the outstanding paintings of its kind in the museum's collection. The artist has given us the exact age of the sitter, 35, and intimated his occupation, that of a banker, by the gold coins and pen he has placed in his hands. He has also given us the year in which the portrait was painted, 1522, but has not thought to perpetuate his name. All we have is the man as the artist saw him more than 400 years ago.

Recently the portrait was given a careful cleaning to bring out the original colors which lay under a heavy coat of darkened varnish. In the careful examination made at the time it was discovered that the curious design upon the button of the cloak fastening is made up of a number of letters spelling the name Mostaert. Though monograms found in such places are usually those of the sitter, this happens to be the name of a rather elusive Dutch painter, Jan Mostaert, who was actively practicing his calling just at this time. Authorities in the field tell us also that about this time Mostaert was doing his best portraiture. Though heretofore on none of these works had a signature been found, it is highly probable that in this case, particularly proud of his results, the artist took advantage of the opportunity offered by this tiny decoration to attach his name to the work. If so, this portrait is the only known signed example of Mostaert's portraiture and of very considerable importance on this account.



The portrait is painted in the conventional manner of the time. The face is turned three-quarters to the observer, which has the advantage of giving a little of both the profile and full-face characteristics. Although the most meticulous care has been taken to follow the subtlest contours of the form, the head is not modeled in full round giving light and shade as it would appear in actuality, but almost as if it were drawn from a colored relief. In spite of this reduction, all the actual modeling is indicated and the effect of reality is produced. This flattening out of the modeling has, of course, the effect of emphasizing the pattern of the picture, since the same modulation is used throughout. We have, then, in addition to what appears to be a most accurate likeness, a pleasing and very decorative composition obtained by careful adjustment of simple areas of tone. The high, clear flesh tones of the face, the rose pink of the shirt and the strong green of the table top are carefully balanced against the grays of the coat and hat and the dark of the background. The effect achieved by this arragement, together with the splendid craftsmanship of the actual painting, has a jewel-like quality which completely realistic portraiture lacks.

The sitter himself leaves us much room for speculation—a man in early middle age, of pleasing appearance and, apparently, of more than ordinary intelligence, with firmness of character indicated by the strong chin and rather straight and thin-lipped mouth. We probably have before us one of the rising young business men of the flourishing city of Haarlem, one of a generation that laid the foundations of a national strength that was to establish its religious and political independence during the following century. We can imagine that he has just been discussing the deeds of one Martin Luther of whom strange news had lately come down the Rhine. From this portrait we can get to know him across the gap of 400 years probably better than we know our own neighbors.

SUCH a contact is almost as wonderful as the radio, especially since it is hardly likely that portraits painted today will be as clear and fresh as this in A. D. 2331.

The method Jan Mostaert used in this painting had been established by long and jealousiy guarded tradition. The artists of the Netherlands had been painting much this way for a hundred years. First a thoroughly seasoned wood panel was prepared with fine white plaster. On this carefully smoothed surface a complete drawing was made in one or two simple colors, mixed with white of egg as a binder. Over these, colors ground in varnish were laid until the soft, yet enamel-like brilliance of the finished picture was obtained.
